Historic City Celebrates Bicentenary

By ARNOLD AGNEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, June 20 (CP)—Few cities in Canada can boast as many "firsts" as Halifax, and the old port will add another Tuesday when it becomes the first English-speaking city in the country to celebrate a 200th birthday.

Founded by Edward Cornwallis June 21, 1749, the city will celebrate its bicentenary during the next three months. And in 200 years, it has tucked away plenty of historical laurels.

One of the first landmarks visitors to Halifax see is a stone memorial tower on the western shore of the North West Arm. The tower commemorates the beginnings of parliamentary government in Canada.

This country's first elected House of Assembly met here in 1758. The assembly was a concession wrested from the British government by doughty bluenose pioneers.

Ninety years later, in 1848, thundering Joseph Howe, Halifax newspaper man and statesman, argued eloquently for responsible government, which came first to this province. He now is recognized as the father of responsible government in Canada.

First Newspaper

Halifax also had the first newspaper in Canada. The Halifax Gazette was founded in 1752. It is still published weekly as the Royal Gazette and holds the distinction of being the oldest continuous journal in North America.

Canada's first Protestant church — St. Paul's Anglican — was founded along with Halifax. Earliest entry in church records was made June 21, 1749, when a British seaman was buried shortly after the founding party landed here.

The first dissenting congregation sprang up here at the same time. Its successor today is St. Matthew's United Church.

In the realm of sport, Halifax lays claim to being the birthplace of hockey. That claim is disputed by Kingston, Ont., and Montreal, but Haligonians will argue the point at the drop of a puck. The city also claims to have had Canada's first covered rink.

Canada's first post office was established here in 1775. The site of that building is occupied now by the Customs House. Just outside the city on a 100-acre farm, the first zoological gardens in North America were started.

CENTRE OF TRADE—The modern port of Halifax, celebrating this year the 200th anniversary of its founding, is one of Canada's main trading centres. From the docks shown in this aerial view by the Nova Scotia Bureau of Information pour millions of dollars worth of Canadian goods yearly. At the top is historical Citadel Hill which overlooks the port. The two vessels at the bottom are the Dartmouth ferries.

CITY IS BORN — Halifax, Canada's largest east coast seaport, marks the 200th anniversary of its founding this year with a three-month long celebration. This drawing from the public archives of Nova Scotia is based on historical accounts of the founding by Col. Edward Cornwallis, governor of Nova Scotia. On June 21, 1749 Governor Cornwallis landed on the shores of Chebucto Bay, now Halifax Harbor, and began to build a settlement which through the years became the busy port of today. The city was named in honor of George Montague, Earl of Halifax, who, as president of England's Board of Trade and Plantations, took personal interest in the establishment of the first English-speaking colony in that part of Canada.

HALIFAX IN 1832 — This old print shows Halifax from Dartmouth Cove in the year 1832. The Citadel stands silhouetted against the skyline. As can be seen, the city was a busy port even then.

Dry Icing Cloud May Prevent Thunder Storms

VANCOUVER, June 20 (AP).—It may be possible to precent lightning storms by seeding clouds with dry ice, says L. O. Grant, one of several scientists who tried rain making in Arizona last summer.

Seeding also can make it rain harder even if it can't actually start a rainstorm, Mr. Grant told the American Meteorological Society here Thusrday.

In a year or two the researchers will have a complete record of rainfall covering a long enough period to tell whether it pays to seed clouds.

Mr. Grant is a member of the American Institute of Aerological Research, of Pasadena, Calif., which carried out the experiments.

The only kind of clouds worth seeding, Mr. Grant reported, are certain towering cumulus formations something like the great white, round thunderheads commonly seen in summer. Also they have to be at least 3,000 feet thick, containing three-per-cent moisture by volume and they must have a sub-freezing temperature.

Quick seeding of the top of a cumulus cloud sometimes produces no rain but it can change the nature of the cloud and cause a build-up in neighboring clouds to the point where they may form raindrops.

When this happens the top of the cloud turns into ice particles.

The ice particles fall. The ice particles drop through the bottom of the cloud to disrupt the area where moisture from clear air is being condensed into cloud vapor.

This disturbs the bottom of the cloud line, where electrically-charged particles collect and sometimes produce lightning. A breaking up of collections of these charged particles may prevent the accumulation of the electrical energy which causes lighting flashes, Grant said.

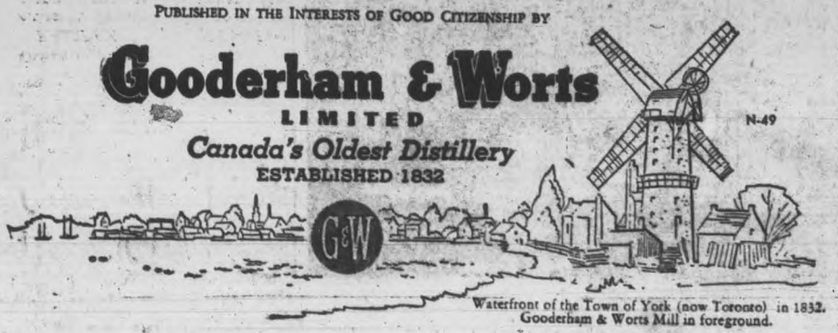
The year was 1841 ...

... six days of turmoil—that was election week in Upper Canada! Voters formed in long queues to mount the "hustings" (a rough wooden platform) ... declaring aloud for all to hear, "I vote for John Smith." Often groups of hard-fisted toughs stood by, armed with cudgels to be used on those who voted the "wrong way."



But men who kept true democracy as their objective finally won the right of a secret ballot—the right to vote as you wish without fear of intimidation.

When YOU cast your secret ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen.

British Ship Bombed By Chinese

Nationalist Planes Also Hit Oil Co. Warehouse

SHANGHAI, June 21 —(AP)— Chinese Nationalist planes today damaged the British freighter Anchises, injuring four members of her crew. The war planes also fired a Shell Oil Company warehouse. Three fighter-bombers made the raid. It was the second attack on Shanghai in 24 hours.

The 8,000-ton Blue Funnel Lines Anchises was beached.

In the fire at the Shell warehouse, 20,000 tons of kerosene and other petroleum products were destroyed.

The raid resulted in the diversion of several foreign ships from this port, normally one of the world's busiest. All foreign shipping is likely to stop immediately.

A Nationalist blockade was announced Monday. It was to begin June 26. Communist ports from Foochow, south of here, 1200 miles northward into Manchuria were named.

The Anchises was hit about 8 a.m. local time, just after she turned from the Yangtze into the Whangpoo River.

Capt. J. E. Watson said a bomb struck her first. Then the same plane or another turned and strafed the ship.

Watson said there was no question in his mind that the attack was directed at the ship. He said the British flag was plainly visible. Most seriously injured among the crew was deck boy T. Edwards. He was hurt in the bomb blast. Fourth Officer T. D. Mothsill, Jr., Electrician McPhail and Seaman J. Hamilton were less seriously injured in the attack.

Lodges Protest

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—Britain today announced a protest has been lodged with the Chinese Nationalist Government at Canton over an air attack on the British freighter Anchises at Communist-held Shanghai.

A foreign office spokesman said the owners of the ship, Alfred Holt and Company, received a cable from the Hong Kong saying the ship was machine-gunned and bombed as it entered Shanghai. The message listed four casualties.

Typhoon Strikes Japan, 40 Die 563 Missing

TOKYO, June 21—(AP)—Police estimated 40 persons were killed and 563 were missing in a typhoon that struck Okinawa and southern Japan early today.

The typhoon, with winds up to 115 miles an hour, is expected to hit the big northern Japanese island of Honshu tomorrow.

(Reuters News Agency said the 8,391-ton American steamship Lightning was grounded 150 miles west of Naha, Okinawa. Two tugs were rushing to help her.)

Destruction in southern Japan was described as heavy. More than 500 houses were reported destroyed. An estimated 4,500 farms were flooded by torrential rains.

Sixty-two boats were destroyed or set adrift. Police said a 2,500-ton freighter went aground at the entrance of Hakata Bay in northern Kyushu.

Heavy rains inundated central Japan.

Seize Printing Press

WARSAW, Poland, June 21 — (AP)—Seizure of a Franciscan monastery's printing presses worth $250,000 and nationalization of printing equipment of the Roman Catholic Church at 14 other places was announced Monday by the government. The seizure of the Franciscan property at Niepokalanow was viewed as clamping a new gag on what the Communist-led government calls the "reactionary clergy."

Both Sides Agree Tension Eased By Big 4 Conference

LONDON, June 21—(AP)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers' Paris conference was hailed today from both sides of the Iron Curtain as a step toward better east-west relations. Moscow's Communist party organ, Pravda, carried a long review of the talks. The Soviet paper worked in a few jabs at "American business men" and other pet targets, but generally concluded that the conference aided in "easing" the international atmosphere.

"The real significance of the agreement which has been reached," Pravda said, "is that it demonstrates conclusively how agreements are possible when the practice of dictation is left at the threshold of the council's chamber."

Foreign Secretary Bevin voiced optimism over the results of the talks. He told reporters on his return to London that the Foreign Ministers managed to "lay the foundation and now we must proceed to build on it."

"I have faith in our neighbors and I hope they have faith in us," he said.

Austrians received with jubilation news of the big four decision to conclude an independence treaty for their country. Chancellor Leopold Figl said in Vienna Monday night that the Paris decision is "a big step toward peace and the freedom of humanity."

Austrian newspapers from extreme left to extreme right splashed the story all over their front pages. The headlines were similar but the editorial content varied.

American officials in Berlin voiced belief the big four decisions on the German questions might help untangle the chaos in the former Reich capital.

Never Go Communist

VIENNA, June 21 (AP)—Western observers and diplomats here are convinced Austria will never go Communist without active interference by Russia.

Should the Paris agreement, announced Monday, result in a treaty of independence for Austria they firmly believe this country would stay outside the iron curtain.

There are many reasons why Communism has been a losing cause in Austria.

First, the country is primarily Roman Catholic; secondly, Russian troops came to Austria as conquerors, not liberators. Their arrival in Vienna touched off a wave of looting, raping and acts of violence whose memory lingers.

Fuel Shortage Causes Hardship

SYDNEY, Australia, June 21—(CP)—The fuel shortage in New South Wales has reached crisis proportions.

Electric power for industries in Sydney was cut off today. The supply of illuminating gas is negligible. Residents of Sydney, which has a population of 1,500,000 swarmed into stores Monday in frantic search for stoves, oil lamps and candles.

Only plants processing food are exempt from the electricity ban. Stores, warehouses, theatres and offices are not permitted any power. Householders may not light more than two lamps at one time and get electricity for only two 90-minute cooking periods a day.

The New South Wales emergency fuel program was put into effect mainly to meet the threat of a strike of Australia's Communist-led coal miners, due to start next Monday. In addition, disastrous floods have swept the major coal- producing areas in the State.

The hardship of curtailed power supplies is intensified by the fact that winter now is starting in Australia.

The miners' leaders have announced their intention to call a general mine strike through the Commonwealth unless the miners are granted long-service leave, a 35-hour work week instead of the existing 40-hour week; and a wage increase of 30 shillings (about $4.85) a week.

Prime Minister Chifley has announced that no threat or strike will influence the Labor Government. Labor party members said in Canberra that if a strike is called the federal government could declare a state of emergency under the Crimes Act, making anyone striking or inciting a strike liable to a year or more in prison.

New Type Wheat Thwarts Sawfly

VANCOUVER, June 21 (CP)—Experimental agriculture never stops in its development of new plant "weapons" to defend Canadian farmers from attacks of crop destroying insects, William Dixon of Ottawa said here Monday.

Mr. Dixon, Research Assistant at the Ottawa Experimental Farm, told the Agriculture Institute of Canada convention of one of the most successful developments in the long-term battle. It's a prairie wheat, appropriately called "rescue." He said the strains aid farms in their fight against the deadly sawfly.

"The new wheat has solid stem characteristics which does not give the sawfly room to breed within the stem," he added.

"This is the first step in preventing destruction of prairie wheat by the sawfly but we are still hoping to produce even better varieties."

15 Families Facing Eviction At London

LONDON, Ont., June 21 (CP)—Word that 15 families would be evicted in the city within a few days roused city council to call a special meeting today to discuss methods of looking after them.

Mayor Ray A. Dennis told council eviction notices were issued to 15 families and that as many more would be issued within the next 10 days.

In nearly all cases children were involved, the Mayor said. He said eviction notices would be in the hands of the sheriff today or tomorrow.

Middle Class Should Get Greater Help, Report Urges

LONDON, June 21 (CP)—Britain's Labor Government has been advised to give the middle classes more generous treatment if it does not want to see the intelligence of the nation deteriorate.

Britain's social arrangements should be such that the higher paid, better educated and more intelligent produce more children, says the report of a Royal Commission published Monday.

The report, product of a five-year study on population, says that "it is clearly undesirable for the welfare and cultural standards" of Britain for the well-paid, educated classes to "keep their families not only below the replacement level but below the level of others."

The first public reaction promises to be a controversy over the commission's suggestion that Britain embark on a program of "planned families." The obvious conclusion is that the commission would like to see the birth rate checked at lower social levels and increased at the top.

It recommends considerable tax relief for families in higher income groups. A government source said Britain's finances—strained to the utmost to carry the load of social security—will not permit such steps to be taken at present.

The commission said the average size of family among professional and administrative workers is about 1.6, while that of general laborers is more than twice as high.

There was an "impressive weight of evidence" that the difference in birth rate had a tendency to lower the average of the country's innate intelligence. More detailed study of the problem was urged.

The commission said that "those with high and medium incomes represent an important element in the community, whose ways or life, standards of values and ideas influence their fellow citizens both directly and indirectly."

It recommended higher family allowances (now the equivalent of $1 weekly for each child after the first) and more generous income-tax allowances for children. Family allowances should be tax free instead of taxed as at present.

Accused Man Slays Judge Then His Wife

Turns Gun On Himself; Lawyer Saved

PORT ARTHUR, June 21 (CP)—William Gray, 50, died in hospital here today from self-inflicted chest wounds shortly after a shooting affray in family court in which he killed his wife and presiding Judge Bruce J. McKitrick.

Gray's death ended the life of the last of the three victims of the shooting, which came with abrupt suddenness while Judge McKitrick was hearing a non-support charge against Gray.

Mrs. Gray, the first victim, died instantly when her husband formerly with the Ontario Provincial Police at Sudbury, pulled a gun from his pocket, firing into her chest at close range.

Only persons present at the time in addition to the judge, complainant and defendant were S. H. Davis, Gray's lawyer, and Mrs. Francis Hodgson, a court stenographer.

Witnesses said the man then swung to the bench, firing a shot at Judge Bruce J. McKitrick, formerly of Winnipeg. The Judge collapsed, dying a short time later in hospital.

Spectators in the court room, too paralyzed to move by the shock of the sudden shooting affray, watched Gray wheel towards S. H. Davis, his defence counsel, hugging the revolver close. Apparently recognizing his lawyer, Gray turned the revolver on himself, firing into his chest.

Witnesses said the first shot seemed to have little effect. Gray re-loaded his gun and fired a second time, collapsing slowly onto the floor.

Freed from the spell of the courtroom drama, police rushed forward. Ambulances were called and the three victims taken to hospital. Mrs. Gray already was dying shortly after admittance.

Non-Support Case

Police said the sudden flurry of shots came shortly after Judge McKitrick had opened the hearing in the non-support case, laid against Gray on behalf of his wife and three children.

Court was proceeding in normal fashion when Gray's hand suddenly flashed to his pocket and came out with the gun.

It was the first shooting in Port Arthur's history to take place in a courtroom and one of the very few instances when it has happened anywhere in Canada.

Judge McKitrick came to the lakehead in October, 1945, from Winnipeg. The Grays moved here recently from Eastern Ontario.

Gray was reported to have been in Port Arthur for about 25 years and lived in a rooming house while his wife and children resided with her mother.

The landlady of the rooming house who said she didn't want her name made public, described him as "a thorough gentleman, quite unassuming at all times."

She added that apart from normal furnishings Gray's room was bare. The only personal possession visible was a Bible on the table close to his bed.

"Mr. Gray was a friendly and amiable man who read his Bible every day," she said. "I could see him poring over it when I passed the open door of his room."

Seek Three Men Lost On Lake in Cruiser

CLEVELAND, June 21—(AP)—Planes and surface craft fanned out over Lake Erie today in a search for three men missing in a 21-foot cabin cruiser.

Clarence T. Mraz, 35; Bert T. Scanlon, 24, and John Mikos, Jr. 22, have not been seen since they left here early Sunday.

The trio left at 6 a.m. and planned to fish off Avon Lake, it was learned.

The search was started Monday by four planes and five boats. Additional planes and boats were expected to join in a widening search later today.

Lieut. George Lawrence, search and rescue officer at the district United States coast guard headquarters here, said all rivers, harbors and inlets from Sandusky, 50 miles west of Cleveland, to Fairport, 30 miles east of here, would be combed.

Smart Elevator

MONTREAL, June 21 — (CP)—The latest thing in apartment-house elevators is one without buttons which goes up or down when you give it the word—in French or English. A model of the electronically controlled lift was demonstrated by an engineering firm (Westinghouse elevator division) at the National Association of Building Owners and Managers' convention yesterday. When a pretty girl said "Up"—or the French version, "En haut"—into a microphone, the cage rose. It reversed when she said "Down" or "En bas."

Tennis Star's Body Found in Harbor

MONTREAL, June 21 (CP)—A body taken from Montreal harbor this morning has been positively identified as that of Marcel Rainville, former Canadian Davis Cup tennis star, city morgue officials said today.

A morgue official said a number of persons who knew the Montreal lawyer and athlete had identified the body which was found by a tugboat crew.

Morgue officials said that Rainville's wrists were slashed.

No date was set immediately for an inquest.

The body was discovered near Victoria pier where bystanders Friday night found a pile of clothing and a sheet of paper with the name "Marcel Rainville" scribbled on it.

Rainville, in his early 40's, had been living in various Montreal hotels recently and police were unable to reach his wife.

No Power Cuts Said Possible

KINGSTON, June 21—(CP) — Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, said here Monday that there will be no power cutoffs in the province next winter if there is normal rainfall this summer and early fall.

He told the annual meeting of the Kingston branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada that the Hydro commission was planning ahead for future demands for power in Ontario.

Beyond the immediate program until the end of 1952—which should be adequate barring dry periods this year—he said Hydro planned two main developments:

1. Utilization of the St. Lawrence river to yield about 1,100,000 horsepower to Ontario.

2. If this should not be possible by 1952, Hydro hopes that Niagara diversions of water flow will be completed and "efficient use of these waters will be feasible."

If neither one of these alternatives is available, Hydro may have to proceed with other steam units—or enlarge the ones now under construction in Toronto and Windsor—in order to meet the increased demand in the future, he said.

Low-Rental Houses Coming Says Roebuck

GRIMSBY, June 21 — (CP)—The Liberal government must and will build "more and more" low-rental houses, Senator Arthur Roebuck said Monday night in a campaign speech in support of Harry Cavers, Liberal candidate for Lincoln.

"We will build them," said Senator Roebuck, "when we are returned."

The Liberal record of 300,000 homes built since the end of the war—180,000 of them during the last year—was greater than that of any other country in the world, he added.

Parade and 21-Gun Salute Open Halifax Bicentenary

HALIFAX, June 21 (CP)—This old seaport forgot the scars of war, explosion and riot today and launched into a rip-roaring birthday party to mark its bicentenary.

Two centuries have not been easy ones for Halifax, but they have never been dull. It has known Indian raids, press-gangs, depressions and epidemics. It has been ripped apart by an explosion in 1917 that killed thousands. Its back has been almost broken by the strain of two world wars.

Halifax's history is the story of ships and the men who man them. Tragedy born of the sea has marched past Haligonians in a steady chronicle of ships that were lost and men who went down with them.

Today the city's 90,000 inhabitants, together with thousands of other Nova Scotians, began what be probably the longest birthday party in Canada. It's going to last three months.

A 21-gun salute crashed out from Port George atop Citadel Hill to start off the proceedings officially.

A five-mile-long parade of armed services units, 18 bands and scores of floats wound through the streets. Taking the salute was Lord Cornwallis, descendant of the Edward Cornwallis, who founded Halifax 200 years ago today.

From ships in the harbor came blasts on whistles and naval craft played streams of water into the air. There were band concerts and sports and the army put on a mock battle. Tonight street dancing and fireworks display from Citadel Hill were scheduled.

And today was just the beginning. The events—sports, theatre, music to mention three—will go on until mid-September.

Czech Archbishop's Arrest Believed Imminent; Flayed By Red Paper

Church-State Tension Mounts As Many Priests, Laymen Arrested in Moravia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 21—(AP)—Government controlled newspapers gave a hint today that the next step in the communist regime's war against the Roman Catholic Church may be the arrest and prosecution of Archbishop Joseph Beran as an enemy of the state. The newspaper said the Church hierarchy was guilty of terrorist tactics which are "against the law and punishable." Church-State tension mounted.

Czechoslovakia's Communist government was reported arresting Roman Catholic opponents in Moravia. The government seized upon Archbishop Beran's defiant utterances of the last week-end to accuse him of "anti-state activity."

There were signs that he might wind up as the "Czechoslovak Mindszenty" if he continues his defiance of the government's campaign to get control of the Church. The archbishop has said flatly that he will continue to fight.

Beran has been a semi-captive for the last week in his palace where security police have been installed.

Churchmen reported numerous clergy and prominent laymen have been arrested in Moravia. That province is southeast of Prague.

Also Watched

One source reported, without confirmation, that Archbishop Joseph Matocha of Olomouc, second city of Moravia, has been placed under a police watch like that maintained for the last five days over Archbishop Joseph Beran of Prague.

Reports of the arrests followed a hectic week-end during which a pastoral letter from Beran was read in churches through the country. It denounced the Separatist Catholic Action group sponsored by the government. The archbishop's sermon in Prague was broken up by Communist heckling.

The Moravian arrests were made, church sources said, to crack resistance of loyal Catholics to the Separatist group. They said those arrested, whose number could not be estimated, had refused to

Three Burned To Death In House Blaze

SHAWVILLE, Que., June 21—(CP)—Mrs. Gustave Bretzlaff and her two small children died Monday when the six-year-old daughter threw coal oil into a burning stove and flames razed their isolated farm home.

Mrs. Bretzlaff, 30, died in hospital Monday night. The children—Barry, two, and Beatrice, six—were trapped in the blazing frame house at Otter Lake, 25 miles north of here.

Shawville is 40 miles northeast of Ottawa.

Mrs. Bretzlaff asked Beatrice to stir the fire in the stove. Instead, the little girl threw coal oil on the fire. The stove exploded, spilling burning coal oil over the room.

The two children ran upstairs. Mrs. Bretzlaff slipped and fell into the stove. Hospital officials said every part of her body was burned.

She rolled along the floor, her hair and clothes afire, to the front door where she met her husband who had heard the explosion. He ripped off his wife's burning clothes, then tried to get the children.

Thwarted Twice

Flames blocked his first attempt to climb the stairs. Then he got a ladder but again was stopped as he tried to enter a second-storey window.

The children's bodies, charred beyond recognition, were found in the ruins of the home.

Bretzlaff called a doctor and drove his wife towards Shawville. They were met on the road by Dr. S. E. McDowell who administered first aid and Mrs. Bretzlaff was rushed to hospital. She died some eight hours after the fire started.

Saves Baby Who Fell 5 Storeys

DETROIT, June 21 (AP)—Two-year-old Michael Patrician was holding grimly to the outside ledge of a hotel window Monday. It was a five-storey drop to the sidewalk below.

Blake Frey, 24, happened by and spotted the baby. He went into action fast. He ordered someone to go for a blanket. But it was too late. The baby started to fall.

Frey leaped to the spot and held out his arms. The 40-pound child slipped through his arms to the sidewalk. But the fall had been broken.

The baby, although injured severely, was reported responding to treatment in hospital.

"I'm sorry I couldn't hold him," Frey apologized to the baby's parents.

Remove Ban On Exporting Table Potatoes To United States Markets

New Move Will Not Affect Prices—Support Program Put Into Effect In November

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—The United States market is open again for Canadian table potatoes. The Trade Department Monday announced lifting of the ban—imposed last November at the request of the U.S. government—on exports of table potatoes to the U.S. The ban was put on when the U.S. complained that Canadian exports were making the American prices-support program ineffective. "The supply position has now changed materially and with the concurrence of the United States Government exports on Canadian table stock to the United States will again be permitted," he department said.

The department's brief statement gave no indication of the quantities to be exported. But in East Florenceville, N.B., W. R. Butland, chief fruit and vegetable inspector for New Brunswick, said it was late in the season and only a relatively small amount of the potatoes in New Brunswick could meet export requirements. Stocks on hand had deteriorated because of hot weather.

Government officials said lifting of the export ban will not affect the Canadian prices-support program for potatoes started last November when the American market was closed. Farmers in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island still will receive $1.15 for every 100 pounds of table potatoes "in the bin on the farm" last April.

Before the ban went on, Canada operated under a one-year agreement with the U.S. which permitted shipments of 1,500,000 bushels of seed potatoes and 1,000,000 bushels of table potatoes at reduced duty. The Dominion soon exceeded its quota.

Isolationists Only Support

PORT PERRY, June 21 (CP)—Colin A. Campbell, former Ontario Cabinet Minister, said Monday night that George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has no support in Quebec except that of isolationists.

Speaking at a Federal election campaign rally in support of Walter C. Thomson, Liberal candidate for Ontario riding, he said of Mr. Drew:

"He stands today unable to say that he will have nothing to do with the isolationists in Quebec and he has been dodging the issue all through the campaign with the idea of winning support."

During the current campaign, the Progressive Conservatives were "the only party without courage enough to come out and take a stand on the Atlantic Pact."

Slight Market Gains General Firm Trend

TORONTO, June 21 — (CP) — A firmer trend continued from yesterday in today's dull session here. Industrials and golds marked up the best gains as activity increased slightly.

Gains were held to fractions in industrials with some early advantages in key issues disappearing in mid-session. Algoma steel showed the widest advantage, up ¾ t 38¼ and Powell River, Massey-Harris, Minnesota and Ontario Paper and Ford A were among the gainers.

Junior gold producers started the ball rolling in golds, marking up pennies at the opening. Kerr Addison, in the seniors, gained ¼ at 15¼, at the half-way mark while McIntyre, and Hollinger eased. Advances ranged up to 10 cents in selected junior producers.

Consolidated Smelters and Hudson Bay added fractions in base metals while Sherritt, Waite Amulet, New Calumet and Golden Manitou traded actively for penny advances.

Charges Drew 'Wholly Unfit'

PORT ARTHUR, June 21 (CP) —Trade Minister Howe said Monday night that George Drew's charge against Canadair Aircraft Ltd. and the Electric Boat Company of Hartford, Conn., demonstrate that the Progressive Conservative chieftain is "wholly unfit" to be official opposition leader.

In a 15-minute political speech broadcast over a network of Ontario radio stations, Mr. Howe said that Mr. Drew's sugestion that the Electric Boat Company "is accustomed to paying large sums to obtain contracts" was "an innuendo directed at myself."

"It is scarcely part of my duty to jump to the defence of private interests that are being labelled and maligned by Conservative politicians.

"Ordinarily, responsible political leaders do not so far forget themselves as to attack private citizens for political ends.

"In fact, I suggest that Mr. Drew in making this attack, has again amply demonstrated that he is not a responsible leader and that he is wholly unfit for the position he has occupied as leader of His Majesty's Loyal Oposition."

Repeating his defence of the sale of the $22,00,000 government-operated plant, Mr. Howe said it was sold to the Electric Boat Company which invested $2,000,000 in Canadair, after it had been found that "private enterprise in Canada could not see enough future in Canada's aircraft industry to justify an investment on that scale."

Time Lost Due To Strikes Up

OTTAWA, June 21 — (CP)— Three strikes, conducted by miners, seamen and construction workers, caused more than 87 per cent of the time lost through industrial disputes in May, the Labor department reported yesterday.

The strike of asbestos miners and mill workers in various Quebec centres, together with the Canadian Seamen's Union strike in Canadian and foreign ports and Toronto's construction laborers' walk-out also accounted for almost 70 per cent of the total workers involved in all work stoppages during the month.

A decline in the number of strikes and the number of workers involved was noted by the department for the first five months of 1949, but the time loss during the same period was 25 per cent higher.

Summer Vacation Reading Club Planned

The Wonderland Reading Club has been formed in the Boys' and Girls' Department of the Public Library by Librarian Lilian Wesley. She has planned the club as a summer vacation reading club based on the fairy tale, Alice in Wonderland.

Miss Wesley explained the club saying that for each book read by a boy or girl they will receive a sticker representing some character from the story Alice in Wonderland. When they have read 20 books, a scene will have been completed by the stickers suitable for framing in the child's bedroom. In order to attend the Mad Hatter's Party in September, the children must read 10 books each.

Saturday morning the club will begin with the showing of the film, Alice in Wonderland.

St. Laurent Raps Civil Service, Cabinet Attacks

By The Canadian Press.

The campaign for next Monday's federal election is moving swiftly through the home stretch with national party leaders pressing their bids for popular support.

Prime Minister St. Laurent made his appeal in the capital on Monday night at a rally at which Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, his predecessor, presided and joined him in calling for a fresh mandate for the Liberal administration.

Progressive Conservative leader Drew campaigned in Quebec City and, speaking in both English and French, bespoke his party's intention to "remain determined defenders of the autonomy of the provinces."

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, confining the remainder of his campaign to Saskatchewan, told a rally in Regina that the CCF will make substantial gains in Toronto at the expense of the Liberals.

"Gravely Disturbing"

Mr. St. Laurent criticized Mr. Drew for attacks on the federal civil service and said he wondered whether democracy can carry on "in a public uproar of allegations that public men are dishonest, lying and deceiving." Mr. Drew's statements about Cabinet members were "gravely disturbing."

Mr. King, who moved to the political sidelines last November because of ill-health, called for a Liberal victory "so pronounced" that over the next few years it will serve to strengthen Mr. St. Laurent in his leadership of the country and strengthen Canada's position among the nations of the world.

Mr. Drew, addressing a meeting in Quebec's big drill hall, said the Progressive Conservative party had one policy for all of Canada. He pledged himself to continue, if elected to power, the co-operation he had established with Quebec when he was Premier of Ontario.

Mr. Coldwell predicted that Ontario will show "a major upsurge" in CCF strength on election day. Many of the seats the CCF expected to take were in areas held by the Liberals in the last Parliament. The Liberals could not hold their own "after the CCF is through with them."

Mr. St. Laurent accused Drew of endangering democracy by his "gravely disturbing" method of deprecating the honesty and integrity of public men who oppose him. Mr. St. Laurent also attacked the Progressive-Conservative leader for making the civil service a "subject of political controversy."

He suggested that the "Tory attack on bureaucracy is just an indirect way of attacking the kind of services they (civil servants) are performing, such as family allowances and other social security measures which Tories don't like but don't dare attack openly . . . "

Tried Before War

Mr. King disclosed that he and the late justice minister Lapointe tried to get Mr. St. Laurent into politics before the Second World War. Mr. St. Laurent had declined until the war made the move "imperative" after Mr. Lapointe's death in 1941.

The Progressive Conservative leader said Mr. St. Laurent seemed to think that the "co-operation" between Mr. Drew as Premier of Ontario and Premier Duplessis of Quebec had been "improper."

"If there is one thing I am happy about, it is that while I was Premier of Ontario we established the most effective co-operation there had ever been between these provinces in more than 5 years."

Mr. Drew had been charging members of the cabinet, said Mr. St. Laurent, with "misleading and deceiving the people, acting like tyrants and deliberately lying." The important question in the face of such "vilification and slander" was "whether democracy can long survive the degeneration of public debate to the level to which it is daily brought by the leader of a once-great party who seems to have substituted systematic abuse for principles and policy."

Mr. St. Laurent left Ottawa Monday night for Toronto where he speaks tonight. For the rest of the week he campaigns in Quebec and Newfoundland.

Mr. Drew moved today into the eastern townships after a 24-hour visit in the capital of French-Canada.

During a busy day Monday in Quebec, Mr. Drew accompanied by Mrs. Drew, called on church leaders and Premier Duplessis.

Mr. Drew repeated charges that a "bureaucracy" had grown up in Ottawa under the Liberals, that taxes were excessive and that the federal government had let the Communists "run loose" in Canada.

Buy Herd Sire For $17,100

ALLISTON, June 21.—Thirty-five Lambton County farmers banded together yesterday to pay the highest price in two years for a Holstein bull. They bought Glenafton Enchanter for $17,100. The farmers rolled up to the big sale tent on the estate of seller W. H. C. Ruthven in a motor coach.

They went into the ring to bid against the breeders from Canada and the United States. Competitive combines from Vermont went to $15,000.

Glenafton Enchanter was bred by the six times all Canadian champion Marksman, out of the highest daughter of Monogram, a famous sire. He was the sire of Mr. Ruthven's herd.

All the herd of 45 head was sold. It brought a total of $42,780. For two females $1,300 was paid, the highest price in the class.

John Powell of Alliston, secretary of the Ontario branch of the Holstein Association, said last night: "Today's buy was the first time small farmers banded together to outbid the big breeders. It means they can have the services of a very highly bred sire."

Two Men Appear In City Court On Six Charges

Trial of Harry Ketchum and Harry Goodell, R.R. 4, Warkworth, against whom there are six charges of theft, some laid against them individually, some jointly, started in city police court today before Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C.

Both men have been remanded periodically since April by Mr. Philp. Earlier this month they appeared at Cobourg police court when Magistrate R. B. Baxter sentenced Goodell, who pleaded guilty and acquitted Ketchum, of stealing a back-up lamp from a car owned by Hamilton Humphries.

Ketchum was sentenced to a month, however, for assaulting Provincial Constable David Coffey after pleading not guilty.

Only one case was disposed of this morning before the court adjourned for lunch.

One Acquittal

Ketchum was acquitted on a charge of stealing a block and tackle, carpenter's plane and other carpenters tools from Francis Tedford, R.R. 2, Lakefield after Goodell said he had taken them without Ketchum's knowledge.

Constable Coffey told the court that when he visited the farm at R.R. 2, Lakefield, he found the articles which Mr. Tedford had missed from his garage, in the garage by the farm.

Defence evidence that Ketchum did not live at the farm at the time of the alleged offence, nor when the police found the articles was produced in cross examination by E. F. Sheehy, defence counsel.

Crown Attorney produced evidence claiming that the accused did live there as he admitted he had done last year.

Goodell claimed that he rented the farm this year from Mr. Sheehy.

Articles Found

Constable Coffey said that when he visited the farm with a search warrant, he missed Ketchum while looking through the house. He found him in the garage beside a bench of tools and it was there that he found the allegedly stolen articles.

Goodell said he had taken them from Mr. Tedford's garage and placed them in his own garage without telling Ketchum, who denied having seen them previously.

Mr. Tedford identified each article by various marks and the rope on the block, from a knot he had tied in it before it was missing.

In acquitting Ketchum the magistrate said the story told by Ketchum and Goodell might be true, "but whether we regard the story as true is a different matter."

Ketchum also faces a charge jointly with Goodell of committing the same offence.

Other offences with which the couple are charged are stealing a tractor governor from Hilliard Lyttle and wire fencing from the Department of Highways.

Austrians Happy Following Agreement By Big Four

PARIS, June 21 (AP)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers ended four weeks' debate Monday night with a pledge for east-west peace in Germany and general agreement on an Austrian independence treaty.

As the conference closed, the following results were announces: 1. A six-point statement of principles to guide negotiations in Germany. This featured a Russian promise not to reimpose a blockade of Berlin, in return for efforts to revive east-west trade in the former Reich.

2. A joint communique announcing a series of agreements on the outstanding issues in the Austrian treaty and instructing the deputies to wrap up the document by Sept. 1.

3. Agreement among the four ministers to maintain contact and hold another meeting in New York next fall during the United Nations General Assembly.

An American deputy, Samuel Reber, told reporters he is confident the four powers will agree on an Austrian text in time for the fall sesion, when it presumably will be adopted and the Allies will pull their forces out of Austria.

The way toward Austrian agreement was cleared after the West met a $150,000,000 Soviet claim on Austria for German assets, and Russia droped her support of Yugoslav claims on Austria.

Less Definite

On Germany the four countries were less definite. They acknowledged they had failed to unify the country politically and economically, but promised to try to do better in the future.

They pledged themselves not only to encourage inter-zonal trade and commerce in Germany but also to facilitate the movement of persons and information.

They also agreed, according to Robert Schuman, the French foreign minister, to respect each other's political set-ups, even though they do not agree with them.

Austrians were jubilant when they heard the news about their independence treaty.

In Vienna, Chancellor Leopold Figl said the Big Four decision is "a big step toward peace and the freedom of humanity."

A civic dinner for the band leaders who are holding their convention here in the first week of August was proposed to the council Monday night in a letter from Mr. S. J. Rowe, secretary of Peterborough Citizens' Band.

"It is our baby," said Ald. H. Dodds, "and one to be proud of. They are bringing band leaders here from all over the country. They decided to come here for their convention, and I think a dinner would be well worth while."

There was no definite information about the number of bandmasters who might be here August 6, the date of the proposed dinner.

Long Drought Hurts Wildlife

TORONTO, June 21 — (CP) — Southern Ontario's long drought is affecting its wildlife as well as its field crops.

Toronto bird experts say waterfowl probably suffer most of all the wild creatures from an extended drought, especially during late spring or early summer. They return to the same breeding grounds year after year, in time of drought, lake shallows and grassy marshland often become parched and desolate.

But birds which eat grasshoppers and beetles do well in hot weather. 'Hoppers and many other insects thrive during dry spells.

Few mosquitoes have been seen this year in southern parts of the province and the drought can be credited for their absence. Most of the swampy breeding grounds of the "skeeters" have dried up.

Scattered rains in Ontario during the last two or three days have helped to relieve the plight of the farmers but some sections, particularly around Toronto and York County, have had no rainfall for nearly four weeks.

The Ontario Agriculture Department said Monday that hay fields in York County are yielding only 25 per cent of their normal crop. Immediate showers might result in a 40-per-cent yield of wheat.

Farmers in such Western Ontario counties as Dufferin, Grey, Huron, Waterloo and Wellington report that "good showers" have saved them from a complete loss. The same welcome rains also hit parts of Southern and Central Ontario.

A maximum temperature of 90 degrees is forecast today for Toronto, which Monday recorded a high of 92. The hot spell extends from Windsor to Kingston and north to the fringes of the Muskoka district.

Tories, CCF Both Wrong On Controls

MONTREAL, June 21—(CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said Monday night Canada's prosperity is and continues to be the envy of every other country in the world.

In a 15-minute federal election address carried over a Montreal radio station (CJAD), Mr. Abbott said Canada has a higher level of employment than almost every other country.

"During the last four years we have paid off $1,625,000,000 of our national debt and at the same time reduced our taxes by an almost equal amount and have provided billions of dollars in health and social security measures," he added.

He said Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew attacks the government for having too many controls, and CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell attacks the government for having too few controls over the country's economic life.

"Both of them are wrong," he said. "We would not have had prosperity if we hadn't followed a sensible and gradual policy of retaining some controls and relaxing others in the post-war period."

WEALTHY CANINE—"Rip", 9-year-old wire haired terrier, is one of Canada's wealthiest dogs. When Mrs. Marguerite Ethel Spratt died in 1946 her will provided for a $75 a month to care for her pet until his death. The will provided "Rip" should sleep in her bedroom and be bathed in her bathroom by a registered nurse. For this the nurse was to receive $1,000 a year and $5,000 when the dog died. The nurse has become seriously ill so the executors have ruled "Rip" must go to a kennel. On his death he will be buried in the garden of the Spratt estate which is going to be sold.

Sheriff, Chief Wounded In Gun Battle

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., June 21—(AP)—A police bullet Monday night killed a Hartford City man after he shot and wounded the police chief and sheriff and barricaded himself in a home.

The dead man was identified as Rollie Cook, 37. Police Chief John Landis was wounded in the leg and Sheriff Gerald Uptegraf was shot in the abdomen in an exchange of gunfire.

The dead man's mother, Mrs. Iva Cook, had called police and said her son was brandishing a revolver and "threatennig Betty and me."

The police chief said he and the sheriff went to the house to serve an affidavit on Cook. The affidavit, charging assault and battery, had been filed by the man's wife, Mrs. Betty Cook.

Cook barricaded himself in the house after the two officers were shot.

Other officers came to the scene and shot it out with Cook. The man was hit by a bullet fired into the home.

The sheriff's condition was said to be serious. The chief of police was not badly wounded by the bullet, which passed through his leg.

Too Much Bureaucracy At Ottawa, Charge

PEMBROKE, June 21 (CP) — Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative candidate for Hamilton West said Monday night Canadians were "saddened with bureaucratic thinking at Ottawa and . . . are no longer governed by the members they have chosen to represent them."

She told the Renfrew North Women's Progressive Conservative Association that was "reason enough for the citizens of this nation to demand a new government, a government which will be conscious of the responsibilities which a free people have called upon it to assume."

The gravest responsibility, Mrs. Fairclough said, was to keep the people "free of bureaucratic regulations and free from dictatorial powers."

Detective Freed

TORONTO, June 21.—(CP). — The Ontario Court of Appeal Monday quashed the conviction and three-year sentence imposed April 5 on Henry Russell Eagleson, 43-year-old private detective charged with fabricating evidence in a divorce case last January.

Eagleson was also freed on two other charges — obstructing the course of justice and creating public mischief. Chief Justice R. S. Robertson ruled the evidence was "insufficient to warant conviction."

Backs Drew's Stand In Smallwood Case

TORONTO, June 21 — (CP)— Andrew Brewin, CCF candidate in Toronto St. Paul's constituency, said Monday night that he "most heartily" agrees with Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew in his criticism of alleged threats addressed to voters of the new province of Newfoundland by Premier Smallwood.

"I do not often find myself in agreement with Mr. Drew," Mr. Brewin told a campaign meeting, "but I do most heartily agree with him in his condemnation of the grossly improper threats addressed by Mr. Smallwood to some of the voters in Newfoundland. . ."

Declares CCF 'Dying Cause'

EDMONTON, June 21 (CP) — Premier Manning of Alberta Monday night told a political meeting that "the CCF is a dying cause."

He said the Canadians have three roads to choose from when they vote June 27. They can pick "the old-line party road which offers nothing but pre-war repetition, the road of the CCF and Communists which will lead to State dictatorship, or the Social Credit route which has many simple and essential reforms."

"The CCF is a dying couse. The Liberal and Conservative parties probably will balance each other off, and therefore, a little group of 15 or 20 Social Credit members in the House of Commons might exercise a lot of influence."

Zeller's To Open Annex In City

As a result of the construction work which has been going on at Zeller's, it is announced that an Annex will open shortly. This new section is located at the rear of the main store and leads into it by a 10-feet archway. The outside entrance is on Simcoe St.

Although only 1,248 square feet have been added, it is believed by the management that the extra space will add considerably to the convenience of shopping.

"With the opening of the new Annex" says one of the store's executive staff, "we look forward to serving Peterborough shoppers with greater efficiency than ever, and are happy to say that an extra amount of floor space enables us to present a greater variety of merchandise."

Although the exact day of opening the annex is not yet definite, the indications are that it will be some time during the current week.

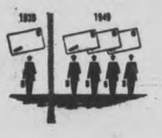
TODAY WE LIVE IN A GREATER CANADA



New Signs in the Sky...

A distant hum and a flashing streak in the outer sky announce another exciting Canadian achievement—a new jet plane designed and built by Canadians—one more example of the meteoric advances made by Canadian skills and manufacturing abilities.

In Canada, too, giant airliners, which have won international recognition, are now being built for the world's air routes of today and tomorrow.

Today our production—both in extent and variety—has attained heights undreamt of even ten years ago, creating new opportunities in every field of activity for the talents and enterprise of young Canadians.

Increase of air traffic: today Canada's commercial aircraft carry more than four times the number of passengers and three times the amount of mail they did in 1939.

"Countless New Opportunities..."

"I sometimes find it hard to realize the extent and rapidity of our plant's growth. It has all been based, of course, upon the tremendous expansion of Canadian industry in general, which has created countless new opportunities in every field of activity for the energy and enthusiasm of young Canadians."
—says HARRY J. SEHL of Kitchener.

The development of Sehl Engineering is a typical Canadian success story. Only 14 years ago, Mr. Sehl, with one assistant, began operating a small tool and die shop in Kitchener. Its expansion has been spectacular, with new lines of production added, new departments established and new plants built. Today the company, with 90 employees, is fast becoming one of the leading metal producing concerns in the country.

East-West Rapprochement

The agreement reached at the Paris conference of the Foreign Ministers of Britain, the U.S.A., France and the U.S.S.R. is indefinite and modest in scope. Nevertheless it is much the most hopeful issue of any East-West conferences in the last three years, not excepting the official lifting of the Berlin Blockade, which now really will be lifted, it seems.

• • •

Germany is not to have economic and political unity—not yet—so the great dividing line still remains. Efforts will be made, however, to "mitigate the effects of the present administrative division in Berlin, and to provide for trade expansion and freer movement between east and west Germany. Economic bodies will be merged to establish closer ties between the occupation zones.

• • •

An important outcome of the conference was the agreement to draw up a peace treaty for Austria, with frontiers as they were before Hitler moved in, and with full guarantee of minority rights for Croats and Slovenes. This treaty will be shaped in readiness for an autumn meeting of the "Big Four". The fact that such a meeting will be held is proof of the better turn which East-West relations have taken.

• • •

Words and gestures by themselves are not reliable indications of what will in fact be done in international matters. This we have been forced to learn during the last three bitter years. But looking at the outcome of this Paris conference as steadily and sceptically as we may, we cannot doubt that a real rapprochement has occurred. Whether Russia's economic difficulties at home and in the eastern European countries which she dominates, or the American "Cold War" and success of E.R.P., have caused a change in Russian attitude, the change is evident. A new sanity has been shown in East-West affairs, a constructive tolerance of each other, a willingness to live and let live, rather than an apparent and ruthless endeavour to destroy—and be destroyed. Yesterday in Paris civilization was given time to draw its breath for one night, at least, Mr. Vishinsky being as fickle as he is.

It Is Growing Late

The conference of the British Labour party which was held a fortnight ago offered many proofs that the party realizes that time is growing short for it, and that it must make some powerful appeal to the voters of Britain in preparation for the election which will be held late this year or before the summer of 1950. It is our opinion, whatever it may be worth, that Labour still stands an excellent chance of winning the next election. Merely to win, however, is not enough. In order to carry on its big program of nationalization the Labour Party will have to win spectacularly, as it did in 1945, and there are signs that its popularity is on the wane.

In 1945 the Labour Party offered nationalization of industry as its chief cure for British ills. It received a great deal of support on that score alone, for it was plain that there were many British industries—the mines gave the clearest example— which were not being well directed by private enterprise. But its program of nationalization has not brought the quick change in British fortunes which was expected; Britain's problems go deeper than the problem of ownership.

Britain's big problem is one of export. To maintain its standard of living, Britain must export more in order to be able to buy the food and raw materials which it must have. Problems of marketing skill, of costs, and of the readiness of workers to produce enter into the picture, and the matter of national or private ownership influences these factors far less than was anticipated. Many of the Labour cabinet ministers —Sir Stafford Cripps in particular— have known this all along and have never concealed their knowledge; they have worked with the utmost energy and skill to solve the problems. But although they have done wonders in some ways they have not been able to do as much as a great number of Labour supporters naively expected. A Tory government could have done no more and might very easily have done less. But the Labour Party promised magical results and has not been able to produce them. The naked fact is that everybody in Britain will have to work harder for survival, and that no one can foretell how long that condition will persist.

It is not easy for any party to go to the country with a promise of harder work. The trades unions, which form the backbone of Labour support, want less work and more pay for their people, and Labour has the unpleasant task of telling them that what they want is out of the question.

One Labour Minister, Aneurin Bevan, has taken the unwise course of trying to make the voters' flesh creep. He has said that a Tory victory will mean civil war. That is mischievous nonsense. It is plain to anyone who looks at the facts that a Tory victory will not make anything easier for the British people, because their problems are not primarily political. But voters are optimists with short memories, and a Tory government may be elected only to spite the Labour Party. Meanwhile that party is doing its utmost to bring about a miracle before the election. But in politics, as elsewhere, miracles are very rare.

The Big "Get Out The Vote" Campaign In Peterborough!

The Chamber of Commerce took the lead a few weeks ago in suggesting plans for a large and intensive campaign to get the Peterborough West electors to vote. The local branch of the Canadian Legion, at the behest of its National Executive, was itself prepared to set out on a voters-to-the-polls crusade. But where, O where, are the outward and visible signs of this campaign? It seems to have gone phutt, like the tops of pop-bottles which have been shaken and fizzed. But no, it was milk bottle tops which were to carry the printed slogan "Cast Your Vote", was it not? Milk does not fizz; it merely turns sour.

Has the Chamber of Commerce had a change of heart or is it too busy with other matters? Perhaps it would have been best to have allowed full rein to the Legion men, whose faith in the democratic value of a large vote seems to be at least as strong as the Chamber's. The Chamber of Commerce office has many convenient pigeon-holes in which matters can be shelved "for further consideration."

A Trick Of The Trade

During the middle of the election campaign Mr. St. Laurent had to cancel a number of engagements in order to rest his throat. He had been making as many as four speeches a day, and he was literally unable to utter. We suggest that this is a shameful admission for a politician. Part of his job is to make speeches, and we have often wondered why so many politicians neglect the mechanics of speech-making.

A good voice teacher could teach Mr. St. Laurent, or anyone else, in a few hours how to use his voice so that it would not tire unduly, however much speaking he did. There exist in the world all sorts of people—actors, preachers, radio workers, auctioneers—who are capable of talking for several hours each day without fatigue. There is no secret about what they do; they simply use their voices in the most efficient manner. Why do politicians neglect to train themselves for this important part of their work?

It is from these ill-trained politicians that the clamour comes to have a public address system installed in the House of Commons. The acoustics are bad, they say—which means merely that they do not know how to make themselves heard. Mr. King could always be heard in the House, and so can Mr. Coldwell. Both men have learned to speak.

Ottawa should be a place where a good teacher of voice production could make a fortune. We fear, however, that the teachers starve, while those who should be their pupils complain of laryngitis.

Alberta Oil: Triumph and Tragedy

By H. R. ARMSTRONG
(Ottawa Citizen)

THE great Alberta oil boom is both a triumph and a tragedy for Canada. At least that seems a fair interpretation of the views of Hon. E. N. Tanner, minister of lands and mines for Alberta, the man chiefly responsible over the past 12 years for setting both the development and conservation policies for the history-making oil development in this province. Few people in the East realize how great this triumph is, or will become. And few Canadians anywhere appreciate the fact that the tragedy increases in direct proportion to that triumph.

ALBERTA oil, a phenomenon of the past few years' discovery and development, now provides about one-fifth of all Canada's petroleum needs. Production out here has already reached 60,000 barrels a day as compared with Canadian requirements of from 280,000 to 300,000 barrels. Within about five years, when pipe lines to the Head of the Lakes are completed, it is conservatively estimated that Alberta oil production will equal the total consumption for all purposes in this Dominion.

It is difficult to comprehend the stupendous improvement this will effect in the Canadian economy. At present production is running at well above $300,000,000 a year; at current prices, in fact, about $180,000 a day. This vast addition of new wealth from Canadian natural resources in itself carries an importance which is not easy to exaggerate. The more so because production today could be stepped up well above that amount, were it not that refining and transportation facilities cannot provide an outlet for a greater quantity of crude oil. The trans-prairie pipe line and additional refining capacity will take care of that disability over the next few years.

BUT more important than this new wealth are its two vital corollaries. The first is that within five years or so Canada should be self-sufficient as to oil, gasoline and all petroleum products. What this will mean to this nation in a period when all countries are striving for oil resources—when oil fields are a main threat to peace and the cause of international financial and diplomatic intrigue—it is scarcely possible to envisage. In war or peace, it now seems certain, Canada, which in the past has had to import almost all her oil and petroleum products, will no longer be dependent upon outside sources for crude oil, lubricants or gasoline.

The second great gain, due entirely to abnormal postwar world conditions, is that Canada will be saving billions in "hard currency" and United States exchange. At present, as has been intimated, this saving amounts to about $300,000,000 a year. Within five years or so this gain in foreign exchange resources should amount to $1,500,000,000 or more a year. After that, the limit can only be guessed. And this boon will come to a country which not long ago had to impose severe import restrictions in order to conserve its rapidly diminishing United States funds. The clear outlook is that within a measurable time, the increasing flow of Alberta oil alone may entirely eliminate the currency deficits that have bedevilled this nation since the end of the war. This, of course, will go a long way to remove the shackles from Canadian trade in general and to solve problems that have been worrying our statesmen and economists.

ADDED to all this is the fact that from oil royalties, rentals and sales, under the present system of administration—directed by 51-year-old Nathan Eldon Tanner, the cabinet minister in charge—the Alberta treasury now draws upwards of $1,000,000 a month. This annual accretion of $12,000,000 amounts to no less than one-quarter of the whole Alberta budget. As development proceeds, and as new discoveries are made, the financial return to the people of Alberta should materially increase.

❖ ❖ ❖

ALL this is part of the triumph. The tragedy is that although Canada is to become self-sufficient as to its oil supply, the oil wells, the oil fields, the refineries and the distribution agencies—in other words that whole vast organization which will constitute Canada's great oil industry—will belong to American interest. Though the oil will come out of Canadian soil it will be the property, and provide the profit for, corporations and capitalists from outside the Dominion. In the words of Mr. Tanner, himself born in Salt Lake City, Utah, "this is nothing less than terrible."

FOR some reason Canadian financial men and corporations have not come forward to develop Alberta's oil resources. The money, the courage and the faith needed for this big venture have come from American-controlled concerns. So Canada, although it will benefit inestimably has let its own great oil industry slip through its fingers into non-Canadian control.

To a great extent, of course, this is the record in mines and in pulp and paper. But these resources were picked up by Americans at a time when Canada could scarcely be expected to finance its huge development of natural resources. The oil tragedy is that in its own major economic enterprises, in so far as they are directed to creating wealth and usefulness from its natural resources, Canada remains a babe in swaddling clothes, to be suckled, tended and supported by private interests from outside the country — or at best has reached the adult stage without the courage, vision or will to promote, own and control the riches of its own earth.

A lot has been said in recent years about Canada growing up politically and diplomatically, until now its voice is heard and its influence recognized in world affairs. But what can be said about this Dominion's status economically, when its big men of finance, industry and business look timorously on while outsiders take the risks and reap the profits of such a venture as translating Alberta's oil fields into products that are vital to Canadian progress?

Letters To The Editor

FROM A LANCASHIRE LASS

Sir: I am just writing to thank you for an hour of very interesting reading. I had the "Examiner" sent me by a pen pal who lives in Peterborough, and, on reading it, I was very impressed by the friendly intimacy of its articles. What a great pity our own papers cannot attain that link with their readers. I sincerely hope that I receive many more copies of the "Examiner," Good luck!

Yours Sincerely

P. S. Don't you ever have a column for teen agers?

FORGET THE PLAY ROOM!

Sir: There should be more women on city councils.

If a few housewives, who have had years of practise in stretching a meagre weekly wage to cover every conceivable household expense were administering the city's business the Sewage Disposal Problem would have been settled long ago.

What housewife, saving to buy a new stove, will fritter away precious dollars re-decorating the children's playroom? Yet our City Council is following a parallel course in beautifying city parks, while disregarding entirely the much greater need in the South End.

There is an old Chinese proverb which says: "When someone is at your throat don't worry about who is stepping on your toes." The City Council is paying no attention to the Sewage Disposal Problem at its throat, but is concentrating all its resources removing the City Parks from its toes.

The Examiner is a widely distributed newspaper, read throughout the length and breadth of this district; the City Fathers should crawl with shame to think the disgraceful contamination of the lovely Otonabee River should be so widely known.

ELECTION PROMISES

Sir: I notice by Saturday's paper the Four Point Platform that Mr. Drew has promised us on this election. They all look very enticing but it seems to me that I have seen a 22 point Platform of Mr. Drew's when he was in the Provincial Government and it didn't seem to materialise. Election promises are all very nice to look at but not always to be trusted. It will be a sorry day for the people in Canada if they ever take Mr. Drew's Election promises seriously, but one thing he has guaranteed us if we open our mouths against his system of government, are the plans to tighten up the Criminal Code, this is one pledge he will perform we can be sure of that because it doesn't matter who you are if you don't like his ways, he calls you a Red. We in Canada want freedom of speech and must beware of Mr. Drew. I thank you for this space in the Examiner.

(MRS.) JEAN LUNDY.

Misquotation

When marks are being awarded for the most misquoted statement of the political campaign, it must be given to one made by Rt. Hon. L. S. St. Laurent when in the West during the Easter period. Ever since he has been accused of saying the C. C. F.'ers are Liberals in a hurry.

Mr. St. Laurent did not say this, according to reports of his address. That is the interpretation put upon it by others. This is what he did say:

"Many Saskatchewan people are Liberals in a hurry. I don't mind them being in a hurry but I would like them to help keep the rest of us Liberals moving." This statement was made in Saskatchewan April 19.

Mr. St. Laurent may have had in mind some Liberals who had abandoned their Party to vote C. C. F. because they were in a hurry. More probably however his statement included these and also other Liberals who remained Liberals but who are more progressive, or more "in a hurry" than most Liberals elsewhere. That he was referring primarily to Liberals is implied by the phrase "the rest of us Liberals." There is no basis for thinking he meant that socialists are "Liberals in a hurry."—Windsor Star.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wise, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge. For it is a pleasant thing if thou keep them within thee; they shall withal be fitted in thy lips. That thy trust may be in the Lord, I have made known to thee this day, even to thee.

Have not I written to thee excellent things in counsels and knowledge, that I might make thee know the certainty of the words of truth to them that send unto thee? (Prov. of truth to them that send unto thee? Prov. 22: 17-21.)

❖ ❖ ❖

The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to show his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John (Rev. 1: 1.)

❖ ❖ ❖

And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud: and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire: and he had in his hand a little book open: and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth, and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth....

And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Rev. 10: 1-3, 9-11.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A very dejected man walked into a restaurant one morning and sat down at a table.

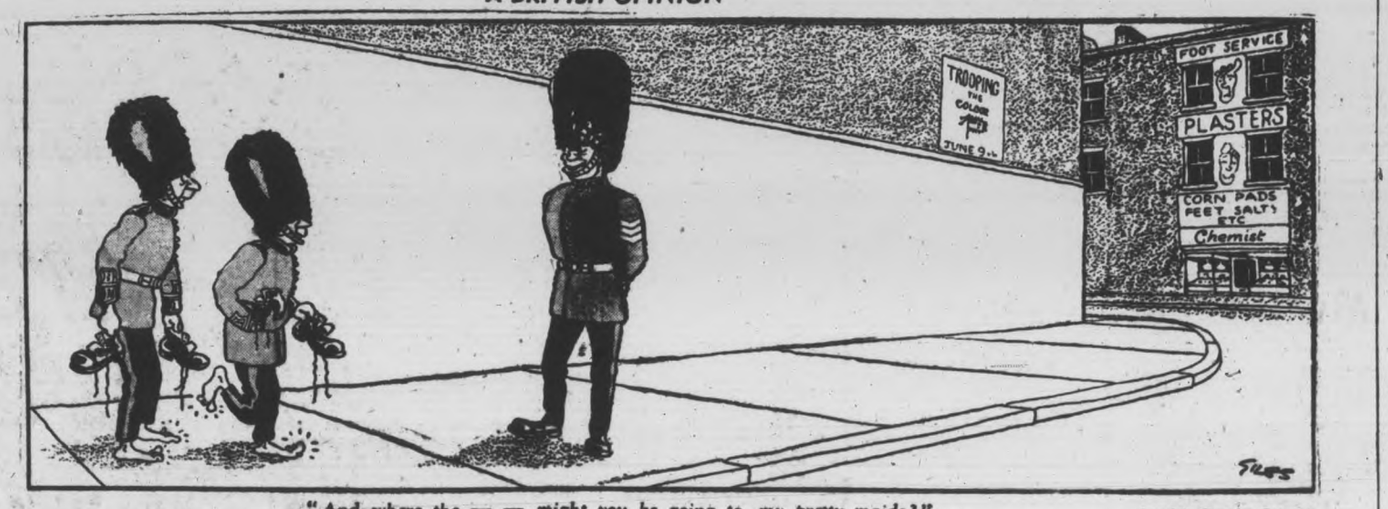
"I want two eggs fried very hard, two slices of toast burnt black and a cup of weak, luke-warm coffee," he told the waitress.

"Are you sure that's just what you want?" she asked, amazed.

"To the letter."

The waitress explained to the chef and managed to get the man exactly what he had asked for.

"Anything else, sir?" she asked as she put the order on the table.



"Yes, now sit down and nag me. I'm[illegible]

Drew's Position Embarrassing Declares Garson

WINNIPEG, June 21—(CP) — Justice Minister Garson said Monday night that the attitude taken by Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew at the 1945-46 Dominion-Provincial conference when he was premier of Ontario "now has caught up with him as leader of the opposition.

In a 15-minute political broadcast over a CBC trans-Canada network, Mr. Garson said that Mr. Drew, as leader of the opposition, "promised that when the existing Dominion-provincial tax arrangements expire in 1952, he will, if elected, give the signing provinces a better deal than they now have."

"This he cannot do unless he first disavows the main points which he made as premier of Ontario."

In 1947, the Dominion and all provinces except Ontario and Quebec reached five-year agreements with the Dominion providing that the signing provinces will not impose provincial taxes on income, croporations and inheritances.

"Mr. Drew, as premier of Ontario, opposed this agreement," said Mr. Garson. "Therefore, those who wish to be sure of getting a favorable renewal of this agreement should vote for the present Liberal government."

Parole Better Way

KINGSTON, June 21.—(CP).—Sanford Bates, noted American penologist, Monday told the fifth Canadian Penal Congress prisoners released at the end of their term returned to crime more frequently than those released on parole. Mr. Bates, commissioner of institutions and agencies for the state of New Jersey, said parole "is the modern method of releasing a man from a prison sentence."

Mr. Baudoux was manager of Acadia Coal Company's Allan shaft at nearby Stellarton for several years. He was transferred here a few years ago.

BUCHAREST, June 21.—(AP). — The Romanian Government Monday acknowledged officially for the first time the existence of an underground which is reported to have tortured and killed supporters of the Communist-controlled regime. GUN BATTLE LOCALE—This aerial photo graphically illustrates where the gun battle was fought in Sudbury Saturday night when two policemen and an innocent bystander were killed by Clarence Brousseau, who then committed suicide. Brousseau became involved in a family quarrel and a rifle was fired. Police were called and Brousseau barricaded himself in the house. First to die was Police Constable Edward Terrell who was shot through the chest as he approached the house. Constable Gerald Dault was the killer's next victim when he was felled as he halted traffic entering the danger area. James Germa, who lives near the scene of the shooting, was shot through the head as he walked past the Brousseau home. Tear gas was brought into use after which the shooting stopped and police entered the house to find Brousseau dead from self-inflicted wounds.

40 Drown In Flood

ISTANBUL, June 21.—(Reuters).—Forty persons were reported drowned and 80 injured during 16 hours of torrential rain which flooded the town of Tokat, in northern Turkey. The flooding rendered 5,000 homeless and submerged thousands of acres of cultivated land.

Paying Crop

RED RIVER, Alta (CP)—Tilling on his farm near Sylvan Lake, George Coverdale turned up a $65 crop of "lettuce." The money was in a moulded old billfold lost six years by Henry Ward, when he was working on the farm. The had to be sent to Ottawa for re- money was pressed together and printing.

Fire Watchers Declared Bane Of Firefighters

Motorists who step on the accelerator and try to reach the scene of a fire as soon or sooner than the fire trucks are No. 1 on Chief George Smith's pet-hate list. And for a good reason too: in several cases recently they have delayed the Fire Department's arrival.

On one occasion cars slowed down the fire trucks and formed such a dense mass in the street near the fire that it was several minutes before a way could be cleared to let the fire reels through.

"The first 10 minutes at a fire are the most important," says the chief. "It is necessary to size up the outbreak, determine how it is to be dealt with, and then get on with the job."

Fire Fans Park

The situation is particularly bad at night when a large number of car owners have some free time to go chasing after fires. In their efforts to get a good look at a spectacular blaze they park their vehicles at convenient points and then abandon them for a front-line spectator's view.

When the fire trucks try to locate parking space they find it occupied by cars either with or without occupants. In the latter case the owner must be found or the car shoved to one side with possible damage being done to it.

The law is going to crack down on the more obstreperous of the offenders. There are regulations forbidding motorists crossing hose-lines, and following less than 500 feet after fire trucks. Both of these are going to be strictly enforced from now on says the chief.

"The trouble is somebody is going to get hurt in all this crowding around," says the chief. "Then he will probably sue the city for damages. We don't want that."

He explains that the Fire Department appreciates the assistance it has received at fires from local residents and it doesn't want to prejudice that good will. But a few irresponsible people may cause an unnecessary risk to both lives and property.

Hair Cut Price To Remain Same

Put away that bowl, chum, and forget taking a correspondence course in barbering. The price of haircuts—for the immediate future, at least—is not going up in Peterboorugh.

Male residents of Toronto are gloomily considering the prospects of a 25 per cent jump in price. Or to be more specific, an increase of from 75 cents to $1 for a haircut.

Not so in Peterborough says John Leni, Charlotte St., president of the Peterborough Barbers' Association. Local tonsorialists have apparently not been discussing the matter and are reasonably satisfied with the price list.

"I just can't see it happening in Peterborough," said Mr. Leni. "The cost of everything is high now and the working man is having a hard time paying his way. This would make it worse."

Larry Drane, business agent for the Ontario Barbers' Association, has announced that Toronto members will meet tonight to reach a final decision. If they vote for an increase it will affect all barbering services from shaves to manicures.

He claims that one of the chief reasons for the increase is the boosting of rents to as much as 200 per cent, and wages are too low considering the present cost of living.

Mr. Leni claims that those pushing for the higher price are mainly downtown locations with heavy rents, and numerous highly-skilled employees. Similar conditions do not exist here, he stated.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*
can steal away a woman's beauty!

BEAUTY fades when a woman's face grows pale—when her freshness is failing—her energy runs low. Yes, and these signs often come from a blood condition. If you have them, you may have a Borderline Anemia, a mild anemia due to a nutritional deficiency of iron.

The red cells in your blood may be too puny and faded. They may be weakened to the point where they can't transmit full energy to your body. Many people — women, men and children—drag through life with this Borderline Anemia.

How Ironized Yeast Tablets Build Up Your Blood and Vigor

So, if your color is poor—your energy low and this common blood condition's to blame—take Ironized Yeast Tablets. They are formulated to help build up faded red blood cells, and thus restore vigor. Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may be due to other conditions — so consult your doctor regularly. But in this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets to start your energy shifting back into "high" — to help restore your natural color! Take them so you can enjoy life again!

Petes Edge Weston Lions In Smart Senior Contest

Outplaying the Lions in Weston Monday night the Peterborough Lumberjacks defeated Lions in the last minute of the game 15-14. Coach Piper Bain pulled his goalie, Fink Chard, after Emmett Creighton had put the Petes one up with 30 seconds to go. Dootch Vitarelli took a long shot at the net from centre to assure the Petes of a win. Using six forwards Weston managed to score a goal at 14:59. This was the Petes' second win in five games played in the last eight days.

Passing well and breaking fast gave the Petes a 6-3 lead in the first quarter. Bob Thorpe, Lou Vitarelli and Dugan were the leaders of the Petes' attacks. Although only four goals were scored in the second quarter, two apiece, the Petes' crew were in no danger except for two brief moments. Frick came to the rescue, at one time stopping four shots in a row. Passing of both teams was poor throughout the period.

Went Ahead

In the third play became rough. The Lions sparked by Downer managed to surge ahead of the Petes when they were shorthanded. Digby in scoring one of the Petes' goals of the period shoved his way through the length of the field to score. But during the next two minutes when Digby and Horton were serving penalties the Lions scored three times to take the lead in the game for the first time 12-10.

In the final quarter the Petes scored three times to retake the lost lead. But Hill tied the game at the nine-minute mark. The game was tied until 14:21 when Chard tried to take the ball from his goal up the field. Creighton checked him, getting the ball at centre. Taking a blind shot from behind the centre circle Creighton broke the tie. Pulling Chard the Bain crew tried hard but the goal by Dootch Vitarelli 25 seconds after Creighton's goal decided the game.

Creighton and Dugan led the Petes' attack with three goals. Dootch Vitarelli and Thorpe each picked up two goals with Howse, McNulty, Digby, Horton and Foote getting the others. For the Lions Skhordoff and Downer sniped three counters each while Hill, Allwell and James scored two each.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Despite theter rific heat, 90 bowlers turned out last evening to play the preliminary and first rounds in the annual club singles competition.

It was bad enough for those who only played one game—but some of the boys were called upon to play the second game and that was really bad. Just off-hand we cannot recall such conditions. It has been hot during the day and then cooled off a bit for the evening, but we believe it was getting warmer as the evening wore on. We noticed the boys as they came off the green and they were wringing wet."

The games continue this evening at 7:00 oclock and all players are asked to be on hand promptly.

The annual play for the Tip Top Tailors tournament begins at 7:00 o'clock this Thursday evening. It is for rinks of schedule calibre. Will those skips who intend to play please notify Stan Shields, immediately, and have their rinks out in good time.

The ladies cancelled their Monday afternoon tournament. Too hot.

Today's thought: "Purpose and perspiration are a winning team."

Ashby's Grab 16-13 Win Over Lock Co.

Ashby's yanked out a 16-13 victory over Lock Co. in their Girls Softball League fixture at the Bowl last night. It was only a fair game, with the losers doubling the Ashby's safe hits but having eight errors to one. P. Williams went in for Lock Co. in the first after their opponents had three runs, while J. Dunk took over in the third for Ashby's. The game was rather draggy and loose, hot weather seeming to bother all players last evening.

There were no individual stars for either side in the field, but the Ashby lasses generally played better ball to earn the win. D. McFadden, R. Gilmour, D. Callan and E. McFadden each had two hits for Ashby's, R. Gilmour hitting a homer. M. Stewart led the losers with two doubles and two singles, as P. Williams and E. Simmonds hit homers.

The teams:

Ashby's: E. McFadden, 2b; J. Reynolds, C; D. Callan, cf; L. Jordan, ss; M. Freeman, 1b; J. Dunk, 3b; R. Gilmour, lf; B. Reid, rf; D. McFadden, p.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Couple of exhibition games of interest here this week. A nine p.m. floodlight baseball tilt tonight in Riverside Park between the Kokomo Clowns—they clown and they also play good ball—and the Petes. On Thursday p.m. in the East City Bowl, Toronto Sunday Morning Class, of classy colleens, tackle the local men all-stars under the arcs at 8.30. It is preceded by a game betwixt Firemen and Policemen of the Civic Softball League, with some "Y" weight-lifters also doing their stuff. These hot nights make for bigger attendances at all outdoor sports. Rotary Club is sponsoring the Thursday doings at the Bowl.

* * * * * *

Fastballers go tonight on two fronts, Quakers vs. Raybestos at Quaker Park, and Woollens vs. Westclox at Brinton, at 6.45. Thursday, it's Westclox vs. Rays at Brinton. In this circuit, teams use 10 men, the rover playing anywhere in fair territory. Runners cannot leave the base till the ball leaves the pitcher's hand, and the hurler must deliver the ball below the waist but can have one complete rotation of arm. A sort of side-arm throw may be worked. Mitts are permitted, but finger mitts only for other than the catcher and first-sacker. A game not going five innings does not count. Managers agree on whether to play or not in case of rain.

Church Playoffs On

Ted Naish of the Church Softball League informs us of the playoff setup. St. James won the bantam title in three straight. The three-of-five peewee finals are on now, All Saints and St. George's going tonight at K.E. School and Thursday at Central. St. George's midgets meet Keene tomorrow at Central in the start of three-of-five finals. Keene juniors are one up in their five-game finals and they play St. George's at Keene tomorrow. Senior round-robin ended in a three-way tie with George St. getting the bye. But we're not clear what happens in that playoff from here on in.

Manager Doug Miller and his lacrosse cohorts did a good stroke of business in signing up Bobby Thorpe for the Petes. This ace forward, who was living in Port Dalhousie, was being chased for a signature by several of the top "A" teams, but he decided on Peterborough where he will play regularly and assist Coach Red Creighton. Thorpe is a clever forward and a great playmaker. He lead the Quebec senior loop in scoring in 1946, and starred for St. Kitts in '47. Had a falling out with them last year and didn't play. An outstanding puckist, too, he played last winter for San Diego of the PCHL and Buffalo for a time, having a tryout with Detroit Red Wings. Quite an athlete.

Petes Come Through

Those battling Petes' lacrossers came through with a 15-14 senior OLA triumph in Weston last gloaming. Came from behind and won it in the final half minute on goals by Em Creighton and Dootch Vitarelli. A last-second goal by the Lions made it closer than Siamese twins. Creighton, Dugan, Dootch Vitarelli and Thorpe led the attack, the latter and Lou Vitarelli showing some fine playmaking all through. And Frick was good again in goal. Whole team clicked well to win their second start in five during the past eight hot days—and one loss was in overtime. They're coming, folks, and they'll win their share from now on. Come out Friday and see them go against the strong Hamilton Tigers, who beat Mimico 10-7 last eve Brampton faces Owen Sound tonight.

Two girls' softball contests at the Bowl last gloaming and it must be the warm weather—in any case neither number was up to par. Ashby's won 16-13 from Lock Co. with the losers booting eight after outhitting their opponents considerably. Other joust saw Marines unravel the Woollens 23-8, the losers kicking the apple around the orchard 10 times as the scorer tried to be as lenient as possible. H. White went good for the winners. Lots of hits and miscues in the twin bill, but you can't expect every game to be a gem. Two tussles there tomorrow, Woollens vs. Ashby's, and Marines vs. CGE, as Lock Co. goes to Lindsay.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Cal., Monday justified his favorite's role in the Wimbledon tennis championships at London by grinding out a five-set victory over Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla. The top-seeded Californian, two sets down, stormed from behind to win 3-6, 9-11, 6-1, 6-0, 7-5 in a marathon duel that had all the thrills of a final.

All the other seeded stars, including defending champion Bob Falkenburg of Beverly Hills, Calif., American champion Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, and Frankie Parker of Los Angeles, who won easily. An important casualty was Earl Cochell, the San Francisco redhead, who is ranked sixth in the United States. Handicapped by a recent back injury which kept him in a London hospital until last week, Cochell bowed to Eustace Fannin, young South African Davis-Cupper, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4, 9-7.

Rocky Graziano, back in the good graces of the New York and National Boxing Association fistic fathers, set out to-night on the comeback trail with regaining of the middleweight crown his No. 1 objective. The hard-hitting youth from New York's East Side takes on Bobby Claus of Buffalo in a 10-rounder at Wilmington, Del. The New York State Athletic Commission suspended him February 7, 1948, for failure to report two $100,000 bribe offers he thought were "jokes." The NBA slapped a suspension on him on November 26, 1948, for running out on a fight with Fred Apostoli in Oakland, Calif.

Jean Richard, Canadian featherweight champion, left Montreal by plane on Monday night for London where he will meet Ray Famachon July 5 for the European title. Famachon holds the European featherweight crown. Richard has already signed to meet Willie Pep, world featherweight champion, in London if he beats Famachon.

At Glace Bay, NS, Canadian middleweight champion George Ross of West Bay Road, NS, streached his undefeated string as a professional to 37 by jabbing out a split decision over Joe Pyle of New Waterford, NS, in a 10-round non-title bout here on Monday night. There were no knockdowns.

John Samis of Vancouver head the men's list and Marjorie Map of Toronto the women's in the national badminton rankings made by Doug Grant and appearing in the current issue of Canadian Sport Monthly, publish in Montreal. The rankings are accepted annually as official by badminton organizations. In the 10 selections among men playe Toronto placed four, Vancouver three, Montreal two and Winnipeg one. Toronto captured four places in the women's 10, Vancouver three, Montreal two and Winnipeg one.

Marines Take Easy One Over Woollens

Outboard Marines mauled the Woollens 23-5 in a loose and one-sided Girls Softball League encounter at the Bowl last night. It was a draggy affair with the losers guilty of 10 errors, while Marines hit the ball hard and had good hurling by H. White and E. Whittaker, who took over in the seventh. They fanned eight between them. Their support was good, while S. Harris was hit hard and had poor backing.

H. White and A. LaPointe stood out defensively for the victors, E. Humphries and C. Ferguson being best for Woollens. The latter player and E. Humphries led their team at bat with two hits each. H. White led her side with the willow, slapping out five singles in six tries. B. Larmer banged out a couple of homers and A. LaPointe's three hits including one for the circuit.

The teams:

Marines: A. LaPointe, 2b; E. Smith, rf; H. Anderson, rf; B. Larmer, ss; M. Walling, lf; V. Mitchell, 3b; M. Behan, 1b; M. Hill, cf; S. Curtis, c; H. White, p; E. Whittaker, p.

Woollens: R. McInroy, 2b; J. Walling, 3b; J. McIlwaine, ss; C. Ferguson, lf; M. Laing, 1b; S. Harris, p; E. Humphries, cf; M. Drury, cf; S. Wakeford, c; S. Johnston, rf.

Marines	150 103 742—23	21	3
Woollens	100 004 000— 5	8	10

Umpires—Mowry and Akers.

Co-Ops Triumph

Co-Ops copped an 8-6 Civic Softball League win from the Bus Drivers last night, each side finishing up strongly to make it exciting. Co-Ops shoved three across in the first frame and didn't score again till the seventh, when five crossed the plate. Busmen got one in the fourth and then five in a big seven-inning drive. Strickland fanned eight for the losers but his support wasn't the best and Doris threw steady ball for the victors. Teams:

Co-Op—McAuliffe ss, Trayling 2b, Creighton 1b, Doris p, Edmison lf, Vyse cf, Jenkins 3b, Coulter 1b, Arnold rf.

Busmen—Rowe c, Parnell 2b, Gordon cf, Jamieson ss, Strickland p, Brown lf, Gray 3b, Simmons 1b, Knox rf.

Umpires—Castle and Moher.

Cavan Victors

FRASERVILLE, June 21. — (ENS).—The Cavan boys' softball team motored to Fraserville on Friday night and had a friendly game of softball with the Fraserville boys, with the score 20 for Cavan and 17 for Fraserville.

Richard Waugh and Mr. J. Boyles were the umpires. There were quite a number of spectators present to watch the first game played here this season.

Staley Pitches Cardinals To 7-2 Win Over Giants

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

"Staley, the giant killer"—that's what St. Louis fans are calling Gerald Lee Staley, 25-year-old, broad-shouldered righthander of St. Louis Cardinals.

Primarily a bull pen operative last year and at the start of the current season, Staley had been going great guns since given a starter's role May 28.

Staley pitched the Cards to within a half game of the National League's leading Brooklyn Dodgers Monday night, beating the New York Giants, 7-2, in St. Louis. The Dodgers were idle.

The triumph was Staley's fifth of the season and his third over the once-powerful Giants who occupy fifth place.

The Cards nicked Monte Kennedy for a run in the first and drove the young lefty to cover with four more in the third. Schoendienst collected four of the Cards' 13 hits to boost his average to .357, a point back of Brooklyn Jackie Robinson's league-leading .358.

Within Two Games

Boston's third place Braves crawled to within two games of the Dodgers, edging the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, in the majors' only day game. Elbie Fletcher singled home Ed Stanky from second base in the ninth inning with the winning run.

Vern Bickford went all the way to gain his ninth victory. Hank Sauer accounted for Chicago's run with an eight inning homer.

The fourth place Philadelphia Phillies, behind the seven-hit pitching of Russ Meyer, turned back the Pirates, 7-1, in Pittsburgh. Meyer also took a hand in the Phils' 15 hit attack, socking two singles and driving home a pair of runs.

The New York Yankees grabbed a tighter hold on the American League lead, increasing their advantage to four games over the runner-up Detroit Tigers. The Yanks beat the St. Louis Browns, 4-1, in the stadium while the Tigers lost, 6-1, to the Red Sox in Boston.

Fred Sanford, pried from the Browns for $100,000 in the fall, limited his former mates to seven hits. Jack Phillips socked his first homer of the season with two on in the sixth inning.

Walt Masterson, recently obtained from Washington, and Joe Dobson halted the Tigers on six blows while the Sox collected 14 off a trio of Detroit pitchers.

The third place Philadelphia Athletics inched to within a half game of Detroit, beating the world champion Cleveland Indians 4-1, before 19,561 rooters in the Quaker city.

Only Four Hits

Dick Fowler, who came to the majors from Toronto, granted the Indians only four hits in posting his fifth straight triumph and sixth of the season. The Indians scored in the first on three walks and Hank Majeski's error after the first batter had been retired. Fowler then got out of the jam by forcing manager Lou Boudreau to hit into a double play.

The A's went ahead for keeps in the second against Mike Garcia, scoring twice on Elmer Valo's inside the park homer and singles by Mike Guerra, Coleman and Dale Mitchell's miscue.

Chicago ended a five game losing streak as lefty Bob Kuzava pitched the White Sox to a 5-4 triumph over the Senators in Washington.

All Saints Win

All Saints edged St. George's last night at Central to open their best-of-five peewee final playoffs in the Church Softball League. The losers scored a pair of runs in the second, added four next time up and then ran wild for eight in the fifth, but were blanked the rest of the route. All Saints shoved four across in the second, one in the fourth, three in the fifth, and seven in a big seventh stanza. Play was keen all the way. Teams:

St. George's: Goldie, c; Floyd, p; McIntosh, 2b; McDonald, 1b; Jones, ss; Perry, 3b; Scharf, lf; Waldie, rf; Grills, cf.

All Saints: Hutchinson, ss; Rye, ss; Byers, rf; Morton, 3b; Hollingsworth, 2b; Johnson, cf; Foster, 1b; Hendren, lf; Chamberlain, c; Downer, p.

Even Contest Looms In Title Fight

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN.

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—For the first time since Joe Louis cornered the heavyweight boxing market 12 years ago and whipped all comers, an even contest for the title has shaped up in the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott scrap tomorrow night.

Although the bout has been dubbed the "slim pickin's" heavyweight championship, it sincerely presents two fired-up contestants who are not afraid of each other and appear evenly matched.

Louis, before he retired, was always an overwhelming favorite who usually came through on schedule in cut-and-dried fashion.

Walcott, the 35-year-old family man from Camden, N. J., and 27-year-old Charles, unmarried Cincinnati slugger who has lost only four times in eight years, are expected to enter the ring at odds of about 6-5, take your pick.

Arthur Wirtz, co-partner with Joe Louis and Jim Norris in the International Boxing Club, which is promoting the bout, says the advance sale is "between $250,000 and $300,000." This indicates that some 25,000 to 30,000 patrons will see the show at Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, where Louis defeated James J. Braddock for the crown exactly 12 years ago to the day.

To Be Televised

The fight, scheduled for about 10:30 p.m., EDT, will be broadcast coast to coast over some 300 stations. It will be on television on a network of 16 or 17 stations, from St. Louis eastward to Boston and the Atlantic seaboard with the Chicago area—a 200 mile radius—blacked out.

The scrap has the blessing of the National Boxing Association but is being snubbed as a title affair by New York State and the British Isles.

Walcott's only fighting in the last year has been done in exhibitions. Charles has been busy leaving the light-heavy ranks which he dominated to knock out such 200 pounders as Joe Baksi and Johnny Haynes.

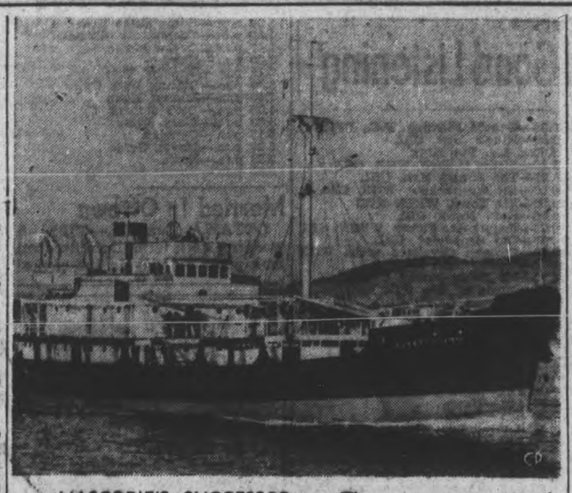
64 Countries Represented At Rotary Meet

The spirit of internationalism at the 40th International Rotary Convention in New York impressed I. H. Keefer, president of the local club most of all. Mr. Keefer and Peter LaBranche, official delegates from the Peterborough club at the convention last week, reported Monday's luncheon.

"We can no longer shut ourselves up in a provincialism of localized thinking." Mr. Keefer said. "New York with its eight millions of people from over 100 countries is itself the crossroads of the world."

Mr. Keefer said that 16,000 delegates from 64 countries of the world attended. He added that the first object of Rotary was exemplified, "The development of acquaintance," as was the fourth object "The advancement of international understanding and world fellowship". He said he talked with peoples from the Orient, Italy, India and scores of Rotarians from the United States.



This convention authorized the expenditure of $750,000 for the next three years for the exchange of fellowships to enable graduates to study in other countries. So far 111 students have received help with 56 this year.

Mr. Keefer reminded the members that one of the slogans of the club, "He profits most who serves best, has been cast aside. He explained that when the slogan was translated into other languages the word "profit was miscounstrued. He said the motto, "Service above Self", still stands.

Mr. LaBranche thanked the club for sending him as a delegate and dealt briefly with his experiences at the convention.

Charles Cummer introduced the two speakers who were thanked by Ernest Braund.

Guest at the luncheon were His Honor Mayor H. M. Donald, Campbellford, Harold Tobbitt, Bradford, Penn.; Wm. Preston, Ottawa; Wallace Bunton, Toronto; John Ferguson, Toronto; Robert Bell, Peterborough; Bertrand Gill, Toronto; Harold Brown, Hamilton; Col. Clare Tuck, Hamilton. Sid Black introduced the guests to the club.

NASCOPIE'S SUCCESSOR — The trim motor vessel Rupertsland, owned by the Hudson's Bay Company, will sail from Montreal on her maiden voyage early in July to supply many of the Arctic outposts formerly served by the Nascopie, which sank two years ago after 33 years of service. Three Newfoundland schooners have been chartered by the HBC to look after other ports on Baffin Island which were formerly on the Nascopie's route.

Judy Holliday Decides To Try Hollywood Again

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 21 (AP) —Judy Holliday is back in town for another try at the movies. She's doing much better this time, thank you.

Judy played the wise-cracking roommate of the junk dealer (Paul Douglas) in "Born Yesterday" in broadway. She was merely a sensation and was out of the role after three years and three months.

She now is braving the film industry in "Adam's Rib" with Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn. She was given Mary Astor's dressing room and is generally being treated as a dignitary. 'Twas not always so with her in Hollywood.

Nothing Happened

She was under contract to 20th-Fox, but nothing happened. Finally she learned she had a role in a wartime musical, "Something For The Boys."

Judy was enthused until she learned she had one line. She complained to a studio official.

"It's only one line, sure," he answered, "but it's a long line!"

"And," he said, adding the clincher, "the picture's in color!"

The actress complained to her agent. He listened, then replied, "but it's in color!"

So she did the part. When she reported for work, she discovered she was to play a war worker —dressed in overalls, bandana on her hair and goggles over her eyes.

"What's more, it was a comedy line, so I had to read it fast," she recalls. "That was their idea of a comedy line—read it fast."

After a bit in "Winged Victory," she headed back to broadway, which acclaimed her talents. She's going back again, as soon as she finishes "Adam's Rib." She's angling a play for the fall.

A MAN with ideas often needs more than his own brains and hands to prosper from his enterprise. Often he needs money . . .

Such a man is the "primary producer" — the farmer, fisherman, pulpwood contractor, miner.

When he needs a bank loan to help him put his ideas to work, he is free to shop around among Canada's ten chartered banks for the best deal he can get.

That's why primary producers — like most people — intend to keep banking competitive.

Council Fails To Get Bid On Sewage Plant

"We have not been able to get a firm bid on the enlargement of the sewage disposal plant," Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the board of works, told the council Monday night.

He was replying to a question by Ald. Doug Miller as to what had been done recently on that project.

A representative of Gore and Storie, Toronto, the council's consulting engineers, met a representative of the council and City Engineer Chalmers here Monday.

As to the alternative of accepting tenders on a cost plus basis, Ald. Dodds remarked: "We don't want another Hunter St. bridge by starting on that basis".

The council has been guided for months by the advice of Gore and Storrie, who prepared the plans for the completion of the disposal plant.

"City Engineer Chalmers has been working overtime on this project," said Ald. Dodds, "and we are expecting tenders by the end of the month. The plans had to be changed by the architects (Gore and Storrie) in view of the costs being so much in excess of what we had anticipated."

Mayor Swanston said the council had not been sleeping on this job, "although the Examiner has been doing some sniping at us about it."

Quick Action Given On Sewer

Residents of Wolsley St., between Bethune and Aylmer Streets have drawn rapid action from the Board of Works department on their petition for a sewer.

Work on the westerly block of the street, the boundary between the city and Smith, was authorized months ago. When construction was under way during recent weeks, the people in the block to Bethune St. were wondering and asking why it was not being extended past their properties.

Their petition came to the council Monday night. It was signed by all the residents in the block, on the city's side, and by some of those living on the township side. So, the petition was valid in all particulars, and City Solicitor Huycke was instructed last night to prepare a bylaw authorizing the work to be done.

A report from City Engineer Chalmers was also on the file of this meeting. His estimate of the cost of the job in that block was $2,287 of which $1,607.10 was for the laying of the 9-inch sewer, and $680 for eight connections at $85 each. The amount chargeable to the city as a whole was shown at $90.09 a year for 15 years.

While that routine of authorization was going on, Mr. Chalmers quietly remarked to the Examiner: "The job's finished."

THE WORK OF PREPARING a stage set for the Summer Theatre's first production, Fortune My Foe, is being rushed into completion before opening night Saturday. Labor Requests Inspection Of Fire Hall

Phil Knibbs, secretary of the Allied Labor Council wrote the city council Monday night expressing appreciation of the careful and courteous reply to the ALC enquiry recently about provision for fire protection, particularly in the new south end of the city, below Lansdowne St.

Mr. Knibbs submitted a new request suggesting that a deputation from the Labor Council meet officials of the fire department for the purpose of "inspecting equipment and facilities for the area specified".

Ald. Doug Miller, chairman of the fire and light committee, said he did not see what could be gained by that proposal. The equipment at the fire hall was inspected from time to time by those qualified to do so.

"We have answered their letter as fully as we could," said Ald. Miller, "and I think that is as far as we should go."

Mayor Swanston said the fire hall was open to any citizens who might wish to look over the equipment any time they wished. Members of the Allied Labor Council would be as welcome as anyone else.

"But, I don't think it should call for any authorized inspection," said Ald. H. Dodds.

Ald. Miller's motion was seconded by Ald. Dick Raine, instructing City Clerk Outram to write the Labor Council informing them that their letter had been dealt with, and it was not considered necessary to meet a delegation from the ALC.

They are also to be reminded that they have the right of citizens to look through the fire hall at any time they wish to do so.

In all Mr. McClellan's office had 120 boxes to send out with a list of instructions from Ottawa, ballot blanks, a voter's list and other paraphernalia necessary in the mechanism of electing a government.

Jet To Zoom, Boats To Race As Causeway Gaily Opens

A large attendance is expected Wednesday afternoon at the formal opening of the Chemong Causeway which links by road the townships of Ennismore and Smith. A two-and-a-half hour program has been organized for the entertainment of the spectators.

The Watersports Committee has arranged for water skiing, speedboat races, an exhibition by the Ornamental Swimmers, several flying events including stunting and formation work, parachute jumping, and a jet aircraft.

Gravelling and shaping of the road surface are now completed and painting of the beam guide rail is the finishing touch.

Important Visitors

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, will officially open the Causeway and many other notables will be present. Because of the present election campaign several provincial and federal officials who had tentatively planned to come will not be here.

For several years there was considerable discussion about the advisability of building a causeway to replace the old decaying floating bridge. Work began last year and continued through the winter with the Thompson Construction Co. putting in the rock fill and completing the top dressing.

Outboard Races

One of the most spectacular events scheduled at the opening day celebrations will be the three outboard boat races arranged by Don Wood, John Madden and Harry Oakman. Entries will be in three classes: 17 h.p. and under; 22 h.p. and under; and open.

Entries are expected from such centres as Windsor, London, St. Catharines, Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Dunnville, Campbellford and Bowmanville. Races will be conducted under Southern Ontario Outboard Association rules.

Those who like something even more breathtaking should be gratified by three separate parachute jumps into Lake Chemong. Tom Mathias and George Stevens hope to have at least five aircraft on hand for the occasion.

Always a treat to watch the girls of the Ornamental Swimming Club will give an exhibition of their talent that has won them awards in both Canada and the United States.

A jet aircraft from a nearby air base is scheduled to appear at 4 p.m. for a short display of aerobatics. It will be one of the latest models now in use by the RCAF.

Complete Program

The complete program follows: Outboard races 2-2.15; First Parachute Jump 2.15-2.30; Water Skiers 2.30-2.45; Outboard Races 2.45-3; Dedication Ceremony with Mr. Scott declaring the official opening 3-3.30; Ornamental Swimmers 3.30-3.50; 2nd Parachute Jump 3.50-4; Appearance of Jet Aircraft 4-4.10; Outboard Races 4.15-4.30; 3rd Parachute Jump 4.30.

It is expected that the Causeway will be sealed off to cars during the entertainment and dedication.

On the Watersports Committee are James Buchanan, general organizer; Don Wood, John Madden and Harry Oakman, outboard races; Jack Stewart, Karl Duffus, E. Wilson, Stanley Braund and Norris Williamson, inboard races; Ross Thompson, Karl Duffus, D. Mathias, H. L. Garner and J. Withers, planes; James Gifford and Norris Williamson, finance; Mr. Garner, special event; Karl Duffus and Jack Holland, water skiers, E. Wilson, ornamental swimmers; Percy Dallin, decorations; H. Oakman and D. Wood, prizes; R. Baird and Mr. Garner, radio; Ross Thompson, Mr. Garner, Bob McClellan, Mr. Buchanan and Bob Baker, publicity.

Master of Ceremonies for the afternoon will be James Gifford, Reeve of Ennismore.

Appreciation Voiced For CGE Pipe Band

City council received Monday night a letter of appreciation from the municipal council of Lindsay for Peterborough's representation in the home town's welcome to Premier Leslie M. Frost.

The letter to Mayor Swanston and the council gratefully acknowledged the participation of the Canadian General Electric Co. pipe and drum band in the welcoming parade.

"The band added very greatly to the success of the evening," Mr. W. R. Allely, town clerk, wrote, "and we would be glad if you would pass on to the members of the band the sincere thanks of our council."

Peterborough was represented on that occasion in Lindsay by Mayor Swanston, Ald. H. Dodds and Ald. Doug Miller, with the C.G.E. Band of 15 musicians.

Parking Posts Earn $2,294 In One Month

To the end of May, Peterborough's parking meters collected $53,869.12 since they were set up in business May 12, 1947. Last month's toll was $2,294.55. Possibly some of the citizens may feel a personal ownership in this metering post or that. They are the modern counterpart of the old hitching posts, which were comparatively few, placed here and there in front of stores for the convenience of farmers who wished to make secure their horses while buying goods from merchants on the main streets.

Total receipts at City Clerk Outram's office for the month, as reported to the council Monday night, were $5,682.67. Items were: licenses $1,151.12; police court fines $1,274; miscellaneous $963; parking meters $2,294.55.

Fountain Inquiry

A special committee to enquire into the condition of the dry fountain in Victoria Park was appointed by the council Monday night. The members are: Ald. Herbert Young, chairman; J. D. Kean, County Engineer; R. E. Chalmers, City Engineer; R. L. Dobbin, manager, Utilities Commission; and Armar Butcher, superintendent of the parks department. Mr. Fred M. Dela Fosse has been advocating the restoring of the fountain to use and attractiveness in a one-man campaign through the Examiner and by letter to the council. This action is a result of his correspondence.

Summer Theatre Ready for Plays

Queen Mary School auditorium is buzzing with preparations for the opening on Saturday of the Peterborough Little Theatre and the first Peterborough presentation of Robertson Davies' Fortune My Foe which is billed for the opening week. Wednesday afternoon the full cast which has been rehearsing in Toronto will arrive to put the finishing touches to the play on their own stage. But for the last week stage hands scene painters, box office officials, electricians and carpenters have been hard at work at Queen Mary school.

Peterborough's contribution to the productions of the Summer Theatre group in the next 11 weeks will extend beyond the obvious and considerable efforts of playwright and director Robertson Davies and of Mrs. Davies who is playing a leading role in the first play.

Peterborough Apprentices

Two girls from this city are among the apprentices who have been taken on by the company who will do many jobs to help put the plays before Peterborough audiences. The two are Joyce Beggs, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beggs, 90 Lock St. and Katherine Crocker, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Crocker, 35 Conger St.;

While the girls are working they will be picking up ideas and hints which will be invaluable when their turn comes to walk on the stage.

Joyce Beggs has been acting as property mistress for the production of the company's first play. She has been riding all over the city on her bicycle hunting for chairs and tables and other bits of furniture suitable for the play's sets.

Joyce, a collegiate student, has played the lead in the last three plays put on by the collegiate.

Katherine Crocker has also acted in plays put on at the Collegiate. This spring she finished Normal School and expects to begin teaching in the fall.

Stage Setting

Fortune My Foe requires an elaborate stage set. A backdrop depicting the city of Kingston has been painted by Set Designer Martha Jamieson, Kingston, who studied art in Toronto and New York and has designed other stage sets in Kingston.

Most important of the additions to the stage facilities has been the extensive lighting arrangements. A portable control panel will make possible the intricate lighting effects called for in Fortune My Foe.

Much of the work of getting the stage ready has been done by members of the company. But most of the carpentry work has been handled by Fred Rathburn, head carpenter and three boys from the Collegiate recommended for the job by technical training instructor J. C. Rutherford. The boys, whose work has greatly pleased Managing Director Michael Sadlier, are Albert Shode, 631 Donegal St.; Jim Armitage, 203 Park St.; and Jim Feeley, 375 Aylmer St.

THREE MONTH LEASE

John M. Dowdell was granted three months' extension of his tenancy of the upper storey of the welfare office building at Queen and Simcoe Streets by the council Monday night. He has occupied the premises two years and a half. Lease was given to him on his representations of work he wished to do on the inventing of a machine for use by farmers. Mr. Dowdell told the council Monday that he hoped to have this work finished in three or four months. A motion by Ald. Grant Miller fixed the end of the lease at September 30. The upper floor of the building is required by the welfare department.

Pioneer Doctor's Grandson Dies in Hospital

Grandson of a pioneer doctor of Peterborough, for whom citizens built the stone house at the northeast corner of Brock and Stewart Streets, Norman S. Hutchison, 835 George St., died Monday morning in hospital here from the effects of a heart attack at Stony Lake Sunday.

A sentimental attachment for Peterborough through the medical service of his grandparent 125 years ago asserted itself when Mr. Hutchison retired from business three years ago in Winnipeg. It was related of him that he had even hoped some time to obtain possession of the property on the slope of the Brock St. hill, which had looked down across the Jackson Park creek long before "the missing link" railway was built from Peterborough to Lindsay.

As recalled in a recent summary of the event in the Examiner, Dr. John Hutchison was induced about the year 1830 to locate in Peterborough, coming from Cavan township where he had begun practice. He was a graduate of Dublin University. He lived first here in a cottage built by Adam Scott on the west side of what is now Water St., near Charlotte S.

Patients Had No Money

To quote the Examiner, in part, and the late Frank H. Dobbin: "He had a good but unprofitable practice, for his patients had no money. They paid in produce, Dr. Hutchinson decided to move to York (Toronto).

The citizens were dismayed and a deputation entreated him to stay. He consented, providing the community would build him a good house, on a good site.

The stone for this house was quarried in Jackson Park. Only one stonemason was hired. The rest of the labor was voluntary and unpaid. Glass, paint and hardware had to be bought. Total cash outlay has been estimated at $224. At that time its was one of the more imposing houses in a community of log and frame buildings.

There was a major episode in the background and traditions of the Hutchison family, and the old stone house that has stood against time and the weather with buildings of the same material, the Court House, St. John's Church, Queen's Hotel, the old Nicholls house, north of St. Peter's Cathedral, remained a lodestone for the third generation son of the family when an easy choice of residence came to him.

Mr. Norman Hutchison leaves his wife who was Ethel May Eadie of Scotland, Ont.; one daughter Isabel of Toronto, his son Donald Ernest Hutchison of Winnipeg, and three sisters in Winnipeg.

Born In Toronto

Born in Toronto, Mr. Hutchison learned the hardware business with Rice, Lewis Co., and about the turn of the century he went to Winnipeg eventually becoming a director of J. H. Ashdown Hardware Co. About this season, three years ago, Mr. Hutchison came to Peterborough for his span of retirement following his business career in the west. He bought the house at 835 George St. north, and spent the last two summers at McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake.

Mr. Hutchison was a member of George St. United Church. He had a genial and friendly personality, kindly and modest and most companionable. For many years he had been active and prominent in Winnipeg business circles, and during all that time the attachment and claim of Peterborough upon his interests and his family background remained with him.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. from Comstock Funeral Home with Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

Groundsmen were raking up the heavy bloom of the catalpas on the Park St. lawn of Canadian General Electric Company this morning. Taxi-driver Sam Rodney returned to Toronto Monday from Lindsay without the $35 fare promised him by farm-hand George McLaughlin, 32, for a Toronto-Lindsay trip. McLaughlin attempted to duck out on his fare during the week-end, but Rodney caught him a half-block away after a backyard chase. The accused, who had been working near Downsview, north of Toronto, pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretenses, and was sentenced to nine months. But Rodney didn't collect the fare.

Summer Arrives Whimpering In Humid Heat

Now that summer has officially arrived, Tuesday, June 21, Peterborough residents can expect more summer-like weather.

Just how it can get more like summer, most people are unable to imagine. But the chances are the weather can find some way to celebrate the event.

If the heat gets any worse, several people are expected to explode in a cloud of steam. Most are getting past the stage of being hopeful. But the weather bureau promises some relief with a forecast that slightly cooler and less humid air is moving into southern Ontario. By slightly cooler the weather bureau means the temperature will decline to the mid-80's. Thunderstorms are forecast for tonight, but Wednesday will be clear.

90 In The Shade

Other thermometers in town come quite close. One thermometer at the corner of George and Simcoe Sts. recorded a blistering 90 degrees. Others showed a lower reading of 86 along George St. The top was 100 degrees, but that was in the sun at the corner of George and Charlotte Sts.

The official noon temperature at the weather station hit 87 degrees today.

People who tried to escape the heat by going to the lakes in the district were attacked by mosquitoes and the smell of dead fish. Swimmers got only temporary relief from the heat. They were soon as hot as ever.

Ice cream and pop sales have boomed in the last three weeks. One company is selling 100 per cent more pop than before the heat wave and has put on an extra shift to cope with the demand. Other soft drink manufacturers are just able to keep ahead of the demand, but if the heat becomes more than people can bear, the pop demand will become greater than manufacturers can bear.

Ice cream manufacturers are scouring the district for sweet cream which can be turned into ice cream. The new government regulation governing the cream content has demanded a 30 per cent increase in the amount of butter fat in every ice cream cone. The demand for ice cream is about 50 per cent above normal for this time of year.

There is no doubt the heat has got past the joking stage. People are gritting their teeth and hanging on. From now on its a question of who is going to give up first, the weather or us. Who are you betting on?

The Rev. F. K. Malane officiated. Wedding music was played by Mrs. C. O'Donnell and Anthony DeNoble sang "On this day" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of white satin with lace trim at the sweetheart neckline and forming tiers in the skirt. It was styled on princess lines with a short train and her veil fell to the floor from a heart-shaped headdress, caught with lily of the valley. She carried red roses.

Miss Rita O'Heron, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Jacqueline Smith was her sister's bridesmaid. They wore similar frocks of green and yellow mussoeline de soie styled with wide neckline and hooped skirts caught up to show rows of lace in a petticoat effect. A pretty wedding took place in St. Joseph's Church, Douro, when Helen Carmeletia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cranley became the bride of Joseph Salo, son of Mrs. Selma Salo and the late Mr. Salo of Huntsville. The Rev. Father McCarthey officiated. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Victor Kennedy and Miss Kathleen Faraghar of Toronto sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of white embroidered satin with pearl trim at the high neckline. It was fashioned with long tight-fitting sleeves coming to points over the hands. Her veil of tulle was caught to a crown headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses. Her sister, Miss Mary Ola Cranley, was bridesmaid and Miss Rita Barry was matron of honor. They chose frocks of pink and blue moire taffeta with matching poke bonnets and carried bouquets of pink and white roses with lily of the valley. Flower girl, Miss Betty Cranley, niece of the bride, wore pink taffeta with matching hat and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Aboard Press Club Special

By JEAN STENTON.

WINNIPEG, June 18. — Five suitcases, three cameras and 1,334 miles from Peterborough, the "Press Club Special" is bouncing merrily towards Vancouver for the Canadian Women's Press Club Triennial.

I am trying to avoid the porter. Every time he has to move all the bags, boxes, coats, and hats, he mutters under his breath about these "crazy women." That is, only as far as Winnipeg. I shudder as to what he'll be saying by the time we reach Vancouver.

✧ ✧ ✧

When I return to Peterborough I expect to be formally presented with a silver star by the Association of Experienced Travellers. After many years of scientific investigation, I have finally mastered the art of pouring my tea while zooming around a curve on two wheels without missing a drop. It must be calculated mathematically so that when the cup sails across the table, the pot spout has been allowed sufficient leeway to still eject its liquid into the receptacle.

✧ ✧ ✧

Canada has many beautiful sights, but none more lovely than Ontario. A sight long to be remembered is Parry Sound, which glistened in its lovely Georgian Bay setting at 4.45 a.m. Sudbury, a bleak city which nestles between hills of granite, lay dripping under a weak sun after three days of rain.

Perhaps most impressive are its hundreds of jewelled lakes nestling amid emerald-colored forests and dotting both sides of the tracks.

Over a wash basin I met Ruth Andrew, Women's Editor of the Toronto Star, and Burleigh Falls vacationist. Half an hour later we picked up Dora Conroy, a free lance writer and an old pupil of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

Promenading at Chapleau provided excellent results. We met Mary Moore who writes the Examiner cookery column and Marjorie Oliver of the London Free Press; Gladys Houck of a Toronto marketing publication; Katherine Nairn who handles public relations for the Red Cross and her husband, who does the same work for a film studio and who is addressing the CWPC Conference.

✧ ✧ ✧

These modern inventions are truly amazing. Ran across a room operated almost entirely by buttons. It does everything but clean your teeth for you. Touch one knob and the bed comes down, a second brings out a folding wash basin; a third starts a fan; and another opens a specially built-in clothes closet—all in a space about 6 feet by 3½ feet.

Of Interest to Women

Honor, Duty, Above Love Obligations to Children

DEAR MISS DIX: The people who constitute this triangle are around 30. They are my girl friend, my wife and myself. The wife is a semi-invalid and as a result of her state of health we have been and are missing much of the gaiety of life. She is faithful, economical, understanding and unselfish. We have a child of 7. The girl friend is a jewel, though inclined to be selfish like myself. She has qualities my wife will never equal. We are much in love and look at life from the same standpoint. I have offered my wife one-half of my salary and all that I have if she will release me from the bonds of matrimony. She refuses, not only on account of herself, but because it will deprive me of a career and the child of a father. The girl friend is willing to assist me with a portion of her salary in starting me in a professional career if I separate from the wife. The girl contends that if I love her I will throw everything to the winds and come to her, and I maintain that there are some things in life that even love does not surpass. I feel a sense of responsibility toward my child that seems to be above love.

Dorothy Dix

So this is the question at issue between the three of us. Both women are miserable and I must make a decision. What are your comments on this situation?

BETWEEN THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP BLUE SEA

ANSWER I agree with you that there are things more important in life than love. There is duty. There is honor. There is the obligation that a man has to the child he has brought into the world ,and if he has any sense of these he can find no happiness in a love that he has bought at the price of his conscience.

Children Real Victims

We can say all we please about the right of a man and a woman to live their own lives and to part if they find tht they are mismated or uncongenial or if they have ceased to care for each other and found somebody whom they really love. But no sophistries can blind us to the harm that is done to the children who are the real victims of every divorce and who are left fatherless or motherless.

Feeling as you do, I doubt you will find much happiness if you divorce your wife and marry the other woman. Always I think the face of the child you had deserted would come between you and her. And sometimes I think we get a clean happiness out of doing our duty that is better and more sustaining than any hot thrill of passion. But God help the man who has to decide between two women who love him, for he is bound to hurt one or the other and his own heart.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widower, in my 50s, children all grown and married. I am living alone and am very tired of it. Would you advise me to marry and, if so, should I look for a widow or an old maid? Which will make me the better wife.

J. P. D.

ANSWER: I think you would be very wise to marry, provided you pick out a woman in your own age group and one who has similar tastes and habits to your own and is accustomed to the same environment.

The best bet would be some middle-aged neighbor woman whom you have known for years and who would have the same background and interests that you have. The previous status of the woman makes little difference, though I should incline to the widow as the better bet on the ground that, having had experience in getting along with a husband, she would know better how to make allowances for masculine peculiarities and not expect too much of a mere man. On the other hand some of the greatest husband spoilers I have ever known were old maids. They expended upon the men they married all the pent-up affection and romance and desire for something to mother and pet and fuss over that they had been accumulating all their lives.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Mine is the old story of the girl in love with a married man. When I first met him I had many boy friends and dates. I have given them all up for him, as he is extremely jealous and says that if he can't have me no one else shall. We have gone to many places together. Every holiday finds us at many distant towns, summer resorts, etc. He is wonderful to his wife and child, but says that his responsibility ceases after he provides for them. But he never speaks of getting a divorce from his wife. The question is, what is the proper thing for m to do? Is it better for me to sacrifice my happiness for his wife and baby? Will this one affair have a marring effect on my life hereafter?

UNHAPPY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The only rule that any girl needs to guide her in such a situation as yours is the Golden Rule. Treat every other woman's husband as you would like some girl to treat yours. And just as a bit of ordinary prudence, sit down and try to figure out what you are going to get out of a love affair with a married man. You can't marry him without breaking up another woman's home. Generally, the man doesn't want to marry you because he doesn't want the scandal of divorce, nor the expense of supporting two wives. When you devote yourself to a married man you drive all the eligible men away, and so in the end all that you get out of it is a scandal, your lost good name and being deserted yourself in the end, for a philanderer is true to no one. Sorry business, I call it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Will boys ever learn to like fat girls? Do you have to be thin to be popular?

FATTIES.

ANSWER: According to the fashion reports, curves are coming in and angles are going out, so there is hope for the plump girl. If it is true that bones are no longer the object of an almost idolatrous worship, then boys' taste will change and they will prefer the girl who is a good armful to one who is a living skeleton.

But there is no reason for a girl to be fat. Take plenty of exercise, count your calories and lay off sweets and starches and fats, and you can reduce to any state of slimness you desire.

Jellied Vegetable Salads That Will Stay Jellied

By MARY MOORE.

We were at a lovely garden party this week held in honor of our cousin from Florida whom I have not seen for nigh onto twenty years.

The table was a picture worthy of a colour photograph in the ladies' magazines. BUT—the temperature being 90 degrees the jellied salads began to spread before the meal was over—and you need never suffer that dismaying sight if you add half as much again of gelatine as your recipes calls for in all made gelatine dishes in the summertime.

1 Billy

If your recipe calls for one tablespoon gelatine, add 1½ tablespoons in June, July, August and September.

These recipes that follow contain the increased amount for summer weather.

Summer Salad Moulds

One tablespoon plus ½ tablespoon gelatine (2 tablespoon only in winter), ¼ cup cold water, 1¼ cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup lemon juice, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 small onion grated, 1 cup crisp finely shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, ½ cup fine carrot dice, 1 cup finely chopped celery, ¼ cup sliced stuffed olives. Soak gelatine in ¼ cup cold water, then dissolve it in the 1¼ cups boiling water. Add the salt, sugar (increase this amount of sugar if you like), lemon juice and vinegar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Chill until partially set—just soft enough to allow you to stir in the prepared vegetables. Chill in oiled individual moulds or in one large shallow pan. If in pan it may be cut into squares or diamonds with sharp knife dipped in hot water after it is set. This is best served with mayonnaise, or Russian dressing made by adding 3 tablespoons chili sauce to 2-3 cup mayonnaise.

Vegetables in Tomato Jelly

Soak 2¼ tablespoons gelatine (1½ in winter) in ½ cup cold water 5 minutes. Heat together 2 cups tomato juice, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ bay leaf, 1 teaspoon salt, shake of cayenne for 5 minutes—longer if you like a little stronger bay leaf flavour. Strain this over the soaked gelatine and stir until gelatine is dissolved. When this is partially set add ½ cup each finely shredded cabbage, chopped celery, 1 tablespoon each chopped green peper and pimiento, 1 grated small onion and juice of 1 medium-sized lemon. Pour into lightly oiled mould and chill until set. This is delicious served in ring mould shape. having centre filled with cottage cheese flavoured with chopped chives. Looks pretty too.

Rich Tomato-Cheese Jelly

This is made with condensed tomato soup and packaged cream cheese. I like it for it adds nourishment to your cold suppers. For instance you could serve a square of it, and 1 devilled egg, and a slice of cold meat or some chilled canned fish like shrimps or salmon and potato salad—all on lettuce and have an inexpensive and quickly prepared summer supper.

One 10-oz. can condensed tomato soup, 8 oz. packaged cream cheese or very smooth cottage cheese, 1½ tablespoon gelatine (1 tablespoon in winter), ½ cup cold water, 1 cup each mayonnaise and finely chopped raw vegetables such as celery, green onion, green pepper, pimiento and olives or freshly cooked new peas. Heat soup to boiling, remove from heat, add cheese and beat with rotary or electric beater until well mixed. Meanwhile soak the gelatine in the cold water for 5 minutes; then add to hot soup mix stirring until dissolved. Cool but do not allow to congeal. Stir in all remaining ingredients. Chill until firm in individual or large moulds. Serve in suitable shapes on lettuce with or without mayonnaise.

MILLER—In loving memory of Albert E. (Dusty) Miller, who passed away five years ago today, June 21st.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them, it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever,
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by wife, daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter.

MEYERHOFFER— In lovinb memory of my dear husband, Edward M. Meyerhoffer who passed away two years ago today, June 21, 1947, (Hastings).
Though his smile has gone forever,
And his hand I cannot touch,
Still I have so many memories
Of the one I loved so much.
Though out of sight, he's ever near
Still loved, still missed, still mine.
He will live with me in memory
Until the end of time.
—Ever remembered by his wife Lois and family.

Producer Injured

TORONTO, June 21.—(CP). — Walter Homburger of International Artists Incorporated said Monday night he has received word that Producer Raymond Rohauer has been injured in an accident and is in hospital. Homburger said earlier Monday that he expected there would be an investigation into cancellation of arrangements by Rohauer to bring Tales of the Vienna Woods, a Strauss operetta starring Miliza Korjus, to the Royal Alexandra Theatre here next week.

Why Is Cement Plant Closed CCF Question

"A good example of planned scarcity" was the comment of CCF candidate J. H. Miles on the shutting down of the Canada Cement Co. plant in Lakefield. He addressed a Lakefield audience Monday night and was followed on the platform by Jack Morton, president of Local 524, and 1948 CCF provincial candidate.

"Why is the company shut down when there is a shortage of cement in Canada?" asked Mr. Miles. "Why is it not producing at a time when Canadians are short of cement and are importing it from the United States for $2.75.

"The Liberals and Conservatives are both saying how much they will do for the farmer, but at the same time they are proposing a marketing system that is resulting, and will continue to result, in the loss of our farm markets," he declared.

On the subject of home markets the CCF candidate said it was evident to him that when the farmer was getting a decent price for his products and the laborer a decent wage, the farmer prospered. On the other hand when the farmer could not find a market for his goods, nor the laborer work, the whole economy suffered.

For this reason, if for no other, the government should place a floor under Farm Markets and insure labor employment at a living wage.

Mr. Morton called on farmers and laborers to support the CCF candidate. Only a farmer-labor coalition could elect government that they themselves could control, he said.

He claimed that the Liberals had a platform on social measures stolen from the CCF and after being elected they abandon it or apply it in a lukewarm way.

"The barrage of newspaper advertising, radio announcements, and other forms of propaganda from the Liberals is the greatest ever laid down in any election campaign in Canada," he said. "Somebody is paying for; somebody who expects to get something in return. He who pays the piper calls the tune."

U.S. Army Men Inspecting Canadian Bases

OTTAWA, June 21 (CP) — A United States fact-finding group of four army officers Monday started a three-day tour of Canadian Officers' Training Schools at Barriefield and Camp Borden.

Making the detailed study of Canada's system of training officers are: Col. L. E. Heyduck, US army field forces; Col. C. H. Swartz and Lt.-Col. A. W. Gillette of the army's organization and training division, and Lt.-Col. T. D. Turner, Jr., personnel and administration division.

Accompanying them are Lt.-Col. T. E Sisson of the US army's directorate of Military training and Lt.-Col. W. S. Ryan US liaison officer here.

The party will visit the signals school at Vimy barracks, the common-to-all arms course at Royal Military College, Kingston, and the Electrical Mechanical Engineering School at Barriefield.

The group proceeded to Camp Borden Wednsday.

Second Marriage Ruled Invalid

MONTREAL, June 21 (CP) — The second marriage of Abraham Somberg of Belleville was annulled Monday by Chief Justice O. S. Tyndale in Superior Court.

It was said Somberg has already returned to his first wife, to whom he was married in Poland in 1926.

The second marriage took place about 15 months ago after Somberg obtain an ecclesiastical divorce through application to a Toronto Rabbi.

Mr. Justice Tyndale ruled that the Rabbinical divorce was without legal effect in Quebec and that Somberg is still married to his first wife.

Police Win Out

The Fire Fighters got four in a rally in the fourth, but were held to singles then in the fifth and seventh. The pitching and fielding were good in this close contest. Teams:

Police: Traynor, S. Fife, Smith, Mesley, Montgomery, Roderique, Feeley, B. Fife, Beatty, Chambers.

Firemen: Close, Bloom, Gould, Kennedy, Cain, Torrance, Bartley, Collins, Allen.

Umpires—D. T. Crawford and P. Meraw.

Peaches Thrive

DARTFORD, June 21. — (ENS).—A fruit tree which is probably bringing unrivalled fame to Mr. and Mrs. S. Brickman of this community, near Warkworth, is their seven-year-old peach tree. The wonder—and probably the envy of all who pass—it bears 100 small green peaches.

Community Welcomes Scottish Newcomers

BONARLAW, June 21.—(ENS). — Welcoming Mr. and Mrs. George Bain, Margaret and Billy from Scotland, more than 100 people met at the home of Ken Bain on Friday.

The newcomers arrived a week ago and were given gifts of kitchen utensils, towels and groceries. W. J. Barlow was chairman.

The Radcliffe sisters sang; a piano solo was played by Miss Fay Wellman; there were solos by Mrs. Allen McComb and Dave Wellman; and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McComb played the violin with piano accompaniment.

Thomas Caldwell, Wallace McInvoy and Delbert McComb furnished music for the evening. An address of welcome was read by Mr. Frank Cosby, after remarks by chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Bain thanked their new friends, who then sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

A large table was laden with gifts, which were opened by Mrs. Bain, assisted by Mrs. Allen McComb.

Lunch was served and the evening concluded with singing and dancing. The party lasted till the wee sma' hours.

STRANAHAN TO COMPETE

From St. Andrew's, Scotland, comes word that Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., amateur who holds the Canadian open title, and professional Bobby Locke of South Africa, head a list of 245 entries for the British open golf championship to be held on July 4-8 at Royal St. George's, Sandwich. Twenty-seven overseas sharpshooters are among those competing for the title being vacated by Henry Cotton, British professional. Cotton, who won the crown for the third time at Muirfield last summer, has not entered, explaining that he plans to devote much of the year to private business and has not been able to practise.

Royals Tumble To Third Pace After Defeat

By The Associated Press.

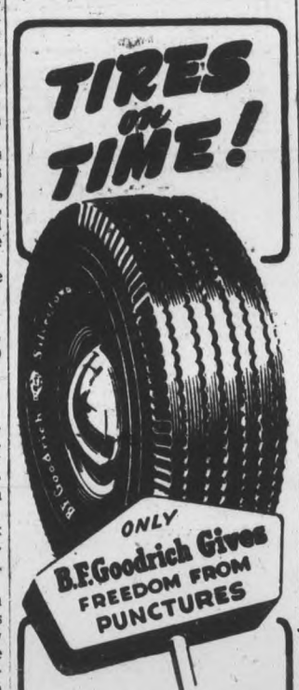
The thrilling International League pennant squabble finds Buffalo Bisons leading the field by one game today and the fourth place Toronto Maple Leafs 2½ games away.

Jersey City's Giants moved to within a game of Buffalo Monday night by beating the Bisons 8-4. The Giants snapped a 3-3 tie and won the game with a three-run rally in the seventh inning. Monte Irvin featured the rally with a two-run single.

Pete Pavlick, Fred Gerken and Ray Noble paced the Giants' 11-hit attack with a pair of safeties apiece. One of Noble's blows was his first homer of the season.

Montreal Royals, second-place occupants when the day began, tumbled to third place, a game and a half behind Buffalo, by dropping a 5-3 decision to the sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs.

Ken Burkhart went all the way for the Chiefs and granted 10 hits. His mates made four errors. But the former major leaguer was tight in the clutch. The Chiefs collected nine hits off Clarence Podbielan and Jean Roy, including Carden Gillenwater's 11th homer.



The seventh place Baltimore Orioles upset Maple Leafs 5-3. Frank Mancuso was the chief spoiler with two homers, his ninth and tenth of the season. Lefty Irv Medlinger was reached for 10 hits but he fanned eight and went all the way to post his second victory for Orioles.

Rochester's fifth place Red Wings trounced the last-place Newark Bears, 10-2. Righthander Cloyde Boyer held the Bears to four hits to post his sixth straight victory. Boyer lost his shutout in the fourth when Lew Riggs homered.

Northerners Win

Northend midgets pulled out an 8-5 City Baseball League triumph over the Westenders last evening. With Stewart pitching five-hit ball and getting good support, the northerners had a little edge on play most of the way to earn the decision. McIlwraith also threw a nice game, giving up but seven hits, but his side kicked in with a few more bad throws in the field than their rivals and that was the main difference. The game was well handled. The batteries:

North—Stewart and Black.
West—McIlwraith and Dewart.
Umpires—W. Dinesen and W. Murphy.

Teen-Age Dances End Due Gang Rowdyism

TORONTO, June 21 (CP) — Cancellation of teen-age dances at Hanlan's Point on one of the islands in Toronto harbor was announced Monday night. "Gang rowdyism" was given as the reason.

Said Lou Alexander, manager of the Teen Terrace dancing spot: "We didn't mind so much when a gang of 20 would come over and 10 would buy tickets at 25 cents each, later slipping their pass-out tickets to others outside the hall. But when some of them began walking up to the coke bar, tossing hunting knives on the bar and demanding free drinks, it got a little out of hand."

Soldiers' Plot Being Planted

Members of the Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion began to clean up the Soldiers' Plot in Little Lake Cemetery this morning following a resolution made at the monthly meeting of the Legion Branch Monday night in the Legion Hall. Grass is being trimmed and flowers planted.

Legion members also decided to send delegates to the Canadian Legion's Provincial convention in Ottawa August 14 to 17. The executive will select the members to attend.

William Howes was initiated into the Legion Branch. The members voted to grant the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association $50 to sponsor a minor team. Tentative plans were given for the Legion's annual picnic August 1.

TORONTO, June 21 (CP) — Montrealers are dominating the senior events at the Ontario Tennis Championships here.

Play began yesterday and top-seeded Montrealers Henri Rochon, J. J. Desjardins and George Robinson, together with Toronto's Dave Dyment, weathered the first rounds successfully and see action in the second and third rounds today.

Rochon and Robinson remain top favorites to take the doubles event with Beau Summers and Mel Jones, both of Toronto, expected to reach the finals against them.

In women's play, Pat Macken, of the Montreal tennis Mackens and Elaine Fildes, also of Montreal, were prominent in both singles and doubles matches, advancing on Monday's play.

Pete Stewart of Toronto is rated as the dark horse in the junior men's division. He still is eligible in both junior and senior men's events.

Top-seeded Junior Jim Bentley, 17, was eliminated from the singles senior play in the first round. He was defeated 6-0, 6-1 by Rochon, seeded No. 1 on the men's singles.

In the ladies' junior events, much attention is being attracted by the Boys sisters from Barrie, Ont., daughters of Jack Boys, former Ontario Junior Champion and ranking player. Sally and Mary Lynn weathered first rounds in both junior and senior events.

Among the survivors after the first round of ladies' singles was M. Ferguson of Waterloo who defeated E. Langford of Toronto 6-1, 6-2.

COMPETITION is essential to GOOD BANKING . . .

All banks are governed by strict legislation in the public and national interest but competition between banks remains free and unhampered. This is as it should be and to a great extent it is the foundation of Canada's success as a great trading nation. How different the picture might be if all banking was under one political governing body. Gone would be the flexibility and the quality of the services built by competition.

Important among these services are business and personal loans.

Among the determining factors in granting bank credit, under competitive banking, are that the purpose of the loan be a worthy one, that it will further the welfare of the borrower and be profitable to the bank.

The Bank of Toronto offers all banking services to clients large and small.

Many Reminders Of Canadians In English Pubs

By NORMAN CRIBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, June 21 — (CP) — Wherever there is beer in London there is usually some reminder of the days when Canadian servicemen packed the taverns on leave, or during off-duty hours.

Publicans everywhere speak affectionately of "The Canucks" who brought life and sparkle to many a dingy bar parlor and often left characteristic mementoes of their sojourn in embattled Britain.

A wooden maple leaf still stands above the bar of the secluded Red Lion, located in an alleyway near St. James' Park. At The Bell close by is an autograph book scrawled with signatures from Vancouver to Saint John, NB.

But the most Canadianized pub of all is the Horse and Dolphin, a wide rambling tavern just behind the massive Sun Life Building that once housed Canadian Military Headquarters.

Screwed into the long, curving bar are 183 small brass plates inscribed with the names of officers and men who frequented The Dolphin from CMHQ, or went there on leave from fighting fronts.

Well-known Names

Year in and year out, customers rest their tankards on the names of such well-remembered visitors as Lt.-Col. R. T. Williams, former camp commandant at CMHQ; Major J. C. Wishart, Toronto Scottish; Capt. J. D. Sword, Seaforth Highlanders of Canada; Lt.-Col. J. C. K. Strathey, Queen's Own Rigles; Capt. Fran. Wilson and Sgt. J. E. Bowlby, Canadian Women's Army Corps.

The Canadian Navy, too, is represented. Lt.-Cmdr. G. Stubbs, RCNVR, is alongside Capt. D. S. Pugh, RCAMC, and Capt. D. B. Borthwick is there with Maj. R. L. (Bob) Montrose.

The Dolphin's host, cheery Charlie Green, still presides grandly over his bars, as he did when the Canucks were there. He recalls how his father, Jimmy Green, entertained earlier Canadians at the Savoy Hotel cocktail bar during the First World War when CMHQ was located next door in the Hotel Cecil.

"Many of the sons of my father's customers came here," said Charlie. "That's how we got to be a sort of unofficial CMHQ."

EAVESDROPPER—A television camera, top centre, recorded the scene for delegates of the Canadian Medical Association convention at a nearby Saskatoon hospital as medical history was made in the first operation ever televised in Canada.

Raises $5,000 More To Spread Bible Teaching

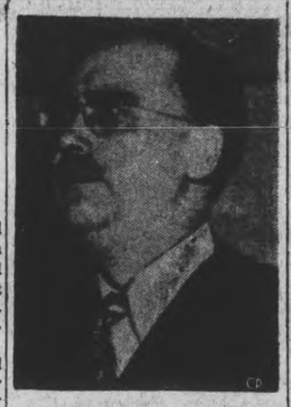
Mr. Young said the Society had sent $115,000 to the parent Society in London, England, an increase of $5,000 more than the previous year. He thanked the local branch for their efforts in 1948, which had resulted in the largest contribution in the history of the branch.



He had been greatly uplifted by the enthusiasm shown by missionaries from China whom he had met at the Bay of Quinte Conference recenty. Mr. Young said. Irrespective of dangers and hardships, they were eager to return to their work in that war-torn land.

In Receptive Mood

The people of India were also in a receptive mood for the Scriptures and the demand was very large. New translations were being prepared in several languages. For members of the Greek Army 50,000 copies of the New Testaments in Greek were to be printed in Canada.

A film "The Book for the World of Tomorrow", depicting the work of the Bible Society in many lands was shown by Mr. Young.

British Ship Attacked Second Time

Bevin Registers Protest With Ambassador

By FRED HAMPSON

SHANGHAI, June 22 (AP) — A Nationalist plane today dropped a bomb on the lower Whangpoo river district but no damage was reported.

The bomb fell not far from where the damaged British freighter Anchises is grounded. The ship was hit yesterday and beached. Divers today were trying to repair the hole in her bulkhead. It seemed doubtful she would be able to leave the Whangpoo before the Nationalist blockade deadline of June 26.

(Reports from Hong Kong said the Anchises ws machine-gunned from the air today. The message said there were no casualties.)

Whether the blockade will be recognized by foreign shipping interests here was not known. But shipping already had been curtailed sharply by diversion to other ports because of raids by three planes yesterday and the day before.

Said "Unwarranted"

LONDON, June 22 — (AP).—Foreign Secretary Bevin has protested personally to Chinese Ambassador Cheng Tien-hsi over the "unwarranted attack" on the British motor ship Anchises on Tuesday at Communist-held Shanghai, a Foreign Office spokesman said to-day.

Not Permitted To Receive Mail

TORONTO, June 22 (CP) — Privilege of receiving mail has been withdrawn from several Toronto residents for failure to sign a written statement that they will not use the mails or permit their name and address to be used in connection with lotteries, it was learned today.

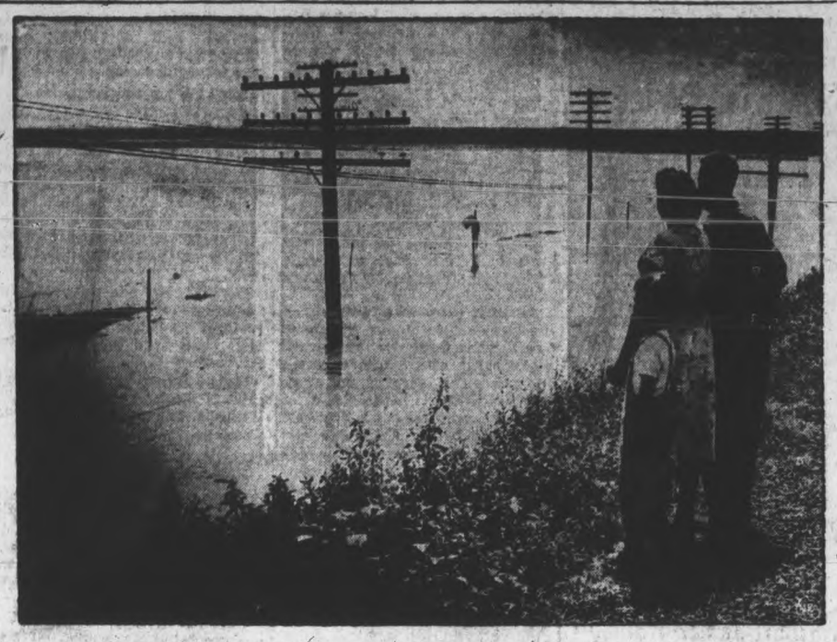
During the past week, the post office department in Ottawa has sent out flowers to persons suspected of dealing in lotteries in general and the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes in particular.

At Ottawa, post office officials declined to disclose the number of persons on its "banned" list, but said it fluctuated from time to time, generally coming to a peak when sweepstake activity is at its height.

Under the department's punishment, all mail addressed to a person on the banned list is returned to the sender or goes to the dead-letter office. The restriction is usually imposed until the person gives assurance he will not use the mails for illegal purposes.

Barns Wrecked, Trees Uprooted by Twister

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., June 22 (CP)—A freakish twister swept over two farms near here Tuesday and caused extensive damage to buildings, trees and telephone poles. Alexandria is 30 miles northeast of Cornwall.



W. J. Kennedy's farm bore the brunt of the damage, estimated at $6,000.

The twister swooped down at the height of a violent thunderstorm. Wreckage from buildings was carried 100 feet through the air. To the west of the farms seven Hydro poles were felled, blocking Highway 43 for five hours. Power and telephone service were not restored in the area until midnight.

Much Damage Caused In 4-Alarm Blaze

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—A four-alarm fire on Washington's Potomac River waterfront was brought under control at dawn today after sweeping through a block-long row of 11 restaurants and fish markets Much of the property belong to the District of Columbia.

Flames raged out of control for about two hours. Heavy smoke hung over the Capitol, less than a mile away.

FARM LAND GOES UNDER—Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Robertson and their young son glumly look at a year of back-breaking work that will net them exactly nothing. Theirs was one of eight farms in the Roggen, Colo., area that were rendered completely useless when a raging flood surged over the land.

Told to Disavow Support Of Archbishop

PRAGUE, June 22—(AP)—Roman Catholic employees in some Czechoslovak government offices said today they were being required to sign statements declaring they did not support Archbishop Joseph Beran.

The archbishop is fighting attempts of the country's Communist regime to get control of the church. The government has accused Beran of trying to wreck national peace and economy and has threatened to take legal action against him.

Some laymen who signed the statements told their priests they did so in fear of losing their jobs and dwellings.

One informed diplomatic source expressed belief the archbishop soon might be formally arrested on charges of anti-state activity and incitement to unrest.

Czechoslovakia's Communist government Tuesday night accused Beran and other church officials of attempting to disrupt the peace of the country and thwart fulfillment of its economic plans.

The premier did not say what steps are planned against Beran. It could mean his former arrest and trial unless he backs down—something he said he will never do. The Red-dominated press has hinted that such action may be taken. It said the Roman Catholic Church was guilty of terrorist tactics which are against the law and punishable."

Death Toll In Jap Typhoon Now 137; 1,086 Missing

TOKYO, June 22—(AP)—The Welfare Ministry today counted 137 dead and 1,086 missing in the furious typhoon which swept southern Japan. Figures differed on the death toll, however. Police said 93 perished. Property and shipping damage was millions of dollars.

Included in the missing were 131 Japanese who may have died when the vessel Aboa Maru foundered off the southern Honshu coast. An American and a Japanese were rescued from the ship. The others were feared lost.

Most of the missing are fishermen in the Bungo Strait between Kyushu and Shikoku, both large southern islands.

The Japanese Marine Safety Board listed 161 fishing boats sunk and 678 wooden fishing boats missing.

The largest vessels in trouble were the 2,500-ton freighter Koei Maru, aground off Fukuoka on the west coast of Kyushu, and the 2,000-ton Kize Kawa Maru grounded on rocks near Karatsu on the southern Kyushu coast. All the crew of the Koei Maru were ashore.

Reports to the welfare ministry indicated approximately 2,000 homes were destroyed and 4,000 damaged severely by winds that reached 93 miles an hour.

Fatally Wounded

SUDBURY, June 22 (CP). — Albert Shorland, 18, of Clyde, Mich., was fatally wounded on Tuesday night when a .32 pistol is reported to have discharged while he was examining it. The youth was visiting friends at Estaire, 30 miles south of here.

2 Badly Burned In Launch Blast

PICTON, Ont., June 22—(CP) — A Montreal couple, James Shepherd and his wife, were seriously burned today when their launch exploded and caught fire on the St. Lawrence river, spraying them with gasoline.

Mrs. Shepherd, a non-swimmer, jumped overboard when her clothing caught fire. Her husband managed to get an air-filled mattress over the side and dragged her and the family dog to safety on the mattress. They were picked up by John Hegadorn of nearby Bath who went to their aid in a motorboat.

Police said the boat sank shortly after the fire broke out.

The Shepherds were on their way back to Montreal from the funeral of Mr. Shepherd's father in Belleville a few days ago when the accident occurred.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., June 22 (CP)—Frank Stupic, 25, was crushed to death in a rock slide at the Teck-Hughes gold mine here Tuesday night. It is believed Stupic died while on a last-minute inspection tour of the mine's main shaft.

It was the third mine mishap here within a week. Last Wednesday, Valentine Bellon was killed at the Toburn mine. Like Stupic Bellon was crushed to death in a rock slide. Also last Wednesday, Harry Rushton was injured when a piece of heavy equipment fell on him at the Kirkland Lake gold mine. He lost his left arm.

Canadians' Total Savings Climb Past Billion Mark

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

MINAKI, Ont., June 22—(CP) —The future holds much promise for Canadians who have faith in their country, Gerald G. Ryan of Montreal said today in his presidential address to the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

He said "judicious risk-taking and an adequate supply of venture capital, arising as much as possible within our own borders, are essential to Canada's economic progress."

Statistics show that the personal savings of Canadians aggregate vast sums in years of prosperity, Mr. Ryan said.

"The indicated total of savings for 1946, 1947 and 1948 amounted to $961,000,000, $650,000,000 and $1,146,000,000 respectively. A high proportion of these savings is paid to insurance companies under life insurance and endowment policies, annuity contracts and kindred benefits."

He said that "if these savings are to be put to their best use, a broadening of the field of institutional investment and in particular a more extensive investment in promising common stocks of Canadian corporations are essential."

"A larger participation by insurance companies in the development of commerce and industry is required in the national interest and should, it seems to me, be feasible within the bounds imposed by present legislation."

Mr. Ryan stressed the large amount of capital expenditures that are taking place.

"During 1948, capital expenditures by Canadian business (including agriculture) governments and institutions excluding the cost of repairs and maintenance, amounted to slightly more than $3,000,000,000. The survey of 1949 forecasts an all-time high of capital investment estimated at almost $3,300,000,000."

Expenditures by business undertakings alone, excluding housing and government-owned corporations, Mr. Ryan continued, will amount to $4,600,000,000 in thethree years 1947-49.

"Investment of this magnitude points to a boldness of leadership in business which contrasts oddly with the lack of enthusiasm reflected in the low levels currently obtaining on the stock exchange.

"We hear the fear expressed frequently that the present prosperity cannot last. This is quite true. Obviously it cannot go on forever and certainly cannot continue in its present pattern for more than a few years at the very most, if that.

Determined To Remain On Strike

Freight Trains Will Move Again By Friday Night

BERLIN, June 22—(AP) — The Western Berlin railway strikers decided tonight to restore interzonal freight movements to normal without calling off their walkout. The union announced that workmen would report to the West Berlin marshalling yards tomorrow morning to make the technical preparations for untangling the chaos brought by the five-week strike.

By Friday trains from West Germany to Berlin will be moving through the yards and toward the unloading stations, the union said.

Earlier leaders of the strike voted to reject the latest proposal to end their walkout and drew a stern admonition from an American official.

"It's time they start considering what's best for Berlin, not purely for their union," said W. T Babcock, United States deputy commandant in Berlin.

The leaders said at a press conference they intenwded to carry out the wish of the big four foreign ministers to restore Berlin's rail supply lines to normal but that they would continue the strike.

This means, a spokesman said, that the city's elevated passenger train service will remain stalled.

Widow Of Byng Dies In England

THORNE-LE-SOKEN, Essex, England, June 21 (CP)—Viscountess Byng of Vimy, 78, widow of the former Canadian Governor-General, died Monday at Thorpe Hall, her home here, it was announced Tuesday night.

Viscount Byng, Canada's Governor-General from 1921 to 1926, died in 1935.

Lady Byng's funeral will be held Friday.

On a visit to Canada in 1940 she donated a Spitfire fighter plane in memory of her husband. She stipulated that it be flown by a Canadian.

In 1928, Lady Byng inherited £500,000 ($2,000,000) from an uncle, Pandeli Ralli, a Greek merchant in London who was a close friend of Edward VII.

Her father, Sir Richard Moretown, was Queen Victoria's master of ceremonies.

Lady Byng was an author of some note. Her best-known novel was Anne of the Marshes, published in 1913. In recent years she wrote a book about her life with her soldier-husband who led the Canadian forces in the capture of Vimy Ridge during the First World War.

Before her marriage, during the Boer War, Lady Byng was a popular and strikingly-beautiful figure in London society. Her home, Thorpe Hall, is noted for its fine gardens, including some plants brought from Canada.

Refuse To Repatriate Japs From Satellites

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP) — The New York Times says today in a Tokyo dispatch that Russia accepts no responsibility for the repatriation of Japanese prisoners held in Russian satellite territories.

Recently the Soviet Union asserted that repatriation of Japanese prisoners would be completed this year with the return of 95,000 Japanese. The Japanese have insisted that more than 400,000 civilian and war prisoners still are being held.

Truck Kills Child

SUDBURY, June 22 (CP). — Lona Henry, 2, was killed Tuesday when run over by an ice truck near her home in suburban Minnow Lake. Witnesses said she was sitting on a rock when the truck backed over her. The driver, identified by police as Calvin Lacroix, did not hear a shouted warning from a nearby workman to stop.

Visit Lengthened

ST. CATHARINES, June 22—(CP)—A man who went to police station today to visit the prisoners may be staying. He will serve a one-month sentence with one of the drunks he came to see —unless he can scrape together $39. That was the verdict of Magistrate H. D. Hallett after he had been told that the man tried to pass a bottle of wine through the cell bars to a prisoner.

47 Union Men Accused Of Violent Acts

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., June 22—(AP) — Twenty-five persons were arraigned today in police court for alleged acts of violence stemming from the National Carbon Company strike.

This brought to 47 the total of arrests since the strike began at the company's three plants May 8. Forty-five of them occurred since about 100 of the 950 workers who were made idle, returned to work Monday.

Lewis W. Schram, a member of negotiating committee of the striking United Chemical Workers (CIO), provided bail of $50 for each of the 22 defendants appearing today. All were arrested on warrants alleging assault or disorderly conduct.

The other three defendants, arrested on similar warrants obtained by union members, were held in lieu of bail.

The series of arrests followed complaints of such acts of violence as smashing of windows at the homes of some employees, overturning of an automobile carrying four workers and fist fights.

A union spokesman said the issues involved in the strike included a union shop, provision for re-opening wage negotiations next month and plans for insurance, hospital treatment, medical and surgical care and pensions.

50 Negro Boys Beaten By Whites In Park

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—(AP).—Between 200 and 250 white boys clubbed Negro boys in a North St. Louis park yesterday — the first day after the city administration ordered park playgrounds and pools opened to both Negroes and whites.

Mayor Joseph M. Darst immediately rescinded the order banning segregation. Police said they ordered all boys found with clubs out of the park and escorted about 50 Negro youths several blocks from the park.

The Negro boys and about five times as many white boys swam together for 45 minutes in the park's swimming pool. The trouble started when some of the Negro boys left the pool. A group of white youths struck at them with ball bats and sticks.

Award Contract For First Of Three Vessels For Anti-Submarine Work

Montreal Firm To Start Work Immediately On Preparation of Drawings; Three Shipyards To Share Construction Work

OTTAWA, June 22—(CP)—The first step in a program of building fast new escort vessels for anti-submarine work was announced by the Navy today. A contract has been left to Canadian Vickers Limited of Montreal to start work immediately on preparation of detailed working drawings of the hull structure for the first three of the ships.

It is hoped the first keels will be laid down in Canadian yards by the end of the year or early in 1950. The ships are classed as major war vessels and, as such, are the first to be completely designed and built in Canada, the announcement said.

It was understood no decision has been made as to the number Canada will eventually build. The first three are in the nature of "pilot" or experimental vessels.

Once the working drawings are complete, contracts will be awarded to three different Canadian shipyards.

Although much assistance has been received from the Royal Navy and the United States Navy in designing the vessels, the ships will be "entirely of Canadian design throughout and their manufacture will be carried out in Canada with Canadian personnel and resources," the navy said.

It added that this was the first instance in which the RCN and the Canadian shipbuilding industry have worked as a team to produce "a good, practical warship of Canadian design."

First Anywhere

"While specific details of the ships cannot be disclosed for reasons of security, they are designed primarily for the detection and destruction of modern fast submarines. They will be the first to be built anywhere to meet the new requirements."

The new vessels will function as did the frigates and corvettes of the Second World War and their design has been worked out so that in an emergency they coud be produced rapidly and in quantity. However, the Navy said, the comparison ends there.

"In speed, manoeuvreability, weapons and habitability the new ships of the RCN will fulfill all the requirements of their class for modern sea warfare."

iWth steel hulls and aluminum superstructures and bridges, the escort vessels will be driven by steam turbines and twin screws at a speed "considerably in excess" of the frigate. They will accommodate a crew of more than 250 with separate sleeping and dining quarters and air conditioning in dining spaces and the principal operating positions.

While the actual size of the new vessels was not disclosed, the fact that they will carry more than 250 officers and ratings indicated they may be about the size of a small destroyer.

Another Manpower Crisis Feared In UK Coal Trade

LONDON, June 22 — (CP)— Britain is wondering what to do about an old problem—how to lure more men into the mines.

With the black winter of 1947 still a sobering memory, government leaders face new trouble. Arthur Horner, general secretary of the National Union of Mineworkers, has said that manpower in the mines is wearing thin and the country may not be able to reach its 1949 production target.

"It is my duty to warn the country of another manpower crisis looming up," Horner said last Sunday in a speech at Aberfan, Wales. "This spells another coal crisis unless it is resolutely tackled."

Elaborating, Horner said in an interview with The Canadian Press that this is the situation: Britain needs a minimum of 216,000,000 tons of coal this year—198,000,000 tons to maintain employment at home and 18,000,000 for export. The government and the union have agreed that 735,000 miners are needed to produce that much coal.

But manpower at the end of May was only 723,000 and the figure is falling weekly. Manpower was built up after the war by recruiting former service men and displaced persons. These sources have dried up and the mines must rely on youth. Only 15,000 to 20,000 young miners are expected to enter the industry this year, the annual wastage is about 65,000.

Horner has two suggestions: (1) Repeal the "tied miner" system and (2) make the industry more attractive by increasing wages of lower-paid men and providing two weeks' holiday with pay. The men now receive one week and six intermittent days.

Under the "tied" system, men may not leave the industry without permission. If this were abolished, it probably would result in the immediate loss of about 20,000 miners, but Horner says the loss would be offset by a new sense of freedom in the pits. Labor Minister Isaacs is understood to be considering repeal of the order.

Horner's claim that the industry needs further reforms may be countered by the National Coal Board, administrator of Britain's 1,500 collieries. Sir Eric Young, production member of the board said this month that the board was unable to grant more concessions to the miners.

Labor Demands Louder Voice In Industries

LONDON, 22 (AP)—The powerful Trades Union Congress, 8,000,000-member backbone of Britain's Labor movement, complained today that workers are not getting a loud enough voice in notionalized industries.

The TUC heard a report at its monthly meeting that "several unions have noted weaknesses in the consultative machinery" by which workers get a voice in operation of industries taken over by the Labor government.

The TUC agreed to tell the Labor cabinet that the problem "at both the national and local level" is to make sure the consultative machinery gives the working man a voice in the business, and "is not used merely to convey information."

Gavin Martin, general secretary of the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, meanwhile, told a union conference at Scarborough "our members must be convinced that as a nation we are pursuing a policy capable of giving us economic independence and higher living standards."

Jack Tanner, president of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, told the meeting "workers will have to transfer and take jobs where their services are needed" if Britain is to have the Labor flexibility necessary to meet its production problems.

Building trade workers at a conference in Porthcawl, Wales, made an appeal for more wages. "We believe we are entitled to an increase of wages," said Union leader Leo McGree. "Bearing in mind the cost of living, it will not cause inflation."

Post Office workers at Blackpool decided to make an immediate demand for "at least 15 shillings ($3) a week" for their 40,000 union members.

The necessary steps in the matter were being taken by all three services, he said.

He also announced that the government had decided to appoint an over-all commander of British forces at Hong Kong to direct army, air and naval units assigned to the defence of the colony.

3 Missing On Lake In Cruiser Rescued

ST. THOMAS, June 22.—(CP). —Three Cleveland men missing on Lake Erie for two days aboard their 21-foot cabin cruiser, were towed to Port Burwell, 20 miles southeast of here, by the tug Hercules yesterday. They had been the object of a widespread search.

Capt. Ace Bartlett, skipper of the tug, said he saw the cruiser flying a white flag and went to the rescue.

The men—Clarence T. Mraz, 35; Bert T. Scanlon, 24, and John Kikos Jr., 22—said they ran out of gasoline shortly after leaving Cleveland and were blown in a northeasterly direction. They suffered no ill effects.

Ship Strikes Mine, Five Killed

Five Crew Members Injured; 269 On Board

DUNKERQUE, June 22 (AP) — Harbor police said last night five members of the crew were killed when the Belgian Channel ship, Princess Astrid, struck a mine and sank. There were 218 passengers and 51 crew members aboard.

Five other members of the crew were injured by steam pouring from the engine room, when the mine tore a hole in the ship's underside. A seaman fighting to rescue passengers had his leg crushed.

US Maj.-Gen. John Hilldring, who escaped unhurt, told a reporter: "I was in the dining room when the explosion threw me into the air. Everyone behaved calmly. There was no disorder. Passengers stood by the rails, looking at the water to see how fast the ship was going down."

The 2,950-ton ship settled on a sand bar and did not go completely from sight.

Rush To Aid

Small lighter ships rushed to the rescue along with the Cap Hadis, another Channel ship, which brought the first survivors here.

The Princess Astrid, owned by the Belgian Government, was making its regular run between the Belgian port of Ostend and Dover. The ship was a fairly large one with salons, a comfortable dining room and bar.

Channel crossings usually take about three hours. The Princess Astrid was only four miles off Dunkerque when the explosion rocked it from stem to stern.

Apartment Rent Starts To Drop

MONTREAL, June 22—(CP) — The first break in the Montreal housing situation became apparent yesterday with annonucement from Suburban Enterprises Inc., of reduction in rents of high-priced apartments in its 1,100-apartment Norgate development. Rent reductions are retroactive to the date when all current leases were signed.

Those affected are five-room apartments which drop from $96 monthly to $85 and upper-story, 4½-room apartments, which now are priced at $77.50 instead of $85. Rentals for heated garages have been reduced from $12.50 to $7.50 monthly.

Upwards of 20 families have already moved into the Ville St. Laurent development which is under private management, but made possible through co-operation of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Suburban Enterprises said the development now has advanced to the stage where guesswork can be removed from cost estimates and added this was the reason it was possible to reduce rentals.

Pearson Says Tories 'On The Run'

By The Canadian Press

L. B. (Mike) Pearson, the former Canadian ambassador to Washington who became minister of external affairs, says the Progressive-Conservatives are "on the run" in the campaign for Canada's June 27 federal election.

"Let's keep them that way," he told a Liberal rally held in Toronto Tuesday night for Prime Minister St. Laurent as the quickening campaign, now five days away, approached the middle of its final week.

While Mr. St. Laurent campaigned in English-speaking Ontario, Progressive - Conservative Leader George Drew moved through French-speaking Quebec with speeches in a half-dozen rural Quebec towns.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, spoke by air from Edmonton while M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, opened his campaign in his hometown Saskatchewan constituency of Rosetown-Biggar.

Mr. St. Laurent pitched into Mr. Drew for his "violent and indiscriminate" charges against those who disagree with him politically, accusing the Progressive-Conservative leader of "repeated efforts to stir up political controversy about the details of our defence organization."

He said Mr. Drew is conducting his campaign "in a way that does not strengthen" Canada's democratic system. "To judge from his public utterances," said Mr. St. Laurent, "he seems incapable of believing a good many people can hold a different view than his and still be honest and sincere."

"No one who ventures to disagree with him is likely to escape violent and indiscriminate attacks."

No National Unity

Mr. Drew, speaking at Granby, Que., said there can be no national unity in Canada while Mr. St. Laurent is prime minister. There was no chance of national unity as long as Mr. St. Laurent goes around the country describing Premier Duplessis as he does.

Reviewing co-operation between Quebec and Ontario while he was premier of the English-speaking province, Mr. Drew said he is sure that as leader of a federal government he will be able to co-operate with Mr. Duplessis.

Mr. Low repeated his warning of an impending depression and said that it can be averted only by Social Credit monetary reforms. Surplus goods were already beginning to back up on warehouse shelves as a "ringing condemnation of the financial and economic policy that allows it."

Mr. Coldwell, at Central Butte, Sask., predicted the Chicago grain exchange eventually will follow the Winnipeg grain exchange into oblivion and said the days of gambling in food products is ended. Only then would producers and consumers get a fair deal in good prices and returns.

Mr. Drew today carried his election campaign into Montreal after a swing through Quebec's Eastern Townships where he made provincial autonomy the keynote of his addresses. He is scheduled to visit high officials of the church, newspaper offices and the City Hall, where he probably will be received by Mayor Camillien Houde. Mayor Houde is supporting Mr. Drew, although running on an independent ticket in the new riding of Papineau where the Progressive-Conservatives also have entered a candidate.

In the afternoon, Mr. Drew will stop at a highway restaurant to speak to the employees of Canadair Limited, an aircraft plant whose purchase by United States interests he has criticized.

At Farnham, he said people were being told that, as Premier of Ontario, he had co-operated too closely with Premier Duplessis; that Ontario and Quebec had blocked health and social security programs by refusing to sign a taxation agreement with the federal government during the 1945-46 Dominion - Provincial conference.

The Sherbrooke meeting, where Mr. Drew spoke in support of Redmond Hayes, the party candidate for the riding, was attended by two Quebec Government Cabinet members, Lands Minister Bourque and Hon. Patrice Tardif, Minister without Portfolio. Both called for the support of Mr. Drew.

Mr. St. Laurent said that Drew is conducting his federal election campaign "in a way that does not strengthen our democratic system."

Big Crowd

Mr. St. Laurent, in his only campaign appearance in Toronto, spoke before a crowd in Maple Leaf Gardens which Liberal officials estimated at 13,500.

Of the defence organization, Mr. St. Laurent said: "I'm not going to say it's perfect. But I doubt if any country has had peacetime forces with higher morale or greater efficiency or better spirit than our Canadian forces in 1949."

Trade Minister Howe, introducing Mr. St. Laurent, said there could be "nothing further from the truth" than statements that Canada is losing her foreign trade markets. He warned that it "is possible for us to talk ourselves into a depression" and expressed regret that opposition parties "find it necessary to fight their elections by predicting economic disaster."

Rain Provides Some Relief

TORONTO, June 22 — (CP) — Though scattered thundershowers brought some relief to drought-stricken farms and pastures Tuesday, Southern Ontario faced the prospect of no further rainfall today or tomorrow. Weather forecasters said it would be clear and cooler today, warming up tomorrow.

Heat-plagued residents were relieved by at least 10-degree cooler weather, but heavy rainfall for crops still was needed. Temperatures were expected to range in the middle 80s throughout most of Ontario.

In the Toronto area Tuesday night the first rainfall of any note in three weeks was spotty. In Hamilton, also, the first fall of rain in six weeks sent residents scurrying for shelter, but nearby farms got only a sprinkling.

In Bruce, Dufferin and Grey counties, and along a stretch of the Lake Simcoe county, slight rainfalls were recorded. While in Halton and Peel Counties the land still was dry. Light showers fell in Waterloo and Wellington.

Generally, northern and eastern Ontario and the extreme southwest fared better than central sections. Eastern Ontario farmers from Ottawa to North Bay Tuesday welcomed two cloudbursts yielding 1.32 inches of rain.

In many urban and suburban areas of Southern Ontario water shortages are resulting in rigid enforcement of by-laws prohibiting use of garden hoses Officials say at least three to four days' rain is needed

Journal Drops Morning Issue

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP) — The Ottawa Journal will publish its last morning edition July 2 and concentrate on the evening-paper field. The morning edition, with a circulation of more than 11,000, has been published since 1917.

A 200-word announcement, published on the front page of today's edition, said that 32 years ago it "seemed a duty to the community" to publish both morning and evening editions. "Times have changed. Ottawa has been the only Canadian city with two morning papers. The demand is for evening papers."

The shift will leave the capital with one morning and three evening papers. Only morning paper will be the Ottawa Citizen, morning edition of the Evening Citizen, a Southam newspaper. The other evening papers will be the Evening Journal and the French-language newspaper, Le Droit. The Journal was founded as an evening paper in 1885.

There was no indication in the announcement about the future of the journal staff, but it is understood the employees will be absorbed by the evening paper.

The paper was sold last February by P. D. Ross—who bought a half interest in it for $4,000 in 1886—to a group of senior associates.

"General economic conditions, grown increasingly difficult, have indicated to all industry the imperative need for removing duplications that mean higher costs, lower quality," the announcement said. "We are doing so. . ."

Company officials wrote to Clifford Darling of 21 Otonabee Road, Peterborough, asking him to confirm that their driver stopped and helped him change a flat tire. It was necessary for the record so a bonus could be paid.

The Conservative party takes Peterborough for granted. It always expects Peterborough to be a safe Tory seat, though the Conservatives have done little enough for Peterborough.

Do you like to be taken for granted?

The Conservatives think: "Our people always vote for our man. The rest — the factory workers, labour people and that crowd — won't take the trouble to vote. We can win easily."

They are right: they can win easily IF YOU DON'T VOTE.

But if you do vote, in your thousands, you will give them the surprise of their lives. They take you for granted. Let's wake them up!

Vote for me on June 27 and get Peterborough out from behind the political eight-ball!

Way Stockings Worn Said Character Test

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (AP)—Out here the silly season gets sillier as the weather grows hotter. So it's not surprising to find a top fashion designer telling men to judge their girls by their stockings.

Here's Mary Kay Dodson who says: "If you are thinking of marrying the gal, look at her legs. The way she wears her stockings reveals a lot more than just her legs."

Miss Dodson denies she has become hose-happy. She claims her method of character analysis is foolproof after years of observation. Here's how it works:

1. Wrinkled stockings are worn by women who have unorganized lives. She will wear curlers in public and serve dinner a half-hour late.

2. Straight seams denote efficiency. She'll make a wonderful wife for a man who admires brains as well as beauty. But she may be exacting and demand that he pick up his clothes.

3. Seamless stocking are worn by girls who like to fool men. Good mate: A man who can keep her guessing.

Mark Of Nagger

4. The zig-zag seam belongs to the nagger. Even though she slaved all afternoon over a hot bridge table, she'll claim she's overworked. She requires a patient man.

5. The girl who wears her stockings too short pouts when you catch her flirting with other men. Watch her temper, especially in the morning.

6. The girl who wears her heels under thinks women's lot is a poor one. This gal needs sympathy and understanding.

7. The girl with an obviously mended run is a sloppy Jane. She'll scrape burnt toast all over the sink and never fold the newspaper back up.

8. The girl who wears mismated stocking is out of step with everything. Better stay a bachelor, boy!

Gordon Fraser Represented Peterborough West 10 Years

Gordon Knapman Fraser, Progressive-Conservative candidate for Peterborough West in the June 27 Dominion election, has represented this riding in the last two Parliaments. He was first elected to the House of Commons at the General Election of 1940 and was re-elected at the general Election of June 11, 1945.

He has achieved the reputation of being one of the most energetic members of the House, having devoted himself indefatigably to solving the problems of his constituents, whatever their political label. Growing out of this, he has become known also as one of the most prolific question askers in Parliament.

Mr. Fraser has been a member, ever since he entered the House, of three of its most important committees, External Affairs, Banking and Commerce, and Public Accounts.

The P. C. standbearer, in addition to his duties as a Federal member, has found time through the years to make a large contribution to many community activities, such as tourist promotion, social welfare and the Masonic Order.

Born in Hamilton

Mr. Frased was born at Hamilton, Ontario, March 6, 1891, a son of Robert Squair Fraser and Elizabeth Ann Fraser. His father is of Scotch descent and his mother of English stock.

He was educated at Highfield School, Hamilton Collegiate, and Hamilton Art School. He was married on December 2, 1914, and he and Mrs. Fraser have three children, June Noel Tuckett, Phyllis Noreen McNeil, and Gordon Kaye.

Mr. Fraser is an Honorary President and life member of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society, president of East Centre Progressive-Conservative Association (which takes in Victoria, Haliburton, Durham, Northumberland, and Peterborough counties), member of the executive of the Ontario Progressive-Conservative Association, member of the Board of Governors of Lakefield Preparatory School, life member of the Scottish Rite Club, Hamilton; life member of Barton Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Hamilton; member of Moore Preceptory No. 13, Knights Templar, Peterborough; and member of Clementi Lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Lakefield.

At the last two conventions of both the Ontario and Dominion Progressive - Conservative Associations Mr. Fraser took a prominent part, being chairman of the Credentials Committee of the former and Chairman of the Credentials Committe for Ontario at the latter.

Mr. Fraser is a member of the following clubs: — Peterborough Curling, Peterborough Golf and Country, Kawartha Golf and Country, Kiwanis, and Peterborough Cricket Club (Honorary Vice-President).

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and resides at Burleigh Falls.

Among subjects in which Mr. Fraser has taken a keen interest as a Member of Parliament are: veterans' affairs (particularly housing), agriculture, trans-Canada Highway, exports and imports, taxation, national health program, the shortages of cement, fuel oil, and nails, Unemployment Insurance Act, and pensions for the blind.

Mr. Fraser was president of the first tourist association to be formed in Peterborough, the Trent Waterway Development Association, which was formed in 1920. This organization functioned until 1926, when it was absorbed by the Ontario Department of Publicity.

Highway Minister Stresses Safety

A personal message from Highways Minister George Doucett to Ontario's 700,000 school children, stressing the danger of traffic accidents and the need for greater care during summer vacation, will mark this year's school safety campaign by the Ontario Government.

The special child safety drive, conducted by the departments of highways and education, is timed for the closing of schools throughout the province.

A bulletin has been sent by teachers, principals and inspectors, containing suggestions about how the campaign should be carried out. Summer safety should be stressed on the last day of school, it points out.

Mr. Doucett's message consists of a short letter, an illustrated chart showing how 68 children of school age were killed in 1948, and a miniature safety poster to be hung up at home.

Liberals Hold Dance In Havelock Hall

HAVELOCK, June 22 (ENS)—A "Get Acquainted" dance was held in the town hall Tuesday in the interest of J. W. (Duke) Munro, the Liberal candidate for the Hastings-Peterborough riding in the forthcoming Dominion election. There was a large attendance.

This riding had been politically dead at Ottawa for the past nine years, Mr. Munro said. It was high time it received a shot in the arm.

Mr. Munro appealed especially to the youth of the riding to take cognizance of their responsibilities as citizens of this country. "I want to put this riding on the map and I will if you give me the chance," he concluded.

200 Fairmount People At Strawberry Tea

A play entitled "The Meddlesome Maid" presented by Bethel YPU in the church followed the tea party.

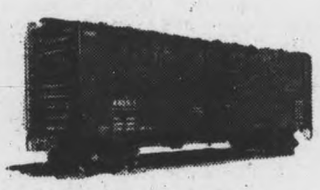
CANADA NEEDS HEALTHY RAILWAYS TO SERVE HER PEOPLE



Canada's Railways mean EMPLOYMENT for over 190,000 Canadians

It takes skilled manpower and lots of it to keep the railways rolling . . . to move passengers and freight (145 million tons of it last year!) . . . to carry the essentials of life and work to every community. So it's not surprising that the railways are among Canada's biggest employers. Last year their payroll totalled $544,000,000.

Then, too, the railways are heavy buyers of so many things, from paper cups to locomotives. Their continued power to employ and to buy is therefore linked with the welfare of countless thousands of other Canadians doing all sorts of jobs in all parts of Canada. The fact is . . .

THE RAILWAYS ARE CANADA'S BIGGEST BUYERS

This advertisement is one of a series pointing out the railways' key place in Canada's economy. As Canada's largest builders of railway rolling stock and equipment, this company and its employees are directly concerned with the railway industry. Canadian Car & Foundry's eight modern plants turn out thousands of railway cars of every type, both passenger and freight. They are fully equipped to supply Canada's railways with rolling stock of the latest type to meet the growing needs of our expanding economy.

Last year they bought well over 400 million dollars' worth of goods, most of which were grown, mined and manufactured in Canada.

FUEL—For fuel alone, the railways spent $113,000,000. They are Canada's largest fuel users. Fuel is one of the largest single items purchased.

STEEL — They spent $21,000,000 for rail and track fastenings. There are 13,000 railway spikes in one mile of track; and the railways operate close to 50,000 miles of track.

WOOD PRODUCTS

There are 3,000 wooden ties to every mile of track. Last year for wood products, including ties, the railways spent nearly 30 million dollars.

The railways also spent other millions for rolling stock of all types; for paper products, tickets, timetables, booklets, stationery; for food, textiles and a host of other products.

Adding taxes, duty, insurance, interest charges and other items, the railways spend close to one billion dollars a year.

Halifax Bicentenary

Yesterday the Peterborough Post Office put on sale a special four-cent mauve stamp, showing the King's men in scarlet (mauve, of course, on the stamp) building the English garrison town of Halifax in 1749. Yesterday Haligonians began an all-summer celebration of the bicentenary of their city with a huge parade, a 21-gun salute and the greetings and good wishes of all other Canadians.

• • •

Halifax was the first British city established in Canada. In 1749, ten years before the capture of Quebec and not long after Acadia was securely wrested from the French to become Nova Scotia, the Honourable Edward Cornwallis and a bold company of 2,600 established Halifax as a British bastion of sea and land. Halifax became the site of Canada's first English newspaper, its first public school, its first Protestant church. Nine years after the city's foundation the beginnings of representative government were made when Nova Scotia's General Assembly was inaugurated.

• • •

Not even Quebec can surpass in colour, excitement and interest the history of Halifax. From its harbour gates have gone ships and sailors to the seven seas in quest of trade, adventure and booty. Through it have passed in tens of thousands the men whom Canada has sent overseas to fight for King and Country. From its schools and colleges, warehouses and counting-houses have gone men to all parts of Canada and to foreign countries to rise to eminence in the law, in commerce, in finance, in literature, in government. The city is and has ever been a violent blend of cautious, moral Scotians and tough, reckless and flamboyant bucks; of men with their feet on the ground and others with their feet on the decks. Royal Dukes have lived lustily there; firm and prim ladies have tut-tutted over tea-cups. It has known prosperity; it has known devastation.

• • •

No matter how colourful and splendid the pageants celebrating the bicentenary in the next several weeks, none can be as vivid and splendid as Halifax herself during her first two hundred years.

Sniping At Israel's Peace

Not so many weeks ago the papers were full of unsettling news about Palestine. The news died down with the fighting, and peace exists in the area now, a peace precariously founded only on armistices between Israel and all her neighbours excepting Syria. For the past seven weeks delegates from Israel and the four bordering states of Egypt, Transjordan, Lebanon and Syria have been attending a conference in Lausanne, Switzerland, in an attempt to translate the armistices into formal peace. The U.N. Palestine Conciliation Commission, whose members are French, Turkish and American, is overseeing the talks. Britain and the U.S.A. are sharply interested observers, for they have important economic and strategic commitments in the Middle East, and are deeply concerned for stability there.

Little information about the progress of the talks has been given out. It is apparent, however, that little progress is being made. There is no talk around a conference table; in fact, the Arabs will not even speak to the Jewish representatives. It is reported that anything the Arabs wish to communicate to the Israelis, or vice versa, goes through the U.N. Conciliation Commission. Neither the Arabs, nor the Jews are maintaining a polite fiction of friendly enmity. Some of the Arabs may wish to make concessions, but dare not relax from the pledged attitude of "Arab unity". All the Arab representatives are living in the same hotel, so each keeps tab on the other.

The main preliminary obstacle seems to be the disposition of Arab refugees, who fled Israel during the successful Jewish military campaign early in the year. The Israelis will take limited numbers back on conditions. The Arabs want to send more back on their conditions. The recent sniping along the Israel-Trans-Jordan border may impress upon the U.N. overseers of the talks, if not upon the Arabs and Israelis at Lausanne, the necessity for a little more genuine conferring and some early, workable peace treaty.

The Sun Worshippers

Every summer great numbers of people devote many of their leisure hours to gaining a coat of tan. Some of them are so unwise as to expose themselves to the sun for too long, and are severely burned; they are lucky if they escape with tenderness and peeling; they may easily suffer sunstroke and nausea, and be confined to bed for a few days. The best way to get a tan is to take short sunbaths during the early spring; then, when the sun's rays become powerful, the foundation of a tan has been laid and danger from sunstroke is less acute. It may be said, however, that it is always unwise to play or work in the sun for any length of time without some sort of hat.

A tan is often becoming, but a great many people appear to think that it is healthy, as well. They seem to believe that the benefits of sunlight can be stored up, and that a good tan in the summer is a protection against colds and coughs in winter. There is no foundation for this belief. It may be said, however, that sunbathers are usually resting quietly; theirs is the least strenuous of hobbies. Quiet rest is good for most people, and probably the benefits which they attribute to the sunlight really spring from this source.

It may be added also that the exposure of the body which sunbathing calls for is healthy. Men, in particular, wear stuffy clothes for a great part of the year, and it is good for them to take off most of their clothes and let the air get at their bodies. The real value of sunbathing lies in fresh air and rest; the tan itself is aesthetically pleasing, but has no particular effect on health.

Teaching Children About Safety

We have been looking at an excellent little pamphlet which is being distributed in the schools of Ontario by the Ministry of Highways. It is in the form of a letter from the Hon. George Doucett, and it gives some good advice and some simple rules for safety on the highways. It also contains a picture-chart showing how many children were killed on the roads in 1948, and the causes of death. Some people may think that this is grim information to give to children. We feel that the grimness of the message will be justified by its effect.

Such good work as this will not achieve much, however, unless parents also impress upon their children the importance of common sense and safety. Parents who lead their children across the streets when the light is against them are not doing so, and this is a sight which can be seen in Peterborough many times a day.

"Squid Jiggin' Ground" And Others

It has been drawn to our attention that on April 1, when Newfoundland entered the Confederation, the carillon on the Parliament Buildings played a program of Newfoundland folk-songs, among them one with the attractive title "Squid Jiggin' Ground". We wish that we had heard it. A tune with such a name could not help but be entertaining.

Newfoundland has a fine repertoire of folk-songs. Some of them are English or Irish songs which were brought to the island by early settlers. Others appear to be indigenous to Newfoundland. A collection of these songs for which we have a particular admiration was published in two volumes several years ago, with accompaniments by Ralph Vaughan Williams, the most distinguished of living English composers.

These are treasures which Newfoundland has brought into the Confederation with her, and they are by no means the least part of her dowry. Let us hear them more often — "Squid Jiggin' Ground" and all.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It appears that 338 people are struck by lightning in the U.S.A. in the course of a year. Exclusive of politicians, who are continually thunderstruck.

A British scientist expresses a fear that machines will soon be able to outthink people. We must admit frankly that the adding machine in our office has out-thought us for years.

Note on Canada's Growth: Reports of sea-serpents used to come exclusively from Europe—chiefly from Scotland; now we have a report of one in Lake Ontario. We confidently assert that it will not be long before Peterborough has a sea-serpent of its own in Little Lake.

A London Letter

From CONRAD FROST

ADOLF Hitler is acquitted of all responsibility for the bomb that has devastated the Gloucestershire village of Falfield, near Bristol. Not long ago, young couples strolled through the pleasant and leafy lanes in this rich, green corner of Britain, and the thought of war and bombing was something remote in the mind. To-day the village of Falfield is a graveyard of rubble. The telephone wires tangle like spiders webs destroyed by a ruthless hand. The street lamps loll like drunkards. In the ruined houses there is much to bring a catch to the throat. The pram under the broken staircase. The damaged bath dangling over the edge of a shattered floor. A child's toy. A shrapnel shattered kettle in a kitchen laid open like a wound. The sober citizens of Bristol, making the fifteen mile pilgrimage to see Falfield, pray that the bomb which destroyed it may never fall in reality.

◇ ◇ ◇

FALFIELD is a new Civil Defence Training School. It has taken a Government force of 60 builders to create it. They constructed it from the rubble of blitzed houses, shops and churches in Bristol—where 19,500 people are still patiently waiting for real houses. Hollywood never did anything better. The Nazi pilots never did anything more macabre. And people ask, is this the shape of things to come?

◇ ◇ ◇

THE shape of things a little more imminent is at least becoming recognisable. It looks as if the election ahead wil be the most bitterly fought contest in Britain's political history. Socialist Herbert Morrison aims at a £400,000 fighting fund. That's not much to have in the sling against the Goliath of big business which will enter the battle not very subtly, but quite independently. Already the slogan appears on London buses: "Buy Yourself A Microscope And See Your Meat Ration". Political propaganda? Good heavens, no! Merely an advertisement by a maker of optical instruments!

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT it disturbs the Government, which is also wondering what to do about millions of leaflets sent through the post by the Football Pool Promoters to their clients. Millions who voted Labour last time are today reading an accusation that, by the Pools tax, their "harmless pastime" is being threatened by the Socialist Chancellor. "This is a direct challenge to the working man. . ." says the leaflet. The leaflet is a direct and daring challenge to the Labour Government.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT the architect of the immediate future is probably Jim Figgins. A delegate at the recent Socialist Conference, where the next election campaign was planned, supposedly said to Mr. Figgins: "Jim, you'll lose the next election for the party with this business"

"Don't blame me," said Mr. Figgins from six foot up.

The big, bland, blond Mr. Figgins isn't generally known outside the Railway Union of which he is boss. But he is the spanner that won't let the Nationalised railways work. He backs the claim for a wage rise, he opposes the Government view point.

◇ ◇ ◇

BRITISH Railways may yet railroad the Socialists into oblivion, and last week Jim Figgins qualified as man of the week. The rail deadlock is now so serious that amongst those briefed to handle a possible eventuality are Sir Frank Newsam, civil service head of the Home Office and responsible for the maintainance of order, and Mr. Strachey who would have to feed the nation if the rail network began to grow weeds.

◇ ◇ ◇

AND here's a pretty picture of 'Things to come', arrived a little prematurely. London's six Rowton Houses, lodging places for men on a 2/— a night basis, have all been equipped with £210 Television sets. So saucy, too, some TV shows!. . . . "Tricycles At Midnight" said the menu solemnly at the biggest post-war Sunday night masquerade in the West End. Producer Emile Littler threw the party at the rebuilt Cafe de Paris to celebrate two years of "Annie Get your Gun." Star Dolores Gray fooled everybody by arriving with her mother as black faced coon twins. Leicester Square promenaders gaped, but did not recognise her. Biggest private party for ten years, this. . .After a break of ten years, too, the Chimpanzees Tea Party comes back to the Zoo this week. Nine months training has gone before. . . Boyhood signatures of the King and the Duke of Windsor will be up for sale at Sotherby's next month. The Duke was 10, the King 8, when both signed a Christmas card sent to the Vicar of Sandringham, and the card is part of a collection to be auctioned. . .Representatives of 20,000 sweetshops will this week demand the reintroduction of rationing . . .! Tourist eye-catcher of the West End is the bombed Burton site, now an advertising space, in Piccadilly. Foreground for the big poster is London's neatest, most colourful little garden.

◇ ◇ ◇

MOST fashionable couturier is Clive Duncan, now busy making two in-the-news wedding gowns. First, of draped Angelskin in "Mushroom Bloom" is for Lady Elizabeth Lambart, July bride and one of Princess Elizabeth's bridesmaids. Second, a medieval white satin, is for film star Hazel Court.

Accent on fashion at Ascot is the slim skirt, mid calf length, with short, flying panels. Leading colours all shades of grey and navy. All hats are flowered.

One London store is now planning a Colour bar. Customers will go there from the gown salon to be advised upon and to select the right accessories.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT IS denied that the King will stay at the Duke of Windsor's Riviera residence, Chateau de la Crow, this summer. . .It is confirmed that there is a blue print to stage an annual Royal Air Review, R.A.F. equivalent to the Spithead Naval Review, probably beginning next summer. . . "Blonde Minx," Royal Academy choice as the year's most glamorous picture has been sold for £450. They say it was bought by actress Yolande Donlan, who posed for the picture.

SPY-ITIS

The Grizzly, The Wolf, And The Goat

By JEAN-PAUL BONCOUR

ONE day at Geneva some project or other was being discussed in Council about European security. As ever France was all for collective security. As ever England was a little reluctant, unwilling in her grave trustworthiness to accept undertakings which she was not certain of being able to carry out.

Titulesco was at the Council worrying it with his never-ending claims for his dear Romania and dazzling it with his fiery eloquence. He passed to Austen Chamberlian (half-brother of Neville) a little drawing. It showed a lion, the British Lion; a wolf, the German Wolf, and a little goat, Romania. Underneath was the caption: "I know the lion will eat the wolf; but will it be before or after the wolf has eaten the goat?"

Let us substitute for the lion the American grizzly of the Rockies whose feats against the trappers as recounted in "Travellers Tales" made me tremble in my childhood Let us substitute for the German wolf the great Russian wolf of the icy steppes and for the Romanian goat the French goat, today so small in camparison with the two colossal figures, Titulesco's question is almost the same as the one we ask.

We are well aware that in case of war, as our Foreign Minister Mr. Schuman has pointed out, the United States with its immense industrial reserves and its military preparations would win. But would it be before or after we had been invaded?

One of our papers claimed not long ago that Mr. Schuman said that if western Europe, and therefore France, were invaded it would take fifteen years to liberate her. That is a long time But if one says even several years it is certainly near the truth.

Several years of foreign domination! A shiver runs up the spine of those who live in countries which have already suffered it; a shiver our American friends should understand quickens the enthusiasm we feel for the Atlantic Pact.

If the declarations we hear from Generals Bradley and Clay are re-assuring, the rumors we hear about certain tendencies in Congress make us anxious. Is it possible that the American representatives who almost unanimously voted for the Pact, will withhold from Western Europe the means of applying it? It is possible that Western Europe is to wait before it receives the help necessary to rearm herself so she could, if ever necessary, hold out until American aid could arrive?

The Only Library Of Newspapers

By WALTER WOERING

VISITORS to London do not usually leave without having seen the British Museum, that imposing structure in Bloomsbury in the centre of the capital which contains so many unique treasures. But few of these visitors have heard of the British Museum Newspaper Library in Colindale, in the north of the city, which houses the national collection of newspapers, the only library in the world that contains nothing but newspapers and periodicals.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE origin of the collection goes back to the beginning of newspapers in Britain. According to the copyright laws of Britain publishers of newspapers are required to send a copy of each edition to the British Museum and it is at Colindale that these copies are stored. In 1932 the decision was taken to erect an additional building large enough to provide not only more suitable general accommodation but also reading, binding, and preservation facilities.

◇ ◇ ◇

TO those who are seriously interested, admission to the Newspaper Library at Colindale is free. Its 380,000 volumes of newspapers, increasing at the rate of 11,000 a year, contain copies of about 25,000 different newspapers and periodicals. In 1941 the original depository was hit by a German bomb, and about 30,000 bound volumes were destroyed. Saturation point has now almost been reached, and new buildings are being ereceted to receive current and future publications.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS section of the British Museum, is a paradise for the historian, who will find here printed records of all the principal events of the last 300 years. records that go back to the very first newspaper publications.

Newspapers made an early eppearance in Britain and weekly newsbooks were being published in 1622—while the first number of the Oxford Gazette which preceded the official government publication of today, the London Gazette, was printed in 1665. The Oxford Gazette was founded during the great Plague of London, which compelled the Court of Charles the Second to seek refuge in Oxford.

STILL older than the newspapers are the specifications of old patents, preserved complete since 1623, which are of major importance to students of technical development. Modern patents, however, are not kept at Colindale.

Although the London Times is not one of the oldest newspapers in Britain, no complete collection of its editions is preserved anywhere in the world. With the exception of the publishers' own collection the most comprehensive one is that preserved at Colindale. The collection of Irish newspapers of the 18th century, which includes, for example, a fine run of the Dublin Journal first published in 1725, is particularly valuable.

◇ ◇ ◇

FOR the early years of journalism in Britain comparatively little space is needed. The increasing shelf space required to hold the publications of any given year is a measure of the progressively growing size and number of the newspapers which reached their peak in the years 1937-39. But the amount of material contained in the collection is astonishing; every publication, from the most modest local newspaper to the Sunday paper with a circulation of three or four million copies, from the mouthpiece of the ice cream industry to the weekly periodical, "Mother and Child", is represented.

In addition to periodicals produced in Britain, the Colindale Library contains a fine collection of foreign newspapers. All parts of the Commonwealth, of course, are well represented. The collection of French periodicals goes back to 1632. Of German newspapers there are many sets.

IN Colindale they are very proud of the collection of newspapers and periodicals from the United States. The file of New York Tribune (now the Herald Tribune), founded in 1841, is almost complete, and the library also possesses many complete collections of Greek, Lithuanian, and Italian language newspapers published in the United States, some of which are no longer available in that country. But the greatest curiosity is probably the seven complete volumes containing all the numbers of the Cherokee Phoenix published in 1828-1834. This is the only newspaper ever printed in Cherokee characters, and most of the items are translations from the English.

◇ ◇ ◇

MANY of the regular visitors to the Colindale Library are members of foreign diplomatic missions in London. Other visitors are students and professors from all countries, seeking material for books, dissertations and theses, or lectures. Now and again people are seen turning ove the pages of ancient newspapers in the hope of finding an obituary notice that will enable them to claim the estate of some deceased relative.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Trustees of the British Museum are actively reorganizing the national collection of newspapers on a basis that will finally solve the two urgent problems of space and decay. In contrast to the very early newspaper, those printed on chemically treated paper as used in rotary-press printing are subject to rapid deterioration. Preventive measures adopted by the experts of the British Museum have included the use of an extremely thin protective layer that does not interfere with reading. But this process is both tedious and expensive, and it is now proposed to substitute for it the photographing of the entire collection, volume by volume and page by page, using for that purpose microfilm.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN this case visitors would no longer be under the necessity of wrestling with large and heavy volumes. The amount of space required for storing such films is comparatively small, and the films are also more resistant to processes of decay. Buildings suitable for carrying out this stupendous photographic operation, are already under construction, and the special modern high-speed microfilm cameras and processing equipment will be installed before the end of 1949.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

With my whole heart I sought thee: O let me not wander from thy commandments . . .

Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes. (Ps. 119: 10, 12.)

The way of the just is uprightness: thou, most upright, dost weigh the path of the just. Yea, in the way of thy judgements, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee.

With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early: for when thy judgements are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness. (Isa. 26: 7-9.)

◇ ◇ ◇

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works. (II Tim. 3: 16, 17.)

Cost Of A Kiss In Italy

An Italian schoolmaster on holiday in 1939 kissed his girl friend on a romantic moonlight drive along the Italian Riviera. A policeman popped up from behind a wall and fined him 10 lira; the schoolmaster refused to pay but gave his name and address.

Two months later he received two registered letters; one called him to the colours, the other was a summons to pay 20 lira for his osculatory offence. He ignored the summons and left for the war. A year later, reading his mail in a dug-out on the Albanian front, he found a summons to pay 150 lira. In Greece, months later, another summons asked for 660 lira. In September, 1943, as he was reading the news of the Italian Armistice, a summons caught up with him again; it was now for 1,100 lira. He might have paid then, but the Germans rounded him up and placed him in a concentration camp at Baden.

When war ended a tired and rather warworn man returned to his old job. The years went by and then, just as the New Year began, he received another summons, this time for 5,500 lira, to be paid within the next three days or incur the utmost penalties enjoined by the law. The schoolmaster paid up.

The affair has interested the Italian newspapers from the statistical point of view. What with inflation and the rise in the cost of living all prices in Italy are many times their pre-war level. But the statisticians point out that the cost of a kiss has outstripped them all, it has been increased by 5,490 per cent.—BBC Bulletin.

Everybody's Business

With the return of good weather serious thought must be given to what can be done to advance the tourist trade in this region. This is everybody's business. Last year American tourists spent 270 millions in Canada. It is established that of every dollar spent by the tourist, 25 cents went to retail stores, 22 cents to restaurants, 11 cents to hotels, two cents to garages, seven cents to transport services, five cents in refreshments and three cents for the purchase of souvenirs. Tourism benefits everybody and everybody should be interested in welcoming these visitors with all goodwill. For many years now one person in seven in Switzerland lives by tourism. In Canada this industry can bring a living to many Canadians if we know how to do our share to encourage it.

Silent Chimes

It is going to cost Mr. Bill Irwin, landlord of the Golden Fleece Hotel, Market-street, Brighton, £104 a year to enjoy a good night's sleep.

The clock has worried Bill, his wife, and hotel guests for seven years. Guests have even arrived one day and walked out the next.—London Daily Mail.

Cobblestones Disappear In St. John's

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 22 — (CP)—Water Street, is hop, skip and jump from this ancient city's fishwharves, is switching from cobblestones to pavement.

The narrow thoroughfare, oldest in North America, is being cleaved by bulldozers, jabbed by drills. A lot of water has come through the harbor narrows and washed its shores since the street was called "lower path" 400 years ago.

Water Street is Newfoundland's business centre. Narrow archways and passages lead from it to the wharves where the sea harvest is unloaded. executive offices in business houses dating back several centuries overlook a maze of schooner masts that represent the island's biggest economic mainstay—the fishing industry.

Fire razed the wealthy street twice—in 1846 and 1892. It was paved with cobblestones and granite in 1899. Buses replaced its old tram system only last year.

In contrast to the many cars of late model in St. John's are to be found the horse-drawn "longcarts," relics of the past which still complete with the bouncing traffic.

The street follows the length of the harbor, which once was closed to nosy enemy vessels by a giant chain strung across the narrows.

Directly behind Water Street the hill-side city of 60,000 rises on "levels." The houses, from their grandstand-like levels, surveys the harbor and the business section as from a mighty amphitheatre.

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Provided they turn back the Batawa Shoemen here tonight in their floodlight game at Riverside, the Petes will vault lightly once more to top rung of the COBL ladder. And they'll be trying hard, after dropping their last start to Oshawa Merchants, currently tied with 'em atop the heap. Looks like it might be a duel of southpaws, as we're sure Lefty Bill Dadson will start for the men o' Murphy. Batawa have Smith and Muffitt available and several newcomers, the Shoemen now being in third place after trimming Brockville last week-end. Ought to be a fine ball game before a big crowd, starting at 8.30, the Petes using Kokomo Clowns' floodlights for this one.

Classiest girls' softball team in Canada comes to the Bowl Thursday eve for an 8.30 exhibition with the local men all-stars. Sunday Morning Class of Toronto, those swing-skirted stars who often take topnotch men's teams, have represented Canada at seven world's tourneys in the States, winning many games. This ace attraction is being put on by the Rotary Club for local service work, and it will no doubt attract a record crowd to the East City Bowl. Ted Outram tells us the SMC squad is bringing down that colorful umpire who made such a hit last year. And Gordon Munro states that the visiting team will be at full strength. It's at 8.30 tomorrow p.m.

To Meet The Lasses

Howie Dalton and Johnny Russelle will coach the male all-stars and the team includes: Guilfoyle, Hunter and Greenlw for pitching; Griffin and Thomson catching; Conlin and Mackness first base; Crowe and Sullivan second; Leether and McCarthy shortstop; Douglas and Hawkes third base; Carpenter and Legrow left field; Foster and Wade centre; with O'Heron and Pryde in right. A smart outfit, too. These players are advised to be at the Bowl no later than 7.45 and to bring their own uniforms. "Y" weight-lifter Ab Blondin will perform 10 or 15 minutes between games.

* * * * * *

At seven bells over there tomorrow, before the SMC lasses go on, a Civic Softball League joust will be run off. It should be right interesting as it's between those old city rivals, Police and Firemen. Their last start saw Police edge out a 7-6 nod. Friemen include: Sonny Allen, Ed Close, Hubert Kennedy, Harold Cain, Don Bartley, Bill Torrance, Percy Gould, Tom Montgomery, Bill Bloom, George Gimblett, Jim Shearer, Jack Collins, Jack Pruner and Did Vinette. Police — including several provincials — are: Cec. Chambers, Bert Fife, Ray Pope, Emmett Crough, Roy Feeley, Bert Howden, Louis Rodrique, Doug Farthing, Dennis Taylor, Ernie Beatty, Bill Aggas, Harold Mesley, Eddie Niziol, Stewart Fife and Vern O'Donoghue. Umps are Cliff Castle and Pat Meraw.

No men's games at the Bowl last evening. That early drizzle washed out the first fray and the diamond was greasy so both ends of the twin bill were called off. Teams won't be playing there tomorrow eve either owing to Rotary games at the Bowl. Uniteds and Cosmos are tied for first with the Knights now, having eight wins and four losses each. Outlaws have won five and dropped seven, while Jewellers (though often coming close) have taken but one in a dozen starts. Owing to the CGE picnic Saturday, there'll be no men's games that night, either. Executive meets Friday p.m. to discuss the recent rumpus at the Knights'-Uniteds' game.

Young Petes play their Lakeshore Loop game tonight over in Lindsay and they go to Oshawa on Saturday. Juvenile City Loop tilt between north and west teams has been laid over from tonight till Friday at 6.30 in Riverside, and south and east juves are listed for the Ex. that evening. West and south midgets meet tonight in Morrow Park, as north plays east midgets at 6.30 Thursday p.m. in Riverside. North and east bantams go tomorrow at Bonner-Worth. On Friday before the Ex. stand at 6.30, new Wartime Housing boys play East City—we believe these are bantams but have forgoten. All managers should phone results in to Secretary Al Watkins at 6879 so that standings may be kept up to date.

Royals Split Doubleheader With Syracuse

By The Associated Press.

Billy De Mars, 23-year-old shortstop of the Buffalo Bisons, is being hailed as the best shortstop to cavort in a Bison uniform since Lou Boudreau played for the team in 1939.

De Mars, on option from Philadelphia Athletics, has been brilliant afield and has surprised manager Paul Richards with his hitting.

The Brooklyn native returned to action last night after sitting on the side lines for 10 games due to a minor leg injury. He played an important role in the Bison's 9-8 triumph over Jersey City Giants. The victory boosted the Bisons' International League lead over the Giants and Montreal Royals to two games.

De Mars contributed a bases-loaded double to the payoff surge and scored the winning run from third base on Lonnie Frey's single to right.

Second Place Tie

Montreal pulled into a second place tie with the Giants by splitting a doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs. The Royals took the opener 3-2, on Chuck Connors' three-run homer but dropped the nightcap 8-7.

Sam Jethroe hit for the cycle for the Royals in the nightcap, banging out a homer, triple, double and two singles. Jethroe also stole two bases, batted in two runs and scored three.

The fifth-place Rochester Red Wings trounced the last-place Newark Bears, 11-4. Lou Novikoff and Ehlers belted two run-homers to account for all Newark's runs.

Rochester whacked four Newark pitchers for 11 hits, including round trippers by Steve Hilko, Rus Derry and Don Thompson. Derry's belt was his 17th of the season, tying him with Toronto's Ed Sanicki for the circuit leadership.

Toronto Maple Leafs' scheduled doubleheader with the Baltimore Orioles was postponed because of wet grounds.

Sain Drops Eighth Game As Cubs Beat Braves 8-4

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The mystery of Johnny Sain and his loss of pitching magic grows deeper every time the former Boston ace takes the mound.

Veteran observers who watched the 30-year-old curve-balling righthander ring up 24 victories for the Braves last year, are at a loss to explain his all-too-numerous dismal performances this season.

What has happened to Sain, a 20-game winner for the last three seasons? He is not in ill health and insists his arm is as strong as ever. Then what is wrong?

Could it be that reports of strife between the pitcher and manager Billy Southworth are true? Sain has never bothered to deny persistent reports that he and Southworth are not on speaking terms.

Fifth Straight Loss

Sain Tuesday dropped his fifth straight and his eighth of the year as Chicago Cubs downed the Braves 8-4, in the National League's only day game. The defeat, coupled with Philadelphia's 9-4 triumph over the Pirates at night, dropped the Braves into fourth place.

Sain, who has won four games, went the distance for a change, but he was pummelled for nine hits, six of them for extra bases.

Bob Chipman, who relieved started Walt Dubiel in the fourth, was the winner.

Brooklyn increased its first-place lead over St. Louis Cardinals to 1½ games, defeating the Reds in Cincinnati, while New York Giants were downing the Cards 6-5, in a 12-inning thriller in St. Louis.

The Reds have won only one game from Brooklyn at Crosley Field since 1947. Carl Furillo's double in the seventh with the bases full, his fourth hit of the game, put it on ice.

Willard Marshall tripled in the top of the 12th, then crossed the plate with the Giants' winning run on Wes Westrum's long fly. A grand-slam homer by Joe Lafata, subbing for the slumping Johnny Mize at first, kept the Giants in the game. Ted Wilks third Card hurler, was the loser. Dave Koslo went all the way to register his second triumph for the Giants.

Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones slammed two home runs to lead the Phils to their second straight win over the Pirates.

Into Second Place

Philadelphia Athletics moved into second place in the American League, winning their second straight over Cleveland 8-2. They moved past Detroit by a half game and trail the front-running New York Yankees by four.

Lefty Lou Brissie limited the tribe to four hits—a triple and home run by Bob Kennedy—for his seventh triumph. Elmer Valo hit a grand slam homer off losing pitcher Bob Lemon.

Lefty Mel Parnell pitched the Boston Red Sox into fourth place with a 7-1 job against Detroit. Ted Williams helped the Red Sox stretch their winning streak to six straight, hitting his 17th homer off Art Houtteman in the sixth with two aboard.

Sid Hudson pitched a four-hitter as Washington Senators whipped Chicago White Sox 9-3. It was his fifth victory of the year.

The Yankees and St. Louis Browns had a day off.

Clowns Take 7-4 Win From Petes

The touring Kokomo Clowns defeated the Petes 7-4 in an exhibition baseball game in Riverside Park last night under lights. Only a fair floodlight crowd took in the event as the Clowns had appeared here recently, and it rained the first part of the evening. Play wasn't too good on either side, the boys looking a little loose on greasy footing. Plunkett pitched fair ball for the Murphyites while Lowrey finished it up. Only one twirler was used for the Kokomo crew and he was stingy with his hits.

The Clowns agreed to let the Petes use their lighting system tonight for the Batawa-Petes COBL fixture in Riverside, so that game will go this evening at 8.30 o'clock. The Petes then wind up the week with a double-header in Brockville on Saturday, going by bus with room for possibly a dozen fans in it.

Owen Sound Defeats Brampton Team 18-6

OWEN SOUND, June 22 (CP) —Owen Sound Crescents were in command all the way Tuesday night as they trimmed the league-leading Brampton Excelsiors 18-6 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A game here. It was the third straight victory for the Crescents and gave them a second place tie with Hamilton Tigers.

The Crescents had little trouble as they held a 5-2 margin at the end of the first quarter, 7-4 at half-time, and making it 13-6 at the end of the third quarter.

Caravaggie Defeated In Preliminary Bout

TORONTO, June 22 (CP). — Fast-moving Normie Thompson of Brockville on Tuesday night gained a third-round technical knockout over spunky Joe Beamer of London in the main event of a nine-bout amateur boxing card here. The bout was scheduled for five rounds.

Thompson, who weighed 140 pounds, had little trouble. The referee stopped the match at 35 seconds of the third round when Beamer went down from a flurry of left and right jabs.

Ernie Kelly of Toronto gained a three-round nod over Rudy Caravaggie of Peterborough in a preliminary.

Record Number Seeking Golf Honors

ST. GEORGE'S GOLF CLUB, Toronto, June 22 — (CP). — A record field of nearly 200 golfers started out to-day on the trail of $10,000 in the Canadian open golf championship.

There was a dearth of favorites for the title won by Charles (Chuck) Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., at Vancouver's Shaughnessy Heights course last year.

The total entry reached 198, outstripping the previous record of 181 set at Toronto St. Andrew in 1936.

Congdon was one of the early arrivals and in a practice round Tuesday he shot a three-under-par 69.

Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., cut one stroke off this figure in his first look at the course on Tuesday

A half-hour rain on Tuesday night had little effect on the sun-parched course. It was the first rain in weeks, but the greens were still in good condition.

The winner is anybody's guess.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist who won this year's United States open, passed up the Canadian classic, but Clayton Heafner, from Charlotte, NC, and runner-up to Middlecoff, will make his bid along with the other heavily-favored American entrants.

The last time a Canadian won it was in 1914, when Karl Keffer of Ottawa shot an even 300 at the Toronto Golf Club layout.

Fred Wood of Vancouver's Shaughnessy Heights was linked with Gordie Brydson, Toronto Mississauga as top Canadian prospect. Wood has been well up in the running for several years and Brydson is the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion, winner at Vancouver Point Grey last year.

After 36 holes of play the field will be cut to 100 and ties, and on the final day the 60 lows and ties will fight it out.

First prize money is $2,000 and second prize $1,400, with the other awards scaling down to $50 for 20th place.

SWING-SKIRTED STARS—Above is shown some of the Sunday Morning Class swing-skirted softball stars who play the local men all-stars at 8:30 in the East City Bowl this Thursday night. The outstanding exhibition game is sponsored by the Rotary Club for its service work. Considered the best girls' softball team in the country, the SMC team won many provincial titles and seven times represented Canada in world tournaments held in the United States. The team tours Canada and the States now and often defeats top men's teams in exhibition play.

Henri Rochon Bright Light Of Tennis Play

TORONTO, June 22 (CP) — The heaviest schedule of the tournament faces contestants today in the Ontario tennis championships.

Rain Tuesday forced postponement of some doubles events and today's program was scheduled to start three hours earlier than planned to make up for lost time.

Henri Rochon is still the bright light of the tournament. The left-handed Montreal star has walked through the first two rounds of the men's singles with easy victories. Right up with him are two fellow-seeded Montrealers, J. J. Desjardins and George Robinson, and Dave Dyment and Beau Summers, both of Toronto.

Montreal players also dominate the Senior Ladies' Singles with top-seeded Pat Macken and second-seeded Elwine Fildes still to be extended.

Jim Bentley and Pete Stewart both of Toronto, continue unbeaten in Junior Men's events. They were eliminated from senior play Tuesday and now will concentrate on the under 18 events.

Barbara Stephenson and Vonnie Davis of Toronto are the top ranking players in the Junior Ladies' Singles. Their main opposition is expected to come from Jane Carriere of St. Thomas and the Boys sisters, Sally and Mary Lynn of Barrie.

In the Men's Singles yesterday R. Robertson of St. Thomas took his first match of the tournament from W. Seagram of Toronto 6-2, 6-2 and in the Junior Men's Doubles Robertson teamed up with R. D. Hume but they were defeated by Don Fontana and Jim Campbell, Toronto, 6-1, 6-3.

In the Junior Ladies event Tuesday Marg. Doan of St. Thomas defeated Heather McPherson, Toronto, 7-5, 6-3 and Jane Carriere, St. Thomas downed J. Lovering, Toronto, 6-0, 6-0.

In the Junior Ladies' Doubles Miss Carriere and Miss Doan teamed up and defeated P. Goldstein and G. Taylor, Toronto, 6-1, 6-1.

Wins Decision

LOS ANGELES, June 22 (AP) —Lightweight champion Ike Williams toyed with young Irving Steen of San Diego on Monday night for a 10-round decision at the Olympic Auditorium before 5,000 fans. Williams weighed 141 and Steen 143 in the non-title engagement. The match was a tune-up for Williams' title scrap here July 21 against Enrique Bolanos of Mexico.

Title Fight Interest Slow Developing

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott, fighting 35-year-old father of six children, and Ezzard Charles, a belting bachelor of 180 pounds, battle for the world heavyweight boxing title (NBA version) at Comisky Park tonight.

The two Negro pretenders to retired Joe Louis' vacated crown were to weigh in at 1 p.m. EDT at Chicago Stadium. Walcott, the aging but clever clouter from Camden, N. J., was expected to scale 194. That would give him an approximate 15-pound weight pull if Cincinnati's 27-year-old Charles came in at a likely 179.

There was a sentimental, if not a golden box office touch to the 15-round title affair. It was exactly 12 years ago tonight in Comiskey Park that Louis sledgehammered the heavyweight crown from the scarred brow of James J. Braddock. Louis retired as undefeated champion last March.

As time for the gong neared, Charles—eight years younger than Walcott—was a dwindling 10-3 favorite.

No Recognition

Because tonight's winner will not be recognized as world champion by the New York State Athletic Commission or the British Boxing Board, interest was slow coming to a boil, or even a simmer.

But within the last few days, a substantial contingent of out-of-town boxing writers have moved in to make the best of the heavyweight vacuum caused by Louis' retirement.

The New York Commission, not a member of NBA, wants a "tournament" of contenders before crowning any world champ. The British Board will label the winner of the Bruce Woodcock-Lee Savold bout in England Sept. 6 as the heavyweight monarch.

There are whispers, vehemently denied by Louis, that the Brown Bomber himself may emerge then from retirement to get another whack at a big purse, especially if Charles wins tonight. Louis now is boxing director of the International Boxing Club, the sponsor of tonight's bout.

In event of a postponement, the bout will be held tomorrow or Friday.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Three weeks from today our club is sponsoring the most outstanding tournament of Eastern Ontario—men's doubles for the Lift Lock Gold Trophy—and so great has became the popularity of this tournament that last year, long before the day of play arrived, many entries had to be refused. We can only accommodate 96 pairs and up till this morning Chairman Robt. Gamble had received 70 paid entries.

We have three weeks to go, but when you consider that each mail brings in two, three and sometimes as many as six entries, you can see that it will be only a matter of days before the entry list will be closed.

We are passing along this information for the benefit of local bowlers, who intend to bowl in this tournament, but have not as yet made their official entry. Remember this, first come—first accepted. That's all.

All bowling was cancelled yesterday but the club singles will continue next Monday evening at 7.00 o'clock.

And just a reminder—you skips who are playing in the Tip Top Tailors' tournament, have your rink on hand Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock sharp.

You can travel La Verendrye's route from Fort Francis to Baudette to the site of old Fort St. Charles and Massacre Island. You can fish for muskie, lake-trout, bass, and pike in dozens of 10-mile lakes linked by fast rivers ... hunt moose, bear and deer, in season. And at Quetico Game Preserve there's fascinating wildlife in its natural setting. It's a two-day rail trip from Toronto to Fort Francis. Air-taxi service too from Parry Sound. Here and There In Sport

Two seeded stars Tuesday staved off threatened upsets before 20,000 sun-drenched fans who flocked to the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The fireworks, which seemed ready to blow out Frankie Parker of Los Angeles and Eric Sturgess of South Africa in the first 45 minutes, fizzled.

After both stars had fallen one set behind in their matches, they straightened up and cruised into the third round of men's singles. Parker defeated Billy Sidwell of Australia 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 and Sturgess scored over Torsten Johansson of Sweden 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 8-6.

At Wilmington, Del., Rocky Graziano, hard-hitting former middleweight champion from New York Tuesday night took his first step on the comeback trail by knocking out Bobby Claus, veteran Buffalo campaigner in 46 seconds of the second round in their scheduled 10-round bout. Graziano weighed 159¾, Claus scaled 149.

Frankie Frisch, Chicago Cubs manager, Tuesday was fined $100 and suspended for five days by President Ford Frick of the National League.

The suspension was the result of a row with umpire Art Gore at the finish of Monday's Cub game with Boston when a Chicago runner was called out after apparently scoring the tying run.

Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., have been dropped from the United States Hockey League circuit and Louisville, Ky. has been added, Harry Fowler of Omaha, one of the league's governors said Tuesday at Omaha. Fowler said the Texas teams will form a new league. Additional entries are expected to be San Antonio and Wichita, with possibly Oklahoma City.

The United States loop now has six teams—Omaha, Louisville, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Tulsa.

Minneapolis Millers of the United States Hockey League Tuesday announced sale of defenceman Gordon (oMore) Sherritt to Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League. Sherritt was the second player Minneapolis sold to Buffalo during the last few days. The other was Walter (Pinky) Melnyk, rightwinger from Winnipeg.

The third-ranking United States golf amateur, Dick Chapman, has filed his entry for the Canadian Amateur opening at the Riverside Golf and Country Club July 25, it was announced Tuesday night at Saint John, N. B., by the committee in charge of the event. Chapman is ranked behind only Frank Stranahan, Toledo, current Canadian champion, and Willie Turnesa among United States amateurs.

At New York, Max Ritter, a member of the United States Olympic committee and chairman of foreign relations for the Amateur Athletic Union, said Tuesday he had received "a green light" from the International Olympic Committee at Lausanne to re-affiliate Japan and Germany into all international sport federations.

Rose of the losers allowed but one hit as he whiffed 10 but offset his swell performance by issuing nine walks and that is what beat him, along with teammates' errors. They had five errors to one. Return To Highways Motorcycle Patrols

TORONTO, June 22 (CP) — Attorney-General Porter said Thursday that the Provincial Police were re-introducing motorcycle details on many of Ontario's more congested highways in an effort to reduce reckless driving, speeding and accidents during the summer months.

He said the motorcycle officers will augment the 325 Provincial Police patrol cars now operating throughout Southern Ontario in an effort to cut the mounting accident toll.

District Inspector E. V. McNeill of the Provincial Police headquarters in Peterborough told the Examiner today that he did not know whether motor cycles would be introduced in this area.

COBOURG, June 22 —(ENS)— Cobourg Rotary Club will shortly launch a safety campaign which will be highlighted by donation of special reflecting tape for application to every boy's and girl's bike in town. The project is to be directed by Bill Malton, chairman of the youth service committee of the club. As the tape costs the club 20 cents for each bicycle, it is estimated that the outlay will some 900 bicycles in town will be a total of $180. The tape comes in two colours, one white and one red. Predicts Cabinet Post For Geo. White MARMORA, June 22—(ENS) — A Progressive Conservative rally was held in the town hall on Friday evening. The speakers were Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West, and George B. White, MP for Hastings-Peterborough. Mr. Irwin McCoy acted as chairman.

Mr. Sandercock spoke of benefits derived under the Conservative party in the matter of hydro, lands and forests, education, community centres and social welfare. He predicted that George White would be a cabinet minister in the Drew Government at Ottawa after the election.

Mr. White said he was not discouraged by the small attendance as the weather was very warm. He gave George Drew credit for the prevention of a CCF government in Ontario at the last election.

He criticized the Federal Government for imposing taxes by orders in council without consulting Parliament, and discussed the housing question, income taxes, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, and stated that unemployables should receive pensions at an earlier age than 65.

Mr. White said he had always given special attention to veterans and his party was 100 per cent. for free enterprise and opposed to a socialist government.

SUDBURY SLAYER— Clarence Brousseau who barricaded himself in his Sudbury, Ont., home for two hours Saturday evening and killed two policemen and an innocent bystander before killing himself. An argument with his wife over a fishing trip started the incident. Thousands of spectators watched nearly 100 police and civilians attempt to take Brousseau in a gun battle during which hundreds of shots were fired.

Cripps Views Crafts Made In British Homes

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Treasures of craftsmanship, made in the cottage homes of Britain by men and women who have inherited their skill through generations, were shown to Sir Stafford Cripps recently when he launched the newly-formed British Handcrafts Export Organization.

Only a few hundred handcraftsmen are left in Britain, but Sir Stafford, Chancellor of the Exchequer, described them as "vital" to the country's export drive when he looked over their work.

Himself a spare-time wood carver, the austere, bespectacled chancellor told how the dwindling band of cottage craftsmen has been organized by B.H.E.O. to bring in extra dollars and to give British designers and manufacturers a "high standard of artistic and functional quality."

He described the organization as a non-profit company "formed with government support."

"It aims to give our craftsmen opportunity to pursue vigorously their vocation by supplying them with the opportunity to export their products . . ." he said.

Rare curios discovered in the rural backwaters of England, Scotland and Wales surrounded Sir Stafford as he appealed for £100,000 ($400,000) of public money by loan or gift for the enterprise.

Fine tweeds and shawls came from crofter cottages of the highlands.

From the Shetlands came shawls of lambs' wool—fine as cobwebs and capable of being pulled through a wedding ring. Rare art pottery came from the little Welsh village of Ewenny.

Among other examples of home arts were gold, silver and glass engraving and stone cutting. These were given a corner to themselves in the galaxy of treasures seldom seen in city stores.

Ask Why Labor Not Named To Commission

The Allied Labor Council Tuesday night decided to write to the City Council enquiring as to the composition of the present Industrial Commission which succeeded the former Industrial Development Committee.

This move was initiated when correspondence was received from Local 210 UPWA (CIO-CCL) requesting the ALC as the voice of Labor in Peterborough to ascertain why Labor was not represented on the Commission.

In April, 1948, the ALC received a comprehensive report from City Clerk E. A. Outram regarding the work of the committee, but since then it has been re-organized into the Industrial Commission. Before considering the request of Local 210 members of the ALC thought it would be well to find out the composition of the present Commission and how appointments are made.

Together with the query to the City Council will go the second part of the motion that the ALC is concerned with the problem of unemployment and would be glad to be of assistance in creating job opportunities.

Several members said it was a matter of concern that more industries were not locating in Peterborough, particularly in view of a slight increase in unemployment.

"As the representative of Labor we are looking for more jobs for workers to take up the slack of unemployment," said Phil Knibbs, corresponding secretary. "We should encourage industries to make work for Peterborough citizens."

Jaycees To Move Tourist Bureau

Today is a big day for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Tourist Bureau, which the Jaycees are moving from the present location to another site further away from the city on Highway 28.

Some 20 Jaycees have enrolled to lift the bureau bodily from its present site and to take it by truck to a location adjacent to Frank Baldwin's service station on the "Watering Trough" hill.

The removal is scheduled for 7 p.m. and is expected to be completed in an hour, after which the bureau is to have a new coat of paint.

This season is the first time the bureau is to be manned by a full-time attendant, to give information about Peterborough to visiting motorists.

Jaycees To Clean Jackson Creek

Jaycees are taking the lead in cleaning up the city's waterways by preparing to clear Jackson Park creek. The accumulation of garbage in this potentially attractive stretch of water has transformed the beauty spot into a "glorified garbage can," to use the Jaycees' own description.

First Saturday in July is the date set for operations, when the Junior Chamber of Commerce men will form a corps of tin can, water-logged timber and debris removers.

Civic officials are whole-heartedly behind the Jaycees in the project.

To make sure of doing a thorough job the young men have obtained the go-ahead signal from property-owners along the creek, thus eliminating risk of trespassing.

Trucks will be lent the Jaycees for transporting the debris to a central dump.

Cyclist Suffers Cuts

An 11-year-old cyclist, Jerry Lathangue, was injured in an accident with a car driven by Bernard T. Hill, 217 Euclid Ave., at the corner of Mark and Hunter Sts., at 7.45 Tuesday evening.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. G B. Lathangue, 453 Mark St., he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in a car commandeered by A. Armstrong, 623 Armour Road. Dr Donald Whyte said the boy had only slight abrasions and bruises. He was kept in hospital overnight. The bicycle was badly smashed.

Veteran Letter Carrier Retires After 37 Years

Following his retirement from the Post Office after 37 years as letter carrier, George Washington Downer was presented with a handsome chair from fellow employees on Tuesday. In recalling his years of faithful service Postmaster Charles Lacheur told the assembly that Mr. Downer had started in 1912, during such a heat wave as Peterborough is now experiencing, and worked for $1.75 a day. Salaries were installed seven years later and Mr. Downer reached the maximum rate many years ago.

He was praised for his accuracy and alertness and his ability to get along with the hundreds of people on his route. Although suffering from a heart condition a few years ago, he came back to work and in the overall length of service, lost very little time.

Grows Flowers

Many who did not know Mr. Downer as a letter carrier, identified him with his hobby of raising beautiful flowers Many of his speciments took prizes year after year at exhibitions, and still do. Since leaving the Postal Service, he finds himself busier than ever with his gardens.

Another letter carrier, Frank Smith, was honored at the same gathering following completion of 25 years in service. He was presented with a certificate from the Postmaster-General by Mr. Lacheur and with a smoking stand by his fellow employees. He is still working and hopes to continue until 1955, health permitting. Mr. Smith, in his speech of thanks, recalled starting in very wet weather in April of 1924. He nearly resigned after the first day, he said, but is glad that he had since stayed.

Ask Colonial Lines About Bus Depot

Mayor Swanston recalled to the council Monday that the city had supported the application of Colonial Coach Lines for their original franchise through Peterborough.

At that time there was some intimation that the company would not be satisfied with their service here until they had erected a suitable terminal. His Worship said that with Colonial Coach now in full possession of the bus transport business east and west, they should be reminded of their intentions which were virtual promises now that they are in the position of ownership which was their objective.

A letter is being sent by the council to Colonial Coach reminding them of their opportunity now of providing the terminal facilities in keeping with the transport status of the company, the needs of the public and the hope of the city.

Sanitary Inspectors Given Civic Dinner

A regional meeting of Sanitary Inspectors was held in Peterborough Tuesday, with the city playing hosts at a dinner.

Twelve sanitary inspectors from Campbellford, Havelock, Bowmanville, Belleville and other towns and townships were present for the meeting. Dr. R. A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health for Peterborough, officially welcomed the visitors.

The inspectors discussed the problems of restaurants, butcher shops and funeral homes. They toured Canada Packers Limited in the afternoon.

TAKES PROVINCIAL OFFICE

Mrs. J. G. Wharry, a member of Peterborough Children's Aid Society, has been elected second vice-president of the Association of Children's Aid Societies of Ontario.

Children's Aid Solves Troubles

Problems which occupied the attention of Peterborough Children's Aid Society during the month of May were assault, desertion, non-support, child delinquency, drinking, immorality and children left without supervision, Miss Rachael Young, the Society's superintendent told the monthly meeting of the Board Tuesday.

Thirty-five families were brought to the attention of the Society during May, Miss Young said and a total of 411 families were known to the Society that month.

There were 34 hearings in Family Court. Under the Children's Protection Act one child was made a permanent ward and wardship was continued for five others.

During May $441 was paid into the Society by 12 men as family maintenance money, being orders in court, and one, a voluntary arrangement.

Of four children admitted to the Society's care, one was a child whose relative could no longer give care, two children were placed for adoption by the Society and one child born out of wedlock and un-adoptable, was made a ward. Adoption for one child was completed.

In three unmarried parents cases, the mothers have asked for assistance in planning for their babies.

Dental Care

Today a scheme for all the children under the Society's care to receive dental care during the summer begins. Under a plan arranged with the Dental Association, the children will receive treatment at the Children's Aid Shelter.

Four Given Shelter

Four were admitted and four left the Shelter during May, there being a total of eight youngsters in the Shelter on June 1.

Mrs. L. Yeotes was thanked by the Board for giving tickets to the Shelter boys and girls to attend the YWCA pageant last month.

Donations acknowledged by the Shelter Committee were: Jr. Welfare League, ice cream and doughnuts; Connell's Store, doughnuts; Mrs. J. P. Roberts, pickles; Mrs. L. Yeotes, ice cream; Mrs. K. Lech, ice cream; Pedersens Store, chicken pies cottage cheese; Mark St WA, sandwiches: Mark St. Sunday School, sandwiches and cake; Central Home and School, sandwiches and cake; Murray St. Baptist Church, sandwiches, cake, cookies and cherries; All Saints' Anglican Church, sandwiches; Elk Meat from Game Warden Trotter.

The sewing committee mended 173 articles during May and two new articles of clothing were mads.

Donations were acknowledged by the committee from Mesdames M. Carter, J. P. Roberts, P. Kitchen, R. E. Brooks, Omemee; A. Martin, H. Waddell, Butler, Dalton Johnston, Lawless, Goodall, A. R. Guards On Duty At Beaches When Needed

As long as the need exists lifeguards will be on duty at the two supervised beaches after August 31 it was decided at the monthly Recreation Commission Tuesday in the City Buildings. This was the outcome of an editorial in the Examiner which urged that the beaches be patrolled whenever they were being used by many swimmers, whatever the date.

Although the Recreation Commission is low in funds, R. J. Bolton felt that it was the responsibility of the Commission to have the beaches watched other than in the two summer months. Dr. Herbert Young suggested that a special grant of $400 be asked of the City Council for the payment of two lifeguards who will be employed as long as they are required on the beaches this year.

Next year provision will be made in the Commission's budget for employing two lifeguards for the beaches before July 1 and after August 31. Jack Dane, Recreational Director, was in favor of having the playground program extended but this was turned down by the Commission.

Inverlea Hard Surface

After the resolution of the City Council to have the Service Clubs keep up the maintenance of their projects of the parks of the city, Wilfred Langan reported that the hope of the Kinsmen Club putting in the hard surface area in Inverlea Park is dim. Hurrell Dodds said that it was not that the Council did not want the area but that the necessary funds to service the area were not available. He added that he believed the Service clubs should maintain what they put into the parks. Mr. Bolton said he believed the resolution to have been too harshly worded.

Since other offices in the City Buildings are closed Saturday mornings, the closing of the Recreation office was discussed. The members of the Commission felt that the office should remain open during the summer months. However, on the motion of Gordon Armstrong, the office will be closed Saturday mornings during March, April, September and October.

Other business discussed: (1) Authority to regulate areas for the playground and swimming program, (2) office space in the new City Hall, (3) H-Wharf at Riverside Park and (4) clock at the Ashburnham Hall.

Reports were read by Mrs. R. Whalon, boys and girls; Jack Dane, male sports; Quirt McKinney, music and drama; Armar Butcher, playgrounds.

Members at the meeting were Mr. Dane, R. J. Bolton, Mr. McKinney, Mrs. Whalon, Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Butcher James Gillespie, Hurrell Dodds, Dr. Herbert Young, Wilfred Langan.

Former Broker J. W. Wood Dies

Mr. J. Wallace Wood died Tuesday at the Private Patients' Pavilion of Toronto General Hospital.

His father was a school teacher and municipal clerk of Ashburnham, many years before the incorporation of the village across the river into the city of Peterborough. Another son of the family was the late E. R. Wood of Toronto, business associate of Hon. George A. Cox.

Mr. Wood was educated in Peterborough, and married Lillian Campbell of Keene. He was engaged in the financial brokerage business in Toronto years ago. He leaves his wife and one sister, Miss Annie L. Wood of this city.

BOAT SINKS

Laden with rocks from the beach at Inverlea the lifeguard's boat at Inverlea Park went to the bottom of the river Tuesday afternoon. The two workers clearing the beach of large stones, because a number of boys and girls had received cuts in the water Sunday due to glass and sharp stones. However, the stone-gatherers overfilled the boat and down it went with a bubbling groan.

A STRANGE ONE

Firemen like the rest of the citizens of Peterborough were sweltering Tuesday noon. And they shook their heads incredulously when that old winter standby—a chimney fire—was reported. It was at the residence of P. Luther, 593 Park St.

RE-ROUTED BUS

Monaghan Road bus service is to the corner of Cameron St. temporarily taking a longer route while City Engineer Chalmers is laying some 400 feet of sewer, north from Rose Ave. to the vicinity of Braidwood Ave. The southbound bus is now turning easterly at Lansdowne St., going south on Park St. to Cameron and returning by its usual way on Park St.

AT M. CURTIN'S SHOP

There could be mild confusion about the location of poll 51, at M. Curtin's shop, corner of Monaghan Road and Frank St. It is shown in the telephone directory as 107 Monaghan Road, but in the city's enumeration it is No. 1,053. That is the street number of the poll which should have been used, Mr. A. J. McClellan, returning officer said today. However, it is felt that residents all know the location of the Curtin place, down at the corner.

Construction Companies Willing To Make Firm Bids On Sewage Plant

Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the Board of Works, said today that the council could have started two years ago the enlargement of the sewage disposal plant if it was willing to involve the municipality in an expenditure that might have reached $1,000,000. "For the first time since the period of the war," Ald. Dodds told the Examiner, "we now have assurance from our engineers and advisers, Gore & Storrie of Toronto, that constructing companies are willing to make firm bids on the job. That information was given to us on Monday by two representatives of Gore & Storrie who were here to discuss with us the question from that standpoint.

"The engineers told us some time ago that they believed firm bids would be now available, and they undertook to consult construction companies on that point. Previously, bids were made on jobs of that extent with escalator clauses, which practically meant a cost plus basis. (The term escalator is borrowed from the type of moving stairs that are in use in many large buildings for the convenience of the public in going from one floor to the next.) Personally, I was not in favor of any kind of contract of that kind in the likelihood that the cost might amount to $1,000,000 before it was finished. We had one experience of that kind on the Hunter St. bridge, and older citizens still mention it."

Call For Tenders

Gore and Storrie are now planning to advertise for tenders for the job, and tenders may be received some time in July. At any rate the Council is hoping to get the work started this summer, Alderman Dodds said.

The engineers have had the plans drawn for a very considerable time, he remarked. "At one of their meetings with us a year or so ago, the cost was roughly estimated at $750,000. Gore & Storrie suggested that we should not consider letting a contract at anything like that amount. And the council deferred action. The fact is that we are now moving in the direction of a contract because we have this assurance of firm bids from interested contractors."

Voted $375,000

Ald. Dodds recalled that in December 1946 the ratepayers approved an expenditure of $375,000 for the completion of the sewage disposal plant. In the following year it was decided to call for tenders, and the response from contracting companies indicated that the work would cost at least $600,000. It was then that Gore and Storrie advised deferring action until conditions in the building field would be more favorable to the city.

"At one of the meetings with Gore and Storrie last year, the proposed enlargement was considered on a somewhat broader scale adjusted to the growth of the city and the probability that its expansion would continue. The engineers proposed, and it was fully reported at the time, that the contract be split into three integral sections, the first of which was most important to the effective development of the plant.

"That course was approved by the council, and it is that part of the final job on which present tenders are to be called."

Ald. Dodds said Gore and Storrie were one of the outstanding firms of sanitary engineers in Canada and the United States with an international reputation. He said the council had every confidence in them, in their abilities and also in their advice.

"With $375,000 voted by the ratepayers for this sewage disposal job, I certainly did not want to be a party to getting the city into an expenditure that we did not know where it would end. When we were told about $750,000 probable cost it was said then that certain companies were not really interested in getting the contract.

"Another point to be remembered, as explained to us by Gore and Storrie, and it was also reported, was that much of the equipment would have to be purchased in the United States. At the time, there was uncertainty of delivery and the whole prospect of the job was too vague in the matter of the final cost to the ratepayers."

A Word To White Collar Workers

You are sometimes called the forgotten men and women of politics.

Appeals are made to the wealthy; appeals are made to the industrial workers; appeals are made to the farmers. But what about you? What have you to hope for from the Tories? Nothing but heavier white collars, so far as I can see. And from the C.C.F.? Nothing at all, for there are not enough of you to be worth their attention.

Yet you are a very important section of society.

The Liberal Party has steered a course which has given you Family Allowances, a better deal on Income Tax, and a program of National Health which improves every month. The Liberal Party knows that you are not socialists, but that you want the most in social betterment that good management can provide.

Support the party which has done most for you.

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP(—Settlement of the city's 82-day-old beer strike was announced Tuesday night at a joint press conference of labor and management groups involved. Goodell Goes To Reformatory

Harry Ketchum, RR 4, was acquitted in city police court by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, on charges of stealing a block and tackle, carpenter's plane and other carpenter's tools from Francis Tedford, RR 2, Lakefield; a tractor governor from Hilliard Lyttle, Smith Township and fencing from the Ontario Department of Highways.

Harry Goodell of the same farm, pleaded guilty to the first two offences, which were also laid against him and was acquitted on a plea of not guilty to the third.

When Mr. Lyttle was called to identify the tractor governor, he found the one produced in court did not bear the same marks as the one he had lost. A plate giving instructions to change oil periodically was not on the governor exhibited in court and some of the screws differed from the one on his.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw offered no more evidence after Mr. Lyttle's inability to identify the article and the charge was dismissed.

The charge of stealing the fencing from Asphodel township was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence against either of the accused.

The magistrate sentenced Goodell to two months on each of the other two charges, to run concurrently at reformatory after expiration of the four months he is now serving there on a recent conviction at Cobourg of theft.

Liberal Tax Proposal Criticized By Frost

MIDLAND, June 22 — (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said in a Federal election campaign address Tuesday night that of every dollar collected in Federal taxes, Ontario pays 50 cents and Quebec 30 cents. "It is not right that these two great provinces should be treated as chattels which can be pushed around."

Premier Frost was speaking on behalf of J. E. Wood, Progressive Conservative candidate for Simcoe East in the Federal vote on June 27.

"One or two men at Ottawa wanted to concentrate the power of taxation in their hands," said Premier Frost. "They wanted to take over the taxation fields of the provinces so that all would become subservient to a central authority."

VOTE

LIBERAL FOR PROTECTION

EVEN THE C.C.F.'s own leaders admit the party cannot hope to form a Government after this election. It's ambition is to become the official Opposition.

What kind of protection could a C.C.F. Opposition provide against a Tory Drew government? For your answer, consider the Ontario Legislature. For six years an arrogant Tory machine has ridden roughshod over every C.C.F. proposal. It has forced through any kind of legislation it likes—hamstringing the federal labour code . . . creating "decertification" clauses. . . blocking national health plans . . . altering the wills of dead men to stifle freedom of the press . . . restricting the powers of municipal councils.

Nothing the C.C.F. Opposition could say or do swayed Drew in Ontario. Nothing a C.C.F. Opposition could say or do could restrain him if he held power at Ottawa.

Only the Liberals can prevent Drew from gaining power. Every vote for the C.C.F. divides the anti-Drew vote, increasing his chances of victory. Every vote for the Liberal party is a definite, positive vote against Drew.

Be fair to yourself. Don't take a chance that your vote will boomerang against your own best interests. Vote LIBERAL and be sure of a prosperous national economy . . . in which labour retains its rights to work and bargain for its legitimate aspirations.

B. C. ABBOTT

Hon. D. C. Abbott To Address Liberal Rally Friday

The Hon. D. C. Abbott, Minister of Finance, will be in Peterborough Friday to speak at a Liberal meeting at 8.30 p.m. in support of Peterborough West's Liberal candidate Dit Clapper at the Legion Hall on Murray St.

Veteran of World War 1, brilliant student, and a much-sought expert in commercial law, Mr. Abbott entered politics at the age of 41. It was an almost spectacular entry, for he won the Montreal riding of St. Antoine-Westmount, which had consistently returned Conservatives since 1925 That was in 1940.

"Doug" Abbott, as he is known throughout the ranks of the parliamentarians in the nation's capital, started out in life as a soldier. Before he was 18 he was in France with the 7th McGill Siege Battery as a signaller. By 1918 he had transferred to the Royal Air Force, where he served as a second lieutenant. After the war he continueed his education, first at McGill and then at the University of Dijon, specializing both in commercial and in Roman law. For over 15 years he practised in Montreal, where he won an enviable reputation in his particular fields.

Called by his friends to stand for election, he won his first campaign with a thumping majority of nearly 6,000, and quickly began making an impression in the House of Commons. The government appointed him parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Finance in 1943, and for two years he was the Commons specialist in Wartime Prices and Trade Board affairs. One of his major accomplishments was piloting the Industrial Development Bank bill through the House. Much industrial expansion has flowed from the provisions of this legislation.

After serving a short term as parliamentary assistant to the Minister for Naval Services, Mr. Abbott was named Minister of the Department, later taking the Department of National Defence under his wing. On Dec. 10, 1946, Mr. Abbott advanced to the major portfolio of Finance, where he has pursued a policy which has been called "commendable, farsighted, successful". Public interest has centred on Mr. Abbott's tax reductions.

DOROTHY DIX

Resist Great Temptations Life of Shame Results

DEAR MISS DIX—We are two girls, 17 and 18, and have just been graduated from high school this year. We have been going with a couple of boys who want us to marry them and the four of us go to the mountains. We girls can go to college if we wish, and our problem is whether to go to school or get married and go to the mountains. The boys are unwilling to wait until we have finished college. We would like for you to help us decide.

J. C. and B.W.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER—My dear girls, I urge you with all the earnestness of which I am capable to choose college instead of marriage with two boys who are no more fit for matrimony or ready for it than you are.

I am sure it would be a grand lark for you to have a romantic elopement and go off with these lads with whom you have been playing around for a summer vacation in the mountains. You would have a delightful trip and a lot of fun hiking and fishing and camping, provided, of course, the boys could scare up enough money to go on. But, after all, the summer is very short. Two months—three months at the most, and then the winter chills commence coming and then—what?

You can't check out of marriage as you can out of a summer hotel. When you marry, you change your whole life. You take on responsibilities. You cut yourself off from opportunities. You are bound for keeps unless you rat on the bargain you have made and go through all the mess and worry of a divorce.

So what about it? Try to think about marriage for the long pull. Are you sure you like these boys well enough to give up everything on earth for them? Are you even certain that they wouldn't bore you after a while, or that you could put up with their little ways and peculiarities? You are very young. Just on the threshold of what should be the greatest and the happiest time of a girl's life—when she is carefree and can run around to parties and have lots of dates and good times and pretty clothes and trips and so on.

If you marry these boys, you will cut yourself out of all of that. You will have to settle down and have no dates. Just go out when our husband happens to feel like taking you. And you will have to do your own housework and perhaps there will be a baby that will tie you down, and, instead of running around like the other girls of your own age, you will be one of those poor, tired dragged-out young mothers that you see.

And how are these boys going to support you girls if you marry them? If they are just schoolboys themselves, they haven't any way of making a living for themselves, not to speak of you. Are you counting on inflicting yourself an the boys' parents to support, or are you going to wish your new husband on your own father and mother? And don't you think that children who get married before they have a way of making a living for themselves are playing it pretty down-down on their parents?

If these boys are not willing to wait for you until you finish your college education, well and good. It will only show that they didn't really and truly love you. And it won't make a particle of difference with you, for by the time you get through college your taste will so completely have changed that you wouldn't marry them on a bet.

DOROTHY DIX.

"They were squatting here when the Government took over this block for offices!"

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Although I am only 21 I have two children. My husband was killed in an automobile accident three years ago and I have had a hard struggle to take care of them and my mother. Now I have a fine job as a private secretary, but my employer, a married man, has fallen in love with me and wants me to become his mistress. He offers me everything—a fine home for mother and my babies, a car, beautiful clothes, etc. I am frightened and bewildered. I feel that I can't do what he asks, but what will become of me and mine if I don't? I will lose my job and I would not know where to find another now. Perhaps my mother and my babies would starve. What must I do?

A HELPLESS YOUNG MOTHER

ANSWER—Talk about temptation! If a woman in a case like this doesn't face the supreme test of her courage and her principles, then I don't know what ordeal she could be called upon to go through. For herself she might face poverty and want, but with a sick old mother and with helpless little children crying to her for the bread she could not give them and with ease and luxury and safety offered to her loved ones at a price, who could blame her if she paid it? What a heroine she must be to refuse it!

And how cruel and how bestial is the man who holds the threat of losing her job over a woman who is in his employ to club her into taking the downward path!

But because I believe that there are certain fundamental laws of right that nothing can change and because I believe that no lasting happiness ever comes out of doing the thing that we know to be wrong, I advise you, sorely tempted though you are, to refuse to buy ease for your family at the price of your conscience and self-respect.

Nothing the man can give you will pay for your peace of mind. No luxuries he could give your children would atone to them for having a mother living a life of shame, or for their being reared up in such a household and in such an atmosphere. And, at its best, you will be sacrificing a whole lifetime of decency and the respect of others for a few years of soft living, for men of the calibre of this man soon tire of their lady loves and throw them aside as carelessly as they would an old glove.

DOROTHY DIX.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been going with a girl for fifteen years. She appears to enjoy my company one week, but the next she shuns me. Will you please explain the reason for her actions, as I am deeply in love with her and cannot live without her.

A. B.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER — I should say the poor creature is worn out with waiting for you to come to the proposing point, and that she is trying to see if she can make your sentiments toward her get into action. Fifteen years of attention without intentions are enough to get on any girl's nerves and make her jittery.

DOROTHY DIX.

Urge More Study Of Sex Teaching

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England — (CP)—Most medical students know more about making pink pills than they do about sex, says Dr. Bernard Sandler.

At a Marriage Guidance Council conference he said universities should train students in sex psychology, marriage guidance and birth control.

"It is not fair to patients that so many young doctors are in dilammas when faced with pre-marital queries," he said.

The Council's education officer, Alan Ingleby, 33, said "stuffy spinsters with frumpy clothes should be banned from giving sex lectures on birds and bees to adolescents. Biology is not a satisfactory way of introducing sex. The reproductive life of a frog is not of the slightest use to a girl of 14."

DRURY—In loving memory of our two sons, Robert Sidney (Sid), who passed away June 22, 1946, and William Stanley, who passed away March 21, 1945.
"God but not forgotten
As each dawns another year
Oft times our thoughts do wander
To their graves not far away.
—Sadly missed, always remembered by Mother, Dad.

DRURY—In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Robert Sidney (Sid), who passed away June 22nd, 1946.
Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.
—Sadly missed by wife and daughter Ruth.

DRURY—In loving memory of a dear brother, Robert Sidney, who passed away three years ago today.
Loving and kind in all his ways
Upright and just to the end of his days
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.

DRURY—In loving memory of my dear brother, Sidney Drury, who passed away three years ago, June 22nd.

Of the one who once sat there.

Prompt Action In Collecting Returns Urged

OTTAWA, June 22 —(CP)— Returning officers and their deputies are urged to do all they can to aid the Canadian Press in promptly collecting accurate returns in the June 27 Dominion Election, Jules Castonguay, chief elector officer, said today.

Special instructions aimed at bringing the Canadian people the fastest possible news of the election results were outlined by Mr Castonguay.

In each polling station established in the locality of the returning officer's office, the deputy returning officer has been instructed to deliver his ballot box and an accompanying envelope containing a preliminary statement of the poll to the returning officer as soon as possible after closing the poll.

Every deputy returning officer for outlying polling stations has been instructed to telephone or telegraph the appropriate officer of the result from his poll as soon as the count is completed.

Mr. Castonguay said:

"The returning officer for each electorial district has been specially disected to prepare on election night a compilation of the votes cast in each polling station of his electoral district as the ballot boxes are received from local polling stations and as the results are telephoned or telegraphed to him from outlying polling divisions.

"This procedure will be uniform in all constituencies.

"The returning officers also have been directed to furnish the public and the representatives of the Canadian Press with progressive bulletins giving the state of the poll at various intervals during the evening of polling day.

"In order that the public throughout Canada may be informed of these progressive bulletins it is of the utmost importance that the returning officers and deputy returning officers take care to see that their instructions on the subject are carefully carried out.

"Returning officers have been requested to advise candidates or their political organizations of the arrangmements that are being made for the collecting of election returns and to furnish the candidates or their representatives with progressive bulletins, upon request, as soon as these are available."

Man Pleads Guilty To Intent To Fraud

Convicted on a plea of guilty to a charge of intent to fraud Hyman Albert, Robert Reynolds was given a two year suspended sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., in police court Wednesday morning.

Mr. Hyman said he had backed a $500 promissory note for Reynolds March 16 with a car as security. He was told the car was debt free and he had first claim to it if the promissory note was not paid. The car was later repossessed with $1,300 owing on it.

Reynolds had been unable to pay his promissory note and Mr. Albert had had to make arrangements to pay it. About $475 was still owing.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked that suspended sentence be imposed, on condition that Reynolds make weekly payments of $10 for 55 weeks or until the debt plus interest was paid. Magistrate Philp agreed.

Stole 100 Bags Dummer Man Gets One Month

Found guilty on a charge of stealing 100 grain bags from the Havelock branch of the Peterborough Cooperative May 28, Bruce Bolton, Center Dummer, was given one month sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C. at police court Tuesday morning.

Defence counsel, John Corkery, attempted to show no theft had taken place, that Bolton had merely borrowed the bags and had later given $10 to the cooperative manager George Fox to cover their value. He said there was also a question of the identity of the bags.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said Bolton had paid the $10 only on advice from Mr. Bradshaw. He said he had advised Bolton that if he made restitution, it might be taken into consideraion if a conviction were made.

Dentification Sufficient

Magistrate Philp held the bags taken from the Havelock Cooperative were the same sold later to the Trent Valley Feed company in Peterborough by Bolton. He said Mr. Fox's identification of them was sufficient.

Mr. Fox testified Bolton had come to him May 28 and had asked to borrow 100 bags to transport grain he had bought in Warsaw. Mr. Fox said he quite often lent bags to farmers. Mr. Fox said Bolton gave his address as R. R. 3 Havelock, but he had later found out Bolton lived in Center Dummer. The agreement was that the bags were to be returned in the next week.

The following Saturday Mr. Fox received a call from the Peterborough Co-op manger and went to the Trent Valley Feeds store and found the bags which he identified as his by the peculiar type of jute cord and the tags on the bundles of bags. He said under cross examination he had not lent out any bags since last October or November.

Cecil Neals, a clerk at the Trent Valley Feeds, testified he had received the bags from Bolton and had given him a slip for them which entitled Bolton to draw $8 from the front office.

Statement at Arrest

Provincial constable Arthur Kellogg said after arresting Bolton May 31 and warning him a statement was not necessary, Bolton asked to be set free and that he would make restitution. Constable Kellogg asked Bolton where the bags were and Bolton had answered, at Cavanaugh's in Norwood. (The store is now owned by Stanley Flett.)

Constable Kellogg testified he said the bags he was looking for were in Inman's (Trent Valley Feeds) "Isn't that right?" Bolton had answered yes.

The provincial constable also told the court Bolton had said to him, when Identification officer Bill Aggas had been present, he would plead guilty to the charge and the police would not have to bring any witnesses to the trial.

Second Case Dismissed

The case against Bolton on a charge of stealing 125 bags from Hastings cooperative May 28 was dismissed. One hundred and twenty-five bags were returned by Bolton to the Hastings cooperative June 5, after Bolton's arrest.

In dismissing the case Magistrate Philp said, although the "circumstances may be somewhat suspicious" it had not been proved the bags borrowed from the Hastings Coop were the ones sold to Stanley Flett of Norwood.

Scores Liberals On Health Act

"A vote for a Liberal government is a vote against a national health act," J. H. Miles charged in a CCF rally at Young's Point Tuesday night. "How can anyone expect a government which promised it in 1945 and promptly forgot all about it, to do anything this time?" he asked.

Canadians want and need such an act he continued, yet the old parties were able to divide the votes over minor and non-existent issues and stop a health act from being put into effect.

A good government is like a good housewife, Mr. Miles said. A good housewife plans how she will spend her money. A poor housewife spends from day to day and hopes for the best. Similarly a good government should plan its resources to make the best use of them. A poor government allows them to be wasted haphazardly.

Liberal and Progressive Conservative planning is illustrated by the way in which they have allowed movie houses, band buildings and bowling alleys to be constructed while many families were urgently in need of homes.

Only a CCF government, Mr. Miles concluded, could and would give Canadians the type of planning that a country with Canada's natural resources, needs.

Present Site Of Totlot Gets Approval

The Kinsmen Totlot is to remain in its present location in Inverlea Park as far as the Recreation Commission are concerned. Tuesday night at the monthly meeting a report on the Totlot was read by Gordon Armstrong which contained recommendations to refurnish the lot and reasons for placing the Totlot in the present location. After a hot, see-saw discussion, the report was approved by the commission by a vote of 4-3. Some members of the commission refused to vote on the question. The report will be sent on to the City Council.

In the report it said that the Totlot was placed in the park at the request of the commission. The location was discussed by the recreational director, the parks superintendent and the Kinsmen Club. After the erection of the lot objection to the location was voiced by the parks committee. The parks chairman suggested that shrubs be planted along the fence by the street and trees be put in the lot. Neither of these suggestions has been acted on.

Another Site Hazardous

The reports said the Totlot was built for the tiny tots and not for the larger children. The location was chosen because that place allows the parents to put the children in the Totlot without crossing the playing grounds. The present location is closest to the toilet facilities and the drinking fountain. Any other location, the report continues, would present a hazard to children walking through the games areas.

A fault of the location, the report said, was the absence of landscaping and shade trees and the failure to put a fence along Parkhill Road.

Recommendations offered in the report were: (a) the Kinsmen Totlot remain in its present location; (b) the parks department plant large shade trees and set out shrubs; (c) a fence be erected from the bridge to Dennistoun Ave. to act as a barrier and a safety measure; (d) signs be placed on the east approach to the bridge and at Dennistoun Ave. warning motorists of the playground; (e) that signs be placed inside the gates warning the children of the thoroughfare; (f) that lines be painted on the road and sidewalk, and that the children being urged to cross the road at these points.

After the vote had been taken, Dr. Herbert Young suggested that the shrubbery along Parkhill, east of the main entrance to the park, be trimmed lower or taken out and planted elsewhere. Wilfred Langan had said previously that the man who had reported a near-accident to a child was not quite sure where the child had actually run from the park. He blamed the shrubbery for his not seeing the youngster.

Mr. Langan also said that motorists travel at a fair speed west on Parkhill Road. Dr. Young suggested that a stop sign be placed at the west end of the bridge to have the west-bound traffic stop for the children. All members were in favor of having that recommendation passed to the City Council

Throngs Mourn Slain Constable

SUDBURY, June 22 (CP) — Thousands of people lined Sudbury streets Tuesday to witness the mile-long funeral procession for Police Constable Gerard Dault 32, one of three persons killed Saturday night by Clarence Brosseau, 45-year-old factory worker.

A large crowd also attended mass at the Roman Catholic church in nearby Copper Cliff for James Germa, 50, another victim of the crazed gunman.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday for Constable Edward Terrell, also shot down in a wild two-hour gun fight with Brosseau, who killed himself after the triple slaying.

The funeral procession for Constable Dault, one of the largest ever held here, was composed of members of the Sudbury police force, the RCMP, and representatives of other police departments throughout Ontario, Veterans' groups and other organizations. Nearly every member of the Sudbury force was present at the Roman Catholic funeral service for the popular officer.

Among visiting officers were four from Toronto, four from Sault St. Marie and five from North Bay.

Dault is survived by his widow and three children.

Two Youths Given Suspended Sentence

Two years suspended sentences were given to two teen-agers who pleaded guilty this morning in police court to stealing a gold ring from Ostrander's Jewellers by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C.

The boys, Frank Thomas, 16, and Robert Young, 18, were placed on $250 bond on condition they were to keep apart. Both had previously pleaded not guilty.

Detective John Stephenson testified he had been notified of the theft June 14. Two boys had gone into the jewellery store about 3 p.m., one wearing a pair of maroon pants and had looked at key chains.

The following morning Detective Stephenson questioned Frank Thomas who had been brought into the police station. The detective said Thomas admitted being in the store with Young.

When questioned, Young said he could take the detective to where the ring was. The ring was not found where Young had indicated, but was later recovered in a gift shop.

Answering a question by Emmett Sheehy, defence counsel for Young, Detective Stephenson said his investigations indicated Thomas had actually taken the ring, but Young had tried and failed while in the store.

Questioned by Magistrate Philp, Young said he had had a series of short-term jobs since he left school three years ago. Magistrate Philp advised the two youths to learn a trade.

Canada To Give Chairs To Westminster Abbey

LONDON, June 22 —(CP)— Highlight of Dominion Day celeorations in Britain this year will be a service at Westminster Abley at which two chairs and faldstools will be presented to the Abbey by the Canada Club in the presence of the King and Queen.

Intended as a memorial to Canadians who died in the Second World War, the chairs will be formally presented to the Dean of Westminster, Dr. Alan Don, by C. B. Cowley, honorary secretary of the Canada club.

The chairs, made of Canadian birch stained and polished to a dark tone, are of venetian pattern with oval bases in front carved with a maple leaf. Each prie-dieu (kneeling desk) displays the arms of Canada.

The King and Queen will be received at the Great West Door of the Abbey by the dean and chapter and L. D. Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom. The precession then moves eastward through the church to the lantern where the King and Queen take their seats facing the high altar.

Singing of the hymn "O God of Bethel" by the choir and congregation will open the service, after which prayers will be offered by Canon C. M. Armitage, procentor of the Abbey. Then follows Psalm 121 "I Lift Up Mine Eyes Until The Hills" and reading of the lesson from book one, chapter eight of Kings, verses 54-62.

After the presentation, to which the dean wil respond the King and Queen move to the Sanctuary, there to occupy the Canadian chairs and faldstools that will in future be used on all Royal occasions.

The bells of the Abbey will peal as the King and Queen move out through the Great West Door for their journey back to Buckingham Palace. The normal Dominion Day reception by the Canadian High Commissioner will take place at Canada House during the afternoon, followed by the Canada Club dinner at the Savoy Hotel.

3 Attacks By Planes Protested

Nationalists Express Regrets; Claim Flag Not Hoisted

LONDON, June 23 — (AP).—Britain lodged a second protest to-day over Chinese Nationalist air attacks on the damaged British freighter Anchises, near Communist-held Shanghai. The protest, presented to the Canton Foreign Office, said the Anchises, beached in the Whangpoo River after she was damaged by the first Nationalist air attack, has been attacked twice since.

The Foreign Office spokesman said Britain has received an "expression of regret" from the Chinese government. The spokesman was unable to say whether the Chinese note covered only the first attack on the Anchises or all three of them.

The spokesman said Britain also received from China an "intimation of closure" of Red-held ports including Shanghai.

The spokesman declined to say whether this closure set by the Nationalist government for the night of June 25 to 26 constituted a blockade. He noted, however, that the attacks on the Anchises were made before the date set by the Chinese note.

Two Not Hit

CANTON, June 23 (Reuters).—The Chinese Nationalist government in Canton has expressed regret over attacks near Shanghai on the British ship Anchises, a government spokesman said today.

Earlier semi-official Chinese sources in Taiwan claimed that the bombed 8,287-ton Blue Funnel vessel "neglected to hoist her flag." Two other ships flying the American flag were not bombed, they said.

British Oppose Strikers' Plan

BERLIN, June 23 (AP)—The British military government today ordefed German police in its sector to prevent non-Communist railway strikers from operating an "emergency" service without permission of the Russian-controlled management.

This was only one of a series of snags struck by the offer of leaders of the 14,000 strikers to restore freight service between Berlin and Western Germany without calling off their strike.

The non-Communist union, U.G.O., announced Wednesday it was willing to handle freight for West Berlin but would continue the strike which started five weeks ago on the elevated railway system. The system normally carries 1,000,000 passengers a day.

British officials promptly denounced the plan as "totally impracticable," since it proposed to continue blocking Soviet zone freight trains.

Better Fire Services Envisioned By Daley

ST. CATHARINES, June 23 — (CP). — Labor Minister Daley of Ontario Wednesday night told delegates attending the annual banquet of the Ontario Firefighters Provincial Federation that "the new Fire Departments Act of 1949 will encourage municipalities to improve their fire services."

"The Act will also provide relief for the taxpayers through a provincial subsidy and will eventually lead to standardization of fire equipment throughout the province," he said. "This would be essential in an emergency such as war."

"The best equipment in the world will not fight fires without efficient, well-trained and happy personnel," he said "The proposed fire-fighting school to be set up by the province will provide the advanced technical training needed."

Mr. Daley told the meeting that local municipalities must recognize that the fireman is entitled to proper compensation, home life and recreation. "The fireman must realize that his is an unusual occupation," he said.

George vs. John

Campaign Issue In Durham Family Battle

By KAY O'NEILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BOWMANVILLE, June 23 — (CP)—This central Ontario town is sizzling like a firecracker in the Federal election campaign. The two owners of the town's only newspaper—The Canadian Statesman—are in opposite political camps, and the fight has reached into the columns of the paper.

One half-owner, red-haired John James, 38, is Liberal candidate in Durham constituency. His most spirited opposition comes from his Progressive-Conservative uncle, George W. James, who owns the other half of the 95-year-old weekly.

But Uncle George says he isn't opposing nephew John personally. In a recent editorial, the Uncle wrote: "I am not opposing him for this is not a personal matter, but I am opposing the issues of his party's policy."

But to the 5,000 people of Bowmanville, the June 27 election is strictly a battle between "Johnny" and "George." Elsewhere in the constituency, some 50 miles east of Toronto, there is more interest in the main election contest—between John James, Liberal, J. D. Kenny, C.C.F., and Charles E. Stephenson, Progressive-Conservative and a former Mayor of Port Hope, the other town in the riding. Mr. Stephenson was the last member for Durham.

At the crux of the family feud on the Statesman is an agreement the two partners signed in July, 1947. During the life of the agreement, Uncle George James has control of editorial policy and business administration. Nephew John James gets top spot in the Statesman's back shop—his official title is production manager.

They disagree on the duration of the agreement. John says it was for six months only. George James says it it still in effect, and nephew John says: "My uncle refuses to consider anything which will give me the smallest voice in editorial policy."

John James says he thinks the paper ought to be independent. "I feel that as a monopoly in this district, we have responsibilities to all subscribers to present the unbiased truth."

His white-haired uncle says, "I loathe neutral, straddle-the-fence papers. They are not constructive."

The paper doesn't carry much news about John James. It announced his nomination as Liberal candidate in the second paragraph of a front page report, saying "the candidate proved to be John M. James, Bowmanville. . . . The majority in the 315 votes cast was not disclosed."

However, nephew John breaks into print. He has been able to express his views in several bylined columns—and in paid advertisements, which are clearly labelled as such.

In spite of it all, Uncle James says: "John and I are still speaking."

Claim Reds Tortured Bishops

VATICAN CITY, June 23—(AP)—A Vatican source said today that two leading Bishops of the outlawed Uniate church in Romania have been put to torture by Communist officials in an effort to break their allegiance to the Pope. The Uniate church is a Romanian branch of the Roman Catholic faith. It was dissolved by the Romanian government last December.

The source said the Communist regime in Romania is bent upon "wiping out the two branches of the Roman Catholic faith there, from the ground up, and with the use of every means of terror, oppression and pressure."

This Vatican informant said the Communists demanded the Uniate church leaders return to the orthodox Romanian faith. Six Bishops refused. They were led by Monsignor Ion Suciu, Papal representative of the Metropolitan See of Fagaras and Albia Julia, this source said.

The informant said it is known that Suciu has been tortured, but it is not known whether he still lives.

In May, the informant here continued, Suciu's auxiliary, Msgr. Aftenie, was taken to the interior ministry where he also was put to torture. The other four bishops still held, this source said, believe they are only waiting their turn.

The Vatican source said the government has deposed three of the five Roman Catholic bishops of Romania.

Arrest Imminent?

PRAGUE, June 23—(AP)—Roman Catholic priests said today that Czechoslovakia's Communist government apparently has succeeded in clamping a wall of silence around Archbishop Joseph Beran. The Archbishop is now in semi-captivity in his palace in Prague. The informants said all their contacts with him had been broken off since last week-end.

Vatican informants and informed diplomatic sources here expressed the belief Archbish Beran might be formally arrested at any time. The Communist regime has accused him of anti-State agitation. He has resisted the Communists' campaign to bring the church under State control and to crush the influence of the Vatican in Czechoslovakia.

Scores Attitude Of Some Judges

KINGSTON, Ont., June 23 — (CP)—Arthur Maloney, 29-year-old Toronto lawyer, told delegates to the Canadian Penal Congress Wednesday that some Ontario magistrates and judges who were "high and mighty" might be improved if they were given "a taste of the lash."

Mr. Maloney said: "I criticize the high and mighty air with which some of our judges and judicial officers pass judgement on their fellow men, the imperviousness with which they preside and the sanctimonious air with which they pass sentence . . . often including the lash and the strap."

He said he was "disturbed about the mentality of these judges who are not upset when handing out such punishment . . . If they were given a taste of the lash themselves they would be less inclined to hand it out."

Tonnage of Berlin Airlift Nearing Two Million Mark

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 23—(AP)—The airlift next Sunday will mark the first anniversary of continuous operation to Berlin. By June 26, British and American planes will have flown more than 1,000,000,000 air miles in carrying 1,941,000 tons of supplies into Berlin, United States Air Force officials said today.

Throughout the Russian blockade from June, 1948, until May of this year, this aerial shuttle was Berlin's sole link with the western world. With rail service to the west severed by a strike, Berlin again depends on the airlift for life. But this "little blockade" may be ended before the anniversary.

Airmen of Britain and the United States have rammed supplies into the former German capital every day despite weather, strained supply lines and holidays.

Now the big fleet of 380 planes assigned to the airlift is lifting a mimimum of 8,200 tons daily over the Russian zone from Western Germany As of June 21, 1,900,617 tons of food and supplies had been carried in 230,556 flights.

Of the estimated 1,941,000 tons which will be "airlifted" by Sunday, more than 500,000 tons will be food, 1,200,000 tons of coal and 180,000 tons of other supplies.

51 Killed

Fifty-one British and American fliers have been killed in 17 fatal crashes.

From the start, both air and ground crews were put on a 24-hour day with the pilots flying two or more trips daily.

Airlift planes have worn out more than 800 propellers and 10,000 tires.

Canada Being Offered New Ship Signal Plan

LONDON, June 23 (CP) — A British coastal-approach system which automatically gives a ship or plane its position within a few yards at close range, is being offered to Canada and other countries.

The Decca Navigator Company, which operates the system in Britain and Denmark, is sending a delegation to Canada this year. An official said efforts will be made to interest the Canadian government in permitting an installation to cover shipping in the St. Lawrence.

The system, developed during the war for use by the Royal Navy on D-Day, was put into commercial use in 1947. A chain of four ground stations was built in Britain and later a similar chain was built in Denmark. The two chains transmit signals day and night to shipping from the western approaches to the southern Baltic.

More than 700 ships now are equipped with the special receivers which pick up the signals and automatically pinpoint the position. The system has a range of 300 miles.

Increase Would Cost 74 Million

MONTREAL, June 23 (CP) — The railways today estimated that demands made upon them last week by 16 non-operating railway brotherhoods on behalf of 135,000 workers would cost the companies $74,000,000 a year.

The joint statement, issued by N. B. Walton, executive vice-president of Canadian National Railways, and N. R. Crump, Canedian Pacific Railway vice-president, said the demands "are being studied."

Fifteen International Brotherhoods representing about 100,000 workers asked for a general increase of seven cents an hour effective July 17, and a 40-hour week, as against the present 48-hour week, effective Sept. 1, with the same take-home pay.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.S.L.) made similar demands for the 40-hour week on behalf of its 35,000 members but specified no effective date.

NEAR CAMPAIGN'S END—Piped to the platform by kilted highlanders, Prime Minister St. Laurent is shown addressing a crowd of 13,500—the largest he faced on his Dominion tour—as the election campaign entered its final week. Mr. St. Laurent said 1949 was a year of significance for Canada and that trade had reached unprecedented levels.

24 Bodies Recovered From Water

Burned Almost Beyond Recognition; 16 Were Passengers

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, June 23 (Reuters) — The Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) announced tonight that their plane, the Roermond, crashed today at Bari, Italy.

KLM officials said the plane was carrying 16 passengers and a crew of 12.

(Reports from Bari said 24 bodies have been recovered from the sea. All were said to be burned almost beyond recognition.)

KLM said the pilot was J. C. Plesman, a son of KLM's president, Dr. A. Plesman.

In making the annonucement, the KLM said it could be assumed there were no survivors.

KLM said they had no indication of the cause of the disaster.

Not Regular Plane

Earlier the KLM head office here said the aircraft, which crashed to-day in the Adriatic Sea near Bari, Italy, was not one of their regular planes on the Amsterdam-Batavia route.

The control room at Schipol Airport earlier said they had been in touch with the Roermond 55 minutes before she was due. The pilot reported "all well" at that time.

Relatives and friends of passengers awaiting the arrival of the Roermond, were taken into a conference room at the airport and given what news was available.

CARP, Ont., June 23 (CP) — Agriculture Minister Kennedy said Wednesday a special committee will be formed to deal with the problems of Ontario milk producers. It will include members of various organizations in the milk industry drawn from its four main branches—cream, condensed milk, cheese and whole milk.

He made the announcement while speaking at a political rally in Carleton constituency on behalf of George Drew, National Progressive-Conservative leader, who is seeking re-election in Carleton.

The committee would have from six to eight members It probably would begin meeting by the end of this month and would hold sessions all summer.

Get $1,136 Loot

TORONTO, June 23 (CP) — Burglars smashed open an office filing cabinet in a mid-town tavern early today and stole $1,136 in bills.

Routs Burglar

HAMILTON, June 23 (CP) —Jack Miller, 28-year-old shoe store manager, routed a would-be burglar after a desperate battle in his store early today.

Miller and his wife were sleeping at the back of the store when they were awakened by a noise. Miller picked up a heavy air pistol and rushed into the store. He struck the burglar several times with his fist and opened a gash on his head with a blow from the heavy pistol.

The burglar slipped away and made his escape down the street leaving a trail of blood behind him.

Asbestos Mine To Be Opened At Larder Lake

MONTREAL, June 23 (CP).—The Canadian Johns Manville Company announced here Wednesday night that they have discovered new properties in Ontario which will increase the flow of asbestos from Canada.

Lewis H. Brown, chairman of the board of the company, said in the announcement that $10,000,000 originally to be spent for the development of the company's Asbestos, Que., property, would now be used in connection with a new mine located near Larder Lake in Ontario. Larder Lake is 70 miles south-east of Timmins, between Kirkland Lake and Rouyn, Que.

The company's mine at Asbestos has been strike-bound since February 13 when 2,500 employees asked for wage increases to bring their basic hourly wage rate from 85 cents to $1 an hour. At present the company is operating with only 700 men.

Twice As Valuable

Mr. Brown said the new mine would yield about twice the ore value as that mined at Asbestos. He was unable to give the exact value of the ore in money valuation because of the "different methods of processing involved."

He told reporters, who met him at Dorval Airport just before he returned to his office in New York, that the new asbestos fibre "is among the best quality on this continent."

He predicted the new asbestos discovery will have a direct influence on the strike situation at Asbestos. New machinery will be needed to develop the mine, and this will have to come from the Asbestos plant.

"Orders for the movement of the machinery were given yesterday," he said.

Meanwhile officials at the gold-mining centre of Larder Lake confessed that they were puzzled by the announcement. Councillor Anthony Bos suggested the company might be using "a general mining term indicating a vast area from Timagami on the south up to Timmins on the north." He said there are scattered deposits of asbestos in the immediate area of Larder Lake but none known to possess commercial quantity.

A company spokesman here declined to reveal the exact location of the mine except to say "it is in the vicinity of Larder Lake." He said the site "might be made known in about two weeks."

Plan To Extend Rural Power

SEAFORTH, Ont., June 23 — (CP)—Premier Frost said in an address here Wednesday that Ontario's Progressive-Conservative government would spend $20,000,000 this year on rural hydro extention. A total of 35,000 new consumers would be added under the scheme. The electrification of all rural Ontario was in sight.

He addressed party supporters at a rally in the interest of Elgin McKinley, Progressive-Conservative candidate in the federal riding of Huron-Perth.

Mr. Frost said this was only one of the steps the provincial government was taking to make rural life more attractive. For years he had been hearing about the depopulation of farming districts. His government was determined that the people of rural Ontario would have the same opportunities as those in the towns and cities.

Chemong Causeway Opened By Highways Minister Before 8,000 Spectators

Peterborough County's Landmark Old Wooden Floating Bridge Replaced By Highway Across Lake

With a crisp snip of his scissors the Hon. G. H. Doucett, Minister of Highways and Public Works, Wednesday afternoon cut the ceremonial ribbon to officially open the Chemong Causeway, before 8,000 spectators. The rock-fill causeway joining Smith and Ennismore townships across Lake Chemong was a subject of heated controversy in County politics before it was finally approved.

Exact cost of the project is not yet known but it is expected to be less than $250,000. Original estimates put the total a $233,333 financed as follows: Department of Highways 80 per cent or $186,666.40; City of Peterborough a fixed amount of $10,000 to be paid on completion; Peterborough County 8/11 of the remainder, or $26,666.62; and Ennismore Twp. 3/11 of the remainder, or $9,999.98.

This firm road surface across the southern end of Lake Chemong replaces the wooden floating bridge, long considered a Peterborough County landmark. The first floating bridge was constructed in 1870 and was rebuilt by the County in 1901 at a total cost (including grants from both provincial and federal governments) of $31,000.

Three Alternatives

Decay of the wooden bridge necessitated one of three alternatives: scrap the bridge and build a road around the south end of Lake Chemong into Ennismore; replace it with another floating bridge; or build a causeway.

After much controversy, including predictions of a much higher cost of construction than had been estimated, an agreement was signed on December 4, 1947, to build a causeway for $233,333.

Tribute To Gifford

Speakers at the official opening in the middle of the Causeway and later at the reception and banquet given in the Empress Hotel paid tribute to Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore as the man chiefly responsible for making the project possible.

Before stepping forward to cut the ribbon Mr. Doucett extended congratulations to Mr. Gifford for his "untiring effort, courage and faith" in pushing the project forward to completion. And the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, said: "It is one of the footprints that James Gifford will leave behind him in his long municipal career."

The Minister also stated that it was the amendment to the Highway Improvement Act that allowed the Department to subsidize construction to the amount of 80 per cent. And he said he made no apology to the rest of the province as he felt the causeway would be of benefit to Ontario generally.

The new causeway is approximately three-quarters of a mile in length and allows three cars to pass on its gravel top surface. The bulk of the expense was incurred in filling operations (estimated at $216,500 in the contract with the Thompson Construction Co.).

Australians Shiver As Heating Banned

SYDNEY, Australia, June 23—(CP) — Sydney residents today shivered and squinted, longing for a hot bath and meal and lighted homes or cafes.

The city passed its third gloomy mid-winter day with gas, coal and coke sharply rationed. The temperature stood at 41 degrees but heating is banned, as is electricity for shops, offices and homes. Violators of these rules are subject to a fine of £500 (Australian) ($1,624.)

The restrictions are in force because of small coal reserves in the face of a threatened general miners' strike next Monday. Australia's 23,500 miners have demanded higher pay, shorter hours and other benefits.

Violence Marks Plant Reopening Two Men Slashed

NIAGARA FALLS, NY, June 23 (AP)—Marked by frequent violence, a strike of United Chemical Workers (CIO) against three plants of the National Carbon Company, entered its 46th day.

The strikers seek a union shop and a number of additional benefits.

Two strikers were slashed with a sickle Wednesday and another was injured by an automobile near one of the plants.

Reports of smashed windows, street fighting, threats and other acts of violence have become widespread since the Company reopened the plants Monday.

Fifty arrests have been made, 47 since Monday. Most of those arrested have pleaded innocent to various charges of assault, disorderly conduct and malicious mischief.

The attempt to resume production followed issuance of a temporary injunction restraining the union from mass picketing.

The strike has made about 950 workers idle. The plants produce carbon electrodes and anodes used in electric furnaces in the steel and chemical industries.

About 100 men returned to work Monday. Union officials claim the number has declined to fewer than 30.

The clashes Wednesday, witnesses said, came when a group of men tried to upset an automobile in which non-strikers were riding home from work.

Carl Stauffer, 29, and Peter Ziecki, 32, said a sickle was swung at their heads by a man in the car.

Police said the partly overturned car fell on Theodore Car, 25, causing back and leg inuries. He and Walter Kochan, 32, and Vincent Colling, Jr., 25, were arrested on disorderly conduct charges for allegedly trying to upset the car.

Yugoslavs File Border Protest

BELGRADE, June 23 (Reuters)—Yugoslavia protested yesterday to the Big Four powers against the rejection by the Council of Foreign Ministers of Yugoslav territorial claims on Austria.

A note handed by Vladimir Popovich, assistant foreign minister, to the Belgrade representatives of the four powers described the rejection as unacceptable.

It insisted that the Council of Foreign Ministers should re-examine the Yugoslav claims against Austria and take a just decision.

This should be done with the participation of and in consultation with the representatives of the Yugoslav Government.

The note declared that Yugoslavia could not renounce her claims on Slovene Carinthia or to reparations from Austria.

It called the ministers' decision a grave injustice to an allied country which had suffered heavy sacrifices in the war on the side of the anti-Hitlerite coalition.

"The American, British and French governments have stubbornly refused to do justice to the legitimate and justified Yugoslav demands as regards Slovene Carinthia and as regards reparations, demands as regards Slovene Carin-democratic principle of free dispositions of peoples and of justice."

A communique issued by the four foreign ministers in Paris Monday night said they had agreed Austria's frontiers should be those of Jan. 1, 1938.

Drew Promises Protection To French Folk

By The Canadian Press.

Political leaders are rolling out their final election appeals as the June 27 voting date draws near.

The campaign spotlight centred Wednesday night on Quebec Province, with both Prime Minister St. Laurent and Progressive-Conservative leader George Drew on a hunt for votes in the French-speaking province. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell is campaigning in his home Saskatchewan riding of Rosetown-Biggar.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking in Three Rivers and neighboring points, called upon Liberals to vote for official party candidates rather than those who ran under an independent-Liberal label. He did not want to be "an autocrat," but 'lone wolf candidates can compromise our victory."

Mr. Drew, speaking part of the time in French, campaigned the Montreal district and promised that a government under his leadership would be faithful to the spirit and letter of the constitution.

"National sovereignty, provincial autonomy, the liberty and initiative of French-Canadians," he said, "will be fully preserved by the policies that my government will put into effect."

Crop Insurance Urged

Mr. Coldwell, campaigning on the drought-harassed prairie plains, accused the Liberal administration of ignoring the need for crop insurance to protest prairie farmers from drought.

"In the face of disaster that drought can bring in western Canada," he said at Broderick, Sask., "the persistent inaction of the Liberal government in Ottawa comes close to criminal negligence."

At Lemberg, Sask., Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the Dominion "probably" will start work next year on a $60,000,000 irrigation project on the south Saskatchewan River, but added "first we want all the facts and all the answers."

Mr. St. Laurent directed specific attention to two Independent Liberal candidates as he warned of the dangers of division to a Liberal party he said he intends to lead as long as health and providence permit.

He retorted with vehemence to a Progressive Conservative French-language newspaper advertisement, which, he said, charged that he had been picked as leader to get the French-Canadian vote in Monday's federal election and then resign in favor of External Affairs Minister Pearson. The ad also said he had been picked by former Prime Minister King as his successor and not by delegates to the National Liberal Convention. Mr. St. Laurent said the election would reaffirm the broad basis of his choice by representatives of all sections of the country.

He is due to fly to Newfoundland today, four days before the country goes to the polls.

He had words for Jules Biron and Romeo Morrissette, Independent Liberal candidates in Three Rivers and Champlain ridings respectively. "Lone wolf candidates can jeopardize victory," he warned them, just as an Independent Liberal had given victory to another party in February's by-election at Nicolet-Yamaska.

There is nothing in the records of the Liberal government, "not even in their present set of promises," to give real hope that they are willing to tackle the job of providing some form of crop insurance, Mr. Coldwell charged.

"We in the C.C.F. are convinced that whatever the difficulties they are not insurmountable. Furthermore, the consequences of not having some form of crop insurance—consequences measured in terms of human suffering and economic collapse—are too great to delay any longer.

In Platform

The 61-year-old CCF leader, said that his party's 14-point program for agriculture included a plan of crop insurance.

Mr. Coldwell said the C.C.F. pledges itself to fight for crop insurance and irrigation to protect the western Canadian economy from its natural hazards.

In Ville St. Laurent near the giant plant of Canadair Aircraft Co., he told a large gathering including some employees of the plant, that not a single job would be lost if his party takes office after Monday's Federal election.

In fact, he said, in all likelihood opportunities will be increased, because his party would expand Canada's air services.

Mr. Drew said he had been surprised to hear that public men speaking outside the province of Quebec had intimated there was something sinister in the fact that as Premier of Ontario he had co-operated closely with Premier Duplessis. Canada would get along "a lot better," he said, if there was more of the co-operation which existed between the governments of Ontario and Quebec.

Congressmen Come To Blows

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP)—A fist-swinging brawl between the 83-year-old dean of the House, Representative Adolph Sabath (Dem., Ill.), and Representative E. E. Cox (Dem., Ga.) plunged the House of Representatives yesterday into a roaring battle over housing legislation.

On the floor of the House, the veteran Sabath and the 69-year-old Cox went one fast round to no decision. Each landed once or twice. Long after it was all over they shook hands and said "sorry."

But while it lasted, they were punching away solidly, and setting the tone for debate over one of the most controversial bills of the session—a measure to authorize a long-range housing program.

The brief, toe to toe slugging match wasn't even over the issues involved. It developed out of an argument over how much time Cox could have for a speech.

The eye-witness version of Representative Francis Walter (Dem., Pa.) was Sabath was in charge of allotting time for debate. Cox walked up to Sabath and asked for 10 minutes. Sabath said he couldn't spare that much. Walter said that Cox called Sabath a liar.

"Cox slapped him in the mouth and knocked off his glasses," Walter said. "Sabath jabbed him with a left and right. A couple of beauties."

Representative James Delaney (Dem., N.Y.) pushed his 200 pounds between them. That ended the scrap.

more, goes under the water and into the mud of Chemong Lake a distance of 44 ft. Another six feet of fill was placed on top of that—the uniform level above water level.

A top dressing of clay, six-inches thick, is next; then three inches of pit run gravel, and three inches of crushed gravel. Metal beam guide rails, painted white, and white posts have been placed along the sides.

A swing span approximately 90 ft. long has been placed near the Smith end of the causeway by the Department of Transport. This allows boats to sail into the southern end of the lake and helps maintain a free flow of water thus preventing possible stagnation.

Others besides the two provincial Ministers who were introduced at the opening ceremony were C. W. West of the Department of Transport, Ottawa, in the absence of the deputy-minister; Jack Miller, Deputy Minister of Highways; J. D. Kean, County Engineer and Road Supervisor; and Ewart Marston, District Engineer.

Addressing the large crowd Reeve Gifford, master of ceremonies said in part:

"We are happy today in the realization of a dream come true Another crossing for Chemong Lake, this one permanent in construction has been completed."

Organized Ferry Service

"Our ancestors in 1844 organized a ferry service. This primitive conveyance provided a means of transportation between Ennismore and Smith Townships for some 26 years. As traffic increased the ferry became insufficient. So in 1870 the first floating bridge was constructed at a location further up the lake."

He then told of the construction of the last floating bridge in 1901 financed by contributions of $31,000 from the County, $3 500 from the Province and $8,000 from the Dominion, presumably for the swing span.

The necessity for a change was recognized for many years and various attempts were made to obtain a more permanent year-around structure, he said. The bridge had become as obsolete as the former ferry under modern traffic conditions.

"As we stand here we can fully appreciate the contrast in highway standards of today as compared to those in use at the beginning of the century. The crossing would not have been complete unless the former four-ton swing span was replaced by one of greater carrying capacity."

Mr. Gifford paid tribute to the Department of Transport, Ottawa and the local office for a swing span that should withstand traffic conditions for many years to come.

"The work on the swing span has been handled from our Trent Canal office in Peterborough in a very capable manner," he stated.

After paying tribute to the co-operation of provincial, federal, and civic officials he said: "We hope and expect that the structure on which we stand today will justify in the years to come the foresight and good judgment of all those in positions of trust. . . That it will prove to be another link in modern highway construction to add to the development of our community."

Warden William Darling also spoke highly of Mr. Gifford's work. "It must be a great satisfaction to him to see the results that have been obtained," he said.

"I wish to congratulate Mr. Scott, Senator Duffus and Mr. Glover for their assistance in securing the co-operation and financial grants from their governments to make this causeway possible. I think too, that members of the County Council are to be congratulated for their co-operation in assisting Mr. Gifford in making demands upon the province, the Dominion and the City of Peterborough."

He stated special mention should be made of the contribution toward the success of the project made by the late Gilbert McIlmoyl of Smith.

"The opening of the Causeway to replace the floating bridge from Smith to Ennismore is satisfying the wish that has been strong in the hearts and minds of the people of Ennismore for generations," said the Warden. . . . "I am happy to be here and to join with the people of Ennismore in celebrating the completion of this great public work."

"I am delighted to see this $250,000 project completed," said the Minister of Highways at the conclusion of his brief address. And as he cut the ribbon while standing on the Ennismore side he said: "It is with great pleasure that I declare the Causeway open."

A roar went up from the large crowd, only a small fraction of whom could see the ceremony which took place in the middle of the Causeway. As the officials walked away many members of the crowd rushed up to congratulate Reeve Gifford.

The Causeway was packed with people for more than half its length and others sat on the hill on the Smith side watching the speedboat races, parachute jumping and other events.

"It's the biggest crowd I've even seen in Bridgenorth," commented one old timer as the spectators began to disperse.

City's Cheque

At the banquet which followed Mayor Swanston presented Mr. Gifford with a cheque for $10,000 as the Peterborough portion of the cost of the project.

He congratulated the County Council on its work and stated it was for the good of the whole County.

Gordon K. Fraser said he hoped it would be named the "Jimmy Gifford Causeway."

Deputy Minister of Highways Jack Miller recalled that Mr. Gifford at the beginning of his political career 17 years ago had broached him on the subject of the Causeway.

"Well," he said with a chuckle, "it's there now. I hope you like it."

Mr. Scott stated that the increased assessment which will accrue because of the larger tourist industry will repay the initial expenditure.

Mr. Doucett said that in 1948 $300,000 was spent in Peterborough County on development roads of which $186,000 was for the Causeway. Work amounting to $145,000 is now under way on development roads in the County; and $42,000 has been granted to the City of Peterborough in the form of subsidy. Formerly there was no subsidy to the City, he said.

This year more than $2o,000,000 is being paid in provincial subsidies, said the Minister.

Agriculture Research Methods Criticized

VANCOUVER, June 23 (CP)—Agricultural economists in convention at the University of British Columbia yesterday heard Prof. C. W. Vrooman of Oregon State College condemn the type of research that attacks farm problems with "shot-gun" generalizations, "filling the air with pellets and hoping to hit something useful." He declared that more detailed study of practical problems within a general framework was necessary.

"It is no good to tell the farmer that his cows will give more milk if they are fed more grain when this entails the farmer planting special crops and cutting down his overall revenue," he said.

"Improvement in one phase of an agricultural program may mean an economic loss in another. The picture as a whole must remain foremost in the mind of the researcher."

TORONTO, June 23 — (CP) — First year driver Charlie Fowler of Mattawa, Ont., was admitted to hospital here Wednesday night shortly after his racing car flipped over in mid-air and crashed through a fence at a special racing meet. He suffered undetermined chest injuries.

Fowler was participating in a benefit night to help defray medical expenses of Ronnie Knott, Toronto ace, severely injured recently at Beamsville, Ont.

3 Shots At Him Says Cabin Man

People in a group of tourist cabins just outside Courtice, north of Bowmanville, heard three rifle shots Wednesday afternoon which narrowly missed Reinhold Lipz, proprietor of the cabins.

Mr. Lipz called Provincial Police Albert L. Kitching after he had ducked to avoid the shots, in a trench he was digging behind one of the cabins. He claimed the shots were fired at him by a 15-year-old boy. No action was taken by Constable Kitching, however, who is making further investigations.

Young Driver Fined For Reckless Driving

Found guilty of careless driving, following an accident on the Lakefield highway, Harry Dunford, a taxi driver, was fined $15 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Thursday morning.

The accident occurred on Highway 28, 400 feet north of the Drive-In Theatre the evening of May 25. Dunford smashed into a car driven by Wm. Russell, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell, 1035 Water St.

Russell testified he had received an "awful jolt" from behind.

Dunford said he was travelling about 25 miles an hour behind the Russell car after passing two cars, when his car seemed to shoot ahead as if someone hit him from behind or someone had stepped on his accelerator. He said his foot had been just above the brake pedal.

New Zealand Superior In Grassland Farming

GUELPH, June 23 (CP)—Improved agricultural methods, particularly in grassland farming, enable New Zealand farmers to feed 50 per cent more dairy cattle and 2½ times as many beef animals as Ontario farmers, Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Dominion Experimental Farms, said Wednesday night. Dr. Archibald recently returned from a visit to New Zealand.

Addressing delegates to the Ontario Poultry and Livestock Conference, he said that farmers in New Zealand do not feed grain to cattle but treat pasture lands with phosphate every three years. He said he also noted the heavy use of legumes to build up nitrogen in the soil. Perennial rye was used as one of the pasture bases.

EYE TOPICS

CONTACT LENSES

Contact Lenses as the name implies, are lenses that are worn under the eyelid and rest on the front of the eye.

They are practically invisible and proved of great cosmetic advantage to people who had to wear very thick and heavy lenses for the correction of gross amounts of refractive errors. They have also proved of great value to athletes particularly skiers, divers, swimmers, football players and so on.

However until recently these lenses had one serious defect with most wearers and that was the cloudiness that appeared after wearing for periods from four to six hours. This problem has now been solved and there are three types of lenses available which have eliminated these difficulties and they may now be worn indefinitely.

Should you desire further information about these lenses we would be pleased to discuss them with you and can advise you where they can be obtained. Enquiries should be addressed to A. Ward Smith, Optometrist, 341 George St., Peterborough (over Selkirk's). A personal visit to Mr. Smith at this address would be even more desirable.

Fourth Season For Children At Illabee Lodge

COBOURG, June 23 (ENS)—Illahee Lodge, summer home for handicapped children, was re-opened Wednesday for its fourth season. It was formerly the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dennis, U.S. summer residents of Cobourg and after Mr. Dennis's death, it was donated by Mrs. Dennis for charitable welfare use. The beautiful home is financed by the Kinsmen Clubs of Toronto and operated by the Neighbourhood Works of that city, to provide a convalescent home for children suffering from heart, diabetic and chest diseases.

When the summer is over and the children gone, old people are brought down for a vacation from the heat and confined quarters of the city. This year the lodge has a new station wagon, donated by Mrs. Dennis, and the lodge has received various items of equipment from Kinsmen clubs and Kinette clubs of Toronto.

Chairman at the opening was C. H. Poole of Toronto. Mayor Joe Smith expressed the good wishes of the town on the resumption of the work of Illahee Lodge and assured the committee of the co-operation of Cobourg.

F. N. Stapleford, secretary of the Neighbourhood Workers' Association, was introduced by Mr. Poole as the man who did more work for Illahee Lodge than everyone else put together. Mr. Stapleford listed the improvements to Illahee Lodge, mentioning the new station wagon, new furnishings and a microscope for the laboratory.

"Illahee Lodge is becoming much better known all the time," Mr. Stapleford said. "The comradeship of the Kinsmen Clubs and the Neighbourhood Workers' Association has enabled us to do a job that either of us could not have done alone. The Kinsmen tag day in Toronto was the best in years and we received a cheque for $12,000 with the promise of more to come. So we have money in the bank, are in the "black" and in time should be able to do all right.

"We have had one group already of 65 old people and when the children's outings are over at the end of the summer, we will have three more groups of old people for a two weeks' stay each. The children will have three weeks' holidays. Fifty are here now of whom 17 are boys and 33 are girls," Mr. Stapleford said.

Restore Health

Dr. Chute pointed out that many people judged a child sick when the youngster was a cripple or some other form of orthopaedic case. The children at Illahee Lodge looked healthy on the outside but all had medical disabilities. Heart disease did not show on the outside but the fresh air, rest, proper diet, all had a great deal to do with restoring the sick child to a healthy state.

"This is a very worth-while project," said the Hon. William Goodfellow, in opening Illahee Lodge for this season. "Nobody appreciates more, the work of private organizations such as yours, than the Department of Welfare."

"One enters public life such as my job, to find some people a bit spoiled and looking for something for nothing," he declared. "It is good to find an organization such as yours, giving something to humanity. I hope that more such projects as these are sponsored. We develop a real social democracy by sharing with others less fortunate," he said.

Were They Really Intimidated?

We shall probably be accused of cynicism if we say that we do not expect the charge of intimidating voters which has been brought against Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland to outlast the general election. Nevertheless, that is our opinion. When the outcome of the election is known, and when there is no longer anything to be gained by proceeding against Mr. Smallwood, the case will look very different to those who have charged him, and the long and weary course of law necessary to try him will seem uninviting. We do not expect that he will be fined. His indiscretion (if it was that) will have served its purpose by providing that minor scandal which is to an election what salt is to an egg.

* * *

What did Mr. Smallwood do? In the course of an election speech he told his hearers that "not one red cent will go to those who support Progressive Conservatives." He says that his remark was meant to be facetious: his political opponents insist that it was a threat. In this difference of attitude lies Premier Smallwood's best defence. He is very popular in Newfoundland, and we dare say that for every man his chargers can persuade to go into the witness box and say that they felt themselves intimidated by his words, Mr. Smallwood will be able to find a man who will swear that he laughed heartily at the Premier's excellent joke. His lawyer will no doubt put it to the court that Mr. Smallwood's prosecutors are humourless, slow-witted fellows, incapable of appreciating the delightful nuance of the Premier's speech. We cannot imagine any judge wanting to be on the bench when such a case was up for trial.

* * *

The likelihood of trial, however, is small. By Tuesday next Premier Smallwood's words will be ancient history, and a triumph over him would be a costly and belated victory. People who love the law enough to proceed with such a prosecution are rare, even among politicians.

Again — Russia vs. The Church

Once again we are confronted with the struggle between Russian totalitarianism and the Church of Rome; the drama is familiar, but this time the setting is in Czechoslovakia. The usual efforts are being made to silence the Church and to discredit its leader, Archbishop Beran.

The position of a powerful church in a communist country is a difficult one. A mass uprising, or protests from the minor clergy, are out of the question; Russia never hesitates to crush such popular movements with force. It is a simple matter to refuse ration cards to dissident Catholics, and literally to starve them into submission. In such circumstances mass movements are useless, and it is only the protest of a leader which can hope to carry weight, or reach the outside world.

Such a situation lays a heavy burden upon a man like Archbishop Beran. Because he is well known outside his country as well as in it, and because he has a great weight of moral force on his side, he must make a lonely stand against a mighty enemy. His people may love him and grieve for him, but their power to give him concrete help or to rally to his side is sharply limited. All that he can hope to do is to make a brave fight, and to leave a memory behind him which will keep the flame of freedom burning in the breasts of those who loved him.

Communism regards the Christian faith, quite rightly, as a dangerous enemy. Among the basic precepts of Christianity are the sacredness of the individual soul, and the holiness of conscience. Communism does not deal with the world to come or with single souls; it deals with this world and with obedient masses. Communism has no use for conscience; it provides its followers with a ready-made conscience. But many times in the world's history one brave man has been the lever which has overturned a vast power, and such men as Cardinal Mindzenty and Archbishop Beran are determined that there shall be no lack of such levers, even though they may be broken in their resistance to the enemy.

Citizens' Privilege And Duty

A hundred years ago people did not consider the right to vote with nonchalance or indifference. The right had been too hard to win and for most voters of the time it was a privilege as recent as 1832. Not until the second and third Reform Bills of 1867 and 1884 could the franchise be considered at all wide. Universal suffrage belongs to our own century. Yet, the right to vote having been won, too many men and women of these days do not use their votes. Do they believe that the right is more important than the vote? If they do they are mistaken, for if the vote is not used, the right to vote will disappear as surely as sight wanes if the eyes are not used. An inactive electorate is the prey of dictators whose first act upon seizing power is to quash free elections.

At the Provincial elections last June the voters of the Peterborough riding made a fairly good showing, better than in 1945. About 72 per cent. of the qualified electors went to the polls. Nevertheless, 28 per cent did not bother; that is nine thousand men and women who could have voted did not. Surely very few of these nine thousand had adequate excuses for not voting? Every facility for using the ballot is given: polling booths handy to homes, a sufficient number of voting hours, full information on candidates, secret ballots, and usually even voters' transportation to the polls is provided for those who ask it by party campaign headquarters. Perhaps voting has been made too easy.

The right to vote is a dearly-won privilege. Is it too harsh to say that the people who for no good reason neglect to vote should have the privilege taken from them? Voting is a duty which responsible citizens owe themselves, their neighbours and their country. Is it too drastic to say that qualified voters who do not fulfil the duty are irresponsible and should have their citizenship rights taken from them?

Abuse of The Parole System

In September, 1948, two Montreal policemen were murdered during a bank robbery at Longue Pointe. One of the three men who were convicted of this crime, Noel Cloutier, was hanged on March 11, Douglas Perrault was hanged last Friday, and Donald Perrault will be hanged on July 8. The Montreal Gazette gives us some information about these men which is of great public interest, and sheds a cruel light on our Canadian prison parole system. What sort of men were they?

Douglas Perrault had served three terms of three or four months each after convictions on charges of theft and housebreaking. After the last of these sentences he was again convicted of attempted theft and was sent down for two years; he was released on parole before a year had passed. Once again, in 1946, he was given another two years for theft, and once again he was paroled. In September, 1948, he murdered while robbing a bank.

Noel Cloutier has a record which begins in 1944. In 1946 he was convicted of a jewel theft which brought the robbers $15,000 and received the fantastic sentence of six months. After an appeal from the Crown this was raised to four years, but after a year Cloutier was paroled. He murdered while robbing a bank in September, 1948.

Donald Perrault was given three years for robbery in 1947, but his lawyer appealed successfully for him and he was released on bail. In 1945 he had been convicted of eight auto thefts and had received twenty-three months jail. But he was paroled before he had served much of that term. It was while on parole that he committed his offence in 1947. In 1948 he murdered while robbing a bank.

The public will wonder what parole boards mean by releasing men with criminal records who have jumped bail, or committed crimes while previously on parole. Surely such conduct is an invitation to criminals to think that parole boards are easy marks, that the law is a fraud, and that crime can be made to pay? All of these men had been trusted, and had shown themselves unworthy of trust. At last they killed two young policemen. For years they had been a drag on society, and yet they were persistently given the benefit of the doubt. Why?

These three men are not isolated instances. Their record does, however, suggest that our parole boards behave with foolish leniency—a leniency which seems unrelated to the most elementary common sense. Our system of justice is not perfect, but it will not be bettered by mistaken indulgence on the part of parole boards whose chief job is not to oblige proven criminals, but to protect society.

Reversal Of Soviet Policy In Eastern Germany

By W. N. EWER

THE reversal of Soviet policy in Germany was revealed in a now familiar way. There was no explanation either to the Western Ministers, to the Soviet people or to the satellite Communist parties called upon suddenly to follow a new line. There was indeed no admission any change has taken place. There cannot be: For to admit scrapping of the old policy would be to admit Stalin has blundered or at least miscalculated. And no Communist dare whisper such a thought. The first canon of Stalinism is that Stalin not only is but always has been right. He is incapable of error.

So to understand the reasons and therefore the implications of this astonishing change one must look at the facts. Why has the German policy so ceremonially announced at Warsaw only eleven months ago been suddenly discarded? Why has the Soviet Government suddenly decided there must not, at any rate for the present, be a "democratic all-German Government" but only a non-elected "German state council" dealing with "economic and administration questions" under the "supreme power" of a revived Four-Power Control Council?

◇ ◇ ◇

THE first reason is clearly political. A year ago Stalin, misled both by the German Communists and by his own officials in Germany, believed a democratic united Germany would be easily converted into a Communist-dominated Germany. Unity, democratic institutions and the withdrawal of occupying forces would rapidly bring into existence a German state which would politically and economically ally itself with the Soviet Union and dissociate itself from Western Europe.

BUT first the developments in the West, then the shock of the recent Soviet zone elections, have shown Stalin and his colleagues this was an idle dream. A united Germany with any freedom of choice would choose association with Western Europe, not association with the Soviet Union and its satellites. Therefore, the Warsaw programme must be abandoned. There must be no "democratic all-German Government" but a continuance of partition so that the Soviet Union can at any rate maintain control of the Eastern zone.

But why at the same time propose re-establishment of the Allied Control Council and of an all-Germany economic and administrative body subject to it? Again the answer is surely clear. Politically, the Soviet Government still wants to keep Germany divided, to retain its own complete control of the Eastern zone. But economically it is in very grave difficulties.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHEN two years ago the Soviet Government forbade its satellite states to take part in the Organisation for European Economic Cooperation, it had grandiose plans of an Eastern Europe whose economy would be closely linked with that of the Soviet Union, separated as far as possible from that of the West European and overseas countries. For two years Soviet statesmanship has been trying to put those grandiose plan into effect. The result has been to create an intense economic crisis especially in Czechoslovakia and Eastern Germany. The Soviet Union for all its boasting of economic strength is in no condition to help its satellites. Indeed, their troubles are in part due to the fact it has been ruthlessly and shortsightedly exploiting them by various devices.

IN passing, one may note the cautious attitude of the Soviet Union in the Chinese Civil War. It is loudly applauding the Chinese Communists but does nothing to help them either militarily or economically. The reason is almost certainly that it is in no position to do so. When the Chinese Communists realise that faced by enormous economic difficulties they can expect no help from Moscow, the political repercussions may be important.

But in Europe the result is that Moscow has been forced to realise its satellite countries must either rebuild their economic connections with the West or run the risk of collapse. They are already at the point at which they need not only a resumption of trade but Western help in the shape of credits.

THAT is true also of Eastern Germany. Four years of Soviet administration and exploitation have brought the zone to a condition in which it too needs not only trade with the West but help from the West. The relaxation of the two mark currencies is only one symptom of the situation. And it is notable that in Berlin the Soviet negotiations have proposed a currency agreement which would mean in effect the giving of very large West mark credits to the Soviet zone.

The Vyshinsky proposal follows logically There must be a German body representing the "economic organs" of the East and West. The sentiment of national solidarity in such a body might mean that, through it, the West would provide economic assistance for the East. And it must be under quadripartite control so that the Soviet military governor can impose his veto if the "German Council" shows signs of any independence or of any desire to "interfere" in the economy of the Eastern zone.

In short, the change of the Soviet "line" is the direct result of the failure of both its political and economic policies in Eastern Germany and in Eastern Europe as a whole That is its real significance.

POWERFUL

Two moonshiners from the mountains were taking their first train trip. They had heard of soda pop, but neither had ever tasted any, so when the vendor came through the car they each bought a bottle.

The first moonshiner wiped the lip of the bottle with his hand and took a long drink —just as the train entered a tunnel.

"How d'you like it, Jed?" asked his companion in the darkness.

"Don't tetch that stuff, Lem. I been struck blind!"

Letters To The Editor

FAIR PLAY IN B. C.

Sir: This note is to remind you and the people of Peterborough, that the C.C.F. was not beaten in the British Columbia election. The C.C.F. gained 50,000 votes. If we had received fair play in a three party fight the results would have, we feel sure been quite different. After all could the heavy weight champion of the world win if he were matched with two other champions at the same time?

Sincerely Yours,
JAMES W. CROWE.

PROFIT ON SALES OR INVESTMENT?

Sir: Since the record profits shown by the large corporations last year, the Chambers of Commerce, and the Manufacturers Associations here and in the United States have embarked on a carefully planned campaign designed to confuse the general public. The newspapers including the Examiner are contributing to this confusion by commenting on the thing editorially.

The purpose of the campaign is to prove to the public that the big companies really make only a tiny profit. This is done by taking the sales dollars and breaking it down, so much for labour, so much for materials and etc., until there is about two or three cents left which is the profit for the people who supply the capital, and people are led to believe that the return on the invested money is two or three per cent.

This is plain trickery, and I am sorry to see the Examiner lending its assistance to such a campaign.

The "sales" dollar and the "invested" dollar are very different, as the following little story will show.

A man bought a store for $10,000.

He sold $50,000 worth of goods in a year. His total costs including a good salary for himself and some of his relatives were $49,000.

His profit of $1,000 was of course 2% of the $50,000 "sales".

Profit on his invested $10,000 was 10%.

Many big companies sell hundreds of millions of dollars worth of goods in a year.

Your truly,
W. I. TRIGGS.

FAVOURS DEVALUATION

Sir: Nearly every country has its devaluation advocates. Sweden, they say, is on the brink because its chief exports, woodpulp, is finding its price too high in competitive export markets, and the producers are pressing the government for devaluation. In Canada it's the gold mines, chiefly. In the U.S. Wall Street wants other currencies devalued. What makes devaluation so desirable from the different viewpoints?

A few years ago importers of oranges, coal, coffee, etc. paid the bank or Foreign Exchange Control board an extra 10% for U.S. funds to make their payments. Then when the Canadian exporter turned in the U.S. dollars received for shipment he was given an extra 10% Canadian—that which the importer had paid. In other words the bank or control board collects from the importer and redistributes. Actually the consumer pays for the importer, with taxes and mark-up added.

The gold mines shared in the redistribution but the premium on the $124 million of gold produced last year would be only a drop out of the bucket.

In 1948 U.S. investors placed $68 million in Canada. Under devaluation they would have paid 90% of the market price for any stocks, bonds or industries purchased and we consumers would have contributed the balance.

Similarly, tourists who brought in $270 million.

Interest on bonds, and profits paid to U.S. investors and parents companies amounted to $275 million. Canadian consumers would have coughed up another 10% to add to this.

Our government borrowed 150 million U.S. dollars from New York insurance companies last year without premium.

And our exports totalled $3,075 million, all of which would have been subsidized by the consumers, even where prices received were fabulous.

Some of these outlays add up to quite a loss for Canada, while the redistribution within Canada would also lower the standard of living because only a comparatively small number of share-holders or producers-for-export would gain more than they would lose in higher living costs. Too, the savings of Canadians in war bonds, mortgages and life insurance would purchase less, and the effectiveness of family allowances and other social securities would be impaired.

In the case of Swedish pulpwood, devaluation of 10% would enable the manufacturers to maintain their price and ship eleven tons for the price of ten with the consumers paying the difference.

Your very truly,
JOHN W. GILBERT.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

Another parable spake he unto them: The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened. All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them. (Matt. 13: 31-34.)

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the oGd of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.

And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord. (Isa. 2: 2-5.)

Jimmy And The Circus

Never before have we heard of a politician sharing a night billing with a circus. That's what happened to Hon. Jimmy Gardiner at Medicine Hat.

Of late years the circus managements have shunned parades, but whether it was the persuasive ability of the Medicine Hat Liberals or the fear of competition from Gardiner, there was a circus parade through the streets of Medicine Hat prior to the night performances of both. The telephants, lions, tigers, camels, riding horses and the circus band took part in the "Gardiner-Veiner victory parade", tracing a figure eight through the business section of the Alberta city.

The Liberal committee organized the victory parade which was comprised of floats and decorated cars and bicycles, with "Veiner balloons" distributed en route. Mr. Gardiner and Liberal candidate Veiner shared the honours with the beasts of the jungle and the polar bears of the Far North.

Timber-Cullers

The other day the Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario announced the names of those men who had successfully passed the necessary examination and had been recommended for full licences as sawlog and pulpwood cullers in Ontario.

There were 12 listed—and not one of them was from Northwestern Ontario. As a matter of fact six of the 12 were from Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

It seems curious that young men born and brought up where the tall trees grow should be conspicuous by their absence in such a list.—Fort William Times-Journal.

Yankee Doodles, a bay mare owned and driven by Wallace Munro of Embro, Ont., took top honors in the single roadster event at the St. Catharines horse show Wednesday. Winner of the western Palomino classes was Tomasino from the Half Dollar stables of Hamilton.

Skipacross, owned by W. R. Ballard, won the Jumpers' Special after placing first Tuesday night in the preliminary knockdown and out stake.

Bob Falkenburg scratched himself and Gertrude Moran from the mixed doubles to conserve his physical resources for an all-out defence of his Wimbledon Men's Singles Tennis Championship.

In explaining his withdrawal, Falkenburg said he was troubled by a "slight back strain" and did not wish to risk further injury in the mixed tournament. He refused to discuss the injury, but another American entry said Falkenburg had been playing with his back taped.

Two British Wightman Cup players—Jean Quertier and Joan Curry—were defeated. They were the only seeded home players in the singles events.

Quertier, seeded sixth, lost to a lesser known Briton, Mrs. E. W. Dawson-Scott, 6-4, 6-4. Curry, eighth seed, fell to Mrs. Sheila Summers of South Africa, 6-3, 7-5.

George F. Slosson, 95, whose half-dollar cue aided him to world's championships in six types of billiards, died at Boston Tuesday. Slosson was a child prodigy in billiards. At the age of eight in Ogdensburg, N. Y., he made his shots while propped up in a box at the table side. The world famous native of De Kalb, N. Y. included among his billiard pupils such well known contemporaries as King Edward VII, Mark Twain, Charles A. Dana, France's President McMahon, and Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

A Cuban pitcher accused of "climbing up into the stands and knocking hell out of a fan" was suspended indefinitely from organized baseball. President J. Walter Morris of the Big State League announced at Dallas Wednesday the penalty against Ramon Rogers of the Sherman-Denison Club. Morris also fined Rogers $50.

A 1,006 pound black marlin, caught in Panama Bay may provide a world record for Louis Schmidt Jr., 33-year-old American angler who has only one arm and one leg.

The fish, measuring 14 feet in length with a girth of 76 inches, was caught June 11, five miles south of San Joe Island. Its weight is 30 pounds above the accepted world record that has stood since 1926. Schmidt, an employee of the Panama Canal at Balboa, hooked the fish on the first day of a nine-day fishing trip. But the story was not told until Wednesday as preparations were made to file a record claim with the International Game Fish Association in New York.

Dr. Stanton, owned and driven by W. L. (Lindy) Fraser of Forest, Ont., broke two Buffalo raceway records in winning the $10,000 Great Lakes race Wednesday.

The gelding took the mile dash in 2:04, excelling Gay One's mark of 2:04 1-5 set earlier in the meeting, and paced the 1 1-16th mile in 2:11, erasing the former record of 2:13 1-5 established by Jimmy Cred in 1947.

Leafs, Orioles Split Doubleheader

By The Associated Press.

One of the reasons for Buffalo's ability to stay on top in the International League is the Bison's knack of coming from behind.

Last night, for the second straight time, the Bisons snatched victory from almost certain defeat by rallying in the closing innings to edge out the runner-up Jersey City Giants.

Trailing 10-6 when they came to bat in the last half of the eighth, the Bisons tallied three times and added another in the ninth to force the game into extra innings. A wild pitch, with the bases full, by relief pitcher Ford Smith presented the Bisons with the run that gave them an 11-10 victory. Marty Tabacheck scored from third on the wild heave. The day before, the Bisons came from behind with a six-run ninth to defeat Jersey, 10-9.

Baltimore Orioles overcame an even larger deficit to defeat Toronto, 12-10, in the second game of a doubleheader and earn a split. The Leafs won the opener 7-3. The Leafs built up a 9-0 advantage after six innings, but the Orioles kept plugging away, finally scoring seven runs in the ninth to tie 10-10. Then they added the winning runs in the 10th. Pitcher Bill Payne won his own game, driving in the tie-breaking run. Ed Sanicki's eighteenth homer helped lefty Oscar Judd win his fifth for Toronto in the opener.

Newark scored twice in the eleventh to take an 8-7 decision from the Rochester Redwings. Frank Lamanna allowed one hit in three relief innings to receive credit for the victory.

John Hetki scattered four hits in pitching Syracuse Chiefs to a 6-1 triumph over Montreal. Dan Bankhead was charged with his second loss in nine decisions.

Dadson Hurls Petes To Win As Team Captures Top Spot

Beating Batawa Shoemen 9-1 here Wednesday night, the Petes broke a first-place tie with Oshawa in the COBL to take over top spot alone. With Lefty Bill Dadson hurling five-hit ball and fanning 13, the homesters bunched blows and cashed in on miscues for an easy win, while playing errorless ball themselves. They shelled out Doug Mott with none away in the first, Max Smith pitching then till Gord Muffitt took over to start the seventh.

Al Menzies led the hitters with four for five, as Joe Lowrey hit three in five tries, and Howie Dalton and Lefty Dadson each got two for four. Dalton hit a triple and Lowrey a double. None of the visitors got more than one safety but Ken Peacock connected for a two-bagger. The third-place Shoemen were never in the hunt after the Petes' four-run drive in the first frame.

Small Crowd

While it wasn't a bad game at all, the fact that the Petes took an early commanding lead made for little excitement among the small crowd of fans present. The local ballsters hustled all the way to turn in a neat fielding effort, and Dadson was in fine form all the way, not walking a man till the eighth. He did let a man reach first till the fifth inning, and only five were left on base all through. Their one run came in the fifth on three singles of the five Batawa got throughout. Menzies and Stewart had a dozen put-outs each. Beckstead looked good in left for the losers and Solmes had a smart catch.

Lindsay Wins By 9 To 1 In Lakeshore

By FRED MAYBEE

Lindsay Intermediates turned the tables on H. B. McGuiness' Young Petes 9-1, last evening before a large throng of Scugog baseball fans to even the score in games to date between the clubs, each with one win.

Doug Loucks allowed five hits, struck out five and was never in difficulty. Wade twirled good ball, too, but again his support cracked at critical times to enable five unearned runs to score and ruin his cause before he gave way to Sullivan in the sixth. The latter had the crowd in kinks with his colorful antics, held the homesters scoreless for the remainder of the game and picked a runner off first. The McTaggart brothers and Widdys were good for Lindsay. Young Petes may be at home Saturday against Oshawa.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

As Peterborough goes so go the lawn bowling tournaments, at least in this district.

Over at Cannington, on the half holiday in the men's rinks tournament our club sent up six entries, just half of the entire entry, and it was the same down at Port Hope when the ladies' club sent down three entries—also just half of the entire entry. We're just wondering what is wrong with the tournaments in this district and also wondering how these clubs would hold tournaments if it wasn't for the support that they receive from this club. Both of these tournaments have in the past been well patronized, but this year seems to be a let-up.

Our boys and girls did all right for themselves though—the ladies getting a first and a second and the men a first and a third.

Men, please remember that the Tip Top Tailors tournament is set for 7:00 o'clock this evening.

Lady Winners

1st, each a lunch cloth—Mrs. N. Killingbeck, Mrs. J. Ramsey, Mrs. L. Bearne, skip.

2nd, each pillow cases—Mrs. J. Cullen, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. R. Dyer, skip.

Men's Winners

1st, each an electric grill — A. Black, R. Knox, H. Coleman, R. Burns, skip.

3rd, each a table cloth—H. R. Martin, S. Cann, R. Gamble, W. Jeffries, skip.

Hockey might be a bit out of season but it does sneak in occasionally. A CP item recently remarked that one of the main reasons given why Canada lost out at the world hockey tourney last winter was the European system of refereeing. It could be, but Bunny Ahearne, head of the British Ice Hockey Association, says: "Canadian teams going to Europe must be 20 per cent better than their opposition to win in the world's championships because of the refereeing. This is true, not because of any unfairness on the part of the referees. It is simply that, since the CAHA code was adopted in Europe for the championships, the referees insist on giving out penalties called for in the book. In view of the elasticity in the Canadian interpretation nowadays, a team not accustomed to having penalties called in that fashion is bound to suffer."

Hamilton [illegible] tomorrow (Friday) night in Mi[illegible] senior "A" fixture. Second showing of the 1948 Dominion champs here this season. The Tigers are plenty good but will most likely run into much stiffer opposition on local terrain this time. The Petes have been improving rapidly in the past 10 days or so, getting into real condition, weeding out some non-hustlers and adding several players. They forced St. Catharines into overtime last week to win out, and they defeated Weston on the latter's pitch right afterward. The addition of Bob Thorpe is bound to make a big difference. Yes, the Petes might take this one.

What Frightful Attire

Handicap competitions are going on now for several trophies at the Kawartha Golf Club as well as club championship play. Qualifying club championship play also this week-end at the Peterborough Club. Meantime, both club pros are in the Canadian Open in Toronto this week. We note this item in the Canadian Sport Monthly: "The original Canadian golfers were required to wear red coats and white flannel trousers, with caps of the 'fore and aft' sytle. Rules provided that the rival captains make the initial drives for their teams. It was also compulsory that each captain wear white gloves when making the first shot, after which he was privileged to remove them." Hm, no wonder so many horses ran away in those days.

Don't forget the big Rotary "do" at the East City Bowl tonight, weather being right. It ought to pack in a record crowd. Starts at seven when Police and iFremen tangle in a softball game. Then 10 minutes of weight-lifting and muscular demonstration by Ab Blondin. At 8.30, Sunday Morning Class, those swing-skirted starry softball lasses of Toronto, meet the local men all-stars in a floodlight game. That will be one to remember, and we expect the fellows will have to hustle plenty against the starry SMC-ers. A fine evening's entertainment promised by the Rotarians, with proceeds used for service work by the club here.

Three girls' softball games last e'en, the lasses running their schedule off in batches. Yep, six teams saw action on two fronts. Lindsay won at home 10-5 against Lock Co., while Bowl battles here saw Ashby's take an 8-4 decision o'er an improving Woollens' squad, and Marines won a nifty 5-3 tilt over the Electrics. Quite a bit of good ball seen in the three tilts, but some costly errors on the part of the losers in every case. It's quite a scramble and we'll have to check Bill Bennett for a standing soon. Meantime, the colleens go to it again tomorrow at the Bowl with Lock Co. playing Marines, and Woollens tackling Lindsay.

Not too many wended their way to Riverside last p.m. to see the COBL contest under indifferent lighting. Petes coasted to a 9-1 victory over Batawa to take over sole possession of first place in the loop standing. Lefty Dadson continues to show fine mound form for the men o' Murphy, letting the third-place Shoemen down with five hits as he whiffed 13 and walked but two. Lovely flinging, and he had perfect support from his buddies. Al Menzies, Joe Lowrey, Dadson and Howie Dalton all hit well. Visitors used three pitchers, none proving much of a mystery to the Petes. Team treks to Brockville on Saturday for a double-header.

Marines Take 5-3 Win Over Electrics

A three-run drive in the seventh gave Marines a 5-3 Girls' Softball League victory over the CGE last evening at the Bowl before a fair-sized crowd of fans. Marines played heads-up ball to earn the tussle, with CGE having a margin hitting but kicking in with several costly errors. It was a neat number throughout, with the issue always in doubt, but Marines cashed in on chances toward the finish to clamp on to the triumph.

E. Whittaker and R. Boyce pitched all the way in fair fashion, each having several strikeouts. M. Hill and B. Larmer for Marines, with I. Boyce and A. DeCarlo for Electrics, looked best in a defensive role. B. Larmer and V. Mitchell had two hits each to lead the Outboards at bat, as R. Boyce and R. Todd topped the other side with three singles apiece. I. Boyce hit a homer and single..

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Jack Nash, of the London Hunt Club, won his third Ontario amateur golf championship three years ago when Phil Farley of Toronto was forced to default the championship match to the London star owing to illness. Nash first won the title when only 17 years of age, he repeated 12 years later in 1942.

UE Bantams Win

In a bantam lacrosse game at Miller Bowl last night, the U7 boys yanked out a 5-4 win over All Saints. It was 1-1 in the first, 3-2 for UE in the second and each counted twice in the fourth of a fine game in which both goalies shone. Kearns stood out for All Saints over the route, with O'Rourke and Courneyea shining for the victors. The latter scored four and O'Rourke one, as All Saints' goals were by Barclay, Kearns, Frizzelle and Drury. The teams:

UE—Goal, Simmons; defence, Galvin, Hobart; centre, Courneyea; wings, Kane, Roberts; rover, O'Rourke; alternates, Mastrianni, Martin.

All Saints—Goal, O'Connell; defence, Barclay, McIlmoyle; centre, Kearns; wings, Frizzelle, Drury; rover, Merrett; alternates, Sutherland, Pearson, Finn, Ketcheson. Referee—Al Beavis.

West Takes South

Westend midgets won 13-5 last evening from Southenders in a lively City Baseball League fixture. They finished strong in the last half to score two runs in the fourth, four next heat, five in the sixth, with one apiece in the first and seventh. Southeend scored three in the initial inning and one apiece in the next two. Nine of the losers went down on strikes and seven of the winners. Teams:

South—Curtis c, Brioux ss, Parry 2b, Kimball p, Floyd cf, Collins lf, Hope 3b, Monahan 1b, Batley rf.

Ashby's Lasses Triumph In Neat Tussle

Ashby's pulled out an 8-4 win against an improved Woollens team in their Girls' Softball League fixture last night in the Ashburnham Bowl. The winners deserved their victory with an edge in all departments, but not by quite that score as the Woollens made it a battle. Their errors hurt, too. J. Dunk pitched a neat eight-hit game, striking out nine, but walking eight, as she had good support. M. Laing also went well on the other slab with seven strikeouts.

Play was fast and interesting, going slightly more than an hour. R. McInroy, E. Humphries, L. Jordan and R. Gilmour all showed up nicely in the field. L. Jordan led Ashby's at bat with three in four tries, while R. McInroy topped the Woollens with the willow, getting three singles in five appearances at the plate.

The teams:

Woollens — R. McInroy 2b, J. Walling 3b, J. McIlwain ss, C. Ferguson lf, M. Laing p, E. Humphries cf, S. Harris 1b, S. Wakeford c, L. Pearson rf, M. Johnson rf.

Lindsay Girls Gain Win Over Lock Co.

Lindsay defeated Lock Co. 10-5 in Lindsay last night in a fair Girls Softball League encounter. They were outhit a little but the visitors were loose defensively with seven miscues. They got their runs in threes except for a single in the first in a tilt which lasted nearly an hour and a half. M. Owen and D. Westlake went the distance on rival mounds, the former having four strikeouts to one.

D. Woods and M. Chase went good in the field for the winners and each hit a homer, the latter also having a double and single to lead her side at bat. D. Westlake's pitching and P. Williams' fielding stood out for the losers, with M. Geeza leading the hitters with two for three.

The teams:

Lock Co.—J. McIntyre, c; P. Williams, 3b; B. McMahon, 1b; D. Westlake, p; M. Stewart, cf, 3b; P. Roberts, 2b; L. Dack, 3b, cf; M. Jackson, lf; M. Geeza, lf cf; R. Ford, rf.

Dutch Harrison Out In Front In Golf Meet

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ST. GEORGE'S GOLF CLUB, TORONTO, June 23 (CP)—Chubby Dutch Harrison, who looks more like a broker than a golfer, today was in the vanguard of nearly 200 divot artists searching for the title of Canadian Open Champion and the glory—and shekels—that go with it.

Big Dutch, a six-foot-four 240 pound giant from Little Rock, Ark., stood the rest of the field on its collective head with a par-shattering 66 in the first round of the 72-hole medal play yesterday. His golf was just as hot as any expert could want it, although a hole-by-hole analysis showed two one-over-par holes in his scorching round.

But these over-par figures were more than over-balanced by eight birdies on a course that has defied a 66-score in its 42-year history. The previous mark was 67, set by Torontos' Gordie Brydson a couple of years ago who came in with an uncomfortable 76 Wednesday.

The sun was setting when Dutch hit the 18th with a goggle-eyed gallery of 300 cluttered around the green. Up to that point the big guns were Jim Ferrier of Chicago and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, Calif., who had equalled Brydson's record round.

On the whole, it was a tough day for the record field of 186—five more than the previous 181 set in 1936—and most of the grief came in the back nine. Many of the pros and amateurs hovered around the par 35-outgoing nine, but when they turned for home, the layout was a little too rugged for them.

As it was, only 21 players posted figures of par 72 or better. And one, Richard C. Law, a professional from Warren, Ohio, stuck with it through 104 strokes. This triple figure for 18 holes in a Canadian open probably is a record high in the 45-year history of the event.

Low Canadian

Low Canadian so far is Montreal's Bill Kerr with a two-under-par 70, bracketed with Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y. This pair was one stroke behind three Americans—Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J.; Herman Keiser, Chicago, and dapper Dick Metz, Virginia Beach, Va.

Defending champion Charlie (Chuck) Congdon, came up with a 73, one over par and two strokes behind bald-headed Bob Cunningham, home pro, and one shot in arrears of George Eluck of the Windsor, Ont., Roseland Club, who posted a par score to lead the amateur field.

Politics crept into the first round with a decision by the Royal Canadian Golf Association that the $1,500 clinic money would be withheld until the American Professional Golfers' Association explained things. Twelve of the top-line U. S. pros were billed to put on a show Tuesday and only five showed up.

Two of the most prominent among the missing were Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., dentist winner of the U. S. open, and Sam Snead, three-times winner of the Canadian classic.

The CPGA blamed its American counterpart for failing to live up to a pre-tournament agreement and the American pros here were in full agreement with the Canadian decision.

The American pros, comfortably in the lead for the title, were agreed that the rumpus was still an entirely Canadian affair and that it should be settled in committee rooms.

Living Cost Higher

LONDON, June 23 (Reuters)—Britain's official cost-of-living index rose two points from 109 to 111 between April 12, 1949, and May 17. The change was due mainly to the increase in the price of meat, established by the new budget. Figures of June 17, 1947, are used to set the basic 100.

OUTSTANDING BATTERY—Above is shown the outstanding battery of the Sunday Morning Class softballers who will be seen in action at 8:30 tonight in the Bowl as the SMC girls play the local all-star men under Rotary Club sponsorship. These swing-skirted stars play fast, colorful ball on a par with most men's teams.

Cards Beat Giants 11-8, Now Half-Game From Top

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Quick now, who's the regular first baseman for St. Louis Cardinals?

The average fan may have to think twice before answering "Vernal (Nippy) Jones," but the 24-year-old sophomore, in his colorless but efficient way, is doing a bang-up job for manager Eddie Dyer.

It is doubtful if any other Redbird has done as much as Jones during the last 10 days to boost the Cards to their present spot in the National League standings—a mere half game from first place.

In nine games he has wrecked enemy pitching for 17 hits in 38 times at bat for a gaudy .468 batting average. His hits included five doubles, a triple and a home run. He's driven in 17 runs. This remarkable spree has boosted his season mark 41 points to a respectable .311.

Jones collected three hits last night to give him a total of eight hits in three games against the Giants.

He drove in two runs with a double and triple, and scored once to help the Cards defeat the Giants 11-8. The victory moved the Redbirds to within a half game of the first-place Brooklyn Dodgers, who were defeated by the Reds in Cincinnati 4-3.

The Cards won the hard way, making up an 8-1 deficit with three runs in the fourth, two in the sixth and a winning five in the seventh. Jones' triple drove in the final two runs.

Cincinnati had to go 11 innings to defeat the Dodgers. Ewell Blackwell, pitching 2⅓ innings of relief, received credit for his first victory of the season.

First Loss

Don Newcombe, giant Negro righthander who came up from Montreal this season, went all the way for Brooklyn to be charged with his first loss. He has won four.

A trio of homers by Herman Reich, Hank Sauer and pitcher Dewey Adkins helped the last place Chicago Cubs outlast the Boston Braves 9-8. Bob Muncrief, one of the ten pitchers used in the game, was credited with his first victory as a Cub. Bob Hall was the loser.

Dino Restelli, rookie Pittsburgh outfielder, celebrated the end of his first week in the majors by blasting two homers to lead the Pirates to a 12-3 triumph over Robin Roberts and the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Detroit Tigers regained second place from the Philadelphia Athletics defeating the Red Sox in Boston, 13-4, while the A's were bowing to the Cleveland Indians in a 14-inning thriller, 7-3.

The Yankees received a tremendous scare from the cellar-dwelling Browns who whipped them, 5-1, in the opener. However, the New Yorkers came back to outscore the Browns, 10-8, in the nightcap. In the other American League game, the Chicago White Sox, behind the steady hurling of southpaw Bill Wight, defeated the Senators in Washington, 4-1.

Ezzard Charles Awarded Decision Over Walcott; Realizes 13-Year Ambition

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—Ezzard Charles, who has wanted to be ring champion ever since he started boxing at the age of 14, realized his burning ambition last night.

After 13 years of slugging, the lithe 27-year-old Cincinnati Negro won the NBA version of the world heavyweight title by soundly defeating Jersey Joe Walcott in a 15-round battle.

Charles, the champion, won the unanimous decision of the three officials; approval of the National Boxing Association; the consent of Joe Louis, retired champion; and the blessing of the newly-formed International Boxing Club, promoters of the bout, which has him on an exclusive three-year contract.

But now he has to convince the New York Athletic Commission, which is on record favoring a tournament among contenders, and Massachusetts, which does not belong to NBA. Britain, too, will have a champion of her own Sept. 6, when the British Board of Boxing Control will recognize the winner of the Lee Savold-Bruce Woodcock bout.

Last nights' contest was in Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, where 12 years ago to the night Louis won the championship by knocking out Jim Braddock. The weather was clear and warm.

Cunning Lost

Jersey Joe, the 35-year-old Camden, N. J., family man, staked everything on a knockout blow in the first two rounds. But the faltering veteran, who one year ago was beaten into submission by Louis, had lost much of his speed and ring cunning as the result of the year's absence from the ring.

The crowd of 25,392 which paid $246,546 was not disappointing to Arthur Wirtz, James D. Norris and Louis, who formed the IBC.

However, it was in sharp contrast to the 45,500 fans who paid $715,470 to see the brown bomber get off the floor in the first round to come on and flatten Braddock in the eighth.

Charles fought a cautious battle. Because he failed to flatten his aging foe after having him on the way to a knockout in three rounds, the contest wound up the last three rounds to the accompaniment of boos from the crowd.

Jersey Joe, who rose to the top ranks in the heavyweights 18 months ago when he lost a disputed 15-round decision to Louis in their first title engagement, possessed ring generalship to escape a knockout. He back-pedalled and failed to fight in the closing rounds. Between the 12th and 13th, Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, ordered referee Davey Miller to tell Walcott's handlers to make him fight.

After Walcott outmanoeuvred and outfought Charles in the first two rounds, the advantage swung to Charles—except in the sixth which referee Miller gave to Walcott because of two left hooks which Charles landed low.

Charles began to hammer out his victory in the third and fourth with sharp lefts to the head and rights to the body. Walcott's best weapon, a left hook, landed frequently but lacked steam.

No Count Started

The margin of Charles' victory became convincing in the seventh round. He banged Jersey Joe staggering into the ropes under right hand blasting to the chin. At the start of the seventh, Charles slipped and fell when he missed a swinging blow while retreating from Walcott's left. He sprawled in a neutral corner and looked as if doubting that he was on the floor. Referee Miller ordered him up, indicating he was satisfied that Charles was not knocked down. No count was started. When he regained his feet he piled into Walcott and had him in distress.

Charles' best round was the 10th. He caught Walcott with a solid right to the chin and Jersey Joe was in distress. His knees buckled as another right swished over his head. But the veteran forced Charles back into mid-ring and the bell sounded before Charles could do more damage.

Walcott apparently fought only to remain on his feet until the finish. He feinted, sidestepped and backed away as he did in his first fight against Louis. But age was catching up with him and so was his lean and hungry opponent who wanted to become a champion.

Charles at 181¾ gave 13¾ pounds to Walcott, who scaled 195½.

Seeded Players Advance In Tennis Play

TORONTO, June 23 (CP) — Finals in junior doubles events of the Ontario tennis championships are scheduled for play today.

Final of the junior men's doubles sees an All-Toronto match as Jim Bentley and Pete Stewart meet Don Fontana and J. Campbell.

Junior ladies' doubles will probably also be decided as both semi-finals and finals are played. St. Thomas, Ont., is represented by June Carriere and Marg Doan, and Barrie Ont., by sisters Sally and Mary Lynn Boys. Two Toronto pairs round out the event with Diana and Daphne Zalker meeting Barb Stephenson and Vonnie Davis.

Senior singles events are in the quarter-final stage, with some low-seeded players already eliminated. In the men's singles yesterday, sixth-seeded R. G. Summers of Toronto was the first to bow as he lost to Jack Spencer of Montreal, 6-2, 6-2.

In today's play, top-seeded Henri Rochon of Montreal meets Jim McGregor of Toronto, seeded eighth, and J. J. Desjardins, Montreal, seeded number two, meets Jack Hopkins, of Toronto, number seven.

In the ladies' singles, Dorothy Hurst and June Merrill of Toronto, seeded sixth and seventh, were eliminated yesterday, both in extra-set matches. By virtue of their respective wins, Nancy Common of Montreal, and Desiree Keating of Ottawa join other seeded players in the quarter-finals. Top-ranked Pat Macken and Elaine Fildes of Montreal will see action again after a day's rest while playing ladies' and mixed doubles: Miss Macken will meet Mrs. P. Robinson of Montreal and Miss Fildes clashes with Miss Keating.

Trustee Resigns Says Veterans Are Overlooked

BELLEVILLE, June 23—Insufficient consideration to veterans applying for positions in local schools, is given as one of three reasons for the resignation of Dr. C. H. Austin Walters.

Resignation of Dr. Walters has created considerable stir in the community. His charge that veterans are more or less overlooked in filling appointments.

In a letter explaining his resignation, Dr. Walters gives two other principal reasons. One is his dissatisfaction with a situation which finds one official holding the dual position of public school administrator and school inspector. At last Friday's board meeting Dr. Walter's motion that the work be divided between two men was defeated by a vote of seven to two.

Another point on which Dr. Walters takes issue with his colleagues is the proposal to divide public schools into junior high schools and senior schools. In his belief the geography of the city does not lend itself to such a redistribution of school population. He criticized the action of the public school administrator and School Inspector L. A. Kells, who favors the plan.

It Was Long Hard Fight To Top of Ladder But Dit Clapper Stayed To Battle It Out

Following in the footsteps of such other former National Hockey League stars as Lionel Conacher of Toronto and Bucko McDonald, of Sundridge, Dit Clapper of Peterborough left the hockey arena to enter the political field. He is the Liberal candidate for Peterborough West in the coming Dominion elections.

Aubrey Victor Clapper is his full name, a mispronunciation by a baby sister long ago putting the tag "Dit" on the big fellow. It is by this nickname, he is known wherever hockey is played.

Born in Newmarket 42 years ago, Dit was a baby when his parents—the late Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Clapper—moved to Hastings. His mother died more than 20 years ago, and his father died three years ago.

The Boston Bruins' hockey star got his start as a kid in the old Trent Valley League, embracing such centres as Norwood, Havelock, Hastings, Campbellford, Marmora, Madoc, Tweed and Stirling, a rugged group for a 13-year-old, but Dit was tall, wiry and a fighter. He then played junior OHA for Oshawa and later Parkdale Canoe Club in Toronto. A scout spotted the husky 18-year-old forward and he went to Boston tigers, a farm club of the Bruins, going up next year to Bruins.

For 20 straight years, Clapper starred for Boston in the NHL. He was an outstanding right-winger for many years with Cooney Weiland at centre and Dutch Gainor at left, one of the nigh-scoring front lines of all time. In later years, he dropped back to shine on defence during the days of Eddie Shore and since.

Weighs 200 Pounds

Clapper stands more than six feet tall and weighs some 200 pounds. He scored 506 points during his NHL career, a mark exceeded by few, played on numerous championship Boston teams, was picked several times on the NHL all-star first teams both as a forward and a defenceman, and had his name added to the small number of the elite in the Hockey Hall of Fame at Kingston. His name was inscribed before he hung up his skates, the only player to hold this distinction. His 20 years of service as a player is also an NHL all-time record. Dit coached and managed the Bruins the last two years before retiring this spring.

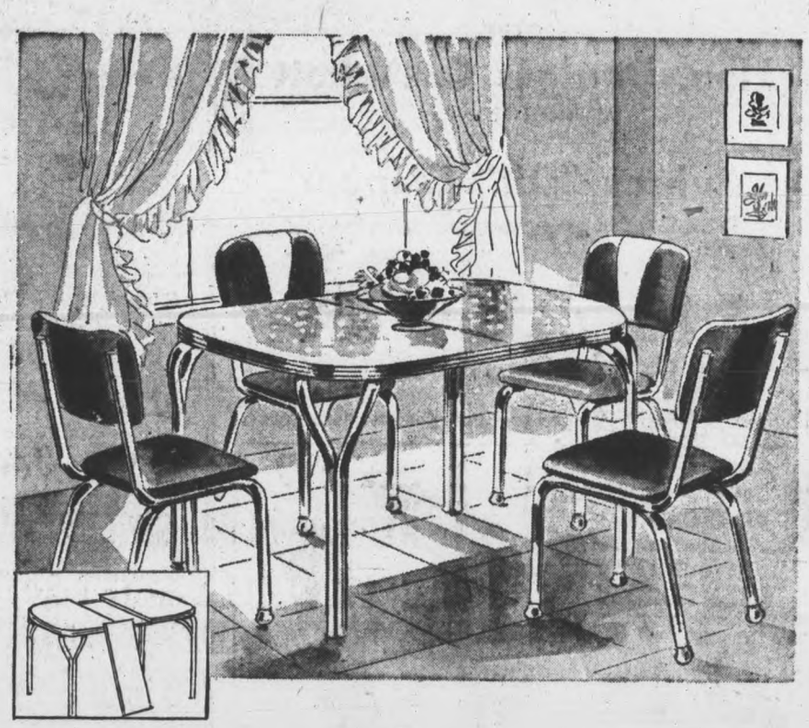
Recognized generally for what he was—a capable, likeable and fighting hockey star—Dit has been honored frequently in hockey centres of the United States and Canada. In his 20th year as a player, he was given "Dit Clapper Nights" in Montreal, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, New York and Boston, and he received many valuable gifts, including scrolls from mayors and other dignitaries. Several of the Bruins' stars (including Goalie Brimsek) threatened to quit Boston when Dit resigned as coach.

In the midst of Dit Clapper's hockey career he met with the only real accident of his hockey playing days when in a game in Toronto he had the achilles tendon in one heel severed. His His hockey days were then considered to be over for such an accident usually results in one leg being shorter than the other. However he resolved although his foot caused much pain to get back into the game. Through persistent exercise he recovered use of the tendon but even to this day when on his feet too much he develops a slight limp.

Always fond of duck hunting, Dit Clapper with a party of three other men had their boat swamped while on Rice Lake in the fall of 1936. His three companions clung to the overturned boat and Dit swam a half mile to shore and secured rescuers to go to the aid of his companions. All they lost in the episode was one rifle.

Mrs. Clapper was Lorraine Pratt, born in the United States but living most of her life in Vancouver till she married Dit. They moved from Hastings to Peterborough several years ago and purchased the home of Senator Iva Fallis on Charles St. in Ashburham. Dit and Dave Wilson are partners in a sports goods store here. He has a son, going to Collegiate—who plays hockey, lacrosse, baseball and basketball—and a daughter, who attends King George Public School. They are Donald and Marilyn.

He is a member of Corinthian Lodge No. 101 A F & A M.



Athletics, hunting and fishing are Dit's hobbies. He loves this district and, in recent years, has begrudged the time away as coach at Boston. He is emphatic in stating that he is back home to stay—apart, of course, from sessions in Ottawa, if elected — and already he is fitting into minor sports, speaker at dinners, and now a political candidate. He is a quiet-spoken and modest young man, yet a success in professional sports and in business, indicating the dogged determination and fighting spirit which made other National Hockey League stars steer clear of him in bitter campaigns down the years.

Canada's national sport has been good to Dit, but Dit has been good for hockey, too. Tributes poured in from the Eastern States and across Canada upon his retirement a few months ago. His hockey sweater number—it was No. 5— has been retired in Boston and will never be used again. He has doffed the togs of a hockey player and now wears the staid suit of a business man. He may be Mr. A. V. Clapper in the political campaign, but he will always be Dit to his host of admirers.

Goldwyn, Niven Shed Tears As Contract Ends

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 23 (AP)—When David Niven and Sam Goldwyn called off their contract this week, it marked the end of a profitable deal for the veteran producer.

The actor has been under contract to Goldwyn for the last 15 years, excluding a six-year war service period. His deal still had a year to go when it was ended. So friendly was the parting that both shed tears in Goldwyn's office.

Since Niven returned from the war, Goldwyn has profited $1,300,000 from the actor's services on loanouts to other film makers. Niven was loaned at $150,000 for 10 weeks, the normal time for making a picture.

Fabulous Deals

Goldwin's British deals were fabulous. Niven's services in a Korda film ran overtime, calling for a payment of over $400,000. Another deal gives Goldwyn releasing rights in this part of the world of a scarlet pimpernel sequel.

Meanwhile, Niven was paid his usual weekly salary of $3,000, which is no small potatoes, but a minor part of what his talents were earning.

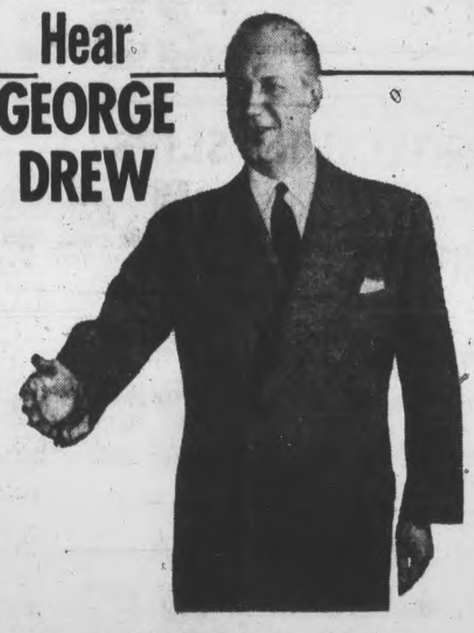
Will Release Funds Tied Up In Trusts



LONDON, June 23 (CP)—The government Wednesday promised to take immediate steps to release for useful purposes millions of pounds tied up in outmoded charitable trusts.

The Trusts were established long ago for needs which no longer exist. Some are more than 400 years old. In addition, some £20,000,000 ($80,000000) lying unclaimed in banks will also be put to useful purposes.

Lord Pakenham civil aviation minister, told the House of Lords that the government would act without delay to eliminate "waste, anachronism and anomaly" of moribund trusts.

He rejected a proposal by Viscount Samuel, government leader in the Lords, that a Royal Commission investigate the matter. Lord Pakenham said such an investigation would take too long.

McCullagh Plans Radio Broadcast

TORONTO, June 23 (CP). — George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail and The Telegram, announced Wednesday that he will reply in a broadcast Friday to political advertisements and the campaign speeches in which he has been attacked.

The 30-minute address, entitled "Shocking Political Pay-offs," will be broadcast at 10-10.30 p.m. in Toronto (CFRB) and carried at various times in transcription form over 82 stations covering the 10 provinces.

In a statement announcing the broadcast, Mr. McCullagh said:

"I think the Canadian people are entitled to know the true story about the scandal-mongering and widespread misrepresentation which has featured the political advertisements and platform pronouncements of the Liberal Party.

"I am making this broadcast to answer those who delight in throwing mud and who are attempting to confuse the electorate by picturing me as a sinister figure behind the scenes. I have no personal axe to grind. The so-called Liberal Party and the Socialists have plunged me right into the middle of this campaign, and I propose to answer those parties in this broadcast."

Young Children Safety Pin, Slug Both Removed

Two young children have recently had emergency operations performed on them as a result of swallowing foreign objects.

Wednesday night Judith Killoran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Killoran of Smith township, swallowed a slug from an electric socket. The little girl who will be three years old Friday began to choke and medical aid was called.

She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and was attended to by Drs. J. D. Forde and W. S. Fitzpatrick. Dr. N. D. Buchanan, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist was called from his summer home to remove the slug.

Early today Judith was reported to be feeling well again and was relating details of her operation to other members of the family.

On Saturday Dr. Buchanan had a somewhat similar case. Carol Hopkins, five-year-old daughter of Clarence Hopkins, of Havelock swallowed an open safety pin.

She was taken to Civic Hospital after receiving a preliminary examination by Dr. W. M. Judd of Havelock, and the pin was removed by Dr. Buchanan.

Playgrounds Cost $5,450

Cost of employing lifeguards playground supervisors and swimming instructors for the Recreation Commission's summer program will be $5,450. Of that sum the largest job, $3,000, is for the playground instructors. The employment of five lifeguards for the 10-week program costs $1,500. The rest of the total expenditure for the summer program is for the swimming instructors.

William Simons, Oshawa, will be the chief instructor in the Commission's learn-to-swim program. He will be assisted by his wife, also an experienced instructor in swimming and Lynn Davidson of Peterborough. Mrs. Simons will be at Riverside and Mrs. Simons at Inverlea. Mr. Simons will assist at both beaches. Part-time assistants, Maureen Finn and Mary Rutherford, will help at the two swimming beaches. Two boys are still wanted by the Commission for part-time instruction work in the swimming classes.

One lifeguard is still required by the Commission for permanent employment. Two men from Drumacher and Toronto have been employed. Al Clark of Schuber will be a lifeguard at Riverside and Gordon Hachborn of Toronto will be at Inverlea. Gordon Buck will relieve the lifeguards on their days off while William MacKenzie will be the other lifeguard at Riverside Park.

The complete list of playground supervisors is: Riverside, G. B. Goulding, Joyce Wyatt, Bryon Young, (part time); Inverlea, Marilyn Hollingsworth, Mary Curtis; Fleming Place, Patsy Martyn; Hamilton Park, Amy Curtis; Turner Park, Joseph Barnard, Mrs. Rosa Gauntlett (part time); King Edward, Mary Craw, Ann MacDonald (part time); McKellar, Teresa Houlihan; Confederation, Ted Cranfield, Evelyn Wallace (part time).

THOUSANDS OF SPECTATORS ATTENDED the official opening of the Chemong Causeway on Wednesday afternoon, and except for a stiff wind that cancelled some water events, weather conditions were ideal. Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club arrived in a dinghy, (TOP LEFT) and their splendid act drew great applause. Crowds were thrilled by an RCAF Vampire jet aircraft, (TOP INSERT) and outboard racing, (BOTTOM INSERT). Reeve of Ennismore, James Gifford, (LOWER LEFT) photo, at left, and Minister of Lands and Forests, the Hon. Harold R. Scott, right, watch Minister of Highways, the Hon. G. H. Doucett cut the flowered ribbon as the Causeway was officially opened. Troops Prepare For Picton Camp

Sixty ordinary ranks, 15 non-commissioned officers and eight officers of the 50th Heavy AA Regiment, RCA, and the 37th Heavy AA Workshop, RCEME, will leave Saturday for the annual summer camp at Picton. They will be in camp until July 2. This is the first year that the Workshop unit has attended the summer camp as they were formed last fall. Lt.-Col. M. E. Clarke, ED, will be in command.

About 1 p.m. Saturday the troops will leave in transports for Picton by way of Port Hope and Cobourg. At Cobourg they will camp overnight at the rifle range. In case of bad weather they will move under cover. Sunday they will move on to Picton to the Royal Canadian School of Artillery.

At the School the troops will participate in all phases of artillery manoeuvres, putting into practice what they have been taught during the winter months. One of the main exercises will be the firing of the ack-ack guns at moving targets on Lake Ontario. The guns at the armouries will remain in Peterborough. Courses will be taken in radar, quartermaster stores and administration.

After this summer camp a number of the officers and non-commissioned officers from the regiments will take special courses in Shilo, Manitoba, and at Picton in radar and ack-ack drill.

LOST GIFT WATCH

Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative, is hoping that the finder of his wrist watch has noticed his "ad" in the lost and found column of the Examiner. It was a gift from his mother, and for that reason particularly, he is hoping to recover. Mr. Bell came to Peterborough at the first of the month, as assistant to Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

Just Cause(way) Links Twps As Chemong Waves Play

To the music of outboard motor boats roaring, the sizzling whoosh of a jet fighter plane and the hearty greetings of people in a holiday mood, the townships of Ennismore and Smith were married with the official opening of the Chemong causeway Wednesday afternoon.

The villain in the picture was a high wind which started at 15 miles an hour and increased so much that two outboard motor boat races were cancelled.

Just Cause

To the farmers of the whole county and particularly of Ennismore, the opening ceremony was an important occasion. They came in their thousands to see the dream become a reality and shake the hand of Ennismore's Reeve James Gifford, the man who had most zealously worked for it.

Brighten Ennismore Prospects

The township people came and talked to neighbours and discussed the drought which had been relieved to some extent Tuesday by showers, and prospects for a harvest. One thing they were all agreed upon; the causeway had greatly brightened the prospects of Ennismore residents for this year, and many years to come.

What sports action there was was lively. The very choppy water whipped up by a southwest wind made motor boat racing extremely hazardous. Water skiers could do almost nothing, but made a real try nonetheless.

Races Cancelled

The first race was the 17 horsepower class and was won by Hot Dog, driven by Carmen Nagy, Niagara Falls. In the second race a boat driven by Bill Boughen of St. Catharines was overturned by the wind and waves on the first lap. The race was halted. It was decided to halt other racing until the wind died down to some extent, but it increased if anything. There was no more racing.

The water skiers had their troubles too. Only Norma Gordon, Bobcaygeon, was able to make two complete circuits of the course. But her description of the conditions went Harry Truman one better. Other skiers were Gus McIntosh, Bobcaygeon Jane Gillespie and Agnes Strickland, Peterborough.

Twelve pretty girls of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, under coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes, put on their amazing show of synchronized swimming despite the high waves. Nine of their top swimmers travelled to Toronto in the evening to take part in the Alec Duff Appreciation night show in Oakwood Stadium. Mr. Duff is a senior coach of swimming and diving in Canada and is in hospital at present.

Parachuters and Vampires

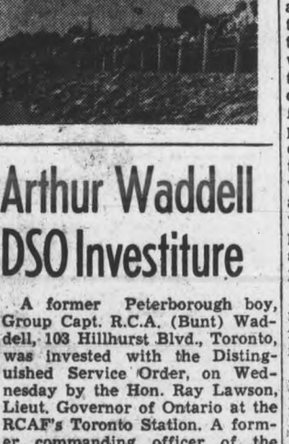
Three parachuters dropped into the lake to give the crowd a thrill. For many it was the first time they had seen a parachute jump. Boats were standing by to pick up the jumpers and their orange and white parachutes when they splashed into the water.

The third jump was made at 5 p.m. by Howard Beamish, Oshawa. The other jumpers were Fred James, Toronto, and Ron Cox, Pickering.

The 8,000 spectators were nearly startled out of their wits by the Vampire jet RCAF plane. Almost all the people were looking toward the south as the speeches of the official opening ceremony began. The jet sneaked in from the north. No one heard it until it was directly overhead, only about 150 feet up. The effect was startling to say the least. The pilot put on a fine show. He did a barrel roll as vapor trails streamed out behind him. He put the aircraft into climb and in about 30 seconds he was out of sight.

Old Float Soaks

In all the wedding celebration, no one paid any attention to the discarded suitor, the old floating bridge. One large section lay north of the causeway at the Bridge-north end. Once it was reputedly the world's largest floating bridge—now a useless relic, except as a place for boats to tie up.



Arthur Waddell DSO Investiture

A former Peterborough boy, Group Capt. R.C.A. (Bunt) Waddell, 103 Hillhurst Blvd., Toronto, was invested with the Distinguished Service Order, on Wednesday by the Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieut. Governor of Ontario at the RCAF's Toronto Station. A former commanding officer of the famous "City of Toronto Squadron", he had been in every major engagement in which the Canadian Army participated from Dieppe. In June, 1943, Capt. Waddell was attached to the tactical air force and won the DFC. Later he was engaged on photographic duties. In this field his work was "of the highest order", the official citation said.

One hundred RCAF Veterans received decorations at Wednesday's ceremony, most of which were announced during the war when it was not possible to hold investitures.

N. J. Crook Investiture

Another Peterborough man, Flying Officer Norman J. Crook, of 218 Prince St., was awarded the DFC at the same ceremony, and his citation read "for navigation of high merit." F/O Crook moved from Toronto a year ago and is practising law with the firm of Hall and Hall. His wife was the former Pauline O'Keefe of this city.

Press Women Sail In Clouds Of Hospitality

By JEAN STENTON

VANCOUVER, June 23.—After sailing through the clouds over Vancouver for 30 minutes as guests of T.C.A. which opened the Canadian Women's Press Club Conference here, newspaperwomen have decided that Vancouver is synonymous with hospitality.

In fact, after a quick glance over the program lined up, delegates are wondering if they are going to be "killed with hospitality". Living in the cup of luxury is wonderful, but the girls are wondering how they're going to come down to earth and start meeting deadlines.

Hospitality Abounding

Every train arriving from the East was met by a delegation from the Vancouver Branch. Red Cross cars took the delegates and their baggage to the hotels. Each girl found a beautiful bouquet in her room.

A courtesy flight over the city was organized by T.C.A. About 40 newspaperwomen scrambled aboard a sturdy North Star and cruised around under brilliant sunshine with a beautiful stewardess and handsome steward giving wonderful service.

One of the most delightful parts of the trip was made at 2,000 feet over the tree-studded Gulf Islands. Passing over the city, the neatly laid out streets and trim houses looked like the cardboard master plan exhibited at the Library for the Peterborough of Tomorrow.

Touring Above Mountains

One of the loveliest views was from the cockpit beside the pilot and co-pilot. Bumping a little as the plane cruised near the mountains, the newspaperwomen got a wonderful view of the spot where the forest fires are raging. Towering columns of smoke shot up from the mountainside. As the plane flew on, a beautiful snow-capped mountain was framed in the windshield (or do planes have windshields?). The pilot took off and landed the huge machine with scarcely a bump. The reporters and editors are ready to sign on any time.

Press Women Guests

Following registration Monday night, the Press Club were guests for Smorgasbord of an advertising agency.

Among those at this affair were Helen Champion and Marjorie Major of Halifax; Jean Love Galloway, Kingston Whig-Standard (formerly W.P.T.B.); Byrne Hope Saunders, editor of Chatelaine; Margaret Aitken, Toronto Telegram; Eva-Lis Wuorio, assistant editor of Maclean's; Isobel Dengman, Western University staff; Mona Purser (Homemaker), Globe and Mail, Toronto; Jane Scott, Lotta Dempsey Fisher, Globe and Mail, Toronto; Thelma Craig, Athens, Ontario, vice-president; Helen Murphy, Montreal, Quebec vice-president; Kennethe Haig (author), Winnipeg; Jessie McTaggart Geissler, formerly of Toronto Star and associated Press of Tacoma.

Loaded Agenda

A staggering agenda has been prepared for the second day of the conference. The business session starts at 8.30 a.m.; luncheon at Stanley Park, guests of Vancouver Press Board; afternoon business; reception at beautiful Copeland Golf Course at 5 p.m. Dinner guests of the Vancouver Province newspaper at 7 p.m. reception at 9 p.m. given by the Vancouver branch C.W.P.C.

The delegates are unanimous on one point. Deadlines are nothing compared to a schedule like this. If they can stand pressure of the second day's program, nothing can phase them for the rest of the week.

Memo to Managing Editor—Please have a bed set up beside the telegraph desk on my return. I'm coming home for a rest.

Tear For The Bridge

In the general flurry of praise for the new Chemong Causeway opened yesterday, its venerated forbear, the old Floating Bridge, was all but forgotten. However one fond and whimsical poetic tear was shed for it, and by none other than a prominent city lawyer, who prefers to remain anonymous. Here are the lines:

Cursed by the native
As an engineering freak,
Spawned by the devil
With his tongue in his cheek,
Praised by the tourist
The wide world round,
Chemong's Floating Bridge
Has gone to ground.

CGE Will Face Strike Rather Than Submit; UE Charge 'Shadow Boxing'

Negotiations with CGE are more difficult this year than the previous two, Ross Russell, UE director of organization today told several hundred union members at the main gate of CGE. Layoffs have started, he said, and he claimed further that the company was making an attempt to divide the workers from their union. He cited a letter being circulated today by management as an example of this.

"When did the UE bring the workers anything but benefits?" he asked. "You can all remember what it was like here before the union was formed."

C. R. Sullivan said many workers thought that negotiations leading to a new contract before the Queen's Park stage were only "shadowboxing." And he agreed that it had been easier in 1947 and 1948.

"But it is not so in 1949," he stated. "The company has said absolutely 'No' to everything of importance put forward by the union this year."

Issues Tabled

The Joint Negotiating Committee sat in with the company for two days last week, and the major issues were tabled for future talks.

Under the direction of the OLRB mediator, Louis Fine, the two parties began to review the contract clause by clause. They reached agreement on the first four articles, except union security, stated Mr. Sullivan.

When the company refused the Joint Board's request for a union shop, he said, the Board offered the compromise of a checkoff applying to all eligible employees. This too was turned down, according to Mr. Sullivan.

The union shop question was then tabled.

Both sides agreed there would be no changes in Article 5, but they bogged down on Article 6 dealing with hours of work. The UE is asking for 40 hours with the same take-home pay.

This was found unacceptable by the company as were certain aspects of overtime demands.

Bill Repka, secretary of the Toronto Joint GE Board, and an employee of the Ward St. plant, was another out-of-town speaker. He assured the workers that their Toronto fellow-unionists were solidly behind them on all proposals for a new master contract.

Norman Choate, president of Local 515, of the Royce Ave. works, Toronto, also assured them of "shoulder to shoulder solidarity" in present negotiations.

Letter From Management

The management stated its case in a letter, dated today, to all employees and signed by Works Manager I. F. McRae. The letter headed "Is 1949 just another year in negotiations," and reads:

"In each of the last three years the Union has made many of the same excessive demands as at present. The Company, while it did not meet those demands completely, was anxious to avoid an interruption of work and was perhaps influenced by Union pressure in the amount of the general increase granted.

"Will the Company in 1949 agree to the Union demand for a 40-hour week with the same take-home pay as at present, plus 16c an hour general increase. These two demands alone would cost the Company $7,000,000—considerably more than the Company's total net profit of $5,000,000 in 1948.

"The Company indicated clearly that the demand for some of our products is falling off and competition is increasing. Now is the time to increase values to our customers not to increase the prices of our products. The Company therefore informed the Union it will not grant a general wage increase nor pay the same take-home for the 40-hour week. Facts have already been presented to you showing that our average weekly wages since 1939 have increased over 75% more than the cost-of-living and our wages at CGE are higher than the electrical industry, the iron and steel industry and many others. To increase these wages still further would tend to cut down sales and increase lay-offs.

"On Wednesday afternoon at Queen's Park, Mr. C. S. Jackson, National President of the UE said, "I am beginning to agree. . . . demonstrations are not the answer. Maybe we should shut the plants down and keep them shut."

"You therefore are entitled to an answer to the question:—

"If we put on the pressure or threaten to strike, will the Company come across this year also?"

"The answer is that if employees decide to strike in order to gain the Union demands, the Company will have to allow employees to go on the street.

"The Company is just as keen as in previous years to avoid a work interruption. However, if our employees decide on a strike, we believe it is preferable to undergo a strike than to increase our costs to the place where we cannot sell our products.

Continue Present Contract

The Company is prepared to continue the present contract which Mr. Jackson himself has agreed is a good one. In addition there are a number of articles which the Company is prepared to modify.

"As far as hours are concerned, if work falls off for a given group the company is prepared at that time to negotiate with the union a possible reduction of the work-week for that group in order to reduce lay-offs. We are against reducing general plant hours along with maintaining the present take-home for such shorter hours.

"As an individual employee the union is speaking for you. Make known your opinion on these crucial matters by attending all union meetings. Beware of being persuaded to take an illegal two or three day "holiday" to try to impress the company. Once you are out on such a "holiday," you may find the union has not provided any way for you to get back on the job.

"Steady jobs depend on good value to customers, and at this time particularly on each of you being alert to the present situation and making your voice count."

$262 IN FINES

Traffic court did a land office business Thursday morning with 52 convictions by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, bringing the city a total of $262. Many of the charges were against drivers whose cars didn't have rear lights.

Gay Colors, Low Necklines Take Over in London Offices

By MURIEL NARRAWAY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, June 22 (CP) — There's a famine in office "formals' in Britain.

The little dress with its white collar and cuffs has almost disappeared. Now it's gay colors and low necklines.

Cottons are this year's summer choice. Secretaries turn up in breezy low-necked, wide-skirted cottons of brilliant colors, combined with stockingless legs and low comfortable colored sandals. Many wear a choker necklace with bracelet to match.

The reason? Not fashion fad nor price says the buyer of an Oxford Street store. It's the boss.

"He's not the man he was. He's changing his views on what's right to wear in the office. After all, the bright colors have a psychologically brightening effect compared to the old office 'uniform.'"

And it's all right with the girls. this year, with many double-purpose designs just right for the week-end jaunt to the sea. Two of the most popular necklines are the drawstring top that can be just as wide as you please, and the off-the-shoulder shawl-collar styles.

A Danton-collared, button-through with wide skirt, pocket hip emphasis and tie belt has flared, cuffed shorts and tie-front bra. The whole is in sunshine yellow printed with bowls of fruit.

Cuffs On Everything

The backless models with covering bolero are very suitable for town and seaside. Dresses are soft shouldered with magyar or dolman sleeves and cuffs are used on anything from short to three-quarter sleeves. Pockets are used for design and emphasis.

The duster flounce (foot frill) is popular, usually with dirndl skirt, button top, roll collar and elbow or three-quarter cuffed sleeves.

A poplin evening gown with printed floral motifs on [illegible] background has tight, neat-waisted bodice with off-the-shoulder roll collar and plain flaring skirt.

Holiday wear gives more scope and the bare midriff is popular for seaside outfits. Patio pyjamas of paisley design—so full they look like a skirt—are combined with pastel-shaded, midriff bolero with tie-front, Danton collar and three quarter cuffed dolman sleeve. For evening the pyjamas can be used with an off-the-shoulder, puff-sleeved gypsy blouse.

A scarlet polka dot sun-suit with button-front, halter-necked bra has a fully flared skirtline and deep, slimming midriff of navy silk jersey. Striped, cuffed shorts with roomy, patch pockets combined with bra top and loose, hiplength shirt-coat, is a popular sailing outfit.

Bathing suits are mostly one-piece again, often strapless and sometimes having two or three rows of hip frilling. Elastic slipper satins with their shiny brilliance of color and painted motifs are most popular. Elasticized cotton prints are also popular and nylon is used with printed sea scenes.

"Are you mad, Perkins? We've committed to bulk buying, but this is ridiculous!"

Women say:
"Satina in my starch makes the clothes 3 times easier to iron!"

"Satina does everything claimed for it. When ironing I use it regularly and wouldn't be without it. Even my brother likes to wash and iron his own shirts which saves sending them to the laundry. Starched shirts are 3 times easier to iron when Satina is added to the starch," writes Mrs. T. E. Davidson of Sarnia, Ont.

"As a practical nurse I find, when ironing, that Satina makes a wonderful difference with uniforms and caps. Satina retains their stiffness. It is also easier to make the starch, and when Satina is added it makes all ironing 3 times as easy to do," writes Mrs. J. W. Kemp of Hamilton, Ontario.

"Adding Satina to the starch makes shirts 3 times easier to iron, and leaves a nice gloss on them. Satina also makes my table linens lovely and my iron never sticks," writes Mrs. W. Andrew of Riverside, Ont.

"I have used Satina for a long time and like it very much. When added to starch it makes all my ironing 3 times as easy and gives fabrics a fine finish," writes Mrs. Harold Justice of Owen Sound, Ont.

"With me, Satina has become a habit. Clothes smell so nice and iron up crisp and dainty. I wouldn't use anything else but Satina for all ironing because Satina in starch makes it 3 times as easy to do," writes Mrs. E. Kavanaugh of Windsor, Ontario.

Satina in my starch makes all ironing 3 times easier. Satina is wonderful for my husband's shirts and it also gives fine gloss to collars. I like Satina, too, for the children's dresses — it makes colored dresses look like new," writes Mrs. T. Schaefer of Toronto, Ont.

READ PERSONAL EXPERIENCES OF WOMEN EVERYWHERE—HOW SATINA STREAMLINES IRONING IN THOUSANDS OF HOMES

Here's proof. Simply read what other homemakers say about Satina. Now — you try it. Then judge Satina for yourself. Prove that starched clothes can be ironed bright and fresh with that band box finish you admire. Prove that home ironing can be so much easier.

When next you iron add Satina to your starch and be amazed at the results — shirts with a marvellous finish — table linens with a new high gloss. Your starched ironing will be done with greater speed and ease, if you start using Satina regularly.

Satina in Starch Speeds Your Iron

Just dissolve Satina in hot starch made by your usual method. Then when ironing time comes, your iron skims easily over a s-m-o-o-t-h surface. No stopping to scrape starch off your iron when you use Satina. Starched fabrics iron up like new — soft, glossy and pliable. At all grocers. Full instructions on the package.

Rogers—Jones

NORWOOD, June 23 (ENS) — A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Saturday when Audrey Jones of Toronto, became the bride of Lyle Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rogers of Norwood.

Miss Echo Rogers, sister of the groom, attended the bride and Mr. Lucien Therrien was groomsman.

Princess Margaret A Fashion Plate AtLondonOpening

LONDON, June 23 — (CP) — Princess Margaret Tuesday struck a new fashion note when she opened Concord House, an annex of the English-speaking union.

Her pale lilac-violet dress was was draped in toga style at the neckline, the skirt had separate flower petal panels in the latest Paris style and her long black gloves were shoulder length.

The Princess told members of the union that Eglish-speaking peoples "are united today in a degree which even a generation ago might have seemed impossible."

Rainbow Coloring Throughout At St. George's Tea

Beauties of the rainbow are often described by poets and authors and all their remarks befit the tea room decorations at St. George's Anglican Church Wednesday. The Afternoon Guild was entertaining at a Rainbow Tea instead of the strawberry tea and social held at this season in other years.

Streamers in all the colors of the rainbow formed a ceiling in the basement room and the walls were lined with baskets of beautiful summer flowers. Small tea tables with white cloths were centred with designs in the pastel shades and the hostesses wore prettily-designed caps and aprons in the same colors.

Not only were the dishes daintily colored rose, blue, yellow and green, but open-face sandwiches and cakes had been tinted in the rainbow shades for a really delightful effect which did not damage their tastiness one bit.

Booths set up on the lawn were also decorated in the rainbow colors enhanced by bouquets of summer flowers. Mrs. A. Cook and Mrs. C. Robinson had the home cooking table and Mrs. W Farr and Mrs. F. Hines the fancy work.

Tickets were sold on three raffles, a rug, a doll and a quilt, by Mrs. W. Firth and Mrs. W. Blackburn. No draws were made and they will not be until sufficient tickets have been sold to cover cost of the articles. The date will be announced later.

Mrs. F. Dorrell, president of the Guild, received the guests on the lawn. In the tea room they were served by Mrs. D. H. McIntosh, Mrs. E. McIlwain, Mrs. R. Stroud and Mrs. S. Parkes Jr.

Mrs. A. Green had charge of the kitchen where plates and tea cups were filled. Her assistants were Mrs. R. Pilling, Mrs. A. Howarth, Mrs. S. Edwards, Mrs. J Douglas and Mrs. I. Harrison.

The decorations were put up under the direction of Mrs. R. Pilling.

RIGHT WAY: Have her remove the dinner plates first, then the serving dishes.

DR. ROBERT GORDON STINSON and his bride, the former Elizabeth Anne Giffen, who were married Tuesday afternoon in Norwood United Church. She is the daughter of Mr. W. H. Giffen, Norwood postmaster, and Mrs. Giffen. Dr. Stinson, a veterinary surgeon, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Stinson, Norwood. The bride and groom will live in Milford, Nova Scotia.—(Duke Studio Photo)

Stinson-Giffen Wedding

The weding of Miss Elizabeth Anne Giffen to Dr. Robert Gordon Stinson, in Norwood United Church Tuesday afternoon, was solemnized by the Rev. B. Eyre, Uxbridge, uncle of the bride, who had officiated 26 years ago at the wedding of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Giffen, Norwood. The Rev E. E. Pugsley of Norwood assisted in the ceremony. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Stinson, also of Norwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a suit of summer white gabardine with pink accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Miss Isabel Giffen was her sister's attendant, attired in pink gabardine suit with white accessories and corsage of shaded pink roses.

Mr. Harold Stinson was groomsman and the ushers were Trevor Brown and Arthur Labrash.

The bride's mother and the groom's mother were wearing similar gowns of grey figured crepe, matching accessories and corsages of yellow roses with pink and mauve sweet peas.

Following a reception for members of the immediate family at the Kawartha Golf Club, the couple left for a short honeymoon in the Haliburton district.

Dr. and Mrs. Stinson will leave shortly for Milford, N.S., where they will make their home.

Yellowish Lighting To SaveRomances

ENGLAND, (CP)—A Staffordshire Alderman, Arthur James, 40, and married, wants to save the faces — and romances—of Rowley Regis Girls.

He told the local council: "our girls must be protected—the position is serious."

As a result of his efforts the council will replace with violet-hued mercury vapor lamps the yellow-filament street lights installed at the town's main intersection during the war.

When Britain's wartime blackout ended. The girls began complaining of how badly the lights treated their complexions.

"The young men were breaking dates because of the Girls' jaundiced-looking faces," James said. "After an hour or two in front of a mirror, making up, the girls walked under the lights and turned clownish.

"They tried different types of make-up but they always became ghastly apparitions. I have evidence that engagments were actualy broken because of the lights."

Mission Circle Pays Tribute To Founder

Jean Wagar Mission Circle met at the home of the president, Miss G. Langton, Simcoe St., this week. After a short devotional period, an inspiring message was given by Mrs. H. T. Rehill, in which the challenge, "How can one call himself Christian and not believe in Missions?" was given.

Miss Langton conducted a memorial service for Mrs. Jean Wagar, late advisory president and founder of the circle. In paying tribute to Mrs. Wagar she spoke of wide interest in Missions her Christian life and her loving encouragement to Circle members.

Loving sympathy was extended Misses Connie and Marion Wagar from the circle. After reading the poem, Our Tribute, members stood for a period of silence, after which Miss Langton offered prayer. Mrs. Hazel MacLaren sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Alma Hunter and Misses Gladys Langton and Jean Hammond.

Donald Johnston Wed in Toronto

The marriage took place recently in Danforth Baptist Church, Toronto, of Beulah Fern, daughter of Mr and Mrs. A. W. Chamberlain, Toronto, and Donald MacKenzie Johnston of Lakefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Johnston, 66 Lee St., Peterborough.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with scalloped neckline, satin roses and seed pearls trimming the waist, and the skirt falling into a long train. Her veil of tulle illusion was caught to a scalloped headdress trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of gardenias. Matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Beth Aspon of Vancouver, and bridesmaids, Mrs. R. Whittaker, Toronto, and Miss Joan Nelson, Kitchener, also Linda Nelson, Kitchener, flower girl. They were in taffeta frocks of rose, lilac, yellow and turquoise and wore matching bonnets and gloves. All carried bouquets of pink carnations and mauve sweet peas

The groomsman was Ralph Chamberlain, Toronto, and the ushers Ronald Chamberlain, Toronto, and Ernest Brianhardt, Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside in Lakefield where the groom is a service station employee.

DOROTHY DIX

Marriage No Prize Package Bitter Comes With Sweet

DEAR MISS DIX: At the time I married, a little more than two years ago, I had two proposals.

Dorothy Dix

One was from a man much older than myself but who was wealthy and would have been able to give me clothes, money and pleasure. The other was from a poor young man but who was making a fairly comfortable salary. I was ecstatically, thrillingly in love with him, and a love nest of two or three rooms sounded like a heaven. So we were married. But our marriage is a failure. If we had more money and I could have had better clothes and gone out more, perhaps we would not have got upon each other's nerves so badly and I would not so much regret not having married the richer man. My husband has not as good a job as he had when we were married. Love in a cottage is not as it is depicted.

JUNE.

ANSWER: whichever one of your two suitors you married, June, you would have wished that you had married the other. You married the young man you loved and you are disgruntled because he cannot give you pretty frocks and fine cars and take you to expensive places of amusement, but if you had married the old man who could give you all these things you would be eating your heart out in hunger for love and romance and youth.

The trouble with you is that you ask too much of life. You want everything. You want love and romance and riches and pleasures, and it is mighty seldom that Fate hands out that sort of prize package to a woman. Mostly we have to take the bitter with the sweet, the drawbacks with the advantages.

Of course, every woman would like to marry a Fairy Prince and have a husband who was equally good at raising thrills in her breast and making money, but there are very few Fairy Princes in these prosaic days, and mostly a girl has to choose between the poor man who is young enough for her to love and the old man who can give her the luxuries she wants.

Money Cannot Buy Happiness

And I contend that she has a far better chance for happiness with a poor young man than with a rich old one and that it is better to have love than it is to have imported Paris frocks. Anyway, happiness is a state of mind and it depends on one's attitude toward life, not on what one has. Money will not buy it nor will material things insure it. Some of the most miserable people I have ever known were the richest and many of the happiest were the poorest.

In your case you have all the raw materials for happiness in your hands and you are wilfully throwing them away. You have a good husband, a good home, enough to live on comfortably. If you would make the best of these they would fill your life so completely that you would not pine for unobtainable luxuries.

If you would honestly try to be a real helpmeet to your husband and to help him build up his fortune, if you would interest yourself in his work and try to be an inspiration to him, you would not get upon each other's nerves. You would be chums and companions who would never talk out. Perhaps the reason why your husband hasn't as good a position now as he had when you married is because you have taken the heart out of him by your discontent and repining over his not being able to give you all that a rich husband could have given you.

My advice to you is to brace up and do your part toward making a hapy home. You will find your happiness on your own doorstep if you look hard enough for it.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 16 and in about six months I expect to become a mother. I have a stepmother who has always disliked me very much and who is turning my father against me and I dare not think what they will do when they find out. The boy in the case is willing to marry me, but I know that he no longer loves me and is only offering to do so from a sense of duty, and I love him so much that I will commit suicide rather than marry him and spoil his life also. Can you give me a ray of hope quickly, or is death the only way out?

DESPERATE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The Salvation Army—God bless it—opens a door of refuge for unhappy girls in your plight. You can go to the nearest one and the angels of mercy who run it will take you in and see

But I think you are quixotically self-sacrificing in refusing to marry the boy simply because he is willing to do so from a sense of duty. For he has an inescapable duty in the matter, and if he has a shred of honor in his whole composition he will be happier in doing a man's part and fulfilling his obligations to you and his child than he will be in turnng sneak and coward and quitter and leaving you to bear the whole load of shame alone. The knowledge that he was yellow enough to do a thing like that would wreck a man's life more than any marriage could.

HAVANA, Cuba., June 23 (AP) —Eight revolutionary invaders were killed and four captured Wednesday when a third planeload of revolutionists sought to gain a foothold in the Dominican Republic. An official broadcast from the republic said Horacio Jilio Hornes, "chief of operations" for the rebels, was among those captured.

Besides, there is an even more imperative reason why you and this boy should marry than your own feelings in the matter. You both have an obligation to your unuborn child greater than you have to each other. You have no right to let that come into the world nameless, with the brand of illegitimacy upon it. Save the poor, little unfortunate creature that, at least. Dont make it pay the price of your sin as long as it lives.

So, my dear child, I urge you with all the earnestness of which I am capable to marry this boy as soon as possible. After the baby is born, if you still feel that your husband does not love you and that you are sacrificing him to a duty marriage, it will be easy enough to get a divorce.

He will not have to live with you unless he wants to, but I hope that such devotion as yours, and perhaps the touch of baby hands, will revive his affection for you, and that your pathetic romance will have a happy ending.

Oddfellows Get Prized Awards

TORONTO, June 23 —(CP)— Fraternal and community service work by five Ontario Oddfellows was given special recognition Wednesday at the annual convention of the Independent Order of Oddfellows.

It was announced that the men have been recommended for the Grand Decoration of Chivalry, the highest award of merit in Oddfellowship. They are: Hugo Ter-Marsch, Pembroke; Fred Mason, London; Arch Parsons, Toronto; James Thow, Trenton; Dell Cole, Ridgetown.

Recommended for a different decoration for the same type of fraternal and community service are: A. Frank Elcombe, Brantford; William A. Dawson, Brantford; Earl G. Baker, St. Catharines; J. T. Kersey, Watford; Clarence Bond, London; and Gordon Bolodeau, Stratford.

E. E. Wonch of North Bay was chosen commanding officer of the order's Patriarchs Militant.

Mrs. Harry Carr of Toronto was elected president of the Rebekah Assembly of Toronto.

Claim Strike Brings Shipping To a Halt

LONDON, June 23 (CP) — The Moscow radio Wednesday broadcast a New York dispatch by Tass, official Russian news agency, reviewing the Canadian Seamen's Union strike.

The Soviet dispatch claimed that the strike, called March 31, had brought all Canadian shipping to a standstill and had won the support of dockers in 25 countries.

"The strikers have full support of the World Federation of Trade Unions," the dispatch added.

The editor of the Soviet Monitor says Louis Saillant, general-secretary of the WTU, announced three weeks ago that the CSU had appealed for aid and "this support was rendered immediately."

Drowns In Lake

TILLSONBURG, Ont., June 23. —(CP).—Allen Morick, 16, was drowned Wednesday in Lake Lisgar here, directly across the road from the new Kinsmen Club $40,000 swimming pool. Morick, a non-swimmer, stepped into a hole and despite efforts of Betty Foster to keep him up, the girl lost her grip and the youth sank.

CAPTURES A FIRST

Alec Baptie, a member of the YMCA Swimming Club, took top honors in the 50-yard free style event at Oakwood Swimming Pool in Toronto. Six boys from the club entered in the events for the Alex Duff Appreciation Night.

MOTOR TROUBLE

Four people feared lost on Rice Lake Wednesday returned safely during the evening. Reports are that they were due back at Pinecrest Lodge by three o'clock, and when they failed to show up, the searchers went after them. Pinecrest is on the south shore of the lake, west of Gore's Landing. Motor trouble was the cause of delay.

REJECT APPEAL

Ontario Court of Appeal Wednesday rejected Donald Lloyd's appeal against a two-year term imposed last February in Peterborough for receiving stolen outboard motors. Time served pending appeal will count on his sentence.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Hubert Anderson, the former M. Aileen Ahearn, who died in New York, Tuesday, will take place from the Lane funeral home, 243 Hunter St., Saturday at 8.45 a.m. to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 o'clock. Burial will be at St. Peter's Cemetery.

British Export Of Cars To Canada Rises

LONDON, June 23 — (CP) — Britain's imports exceeded exports by £37,800,000 ($151,200,000) in May, showing a drop in the adverse balance compared with April but a rise compared with the first three months of the year.

Balancing Britain's trade figures is the number one headache of Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

May imports totalled £194,800,000, the Board of Trade announced. May exports were £157,000,000. In April the adverse balance was £44,600,000 and during the first quarter of 1949 it veraged £21,000,000.

Exports to Canada climbed to £7,500,000 in May, mainly due to heavy automobile shipments. Detailed figures showed automobile exports to Canada totalled £2,155,000, twice what they were in May, 1948 the five-month total so far this year is £6,486,000.

By contrast, sales of automobiles and tractors to the United States have fallen sharply. Automobiles exported to the United States last month were valued at £92,000 and in April at '82,000. The monthly average during the last quarter of 1948 was £751,000 and a peak of £892,000 was reached last July.

Tractor exports to the United States were only £11,000 last month a slump of 98 per cent from the February figure of £545,000.

Total vehicle exports to all countries totalled £27,200,00, the Board of Trade said, compared with £22,400,000 in April.

Britain's over-all may deficit was despite an export drive which put up the flow of goods overseas in May by £14,000,000 compared with April. But May imports were the highest on record.

Lakefield Hears Clapper, Carley

Liberal candidate for Peterborough West, Dit Clapper, and T. J. Carley, K.C., spoke at a meeting in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Clapper stressed the need for the riding's having a candidate on the "right side of the house" in the next government. He would have to be a Liberal member, said Mr. Clapper, because the Liberal party will surely form the next government.

Mr. Carley outlined Liberal policies and traced the records of the Liberal party while in power.

Chairman for the meeting was E. Leonard who introduced the Liberal candidate.

Urges Establishment Of National Library

WINNIPEG, June 23 (CP)—Establishment of a national library is the greatest project facing Canadian librarians today, Elizabeth Dafoe, president of the Canadian Library Association, told the association's first general session Wednesday.

"It is our hope for Canadian libraries," she said, "that they will eventually form part of a nation-wide system. It is my hope that, as they develop, it will be possible for them to lay stress on information and more knowledge, less emphasis on the book of the month and more on the book of the decade."

Cat "Mailed"

ST. THOMAS, Ont., June 23 — (CP)—Without stamps or delivery address, a cat was "posted" Wednesday at a street corner. Walls of the trapped feline attracted Mrs. Gertrude Casey, who discovered that the animal had been "mailed" in the parcel post box outside the store. Postmaster Frank McDonald was notified and the cat was released.

BANK CLEARANCES DOWN

This week's bank clearance figures, ending Wednesday, stand at $2,385,920, a decline from the figure a week ago which was $2,456,345.

RECALLS FIRST BRIDGE

Probably the oldest man to witness the ceremony of opening the Chemong Causeway Wednesday was 94-year-old T. T. Milburn, oldest resident of Smith. He is the father-in-law of Ross Harrison, Reeve of Smith. Mr. Milburn as a boy recalls the first floating bridge being towed into place in 1870.

OUTBOARD MOTORS STOLEN

Lindsay police report a crime wave which netted the thieves at least five outboard motors. There may be others not reported. Boathouses along the Scugog River were entered during an electrical storm Tuesday night. The losers include H. McGill, Charles Torrance and Jesse James. The police are investigating.

Reject Applications To Decertify Union

TORONTO, June 23 (CP)—The Ontario Labor Relations Board Wednesday dismissed applications of two Sarnia construction companies for decertification of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (A.F.L.).

Judgment was reserved in another case where it was reported that the employer seeking decertification was himself a member of the union.

G. H. Preston, counsel for all three applicants, said the union no longer represents the majority of employees of the respective firms — Giffin Contracting Co., Shaw Construction Co., and Ernest W. Sole.

Sudbury Man Heads Druggists

HAMILTON, June 23 (CP)— D. R. Mitchell of Sudbury Wednesday was elected president of the Ontario Retail Druggists Association.

Other officers chosen at the conclusion of the association's 31st annual convention include G. H. Pauley of Belleville, D. E. MacFarlane of Toronto and John Maxwell of Orillia, vice-presidents.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive-Conservative member for Peel in the last Commons, told the convention he believes Canadian policies in regard to issues of peace and war "should be taken out of the realm of partisanship." He said Canadians can take pride in the way their country has grown recently in the international field.

Frank F. Jeffrey, 76, of St. Catharines, told an interviewer that after 60 years in the drug store business he still finds the annual conventions valuable.

Mr. Jeffrey said drug stores are "100 per cent better now" than when he started in business in the '80s in Havelock, Ont.

Suit For Non-Payment Cables Won By CPR

TORONTO, June 23 —(CP)— Enpalstine, adtake, wichell, archface. Fine-sounding words, but do they mean anything?

Judge A. E. Honeywell Wedesday decided they didn't and awarded the Canadian Pacific Railway $258 damages in a suit against Phil Glanzer, owner of the Glanzer News Syndicate, for non-payment of some 40 cables sent to Palestine last summer.

Judge Honeywell based his ruling on an interpretation of the C.P.R. Press Handbook, which says all words sent at press rates must "mean something in English."

Liberal Rally Draws Large Norwood Crowd

NORWOOD, June 23 (ENS).— Liberal rally attracted a record attendance of more than 200 who heard the Hastings-Peterborough candidate, J. W. (Duke) Munro speak about family allowances and veterans affairs.

The candidate was supported by Rork S. Ferguson, former member of Parliament, and T. J. Carley, K.C., of Peterborough.

Romanian Politician Escapes From Jail

BUCHAREST, June 23 (AP) — An official Bucharest court report disclosed Wednesday that Ion Bojoiu, former Romanian minister of commerce under life sentence as a spy, has disappeared.

The report was contained in the text of an indictment against Bujoiu and another person for a currency offence. It lists Bujoiu as "disappeared."

It had been rumored early this year that Bujoiu had escaped from prison in Transylvania. Some sources said he may have succeeded in getting abroad.

Demand Continues For Gold Stocks

TORONTO, June 23 (CP) — Gold stocks continued in demand as activity increased here today. Gains in senior and junior producers lifted the gold list into higher ground. Industrials also tightened while base metals climbed ahead in mid-session after a dull opening.

Demand for golds was comparatively widespread with advances in seniors ranging up to ¼. Junior producers showed gains up to 15 cents. Recent reports by gold producers have shown improvement and feeling on the street is that the gold industry is improving.

Base metals reflected the strength in golds, climbing in mid-session from early mixed prices. Quemont added ½ at 13 and Consolidated Smelters was up ¾ at 84¾. Other advances ranged up to 25 cents in steadily increasing activity.

Selected industrial issues led the industrial board, edging ahead slightly on fractional gains. Utilities showed some good gains and papers eased from early strength.

Trinity Garden Tea Setting Flags, Flowers on Grounds

Flags skirting part of the grounds at Trinity United Church Wednesday afternoon heralded guests to a gala garden tea. It was a large affair involving assistance from five groups of the Women's Missionary Society and the Baby Band Mother's Auxiliary. Miss Daisy Walker was general convener and also received, assisted by Mrs. D. B. Gordon.

Particularly effective decorating was on the candy table, operated under direction of Mrs. Jack Nicholls, Group A. Garlanding of flowers and streamers in a dainty orchid and pink color scheme, done by Mrs. Fraser Dunfield, was very charming, and a large bouquet of red roses centred the table, with flanking bouquets of mixed summer flowers. The ample supply of fudge and tasty confections was nicely boxed and packaged. Mrs. O. H. Nichols, Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. F. C. Neal, Mrs. M. Heard and Mrs. L. Hale were attending.

Ardent salesladies of small bags of fudge were Karen Neal and Sandra McGee, wearing quaint Ann Hathaway dresses and hats fashioned of pink and white crepe paper.

Flower boxes filled with peonies were an added touch of festiveness on the grounds, arranged by Mrs. Herbert Martin. Colorful sun umbrellas offered shade until shadows of bordering trees had lengthened and the chairs were set in groups convenient to the serving table.

Appointments on a display bride's table were highlighted, of course, by a tiered wedding cake, elaborately decorated. This, placed on an oval reflector surrounded with soft folds of white net, was flanked by white tapers in fancy heavy glass holders, arranged by Mrs. H. Kearns. A bridal bouquet of white peonies lay at the table's edge. Mrs. N. D. Seaton had set out a tasteful luncheon table for four using place mats, dainty pink plates and gleaming silver flatware, by way of suggestion to hostesses.

Novelties, gathered by Group D, under direction of Mrs. D. J. Hall, ranged in character from oil lamps to a picture album of the royal family. Some valuable brassware was among them, offered at sacrifice prices. There were also aprons and useful articles for the kitchen. Mrs W. S. Derry, Mrs. W. T. Regan, Mrs. J. M. Hart and Mrs. O. Smith were salesladies.

The old-fashioned market basket got a new lease on popularity with the application of paint in nice shades of red, green and blue, and purchasers of these handy articles will find many uses for them, and also offered some nicely finished wooden spoons, that are so nice for salads served outdoors.

Members of Group E, with Mrs. W. A. Davern incharge, had a table of fine home cooking. Their supply was exhausted early and they took over candy sales until the tea closed.

A large table, from which refreshments were served, was placed centrally and the service greatly speeded up by arrangements for four ladies to fill tea cups. Mrs F. C. Neal, Mrs. R. J. Allen, Mrs.B. V. Moore and Mrs. E. G. Pridham presided for the first hour. Mrs. D. J. Hall, Mrs. W S. Campbell, Mrs. S. L. Smoke and Mrs. N. D. Seaton took the second. Peonies in a crystal vase were the centre decoration and flowers in white earthenware bowls were at two corners.

Mrs. Smoke, Mrs. Seaton, Mrs. C. S. Cummer and Mrs. F. Leslie took turns directing the waitresses. With Mrs. W. R. Philp, Baby Band president, in charge, the following members of that group were hostesses Mrs. J. E. Baughn, Mrs. J. Turnbull, Mrs. Wm. Taylor, Mrs. S. Johnston, Mrs. S. Stenson, Mrs. C. Huffman, Mrs. T. Stanley, Mrs. K. McVeety, Mrs. G. Harrison, Mrs. M. Knox, Mrs. W. Maynard, Mrs H. A. Mitchell, Mrs. D. Lawless, Mrs. C. Northey, Mrs. K. Kemp, Mrs. R. Gibbons, Mrs. C. McIntyre, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. W. Davidson, Mrs. K. Kernohan, Mrs. R. Dimma, Mrs. J. Dybel, Mrs. A. Legon and Mrs. E. Edmondson.

Sandwich plates were filled by members of Group B with Mrs. B. V. Moore in charge. They were Mrs. H. Bounder, Mrs. J. E. Weir, Mrs. H. Dinsdale, Mrs. C. Thackeray, Mrs. G. Stackhouse, Mrs. F. Paterson, Mrs. W. F. Skitch and Mrs. S. Huffman. Cake plates were arranged by Mrs. F. Leslie, Mrs. G. Hill, Mrs. H. T. Crosbie and Mrs. H. Chown, and those kept busy filling the tea pots were Mrs. F. Jobbitt, Mrs. R. R. Baker, Mrs. R. E. Hinton, Mrs. C. L. Upper, Mrs. H. Martin, Mrs. B. Braithwaite, Mrs. H. B. Smitheram and Mrs. B. I. Burgess, all of Group C, in charge of Mrs. R. J. Allen.

Fenders Are Dented When 2 Cars Collide

Two cars had dented fenders after side swiping on the busy road at Bridgenorth Wednesday. There was heavy traffic on the road as thousands visited Chemong to see the regatta marking the opening of the causeway.

One of a group of four cyclists fell onto the road from his bicycle and as Clifford Ellis, 181 Edinburgh St., pulled his car well out towards the centre of the road to avoid the cyclist, his car, and the one behind him, driven by John Middleton of 569 Park St. collided.

The cyclist picked himself up and rode away without having suffered any injury.

Both right fenders on Mr. Middleton's car were dented and one fender of Mr. Ellis' car was damaged.

The incident was investigated by Provincial Constables George Stevens and M. A. Post.

"I had often read about Syntona, but it is only recently that I decided to try some and now I am sorry I didn't get it long ago. This medicine has given me the first real relief from the gas, distress and heartburn. I am free of dizzy spells and do not get the bilious attacks I did before. Also, I am sleeping much better and get up mornings feeling more rested and refreshed."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Historic Community Has Biblical Origin

JACKSON'S POINT, June 23—(CP)—Historic Sibbald Memorial church celebrates its 110th anniversary this summer and historians of the Lake Simcoe community about 50 miles north of Toronto are recalling that it had its origin in a mother's visit to her prodigal sons.

Susan Sibbald left Scotland in 1835 to reclaim two sons who she thought were living an idle life in Canada. She found them hard at work becoming farmers and decided to settle in Canada herself. One of the sons, Capt. Thomas Sibbald, started the construction of the church as a memorial to her.

It's Time To Think Of Ourselves

It is time we people of Peterborough asked ourselves this question: Can we, as a city, afford to send a man to the House of Commons to sit on the Opposition side for another five years?

Mr. Fraser has held this seat for nine years and as far as Peterborough is concerned he is a luxury. Has he ever done one solitary thing for this city? He has done favours for individuals, and he has been nice to Peterborough visitors at Ottawa, but he has never got one thing of any importance for this city in all that time.

Under his picture in his campaign ads you have read: "He never let you down; Don't let him down". That doesn't make sense. He has never done a thing for you, and you are under no obligation to him. He is a luxury. Maybe the Conservative Party needs him at Ottawa, to ask questions for them, but you have paid for nine years of that. It is time that you got something for your vote besides the feeling that you have done what the Tories want and expect you to do.

It is time Peterborough West had a man at Ottawa who can do something for this City and District.

If you will give me your vote on June 27, I will be sitting on the right side of the Commons—the side that can do something for Peterborough. I'll earn my keep. I won't be a luxury.

Crazed Farmer Kills Two Women Sets Torch To House

MISSION, B. C., June 24 (CP) —Soldiers guarded homes in the Mission district today as search continued for a crazed farmer, Ivar Jonson, alleged slayer of two women.

The men were volunteers from the New Westminster Regiment, stationed at Mission. They are armed with civilian rifles and guns.

Rain during the night hampered searchers who renewed the hunt at dawn through the heavily-wooded district five miles from here in the Silverhill area.

Police issued a shoot-to-kill order as the posse of armed officers and citizen volunteers in the hill-surrounded district beat through bushland trails.

Sought was Ivar Jonson, 70-year-old pioneer farmer, who put a torch to his farm buildings Thursday, and then is alleged to have shot the women.

Dead are Mrs. George Barrett, 66, and Mrs. Maria Lindberg, 68-year-old widow.

One police dog was brought to the scene today and trained cougar dogs, also used in manhunts, were on call.

Liberals Gain Another Seat

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., June 24 (CP) —Liberals gained another provincial seat in Newfoundland yesterday as first returns coming in from White Bay gave the Liberal candidate the seat with a healthy majority over his only opponent.

Samuel Drover, Liberal, had 2,012 votes and F. M. Wells, Progressive Conservative, 164 as first returns were reported from the far northern riding.

This gives Liberals 21 seats in the 28-seat House. Progressive Conservatives won five seats and an Independent one in the May 27 voting. Labrador elects the other member July 25.

Returns were late being reported from White Bay because of bad weather and a provincial election law which makes it necessary for the returning officer to have all boxes in his riding in his hands before starting the count.

Boy's Mutilated Body Found, Slayer Sought

LANSING, Mich., June 24 (AP) The "sexually mutilated" body of a four-year-old boy was found early today in a downtown alley. Police headquarters identified the boy as Walter Eaton, son of a construction worker.

Desk officer Jack Keller said at headquarters that a "tall, slim man" was being sought.

Keller said Walter had been "mutilated sexually." His throat had been slashed, apparently with a broken bottle, the officer said. Several bottles were reported found near the body.

Police said the boy evidently had wandered away from an older sister, Emily, 11, as they were returning from a visit to a relative. He was slain barely a block from home.

Declares Immigrants Have Tuberculosis

SUDBURY, June 24 (CP) — Immigrants should be more carefully checked for symptoms of tuberculosis before being admitted to Canada, according to the Sudbury Board of Health. The Department of Immigration will be urged by the Board to take steps to see that immigrants are not suffering from the disease before they are accepted.

Sudbury Medical Officer of Health, Dr. J. B. Cook, said he had seen six cases of tuberculosis in immigrants in the Sudbury district in the past year and a half. Many of these were in such advanced condition that they must either have had TB or been incubating the disease before they left Europe, he said.

Pits Idle Again

SCRANTON, Pa., June 24 —(AP)—United States coal miners start a 10-day paid vacation at midnight. The big question as the last shift files out of the mines tonight is: Will the miners actually return to the pits at the end of the vacation period? Only John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers and the coal operators hold the answer. If Lewis and the operators negotiate a contract before the present one expires June 30, the miners undoubtedly will be back on the job when the vacation ends. But the miners have an iron clad rule: no contract, no work.

Woman Burned To Death In Guelph Jail

GUELPH, June 24—(CP)—An investigation into the death of Mrs. Margaret Dell, 47, who perished in a smoke-filled cell in the city hall here late Thursday night, was ordered today by Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns.

The fire started in the cell, believed to be fireproof, a short time after the woman was arrested on a charge of consuming liquor on licensed premises while on the prohibited list of the Liquor Control authority.

Police say a check of the woman's cell was made 10 minutes after she was locked in and Mrs. Anne Hillis, police matron, reported everything in order.

A few minutes later Cadet William McCart, on desk duty at the station, thought he heard a scream. He detailed Constable Delbert Pointon and Cadet Tom Mayes to investigate.

As the officers entered the cell block they saw flames and smoke coming from the woman's cell. They said Mrs. Dell was clutching the bars of the small cell window and screaming "terribly." The intensity of the fire prevented them from approaching to rescue her.

Pails of water which they threw into the cell appeared to have little effect on the blaze.

Dr. W. J. Armstrong of Kitchener will conduct a post-mortem examination today to determine cause of death.

Set Death Toll At 33 In Crash Of Plane

BARI, Italy, June 24 (AP) — Thirty-three persons were killed Thursday when a KLM (Royal Dutch Airlines) plane crashed in flames here in view of horrified bathers.

The plane, an American-built Constellation, was on the last leg of a flight from Batavia, Indonesia to Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

Twenty-eight of the victims were Dutch, including 11 crew. The other five were Egyptians who boarded the craft at Cairo.

The Italian News Agency Astra said the chief pilot had been identified as Hans Plesman, son of KLM's director general.

Bodies of 24 persons were recovered.

Break Occurs In Strike Of Seamen

Settlement Made In England; Continues In Canada

MONTREAL, June 24 (CP)— Harry Davis, president of the striking Canadian Seamen's Union, said today a settlement has been worked out covering Canadian ships tied up in Britain but the strike "will go on until such a settlement is agreed to for all Canadian ships."

He described the settlement as "a partial victory for the union" which struck against east coast deepsea owners March 31 when the owners signed with the rival Seafarers' International Union.

Davis said the terms cover ships in Britain and one in New Zealand.

A. L. W. MacCallum, manager of the Shipping Federation of Canada, said, however, he had not heard officially of the settlement.

No Discrimination

The terms under which the men will return to work on these ships were listed by Davis as:

1. Return to the ships without any discrimination. 2. No charges to be laid against the seamen. 3. Seamen will not be required to join the S.I.U. 4. All wages and conditions that prevailed before the strike shall apply.

"This settlement is what we have asked the government to apply to all ships," Davis said in a prepared statement. "The strike will go on until such a settlement is agreed to for all Canadian ships. We owe this partial victory that we have won on our ships in Britain to the British dockers. It has been their fine solidarity in our strike that has brought about this settlement."

"Until such time as an agreement is worked out, the strike will definitely continue because the international support we are receiving is stronger than ever."

London reports said acceptance by Canadian shipowners of the proposals averted a threatened strike by 27,000 British dockers.

Davis' statement said the settlement had been worked out in London between the Canadian High Commissioner, Dana Wilgress, and C.S.U. Representatives.

Following the announcement in London, stevedores went to work unloading the two Canadian ships Beaverbrae and Argomont.

Rate 30.5 Mills

TORONTO, June 24 (CP) — Toronto's 1949 tax rate was set today at 30.5 mills, eight mills less than last year.

By a vote of four to one, Board of Control broke the deadlock which resulted at a meeting Thursday night and recommended the new tax rate to city council.

The general rate was set at 20.60 mills. Board of Education rate was struck at 9.90 mills. Separate school supporters will pay on a total tax rate of 33.15 mills.

Quebec In Festival Mood For Feast of Patron Saint

QUEBEC, June 24 (CP) —Festival mood reigned over Quebec province today as French-speaking Canadians celebrated the traditional "Jour de la St. Jean Baptiste," feast of their patron saint John the Baptist.

Virtually all businesses and industries were shut down and even politics—with a federal election only three days away—took a back seat as all major parties announced they would observe a "truce" for French Canada's national holiday.

Everywhere in the province religious and patriotic ceremonies will take up a full day dedicated to the remembrance of Quebec's historic past and a revival of old traditions and customs.

Thursday night, as the celebrations began with lighting of huge bonfires and singing of folksongs the blue and white Fleur-de-Lis flag of the province decorated countless homes.

On many official buildings the province's motto "Je Me Souviens"—I remember—could be read on the provincial coat-of-arms.

This was Friday, a day of abstinence for all Roman Catholics, but Quebecers, by a special church decree, were given permission to eat all the meat they want.

In Quebec City, even as dawn came quietly on this St. Jean Baptiste Day, some 75,000 persons were returning home from a midnight Pontifical High Mass under the stars at the civic ball park by Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec.

Two other masses followed in the small hours of the morning at 45,000 received communion from 100 priests. At one moment 25 other priests were called from 2,000 clergymen attending, to help serve the hosts to the massed crowd.

Today in Montreal 1,000,000 people are expected to view the biggest St. Jean Baptiste parade ever staged there. Some 10,000 persons will participate.

THERE SHE GOES—The channel steamer Princess Astrid heels over just before she sank in the English Channel, off Dunkirk, France. The vessel hit a mine and exploded. Five crewmen were killed and 10 other persons injured, but 283 passengers were rescued before the Princess Astrid sank.

Thetford Mines Strikers End Walkout

THETFORD MINES, Que., June 24 (CP)—Half of 5,000 striking workers in the Asbestos fields of the eastern townships will return to work Monday, ending their part in a violence-ridden walkout begun Feb. 13. They will return to the mines at their old wage rates and without the extra 15 cents an hour demanded when they went on strike.

However, there was every indication the men, in forthcoming negotiations with the Asbestos Companies, would gain 10 cents an hour.

The workers' settlement meeting last night followed a new strike-ending proposal by the companies concerned and it was known that a 10-cents an hour increase was included in this.

The back-to-work announcement was made early today by Union chief Georges Dionne. It came amid indications a settlement might soon be reached between Canadian Johns-Manville Co., at Asbestos, Que. and upwards of 2,000 striking workers, thus bringing peace once once to Quebec's "Serpentine belt" from whence comes some 80 per cent of the world's asbestos.

Mr. Dionne is president of the syndicate of Asbestos workers at the Quebec Asbestos Corporation. His strike settlement announcement was on behalf of Quebec Asbestos Corporation workers and those employed by Johnson Mines Limited and the Flintkote Mines.

He was not empowered to speak for workers of Canadian Johns-Manville Corporation, but Syndicate sources said union employees of that Company would hold a meeting tonight.

Fire Threatens Capital Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP) —A top-secret naval building always under heavy guard today was the centre of a three-alarm fire that also threatened a row of large munitions warehouses.

The fire was reported under control at 4 a.m. EDT.

One man familiar with the United States navy installation said if the flames had spread to the warehouses just a few feet away "the entire southeastern part of Washington would have blown up."

The area is considered so secret that shore patrolmen with drawn revolvers kept Washington police, including the chief of police, from entering.

The navy refused any immediate estimate of damage, explanation of the cause of the fire, or to tell what was in building 13 of the Naval Research magazine.

A reporter for the Washington-Times-Herald said, however, that the two-storey building was burned out.

Swallows Bean, Dies

LONDON, Ont., June 24—(CP) —Two-year-old Judith Gratton of Thedford, died in hospital Thursday night after a tracheotomy failed to remove a lima bean lodged in her lung. The child swallowed the bean while playing at her home, 35 miles northwest of here.

'Get Out The Vote' Drive Parallels Candidates' Pleas

By The Canadian Press

"Vote for me!" cried the politician. "Vote!" urged those aware that an uncast ballot is a step away from Democracy. Across Canada during the last seven weeks two parallel campaigns were waged as the country pointed to June 27, election day.

On the one hand, 848 candidates and their supporters fought to attract the voter on a personal basis, as was their right. On the other, many disinterested bodies tried just as hard to see that Canadians exercised their democratic right to vote—for anyone.

In the forefront of the campaign newspapers, radio stations, Chambers of Commerce, boards of trade, veterans associations, service clubs and individual business leaders. Many and diverse were the methods used to stir a potential 8,000,000 voters into going to the polls Monday to elect a government truly representative of a majority of the people.

In constant use was the old slogan: "Vote as you please, but vote." But there were others. In Vancouver, it was: "It's vital—vote." In Montreal: "The mark of a good citizen—X." Each city had its favorite.

The young men's section of the Montreal Board of Trade conducted a scientific sampling of potential voters that pointed up the need of the get-out-and-vote campaign. It reported that 21.3 per cent of eligible voters in Montreal don't intend to exercise their franchise. Of that number, 41.7 per cent said they were "not interested"; 7.9 per cent were "too busy" and 7.7 per cent "can't be bothered."

The Canadian Legion early in the campaign launched its "Operation Vote." Its 2,000 branches co-operate with community organizations, pressing Canadians to get out and vote. In almost every city and town the various Chambers of Commerce and similar organizations posted stickers on street car windows, on telephone poles and walls and used other means of broadcasting the message: "Vote."

The campaign's result will be known Monday night. That's when the popular vote tables will show whether more voters turned out than the 5,246,130 who did so in the 1945 election.

Third Seamen's Union For Lakes Organized

SARNIA, Ont., June 24 (CP) — Formation of a new independent union for Great Lakes sailors was announced Thursday night by its organizer, Robert Schumacher.

The Union is to be known as the United Federation of Lake Seamen. Schumacher said it has the support of 75 per cent of Great Lakes seamen.

He added that it is supported by seamen on vessels operated by Canada Steamship Lines, now under contract with the Seafarers' International Union (AFL), Paterson Steamships, Upper Lakes and St. Lawrence Steamships, Diamond Steamship Lines and Northwest Steamships.

In Toronto, Dewar Ferguson, business agent of the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC), said he believed there is no basis to Schumacher's claim that the new organization has members on Great Lakes vessels.

Fight 10 Miles From Hong Kong

HONG KONG, June 24 — (Reuters)—Chinese Nationalists and Communists were fighting today only 10 miles from the frontier of this British Crown colony on the China coast.

Communist guerrillas have reached the hilly country north of the Shamchun river, which forms the western end of the international frontier. The Nationalist force was estimated at about 2,000 men, including regulars and local militia, but the strength of the Communists was not known. Both sides were reported well armed.

U.S. Not Asked

LONDON, June 24—(AP)— Britain denied yesterday that she had asked the United States to help defend Hong Kong. "Hong Kong is a British possession for which we are responsible," a Foreign Office spokesman said, "and we have not asked the United States to assist in its defense."

Agriculture Research Said Going To Waste

VANCOUVER, June 24—(CP) —Agricultural research is going to waste, delegates to the Agricultural Institute of Canada convention decided here Thursday.

The "wastage," resulting from lack of co-ordination between the Dominion Farm Experimental Bureau and the individual farmer, is one of the main problems confronting Canadian farmers, the delegates maintained.

To aid in "bridging" this education gap, the farmer-scientists passed a resolution appointing a "committee on extension" to study the best methods of making new information and techniques available to farmers.

Captain, Navigating Officer Face Charges Following Grounding of "Magnificent"

Separate Trials To Take Place At Halifax June 2 8and 29; Navy Commander On East Coast To Preside Over Captain's Trial

HALIFAX, June 24—(CP)—The Commander and the Navigating Officer of the aircraft carrier Magnificent will face charges arising from the grounding of the big ship near Liverpool, N.S., June 4 at separate courts martial here June 28. An Atlantic Command announcement today said that Commodore G. R. (Gus) Miles, O.B.E., commanding officer of the carrier, will be a defendant in the first court martial presided over by Rear Admiral E. R. Mainguy, O.B.E., flag officer of Atlantic command. Lt.-Cmdr. W. D. F. Johnston, Navigating Officer of the carrier, will be defendant at a second court martial presided over by Capt. E. P. Tisdall of Ottawa.

A naval spokesman said that texts of the charges against each of the officers would not be available until sometime tomorrow.

Cmdr. V. W. Howland will officiate as the judge advocate for both hearings. The courts martial will open with the traditional one-gun salute and a bare sword will be used to indicate the verdict. At the end of the hearing if an officer is guilty the point of the sword is turned toward him.

The hearings will be held at the HMCS Stadacona auditorium and will occupy June 28 and June 29.

The Magnificent ran aground during exercises off the Nova Scotia South Shore on what a spokesman said was an uncharted, submerged rock.

Under her own power and with the aid of escorting destroyers she worked herself off the rock and moved back to her Halifax base. She is now undergoing repairs in drydock at Saint John, N. B.

Bacon Contract Gets Deferment

WASHINGTON, June 24 (CP) —Cancellation of a $2,500,000 Marshall-plan allocation to Britain for purchase of Canadian bacon was announced Thursday. An informed source said it means nothing in the long run but a bookkeeping change.

He recalled that only three days ago the Economic Co-operation Administration earmarked $3,760,000 for purchase of Canadian bacon to be delivered to Britain by Sept. 30.

The cancellation Thursday was on an allocation for bacon supposed to be delivered between April and June, 1949.

It was found for some reason that the June 30 deadline could not be met. In routine fashion, the allocation was stricken from the books.

The source said the cancellation is, in effect, nothing but a postponement. A new allocation, perhaps the same one, may be made for a succeeding period.

The $3,760,000 allocation for delivery to Britain by Sept. 30 just happened to be announced before the $2,500,000 cancellation was disclosed.

Senators Resent Pressure To Speed Arms Program

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP) —Some resentment smouldered in the Senate today against the State Department's pressure for action on a $1,130,000,000 arms-for-Europe program.

Some Senate leaders said privately that the administration is asking for too much too fast—without regard to the political "timing" of the requests.

There has been talk that President Truman will send the arms-aid plan to Congress before the Senate has given its approval to the North Atlantic Treaty. Dean Acheson, secretary of state, told Congress the arms program must be approved this session to maintain the United States' "firm policy" against Russia.

Senate leaders who spoke to a reporter said they feel this action will tend to put too much emphasis on the arms plan—and thus lend weight to the arguments of treaty critics who say the pact is nothing more than another military alliance.

One senator put it this way:

"The real value of the treaty is that it marshals the vast military, industrial and spiritual power of the United States against aggression The value of that cannot be calculated in dollars:

"But the administration comes along and puts the emphasis on a measly figure of $1,000,000,000.

"It's absurb to shift the emphasis to the equipment which will be distributed among 11 pact nations."

Senate leaders had planned earlier to get the pact ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate—and then take up the arms program. Now they fear the two issues may become so intermingled that greater opposition will be aroused against the treaty.

Railway Heads In Berlin Spurn Strikers' Plan

BERLIN, June 24 (AP)—The Russian-directed Reichsbahn said today it will refuse to accept any trains run on an emergency basis by west-Berlin rail strikers.

The anti-Communist strikers had offered to clear the way toward restoring interzonal freight movements by trying to clear the clogged marshalling yards in the United States and French sectors. Dozens of trains have been idle there since the stoppage was called five weeks ago.

The idea, presumably, was the clearing the yards would make it possible for the Russians to allow trains to come in from the western zone of Germany.

The idea was reported to have the approval of the American military government. British authorities termed the idea a lot of nonsense and forbade strikers to make any such move in the British sector.

Later British officials, while making it clear their policy against emergency service has not changed, relaxed their initial order.

They said strikers would be permitted to enter yards to repair installations and clear yard lines. This, said a British spokesman, was only allowed to prepare for operation provided the Reichsbahn agrees to the emergency program.

A French spokesman said their attitude was similar to the British stand.

Some Crops Good Despite Drought

TORONTO, June 24 — (CP) — Although weather conditions generally continued dry throughout Southern Ontario Thursday, some districts reported improved conditions and fair yields of crops.

In Essex County potato harvesting is in full swing. Harvesting was started several days earlier but farmers expect the crop to be only slightly lighter than usual. Heavier yields are expected as the season advances.

Quality of the potato crop is good, some officials said. Growers are getting a starting price of $2.50 a bag. Last year first-of-the-season prices topped $3.

Welland County farmers reported the drought had affected hay, but had not harmed grapes and corn Wheat still needs rain to fill out heads. Fruit growers predict a good crop.

Greek Prime Minister Dies At Age of 88

ATHENS, June 24 (AP) — Themistokles Sophoulis, Premier of Greece, died today. He was 88 years old. Death occurred at his summer residence at 4:15 p.m. Although he had been ill and was near death last fall, his death at this time was unexpected.

Sophoulis, a key figure in the west's struggle to halt the march of Communism, often was referred to by his followers as the man made premier by the United States.

The venerable Liberal party leader was an important cog in the Truman doctrine under which United States aid went to Greece, fighting a war against Communists in the north, and Turkey, under the shadow of the Russian bear.

Czech Protestant Minority To Aid Roman Catholics In Fight Against Reds

"We Are Next If Catholics Succumb To State Subjugation" Says Western Pastor Visiting in Prague

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 24—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's Protestant minority is reported preparing to support a traditional antagonist—the Roman Catholic Church—in the latter's fight for survival against the Communist government. A western clergyman visiting in Prague, who asked to remain anonymous, quoted Protestants who are in favor of the move as saying "we are next and we are lost if the Catholics succumb to State subjugation." There are 9,000,000 Roman Catholics in Czechoslovakia, and 1,000,000 Protestants.

The Protestants — mostly Calvinists (Presbyterians)—also have been under Communist pressure to submit to State control. Church leaders suspect that once the much-stronger Roman Catholic church is subdued they will have no chance to combat a government scheme to make all protestant pastors and parishes completely dependent on the government for financial support. Such a bill was before parliament once, but was shelved temporarily.

Roman Catholic sources, meanwhile, reported that Archbishop Joseph Beran of Prague now is isolated from his followers.

The Vatican and other sources have indicated they believe Archbishop Beran, and Archbishop Joseph Matocha of Olomouc—his second-in-command—may be arrested at any moment.

The report of Protestant support for the embattled Roman Catholic faith has much more significance here than in most lands.

This country produced a religious leader opposed to Rome a century before Martin Luther. He was John Huss who was condemned by the Council of Constance and burned as a heretic in 1415 for his teachings. During the next 200 years Protestantism grew strong in Czechoslovakia until it was finally suppressed in 1620 by the Roman Catholic Emperor of Austria and the Roman Catholic nobility.

Peer Forsakes Labor Party

LONDON, June 24 — (CP) — Baron Milverton, 64, Thursday told a hushed House of Lords he is resigning from the Labor Party because of its determination to nationalize Britain's iron and steel industry.

"I am unwilling to be a silent passenger on this sinister journey," Lord Milverton said in an unexpected personal statement.

"I am one of a large number of people of an independent mind who saw the merits of the Labor Party program of social justice but who now are beginning to feel uneasy about the lengths to which the rest of that program is taking them.

"The road on which we are travelling leads to a precipice at the foot of which clearly emerges the totalitarian state."

He said present controls over national life have reach "dangerous proportions." The gaps between principle and performance in some nationalization plans were more dangerous than the dollar gap.

Lord Milverton was created a Baron in 1947 and joined the Labor Party the following year. As Sir Arthur Frederick Richards he once was governor of North Borneo and held various posts in the Federated Malay States from 1910 to 1920.

He rose Thursday on the motion to consider the iron and steel bill in committee. When he finished speaking he walked across the floor of the House and sat with the Liberals. He later applied to join the Liberals.

St. Laurent Says Confederation No Longer Issue

By The Canadian Press

Prime Minister St. Laurent moved to the new province of Newfoundland Thursday night in the final lap of his personal campaign for next Monday's federal election.

He made no speeches — his speech-making tour opens today—but he told a press conference in the capital city of St. John's that he believes the recent Liberal victory in the provincial election indicates that confederation "is no longer a political issue."

He said, too, that he saw no signs of a business depression in the Canadian economy.

As the campaign moved into its last stages, Progressive-Conservative Leader George Drew spoke in Toronto, his provincial capital when he was premier of Ontario, and C.C.F. Leader M. J. Coldwell continued a village-by-village swing through his home Saskatchewan riding of Rosetown-Biggar.

Duty To Co-operate

Mr. Drew swung again at the Liberal government, charging it with refusal to co-operate with the provinces, and said:

"Either this country is to be one nation or it is not. If it is to be one nation, then it is the duty of the federal government to co-operate with every provincial government chosen by the people of that province."

Mr. Coldwell brought the government under fire for what he said was its failure to keep 1945 election promises of cheaper tools for the farmer. Every farmer knew that the price of most farm machinery now was "at least 35 per cent higher than it was in 1945."

He said the CCF party believes in the co-operative distribution of farm implements and either public or co-operative manufacture of them. Last year one farm implement company increased its net profits from $1,850,000 to $5,700,000.

Mr. Drew, who swings today into his eighth week of federal election campaigning with speeches in Cobourg and Belleville, said Prime Minister St. Laurent declined to meet the provinces to discuss matters that best could be carried out by co-operation between governments.

"We believe that our federal constitution must be respected if we are to have national unity. We also believe our local affairs can best be conducted in every province when the provincial governments and municipal councils have clearly-defined authority over local affairs and are assured of adequate financial resources to carry out their responsibilities."

Mr. Drew directed much of his criticism at Prime Minister St. Laurent and at the Toronto Daily Star. He defended his own co-operation with Premier Duplessis of Quebec and his friendship with George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail and the Toronto Telegram.

People were being told by the Star that if the Progressive-Conservatives win Monday's election Premier Duplessis will rule Canada. He said that was a fair example of the kind of thing the Star has been doing for some time.

Proud of Friendship

"Let me say publicly that George McCullagh is a friend of mine and I am proud of it," said Mr. Drew. "If we had more people like George McCullagh who were ready to fight for a free and honest press this country would be a lot better."

If Prime Minister St. Laurent wanted to talk about "sinister friendships," then he regretted that the Prime Minister should have the friendship of the Toronto Star. "Few newspapers," he added, "would stoop to the tactics of the Toronto Star."

Mr. St. Laurent is to make a major campaign speech tonight in this capital of Canada's new province where he is visiting for the first time.

Mr. St. Laurent arrived here Thursday night to be greeted by thousands of persons who lined the streets to see his motorcade. He caught Newfoundlanders in one of their major celebrations of the year—Founder's Day, which commemorates the discovery of the island by John Cabot 452 years ago today.

He was asked about possible devaluation of the Canadian dollar and the English pound as an antidote to trade problems. Mr. St. Laurent said he could not see that devaluation of either would be a "happy solution."

"There has been too much talk already about devaluation of the pound. It's when you do things to destroy the confidence in currency that you bring into being the factors which make for depressions."

Mr. St. Laurent was asked about the charges of intimidation of voters against Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland. He replied that he felt he should not interfere in provincial matters.

Gets Big Welcome

A six-mile, hour-long motorcade took the Prime Minister through 10 welcoming arches in this old seaport. Later, he stood on the balcony of the Newfoundland hotel and waved to a cheering crowd jammed in the street below.

Mr. Coldwell said there is a need for a newspaper to set forth the views of prairie farmers, and they might finance such a paper with money which "now goes into profits for big farm machinery companies and distributors."

Mr. Coldwell, touring the constituency of Rosetown-Biggar, which he represented in the last parliament, devoted his election campain address here to criticism of farm implement companies and to a charge that a "tremendous newspaper monopoly" exists in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

He said the Sifton family "owned and controlled" the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, the Regina Leader-Post and the Winnipeg Free Press.

Readers of those newspapers read "whatever that monopoly decided you should read," Mr. Coldwell said, and "this is carried into radio as well because the Siftons also operate radio stations in Winnipeg and Regina."

Judge Sentences Man To Hang

SUDBURY, JuJne 24 —(CP)—Albert (Punch) Quesnel, 38-year-old Espanola Paper Mill worker, was sentenced Thursday night to be hanged Sept. 29. A jury which deliberated nearly six hours convicted him of murder in the strangling last March 25 of 71-year-old Mrs. Harry Cleland at Espanola.

The sentence raised the possibility that Sudbury will have its first double hanging Sept. 29. Gerard Chretein was sentenced last week to be hanged the same date for the rifle-slaying of William Wilson in a Sudbury home last Dec. 9.

Quesnel's lawyer, Leo Landerville, told reporters at the conclusion of the trial that he planned to launch an appeal immediately.

Mrs. Cleland was slain while walking home alone late at night from a bingo game in Espanola, 40 miles southeast of here. Her partly-clothed body was found the next day in a gully near her home on the outskirts of the paper mill town. Investigation showed that the woman had been sexually attacked.

Stock Prices Ease As Volume Sags

TORONTO, June 24 —(CP)—Prices moved narrowly on a slightly firmer level in dull trading here today. Early prices were the best and then eased as volume sagged. Golds and base metals showed slight advantages while a few key industrials improved.

A slight amount of profit-taking on recent advances appeared in the junior gold producers. Seniors continued climbing with McIntyre, Lake Shore and Kerr Addison adding fractions. Junior producers eased pennies in early dealings but trading activity bogged down in mid-session.

Base metals opened easier, edged forward slightly, and again showed signs of weakening in mid-session. Consolidated Smelters and International Nickel slipped into 2the fractionally minus side while Noranda and Quemont were in the plus column.

Selected industrials climbed fractions in early dealings and were at a standstill at the halfway mark.

Find Aged Man's Body In Roadside Ditch

BELLEVILLE, June 24 — The body of a man identified as Harry Johnston, 68, of Ompah, was found yesterday in a roadside ditch near Clarendon, five miles north of Sharbot Lake.

The body first was discovered by a motorist about 4 a.m. Provincial police, summoned by the motorist, said nothing indicated that the man had been a hit-run victim.

Cause of death is unknown. The body was taken to the Kingston General Hospital for post mortem.

Otonabee Born Financier Dies In Toronto

William J. Hastie, president of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, died suddenly in Toronto this morning.

From a position of clerk in the Peterborough head office of the company, the career of Mr. Hastie gradually broadened in Toronto as an executive of various financial and trust companies, including the vice-presidency of Central Canada Loan and Savings Company.

Mr. Hastie was born at Villiers, east of Keene in Otonabee township, son of Joseph Hastie and his wife the late Margaret Wood, on December 30, 1892.

Folowing his graduation from Peterborough Collegiate Institute, Mr. Hastie joined the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. as a junior, and eventually became one of the group of prominent men whose successes stemmed from the enterprise of Hon. George A. Cox.

The work of Mr. Hastie came to the attention of Mr. E. R. Wood, an associate of Hon. Mr. Cox, and the fact that they were both from Peterborough probably inspired an interest that may have afforded some opportunity for the younger Hastie in which he proved his fitness and ability.

Executive Financier

Mr. Hastie was associated with Central Canada Loan & Savings Company in various capacities from 1907 until 1919 when he was appointed secretary. Subsequently he was elected a director in 1933 and vice-president in 1941.

Directorships he attained included the Bank of Nova Scotia; National Trust Company; British American Assurance Company; Western Assurance Company; Canadian Real Estate Company; Canadian Securities and Land Corporation; British Columbia Cement Co.; in addition to the presidency of Toronto Savings and Loan Company.

In 1921 Mr. Hastie married Muriel Carney, daughter of Edward Carney of Toronto. He leaves his wife and two sons, William J. and Edward R. Hastie of Toronto; his father; three sisters, Miss Isabella Hastie of Montreal; Mrs. Ralph Adamson of Keene; Mrs. Victor Dickson of Otonabee township; and two brothers, Mr. Amos Hastie, 535 Gilmour St., Peterborough, and Alex Hastie of Shawnavon, Sask. One sister, Mrs. William Steele, Otonabee, died three years ago.

Mr. Hastie was a member of Deer Park United Church, Lambton Golf Club and Granite and Rotary Clubs, Toronto; he was also a member of the Board of Governors of Toronto Y.M.C.A.

The body is resting at the Miles funeral home, St. Clair Ave., until Monday at 2.30 p.m. when the funeral service will take place at Deer Park Church. Burial will be in Toronto.

OBITUARIES

MRS. OLIVER H. CHURCH

A long time resident of Burleigh township, Mrs. Oliver H. Church, 58, died suddenly after a heart attack today in her home, concession 2.

Man Collapses On Aylmer St.

Collapsing in the middle of Aylmer St. while on his way home Thursday night about 9:00 p.m., Wm. Dolan, 63, 771 Water St., was found lying in the middle of the road by two men who notified police. Mr. Dolan was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where it was reported he was still in the same condition today.

A lady who works in the Legion Hall saw the man start across the street from east to west, then stumble and fall when he reached the middle of the street.

A short time later Donald O'Connell, 301 Margaret Ave., and Wm. Panter, 1069 Monaghan Rd., were driving north on Aylmer and saw the unconscious man. They stopped and notified police.

Mr. Dolan had phoned his wife a short time before 9 p.m. to say he was on his way home. Mrs. Dolan told police her husband had been having weak spells and was under the care of Dr. C. F. Cahill, who took charge of Mr. Dolan when he arrived at the hospital.

SUMMER PLANS SPOILED

After working for many months on designing and printing to earn enough money to buy clothing for a summer camp-councillor job, Denise Doubt of Lakefield had her plans rudely shattered. She came into the city on Thursday laid her purse down while making a purchase in an upper George St., store and a minute later it was missing from the counter. It is hoped that the sneak thief who reads this will have the decency to return the purse and contents to the store from which it was taken so that Miss Doubt's months of work will not have been in vain, and that she will be able to continue her summer work as planned.

HIS UNLUCKY DAY

Oswald Bell, Cavan farmer, had a lot of trouble getting a stallion back to his farm Thursday from Warsaw, but the difficulty he met at the corner of Monaghan Rd. and Homewood Ave., nevertheless provided a bit of the unusual in the way of excitement for the children of the neighborhood. Mr. Bell had the horse in a trailer which was being towed behind his car. On reaching the intersection his rear wheel brakes locked and he could get no further. While waiting for a tow truck from a garage, Mr. Bell took the stallion out of the trailer and exercised it by walking the animal up and down this beautiful residential street, adding quite a rural touch to the surroundings. Mr. Bell was forced to walk the horse home after arrival of the tow truck, although he expressed the hope that somewhere along the way he could find another means of transporting the stallion on wheels.

Canning Crops Beat Dry Spell

COBOURG, June 24 (ENS). — Northumberland County has not been as dry in the canning crop areas as has been the case in som parts of Ontario, it was revealed by Ralph Banbury, county agricultural representative. Early-set tomatoes did not do well, but in the past week the improvement, where they have received good care, is very good, and a fair crop may result.

"While we grow only 20 per cent of the tomato crop east of Toronto and Essex and Kent grow most of the pack, the tomato still has an important part in the economy in Northumberland County, and the canning activities of this year will be fairly satisfactory when consumption needs are considered.

Pea vining has been done in some areas west of Toronto, but with small yields. Crops vary greatly in Northumberland with most fields in bloom. Approximately one-half of the pea crop is grown in Eastern Ontario. With its ability to stand dry weather a fair corn crop is hoped for, but, as in the other cases, it is too early to be sure of how much food will be canned this fall," Mr. Banbury said.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).— Collier's Magazine Thursday reported that a new penicillin "one-shot cure for syphillis" has been developed. At hospitals where the treatment is being given, the doctors told the Associated Press that although the results thus far look good, it is too early to be certain.

TURNING THE PAGES OF
"CANADA UNLIMITED"

Through swirling blizzards . . . along unmarked trails . . . the courrier des bois struggled across open country with a dispatch. He slept in a bed of pine boughs in the snow, and often went days without food. Early Canada had no postal services. Courriers were hired to carry letters for those who could afford it.

When the first Post Office opened in Halifax in 1755, regular mail service to England began. In 1763, post offices were opened in Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers by Benjamin Franklin, then Deputy Postmaster-General of the British Colonies in America.

During the 1800's, roads opened up. Boats began regular trips along the St. Lawrence. Mail services expanded until, in 1852, the Canadian Post Office was handling 3,700,000 letters. And on Christmas Day, 1898—thanks to the efforts of Sir William Mulock—penny postage was born.

Today Canada leads the world—carrying mail by air between distant points of our country . . . at first-class rates! From paper-making to transportation, the industries that make the postal services possible have contributed to this growth . . . have increased opportunity. Yes, there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited!

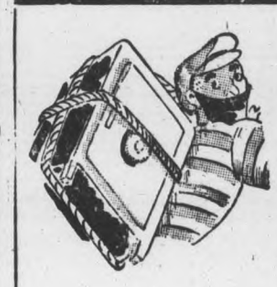
SEEKS SEAT IN HULL — Cecile Brunet of Ottawa is campaigning on the Social Credit ticket in Hull constituency in the June 27 federal election.

Forged Name Of Nephew On Cheque, Note

CAMPBELLFORD, June 24 — (ENS)—Two years suspended sentence was given to David Rogers who pleaded guilty in police court Thursday to forging the name of his nephew, Earl Rogers of Frankford, to a cheque and a promissory note, both in favor of Alan Bell. Rogers was placed on $1,000 bond on condition he pays Bell $30 per month until full restitution is made.

Alan Bell testified that he had given his car to Rogers to sell, informing him that he could have all he made over $1,500. Later, Rogers said that he had sold the car to his nephew, Earl Rogers of Frankford. Rogers had given him, Bell stated, a cheque for $800 and a promissory note for $700 in payment for the car, both bearing the name of the nephew.



Bell further informed Crown Counsel Harry Deyman that he had phoned Earl at Frankford and Earl said that he had not bought the car and that the matter had never been discussed. Rogers had paid him, Bell continued, $900 in cash and that the balance of $600 had not been met.

Earl Rogers told the court that he had known nothing of the deal and that he had never been interested in Bell's car. He also denied that he had attached his signature to the cheque and note.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter pointed out to Rogers the seriousness of the offence and advised him to stay out of trouble from now on.

The killer had cut off her breasts, slit her throat from ear to ear, stabbed her twice in the heart, and cut her open "down the middle."

Walker was called from Wallaceburg to the accident.

Are You A Citizen Or An Idiot?

In ancient Greece there was a class of person who was not a slave, but who had no voice and no interest in public affairs. Such a person was called by a name which is the source of our word "idiot". In our time there is also a class of person who is not a slave, and who has no voice or interest in public affairs. He is the man who does not use his vote. Is it too harsh to call him an idiot? We do not think so.

• • •

Votes for every sane citizen over twenty-one are noveities, even in countries like our own. There are many people living who can remember when women had no votes. And yet there are thousands of people who take their vote so much for granted that they will not trouble to go to the poll and cast it. Their slackness shows a staggering contempt for the efforts of millions of their forbears who desired the vote with all their hearts, and who struggled manfully to gain it. Surely such contempt is the mark of the idiot?

• • •

In the 1945 election only 72 per cent. of the voters of Peterborough West cast their votes,. Were the other 28 per cent. all idiots? That is what the ancient Greeks would have called them, and they were remarkably shrewd in their estimates of political matters.

• • •

Don't be an idiot. Vote on Monday.

Wishful Thinking About Russia?

John Foster Dulles, the Republican party's foreign policy adviser to the Secretary of State said last Wednesday that "events may be shaping up to a new and intense struggle" within Russia and its satellite countries. This "struggle", Mr. Dulles commented, would make the lives of Russian leaders dependent on the outcome". Now Mr. Dulles is not a fool, although he is a Republican. Republicans are so strong in their hate of things Russian and Communistic that some would be prepared to make an immediate kill or cure war against Russia, and others catch at every straw in the wind which could help them believe that the U.S.S.R. is about to collapse. Mr. Dulles is not uninformed about Russia and eastern Europe. The facts on which he could base such a statement must be more than straws.

In our Third Column on this page yesterday we carried a reasoned analysis about Soviet policy in Eastern Germany, by a British correspondent W. N. Ewer. Mr. Ewer discussed the underlying reasons for the Soviet's reversal of policy from a demand for a unified Germany to an acceptance of partition. One which he cited was political; "The development in the West, then the shock of the recent Soviet zone elections have shown Stalin and his colleagues that a united Germany with any freedom of choice would choose association with Western Europe, not association with the Soviet Union and its satellites."

The other reason for the reversal of foreign policy which Mr. Ewer discussed is economic. Two years ago eastern European countries were forbidden to take part in E.R.P. The Soviet Union had large plans for an integrated Eastern European economy, independent of the west, dependent upon Moscow. The Soviet Union has tried for two years to make the plans workable. "The result has been", says Mr. Ewer, "to create an intense economic crisis especially in Czechoslovakia and Eastern Europe. The Soviet Union for all its boasting of economic strength is in no condition to help its satellites. Indeed, their troubles are in part due to the fact it has been ruthlessly and shortsightedly exploiting them by various devices".

There may be considerable truth in Mr. Dulles statement that "Soviet leadership is having to contend with problems in the satellite countries where there is steadily growing revolt against . . . Soviet Communism". But let us not delude ourselves into believing that the Soviet system is going to fall apart like a house of cards, merely by blowing hotly against it. The U.S.S.R. has within its own borders, and controls within the borders of a dozen other countries, vast and varied resources, both human and material. It is economically as self-contained a region as any on the face of the earth. And the Kremlin holds the power, the reigns and the guns. Given a reasonable amount of mutual East-West tolerance, it is possible for both the West and the Soviet to live.

Party Workers

In the United States, party workers are frequently called "ward-heelers". They walk the district drumming up votes, not merely or chiefly because they are altruistically convinced that the candidate and party for whom they are working is the best. Their fingers are already outstretched to pull out plums from political pies. The term "ward-heeler" is not used in this country extensively, and we think that a majority of party canvassers and stalwarts take part because of their convictions, whatever they may be. They are not primarily working for selfish reasons. At any rate, whatever their reasons, their activity can usually be considered good for democracy; it helps keep elections from being moribund.

It is essential to democracy and the parliamentary system that a person who wants to campaign for a legally-recognized political party be freely allowed to do so in his own time. Employers who would penalize an employee because he actively campaigns for the Conservative Party even though the employer is a Liberal; or who would attempt to intimidate a Liberal Party worker because the head of the firm is a Conservative, deserve to be spat upon or locked up as menaces to society. An employee's political beliefs and activities, provided they do not interfere with his work, are not the employer's business. In a political democracy, every man is his own boss outside working hours, and his own arbiter on political questions. That is an absolute essential to a democratic form of government.

This Is Midsummer Day

This is Midsummer Day, a time of great significance in earlier centuries, and not entirely neglected in Britain still. One of Shakespeare's loveliest comedies, A Midsummer Night's Dream, is a tribute to the magical character of this day. In northern Europe, and particularly in Norway and Sweden, midsummer fires were lighted last night, and young people, and such of their elders as could endure it, ate, drank, danced and made merry until dawn. The magic of midsummer day is by no means banished from the earth.

One curious custom, which persisted in some parts of England until very recently, was the preparation and burning of a midsummer wheel. It was an old cartwheel, bound with straw and soaked in oil, which was carried to the top of a hill; at midnight it was set alight, and rolled down the hill, toward a stream or a pond; if the fiery wheel quenched itself in the pond it was a sign of good luck for the community during the coming year. The wheel represented the gradual decline of the sun's power after midsummer, and the custom was a survival from the sun worship which prevailed in Britain before Christianity.

These pagan survivals from an earlier worship caused great disquiet to the early Christian Church, which sought whenever possible to give them a Christian significance. It was an old custom for men and women to bathe in streams, and to wash themselves in the dew at sunrise on Midsummer Day, and this custom was given a Christian whitewashing by dedicating that day to St. John the Baptist, as the saint most nearly connected with washing. It is doubtful if the festival of St. John is celebrated anywhere in the world with more enthusiasm than in our own province of Quebec, where it has achieved not only a religious, but a racial significance. Old customs die hard, and it will be many centures before the world sees the end of the great variety of customs which greet Midsummer Day.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Exercising the muscles makes a strong body; exercising the franchise makes a strong body politic.

In Britain at present good cigars are selling for $4 each. The kind most men smoke, however, are at their usual low price.

The Encylopaedia Britannica says that "ordinary conversations cannot be heard by canaries". Lucky birds. But it must be said in rebuttal that when a canary really gets going ordinary conversationalists can hardly hear one another.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: I read that the son of the famous negro singer Paul Robeson married a white girl. Should they have any children, will the children be negroes?

ANSWER: Yes, they will, or according to polite American usage, "coloured". Actually they would be, anthropologically-speaking, mulatto (the word comes from mule, which is the offspring of a he-ass and a mare; or of a she-ass and a stallion; technically, this latter is a "hinny".) The children would be, to repeat, mulattos; that is if the young Robeson is a full negro. But if his own mother were white (she is not), he would be the mulatto and his white wife's children would be quadroons, a quarter negro. However, if young Robeson's own mother were white, and Paul Robeson were himself only half-negro (a mulatto) then the offspring of the young Robeson and his white wife would be only one-eighth negro, and would be octoroons.

Now to consider the possible offspring genetically, on the supposition that the new husband is full negro, and his wife all white: according to the Mendelian views on heredity, and if there were four children, one would inherit the mother's dominant characteristics, one the father's, and the other two would be a blend of both. So, had this young couple four children, one would look like a white person, one like a full negro, and the other two would look like the mulattos all of them would be.

Mendel's law of heredity has been paraphrased in these lines:

There was a young lady called Starkey
Who had an affair with a darky;
The result of her sins
Was quadruplets, not twins:
One white, one black, and two khaki.

ALPHA, OLD BOY: You slipped up on Friday when you wrote about the village of Zurich, Ontario, and said "undoubtedly all the villagers speak Swiss".

There is no Swiss language, or rather, there are three of them—French, German and Italian.

RESPONSE: Perhaps my humor was too subtle. I know there is no more a Swiss language than there is an American one (though H. L Mencken has a three-volume book on The American Language). May I modestly correct you and say that there are four, not three official Swiss languages? The fourth is Romansh. Your three were recognized by the Federal constitution of 1874; Romansh in 1937. It is a quaint survival of a "lingua rustica" of the old Roman Empire. It is spoken chiefly in the canton of Grisons and the Bunder Oberland, in the mountainous eastern part, north of Italy.

DEAR SIR: I noticed a curious thing at the bottom of the large official Announcement of Poll, listing candidates and their agents. The agent for Fraser is stated to be "J. C. Currelly, LAWYER"; for Dit Clapper "Alex. L. Elliott, SOLICITOR"; for Miles, "Wm. G. Grant, BARRISTER". Aren't they all just plain lawyers? Why this playing around about naming their jobs, especially on an official publication?

ANSWER: The Chief Returning Officer probably took the occupation given by each agent; and they probably tossed off the word lawyer, barrister or solicitor without a thought of gradation or difference.

Lawyer is a sort of general term, meaning a member of the legal profession. Therefore since barristers, solicitors and attorneys are all members of the legal profession, they are lawyers.

A barrister is a student of law who has been called to the bar and practices as advocate in superior courts of law. In England a barrister pleads the case prepared by attorneys or solicitors.

A solicitor, like an attorney, is a properly qualified law agent practising in the Courts. In England a solicitor practised in Chancery, an attorney in the Courts of Common Law. The chief difference between barristers and solicitors as commonly assessed is that barristers speak in court, solicitors do not; they prepare the briefs and do the paper work for the mouth-man.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN CANADA all barristers are solicitors, all solicitors barristers; all attorneys (except special ones like Ontario's Attorney-General) are solicitors and barristers, all solicitors and barristers are attorneys; all solicitors, barristers, and attorneys are lawyers, and all lawyers are solicitors, barristers and attorneys (except "barrack-room lawyers" in the army who parade their knowledge or assumed knowledge of military law; and at times put on such a good show when "on the mat" before the Colonel that even they are solicitors, barristers, attorneys and lawyers all in one!)

In Canada the terms are used interchangeably, a distinction without a difference. Some lawyers prefer desk work and so think of themselves chiefly as solicitors; others prefer court-room work, and so think of themselves as barristers. It probably depends on the mood they are in which they call themselves. If they are in expansive mood they are perfectly free to call themselves all three (or is it four?).

Having said all this, I now wait placidly for some of my lawyer friends to pounce on me and pry large holes in my pretty piece of sophistry!

DEAR ALPHA I have heard announcers over the radio use the term "record" and also "transcription" and sometimes both, as "The following program has been recorded and transcribed". I had thought these terms meant the same thing. Is there any difference?

ANSWER: Not really. "Transcribed" music or talks or announcements are recorded, on records, which are essentially phonograph records. I suspect that radio stations fastened on the work "transcribed" in the hope that some gullible listeners might not think that they were being given merely recorded music. However, radio people do make a difference between "transcriptions" and "recordings" in their use of the word, as Mr. Russell Baer, Manager of CHEX explained to me. To them transcription are recordings made especially for broadcasting (often in the studio itself, or by its staff) on large, slow-playing records. These turn at 33 revolutions a minute. When they say "recorded" they mean they are using ordinary records, such as people use on gramophones. These play at 66 r.p.m., and therefore, one record plays for a much shorter time.

By their own differentiation of the terms however, no announcer should say both "recorded" and "transcribed". It is either one or the other, not both at the same time.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: For the first time in its history, Peterborough is having a resident professional repertory company. This company of Canadians, Americans and Britishers, with Michael Sadlier, a young Irishman-born at the head of it, is organized as The Peterborough Summer Theatre. They expect to play 11 weeks, nine performances of each play a week. The new (last autumn) Queen Mary School auditorium is the theatre, and the stage has been furnished with all the necessary adjuncts for good productions. The first play is "Fortune, My Foe" by Peterborough playwright Robertson Davies, who, besides writing, directing and acting in plays, is known to have some connection with this newspaper. It is Mr. Davies' first full length play to see stage lights, was written in 1948, and had its first presentation in Kingston late last summer. This is its fifth production, and is being directed here by the author. The opening is tomorrow, Saturday night.

Letters To The Editor

THEOSOPHISM A SOLUTION

Sir: Election day is speeding toward us and we must make up our minds how to vote. Vote the way you like they say but vote, and they (the leaders) are right. We need not lose this Christian privilege before we appreciate its value. For no matter how many mistakes our type of government makes it is better than others. We could by demands and attention make it better still.

One way to have a more active and service giving government is to have a change occasionally. One that is in too long tends to get fixed and dictatorial ideas. Die hards are telling us how wonderful the Liberal government has been. But let us not forget the great depression in their time that took a war to overcome, nor their way of mining (taxing) people instead of their country's vast resources of buried treasure. And their hunt and chase of Communism (and quite right of course) but over looking the great isms of our own—Hedonism and the sorry spouse Helotism,—Democracy's great divide. The ism we need is theosophism coupled with Realism. A dying hard

APPRECIATES LOCAL HOSPITALITY

Sir: The re-union of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders at Peterborough on June 11th and 12th is now a matter of record, but as one who attended I consider it most fitting that a word of commendation should be said for those who contributed to the success of the gathering of "The Glens".

Great credit is due the Peterborough Examiner for the splendid coverage over several days and to the many good citizens for their contributions, kindness and consideration. I was especially touched by the interested public who, following the impressive ceremony at the Cenotaph on Sunday moved over to the saluting base and cheered those gallant "Up the Glen" men as they passed in old time precision — something that is lacking in most other cities.

Yours sincerely,
W. J. FRANKLIN, LT.-COL.,
Sergeant-at-Arms
The House of Commons

FORESEES COLLAPSE OF CAPITALISM

Sir: You use your paper to discredit socialism and uphold profits at every opportunity and your paper being privately owned as well as a monopoly, in Peterborough you have the last word.

You quote a Canadian Manufacturers Association survey. That doesn't mean a thing, a few years ago a member of our elected House of Commons asked for a bank statement showing the hidden profits of banks and it was never shown and never will be under our present system. Oh yes, the banks have hidden profits and every other business. We are fed up with the dressed up balance statements, profit and loss etc. etc., made up for the public.

I spent a number of years in the life insurance field and ate, drank and slept dividends, profits vs. Par., Non-Par. in life insurance terms (Par.) is participating in the dividends of the Co. (profits) and non-participating is self explanatory (you just don't get any profit) so listen closely to this one Mr. Editor, the same plan of life insurance (identified) in every respect except for profits on one and more on the other, the agent's commission is 20 per cent. more for selling one with profit plan (why)? I'll tell you, the premium is based from $5 to $10.00 per $1,000 insurance which the buyer does not begin to get back in dividends, in so many words the buyer is paying for something he does not get.

Please do not worry about anyone advocating to have the word profit removed from the Holy Bible, rather use your paper to encourage men and women to read the Bible and see what it has to say about profits.

I could go on for hours but I am too busy trying to earn a living under the wonderful profit system you think so much of, I don't, it is all washed up long ago and capital as we have known it is now making its last stand in North America with (Waterloo) coming up, so get ready and keep an open mind and forget monopoly and profit.

I'll bet you 2 to 1 the U.S.A. declares war on Russia in the next 5 years, or maybe much sooner.

Sincerely,
GEO. W. HERON.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch. But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings....

Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgements. Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord. (Mal. 4: 1, 2, 4, 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him....

And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen again from the dead. And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the scribes that Elias must first come?

And Jesus answered and said unto them, Elias truly shall first come, and restore all things. (Matt. 17: 1-3, 9-11.)

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars: and she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered....And she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne. Yankees Win 12-0 Shutout Against Detroit Tigers

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Lipon, 250-hitting Detroit shortstop, twice this season has blasted Byrne's hopes of pitching a no-run, no-hit game.

Johnny first played the villain's role May 8. Byrne had a no-hitter going through six innings, but Lipon greeted the New York Yankee lefthander with a line single to start the seventh. He collected the second of Detroit's three hits in the ninth, as Byrne came through with a 12-0 victory.

Lipon was all that stood between Byrne and a no-hitter Thursday night at Yankee Stadium as Tommy hurled another 12-0 shutout against the Tigers.

Byrne mowed down the Tigers without a safety for seven innings.

Fair By Foot

Then came the eighth—and Lipon blasted a pitch toward the left field corner, the ball landing inside the foul line—fair by a foot. It was the Tigers' only hit of the game. Six other Tigers reached base, all via bases on balls.

Byrne's win was his fifth victory of the year. Tommy Henrich got three of the Yankees' 17 hits, a home run and two singles. He Rookie southpaw Maurice Mc Dermott pitched Boston Red Sox to a three-hit, 7-0 victory over St. Louis Browns.

Alex Kellner—another rookie southpaw—registered his 10th win pitching Philadelphia Athletics to an 11-4 victory over Chicago White Sox. Sam Chapman batted in four runs for the victors with a home run, a double and two singles. The victory moved the A's into second place, one half game ahead of Detroit.

Lefthander Joe Hatton kept the Brooklyn Dodgers in first place in the National League, pitching them to a 7-2 triumph over the Reds in Cincinnati. Hatten allowed six hits for his sixth victory, half of them over Cincinnati.

Within Half Game

Leftie Howie Pollet enabled St. Louis Cardinals to stay within a half-game of the Dodgers, pitching the Redbirds to a 10-6 triumph over New York Giants. Pollet needed help in the eighth from Red Munger in racking up his eighth victory. A three-run homer by Glenn Nelson off Clint Hartung, and another round-tripper by Ron Northey, together with four Giant errors and eight bases on balls, did the trick.

Southpaw Warren Spahn, aided by a 15-hit attack against five Chicago pitchers, chalked up his ninth victory, pitching Boston Braves to a 12-5 victory over the Cubs. Dutch Leonard went down to his ninth defeat.

Lefthander Curt Simmons went all the way for Philadelphia as the Phils swamped Pittsburgh Pirates 9-3. Eddie Miller hit his sixth homer of the season with two on.

Early Wynn, with help from Frank Papish in the ninth, received credit for Cleveland's 4-3 triumph over Washington Senators.

Electrics Hand Reverse To O'Hallorans

O'Hallorans were eliminated from the Ontario Soccer Cup Thursday evening by CGE by the score of 5-2 before a good attendance at King Edward Park. R. Tollington, CGE, from Scotland, at left full back, made a good impression. Art O'Halloran in goal was brilliant. Best for the winners were Strong, Attard and Tolington; for the losers, O'Halloran, Hutchinson and Smart.

Both custodians went under a steady bombardment in the early stages, with Art O'Halloran being spectacular. From a throw-in F. Dyer opened the scoring for O'Hallorans, but this was short-lived when Goodhew centred across to Strong for the equalizer. O'Hallorans at this point dominated the situation, but lacked finish around goal. Towards the interval CGE kept subbing, thereby keeping up the pace to force the O'Halloran custodian to make a succession of smart saves.

On resuming, Scott had to retire with an injured hip and Duncan replaced him at right half. Again O'Halloran in goal robbed the CGE of certain goals with his timely intervention, but he had to admit defeat when Strong headed a perfect centre in below the crossbar. Then Cotton from 10-yard range made it 3-1. On an individual effort Hutchinson registered for O'Hallorans. Time and again O'Hallorans' forwards would penetrate the goal to witness opportunities go abegging. In the last 10 minutes Fred Attard, at centre for Electrics, scored two beautiful goals, to make it 5-2.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Coaches like Bev Goulding in football and basketball don't coast on their jobs, they work at them. We thought of this the other day when noting where high school and collegiate coaches from all over Ontario are taking in the sixth annual summer school in athletic coaching at Western. The nine-day term includes football, basketball and track coaching as well as a short course in care of athletic injuries. Johnny Metras directs the school and he has several assistants. While high school coaches can't make them all, the good ones take in as many as possible. Mr. Goulding seldom misses a chance, and his winning teams might well be the result.

Frank Feaver, secretary of the Ontario Sports Federation, reminds associations that there is a concurrence in most of the amateur variety of any suspension handed out by a member body. These bodies in Ontario include baseball, softball, basketball, hockey, lacrosse and rugby, including ladies' basketball and softball. Thus, if a ball player in Peterborough is suspended by the OBA, he automatically is barred from any of these other organized sports till he is reinstated. Pro and amateur hockey work together, also. It Might be well for managers and athletes to remember this tie-up at all times.

Tigers Tackle Petes

Hamilton Tigers and the Armstrong-sponsored Petes tangle at 8.45 tonight in Miller Bowl, an OLA senior "A" fixture. Second showing of the Mann Cup champs here this semester, and it should be a fine fray. Local lacrossers are bolstering and improving every time out now, with the definite intention of catching a playoff berth their first season up. At the expense of St. Catharines or Weston, mayhap, but they don't care which team they beat. They may or may not win this one tonight, but it's sure to be a sizzling scrap all the way, and likely to be close. Wouldn't their big following love to see them take the Tigers this eve?

* * * * * *

We noticed at the senior ball game Wednesday night how Lefty Dadson and Cack Pagett worked perfectly once to pick a runner off second. Just like the Feller-Boudreau timing stunt. With a runner leading off, these Cleveland stars had a signal whereby the pitcher—looking toward the batter—would start counting to himself on the mound. At the count of "five" he'd whirl and peg to the base, the shortstop meantime counting to "two" or "three" and then dashing over to take the peg and slap it on the runner sliding back. A good play. And we think some of the Petes are also pilfering catcher's signals when they are on second and their team is at bat. Smart work, but let's not start on signal-stealing, or we'll run out of column!

Good All-Around Show

A very boyish-looking pitcher helped considerably in gaining the Sunday Morning Class colleens of Toronto a 1-1 tie with the male all-stars at the Bowl last night. Nevertheless, we believe the local chaps were quite content to settle for the draw in nine frames. The SMC girls looked good against the pick of the Peterborough men softballers. Well over 2,000 fans saw a fine game and got some service dough for the Rotary Club. Everything went off nicely, though naturally the fellows had to wait some 25 minutes for the lasses. Even the three umps were attired smartly and in matching outfits. Police and Firemen went to an 11-all draw earlier and Ab Blondin did his stuff nobly in a weight-lifting demonstration.

Things are a-buzzin' these days and nights in minor lacrosse circles. Three frays run off last gloaming with Queen's juves winning 8-2 from Firestones, the Irwin-Godson midgets taking a 5-2 count over Americans, and United Electric bantams defeating J. K. Hughes 5-2. Monday schedule is: Legion vs. All Saints bantams at 6.15, Kiwanis midgets vs. T. J. Cavanagh an hour later, and then Firestone juveniles vs. Silver Shoes. Coach Jack Foote will shortly have some 500 boys playing under his direction. A five-year-old tot turned out the other day with the tadpoles! The daily schedule for next week will appear tomorrow.

All-Stars Draw With SMC In Good Tussle

Sunday Morning Class girls of Toronto and the local men's all-star team went to a 1-1 exhibition tie in nine innings at the Bowl last night. A big crowd of well over 2,000 fans saw a neat softball tussle with the lowest score so far this season marked up. The City League all-stars had a good team on deck and they tried hard all the way, using three pitchers and two complete teams over the route. But they were well satisfied to settle for the draw against the visitors.

The SMC team was aided considerably by a pitcher who looked suspiciously like a man, and acted like one. He—or she—wore skirts but threw a mighty fast ball and hit and fielded well, besides running bases like a male sprinter. But the rest not only looked like girls but played like first-class colleens, and they had the crowd with them. It was a good exhibition sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Another Tie

The Police and Firemen also drew 11-all in a game cut to five innings to make way for the SMC team and their tussle. There was plenty of hitting and some miscues in this joust but it was interesting and pretty close all the way. The crowd enjoyed the battle of the Civic Softball League rivals, and a lot of good-natured bantering went on throughout. It was anybody's game when the teams, according to an arrangement beforehand, agreed to call it at the end of the fifth because of the later affair.

In between games, Ab Blondin gave a demonstration of weight-lifting and muscular development which the large crowd appreciated. He handled all the way up to 400 pounds with comparative ease and could have lifted more. He is a "Y" lifter and the best in the city. Stan McBride was at the mike during the demonstration.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Defending champion Bob Falkenburg and Jaroslav Drobny on Thursday nipped off a couple of threatened upsets in the fifth set to gain berths in the last 16 of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships at London.

The six other seeded men stars survived a day of heat and thrills with straight-set triumphs witnessed by more than 25,000 fans.

Falkenburg ousted Joseph Asboth, 31-year-old Hungarian who taught tennis to the Russians last winter. The fourth-seeded American rocketed in a service ace for the match point to win 6-4, 7-5, 2-6, 0-6, 6-4.

Drobny, the bouncing Czech left-hander, eliminated Budge Patty of the United States 6-4, 6-8, 7-9, 6-0, 6-2.

Earlier Ted Schroender of the United States tumbled Rene Buser in Montreal, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

At Springfield, Mo., Mickey Owen disclosed Thursday he has been promised a $15,000 contract to rejoin Brooklyn Dodgers.

That was the amount the catcher was making when he jumped to the Mexican League from the National League three years ago.

Owen, who was reinstated three weeks ago with the others who went to Mexico, said he had talked by telephone to owner Branch Rickey and "I'm sure the Dodgers will give me every chance to make the ball club."

At Cincinnati, Burd Shotton, manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, Thursday was notified of his appointment as a National League all-star coach by manager Billy Southworth of Boston Braves, who will pilot the team. Shotton will remain out of uniform, as usual, and do his coaching from the bench. The annual game will be played in Brooklyn July 12.

From Vancouver comes word that John Halley, West Coast League soccer player who drew praise from the touring Newcastle United squad, is headed for fame today—but in a different sport. He's signed to play hockey for the New York Rangers. Next fall Halley will leave for the Tacoma, Wash., training camp and then either to Galt or Lake Placid, N. Y. "I'd rather play hockey than soccer," he said Thursday.

La Tosca sprang a surprise Thursday night by capturing the one-mile pace feature of the Grant Circuit program at Roosevelt raceway in Westbury, N. Y. Paying $14.10 $5.30 and $3.80 La Tosca won by a nose 2:06 driven by Pierce Chappell. Whiplite finished second and Stewart Direct third. Junior Counsel the even-money favorite, was fourth.

There were 75 salesmen representing nationally known manufacturers and wholesalers serving Canadian Jewellers across the country. They started the day with luncheon as guests of Western Clock Co.

Golfers and horse-shoe pitchers competed for 35 fine prizes donated by various firms connected with the jewellery industry. Low scorers among the golfers were Orley A. DeGraw with a sizzling 78 and Al Somerville of International Silver Co., Ltd., Hamilton, who took second low gross. Low net went to James Fullerton, Montreal, with James Watt of Vancouver second. Barnyard golf honors went to a classy horseshoe team from Toronto. Dinner and presentation of prizes wound up a day voted one of the most successful yet by the association.

Maple Leafs Squelch Late Rally Defeat Syracuse Chiefs 9 to 5

By The Associated Press.

Buffalo's ability to get off the canvas to win is making it tough for the rest of the International League.

The league-leading Bisons staged another late inning rally Thursday night, their third in as many games, to defeat the last place Newark Bears, 8-7.

Trailing 7-2 going into the eighth, Buffalo knotted the score with a five-run outburst featured by George Byam's 400-foot triple with the bases full. Gene Markland drove in the winning run in the ninth with a long drive to centre scoring Marty Tabacheck from second.

Shortstop Ed Ehlers hit a grand slam homer for Newark in the third inning.

Montreal and Jersey City remained deadlocked for second place. The Royals downed Baltimore, 6-3, and the Little Giants shaded Rochester, 9-8 in ten innings.

Johnny Van Cuyk registered his fifth victory for the Royals in easy fashion.

Hank Thompson's 12th home run in the tenth provided the lil' Giants with their winning margin. Jersey City had tied the score in the eighth with a six-run outburst.

Toronto Maple Leafs squelched a ninth-inning rally to defeat Syracuse Chiefs, 9-5.

Ed Wright, the Leafs' strong-armed righthander, hung up his ninth win but not before the Chiefs gave him some anxious moments in the ninth when they tallied four times. Ed Perkowski accounted for three of these with a round-tripper.

Johnny Welaj and Mike Goliat paced the Leafs' offensive with three blows apiece.

BICYCLE ENGINES

A Dutch manufacturer has started production of an 18-pound engine which can be built into the front wheel of ordinary bicycles.

Owen Sound Defeats Weston Lions 13-9

WESTON, June 24 (CP) — Paced by Jack Mason with four goals, Owen Sound Crescents on Thursday night defeated Weston Lions 13-9 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.

Other Owen Sound scorers were Harry Kazarian and Campbell with three each and Slater, Ashbee and White with singletons.

Tom Downer, Skhordoff, Hill and Vennerm each tallied two goals for the Lions and Chard got the other.

Bell Beat Bankers

Bell beat Bankers 17-4 in a loose Civic Softball League game. They counted three runs in the third, six in the fifth, seven next time up, and one in the seventh. The losers scored three in the second and one in the third. Boyce struck out 8 for the winners, and Greatrix hit a homer. Teams:

Bell— Conway 2b, Greatrix cf, James c, Ackford ss, Gillespie cf, Tushingham rf, Giardino lf, Wood 3b, Boyce p, Harrison 6.

Bankers — Ethier ss, McNeven 3b, Robinson 2b, Rollins 1b, Stillman c, Simms c, Crawford rf, Brooks lf, Bailey cf, Brown p.

Montreal Stars Lead In Singles

TORONTO, June 24 (CP) — Remaining finalists in the junior events of the Ontario Tennis Championships are scheduled for play today. Finalists in senior events are also expected to be decided on the day's play.

First of the events to come to a conclusion was the junior men's doubles, won Thursday by Jim Bentley and Pete Stewart of Toronto.

The players still battling for the men's singles title are all from Montreal. Henri Rochon meets Jim Duff, who took a five-set match from George Robinson of Montreal Thursday. J. J. Desjardins, seeded second to Rochon, comes up against unseeded Jack Spencer, who upset third-seeded Dave Dyment, Toronto, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Rochon and Robinson still are the favorites in the men's doubles although they only managed to reach the semi-final round by a slim win over unseeded Chet Coleman and Bill Reeve of Toronto, 6-2, 8-6, 6-3.

Ladies' singles matches are going according to schedule. All four seeded players, headed by Pat Macken and Elaine Fildes, Montreal, had little difficulty reaching the semi-finals. The same two combine as favorites in the ladies' doubles.

Arkansas Pro Still In Lead

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ST. GEORGE'S GOLF CLUB, TORONTO, June 24 (CP)—Dutch Harrison, the Little Rock, Ark., pro, today leads a field of 100 qualifiers by four strokes into the home stretch of the Canadian Open Golf Championship. And the way he has been whipping this difficult par 72 course, it wouldn't surprise anybody if he made his fifth attempt for the $2,000 first-prize money a winning effort.

Dutch, a slow, easy-going fellow, had 133 for the first two 18-hole rounds—a record-breaking 66 Wednesday and a heart-breaking 67 Thursday.

A talking radio announcer so unnerved Harrison at the par-three eighth that he missed a seven-foot putt for a birdie by inches and didn't recover until the 11th when he started to take the back nine apart. His incoming 31, six under par, easily assured him of the leadership at the halfway mark.

The low-scoring Canadian at the half-way point was Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield, with 139.

Two Ontario boys were tied for low amateur honors at 148, Emerson Creed of Barrie and George Eluck of Windsor.

Pair Nearly Drown

OSHAWA, June 24 (CP) — Lloyd White and Doug Stone, both of Oshawa, narrowly escaped drowning Wednesday when their sailboat capsized in Lake Ontario. They clambered aboard the overturned craft and bucked a strong wind for half an hour before reaching safety.

Face Crop Loss

WINNIPEG, June 24 (CP) — Shortage of Labor may cause loss of part of Manitoba's sugar beet acreage, the Farm Help Service office reported Wednesday. Farmers with beet plantings, they said, can't get help to do the weeding and thinning.

Announce Hearings

VICTORIA, B. C. June 24 (CP) —Dates for the Quebec, Ontario and Newfoundland hearings of the Royal Commission on Transportation were announced by the Commission Thursday. Sessions for Quebec City were set for July 30, Montreal Aug. 2, Toronto Aug. 5 and St. John's Aug. 10.

UE Bantams Win

The UE bantams beat Hughes 5-2 in minor lacrosse last night, counting two goals in each of the first two quarters and one in the third as the losers scored one each in the second and third. Cournyea counted a pair and shone along with Kane, Roberts —who each scored one — and Halliday. T. Hunt and Boyce tallied for the losers, the two Hunts and Ferren looking good. Teams:

UE—Simmonds, Hobart, Galvin Cournyea, Kane, Roberts, O'Rourke, Mastrianni, Martin, Tarkington, Johnston, Ferren, Halliday.

Hughes — Kingston, Hickey, Boyce, Whitton, Ferren, T. Hunt, McDougall, Ryan, Cullen, Hoard, G. Hunt, Lagano, Bolle, Rowley, Smythe.

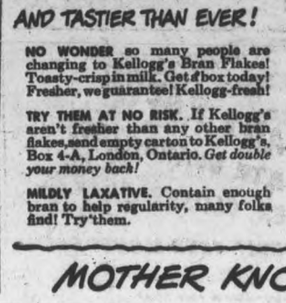
Defends Praise Of Peace Pact

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., June 24 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday night he had no apologies for bringing the Atlantic Treaty into the current election campaign because he believes Liberals across the country are united behind it.

On the other hand, he told a campaign meeting, the Progressive-Conservatives could gain only with the help of the Duplessis group in Quebec, which, he said, opposed the treaty.



Referring to charges made "by some people" in his riding of Algoma East that he was "an absentee representative," he said:

"While it has not been my good fortune to have been born in the riding and since the duties of a Cabinet Minister and especially a Minister of External Affairs require that I be to some extent absent, I assure you I have a deep interest in the problems of my constituency.

"My opponents at the same time point to some of the benefits received in this riding and suggest they are in the nature of a 'bribe' to the electors. Well, they can't have it both ways—first, they say I do nothing for the riding and then they say I do too much."

Call of Cougar Hunt

VANCOUVER, June 24 (CP) — It was all a mistake and the cougar hunt in suburban Burnaby has been called off. It started early today when a guard at Oakalla Prison Farm reported a "big cat" had slunk across the road. Armed searchers combed the area, but the hunt ended when the game warden Reg King said: "I am satisfied what he saw was not a cougar, but most likely a bobcat or racoon."

Causeway At Gannon's Narrows Next Project For The County?

When Reeve Gale Elliott of Harvey Twp. walked away from the banquet in celebration of the opening of the Causeway Wednesday night he wore a broad smile. And for good reason, too.

The Minister of Highways and Public Works, the Hon. G. H. Doucett, dropped a broad hint that the Department might view with favor a request for financial assistance should the County decide to build a causeway over Gannon's Narrows.

At the June session of the County Council Mr. Elliott twice brought up the subject.

A motion was put through that the roads committee interview the Department of Highways and the Department of Transport regarding its possible construction. And the committee will report back to Council at the next meeting.

John D. Kean, County Engineer and Road Supervisor, told the Council that cost of fill alone would be about $80,000.

At the Wednesday night meeting the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, said that during the afternoon he had gone for a motor trip along the Buckhorn Rd. with the Minister of Highways.

Crossed at theNarrows

"In a monment of thoughlessness I took him across the floating bridge at Gannon's Narrows," he said deadpan.

Aparently the spray from the waves in the Narrows washed up on the windshield. And the Minister registered somesurprise at this unexpected drenching.

The broad hint came after a compliment to Reeve James Gifford for his work in obtaining the Chemong Causeway. "If he tries to get another Causeway in Peterborough there is altogether a possibility he will succeed.

Loud applause followed from the subsidy-minded audience.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

With 26 local rinks competing, the annual Tip Top Tailors tournament for men's rinks got under way Thursday evening. Each rink played two 10-end games. As the games progressed, it seemed as if they might be stopped on account of a slight rain, but it did eventually clear up and all games were finished. We didn't know how the rinks made out as we were awfully busy trying to help our own rink stay in the running.

The games continue this evening at 7:30 o'clock. It will be one 18-end game.

On Saturday evening it will be the ladies turn. The Tip Top Tailors have also donated a cup to them. We understand that each rink will play three 7-end games, with games plus points to count.

On the spare greens Saturday night, there will be a men's rink tournament. Draw from the board at 7:30.

Today's thought—To know what you are shooting at helps in hitting the mark.

Cancel Strawberry Tea

It was decided to cancel the strawberry social which had been planned at the last meeting owing to the scarcity of berries.

The president asked each group to hold a bingo during the summer months to raise funds. Mrs. Bernard Hughes offered her cottage at Crowe Lake for a euchre, bridge and tea party in August.

Mrs. Cook reported on the diocesan annual convention held in Tweed this month. The Rev. H. J Farrell then addressed the meeting, congratulating the members on their good attendance at the recent mission.

Miss Florence Auger gave a reading, Miss Mary Hughes read a comic poem and Mrs. James Black also read a poem. A contest of hidden names of flowers was won by Mrs. J. A. Shannon.

Miss Marie Curran of Buffalo, who is spending the summer at her Crowe Lake cottage, gave an address on "the Christophers organization."

Lunch was served by groups 3 and 4 and games were played.

RURAL POPULATION

The population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is about 2,500,000, of which more than half live on farms or in rural areas.

July 21 Chosen Children's Day

HAVELOCK, June 24 (ENS)—Belmont Women's Institute has made arrangements to hold the annual Children's Day at the Township Hall on July 21.

At the meeting, at which the decision was made, Mrs. W. Harris read a paper from the Area President entitled The Ideal Institute Member and Mrs. R. Wrightly gave a report on the district annual meeting held in Havelock last week.

Several letters of thanks were read from members who had been sent fruit and flowers during illness. The courses offered under the co-operative program were discussed and it was decided to make Leather Slippers the first choice with Smocking as second. Each member was requested to answer the roll call by telling her height and weight or paying a fine of 10 cents. There were no fines.

The president, Mrs. Charles Ellis presided and the hostesses were: Mesdames W. Aunger, H. Scott, J. Anderson and J. King.

Horticulturalists At Annual Service

OMEMEE, June 24—(ENS)—A joint service of the Anglican and United Church congregations was held Sunday in Trinity United Church for the annual flower service of Omemee and District Horticultural Society.

The Rev. F. W. Pooley of Christ Church delivered the address and devotions were conducted by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt.

The church was lavishly decorated with flowers. A general prayer of thanksgiving was offered with special remembrance for the much-needed showers received the previous night.

Mr. Pooley spoke from the text, "Those that be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our Lord." He called attention to our Lord's injunction to "consider the lillies of the field," and admonished his hearers to learn from them the assurance of security in God.

"Man," he said, "is the supreme apex of God's creation—the final fulfilment of His purpose, and He wills that we should be rooted and grounded in His love."

Mrs. E. A. Corneil sang a solo and the Misses Ruth Grandy and Phyllis Hart a duet.

Child Star Had Another Stepfather

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 24 — (AP) — Found: another Maragaret O'Brien stepfather.

The spotlight lately has been on the marital troubles of the actress' mother and her recent husband, orchestra leader Don Sylvio. She has sued for annulment and he is contesting, blaming Margaret for their falling-out.

Few people know that the child star once had another stepfather. I found him working behind the bar of a downtown Los Angeles hotel.

"I don't seek publicity," said Larry Sears, a soft-spoken man of spare frame and middle years. "I live a quiet life."

Married in 1941

Friends introduced Sears and Glady's O'Brien in San Diego and they were married in 1941, before Margaret entered the movies. (Mrs. O'Brien was widowed before the child was born.)

The marriage was called off by mutual consent. A divorce was granted without fanfare in Los Angeles in 1945

"Nothing was made of it in the papers because it looked like a routine divorce, Sears vs. Sears," he explained.

Still Friendly

All three are still friendly, "although I haven't been out to see them since Gladys got married again; I don't think it would look right." Concerning the recent headlines, Sears commented: "I don't know much about it, but it looks as though Gladys got a bad deal. It didn't seem right, the way he called in the photographers and everything. That isn't the way Gladys would do it. She's a fine lady."

Cattle Market Steady During Week

TORONTO, June 24 (CP). — A light run of 2,609 featured a steady cattle market this week, the Dominion Marketing Service reported to-day. Other livestock was down, however, with calves, lambs and sheep losing $1 and hogs dropping $2.

A heavy holdover of 1,900 head from last week produced a dulling effect on opening trade, but prices firmed later as the supply cleared. Export sales were below normal, but a few prime weighty steers sold to United States buyers at $22.50-$23.

Steers for the Canadian market sold at $20-$21.50 with good lights mostly $19.50-$20. Plain steers and heifers sold downward to $16. Medium to good cows brought $14.50-$16 with canners and cutters at $9-$12.50. Good bologna bulls were $17.50-$18.50. Fed yearlings sold mostly at $19.50-$22.50 and stockers moved slowly at $18-$18.50 for picked lots, with plain stockers as low as $15. Ordinary quality milkers and springers sold from $140-$180 each.

Calves totalled 1,605 head. Good to choice vealers sold at $20-$23, with plain to medium kinds from $14-$19. Three loads of good vealers were exported.

Hog receipts were 1,864 head. Prices opened $2 lower at $30 for Grade A and $29.60 for Grade B1. Sows were $21 dressed. Wednesday's bids were again lower at $29.50 for Grade A and $29.10 for Grade B1.

Sheep and lambs totalled 964 head. Spring lambs were lower at $26-$27 for choice with plain downward to $18. Sheep sold $1 lower at $10-$12 for good light ewes with culls downward to $5.

The Peterborough Examiner

FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1949 VOL. XCVIII, No. 146

No Padlocks On Ballot Box; Other Changes

Several minor changes in the detail of that function of democracy embodied in the phrase election day are set out in the instructions to his deputies by Jules Castonguay, Ottawa, the chief returning officer in charge of the nation's business Monday.

The blank ballots are to be initialled by the D.R.O. (Deputy Returning Officer) at each poll prior to the hour of opening the booth. Heretofore the D.R.O. wrote his initials on the ballot as he handed it to a voter who was properly identified as qualified to vote at that polling place. And the ballot boxes are no longer padlocked. The substitute is a sealing arrangement similar to the seals used by the railway companies on their freight cars.

Mr. A. J. McClennan, returning officer for Peterborough West, told the Examiner today that he has requested his D.R.O.'s to arrive at their polling places at 8 a.m. to 8.15. The hours of polling are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Daylight Saving Time.

"His first duty is to see that the polling booth is in order," Mr. McClellan. "That detail of setting up a private polling booth for the secrecy of the ballot is actually secured the day before. The D.R.O. then tacks outside the official poster called the "Grant of Poll", designating that place as an authorized poll.

Voting Instructions

He is also supplied with six posters known as Directions to Electors to be placed both inside and outside the poll, and particular in the voting booth. Included in the instructions to the enfranchised voters is a specimen ballot, printed on the poster. It illustrates the essential fact that the voter may write on his ballot only one mark, an "X" opposite the name of the candidate for whom he is voting.

Then the D.R.O. initials all blank ballots in the presence of the poll clerk and the officials agents of the candidates, commonly called inside scrutineers.

The D.R.O. takes an oath of duty, and also swears in his clerk and the agents of the candidates. The open ballot box is examined by these officials, showing that it is empty, and the box is then sealed. And so the stage is set for the day's decision of the voters who may vote at that poll.

The Count

At 7 p.m. the poll is closed, the ballot box seal is broken and job of counting the ballots and listing the candidates' votes proceeds. When the count is completed, the D.R.O. puts a new seal on the box which includes the various papers which he is required to return, and may then telephone the results to the returning officer.

The sealed box with its contents are carried to the office of Mr. McClellan. The only exception to inclosure is an envelope on which the D.R.O. writes the result of the vote at his poll, plus the expense, such as rental of the polling place and the fees of D.R.O. and his clerk.

This envelope, which is not placed in the ballot box, is handed to the returning officer at the time after the voting when he receives the box back at his office. This envelope may be opened at the office when received, verifying the results which previously came by telephone.

UE Calls Rally Sunday Night

With less than a week left until the expiration of the present master contract between the CGE and the UE-CIO, negotiations at Queen's Park over this year's agreement are reported to be still moving slowly.

Company resistance to union demands including a 40-hour week with same take-home pay and union security measures is said to be much stiffer this year than previously.

Dissatisfied with the progress being made Local 524 has called for a special mass membership meeting to deal with the report of the Joint GE Negotiating Committee when it returns from Toronto.

The meeting will be held in the Brock Street Summer Gardens at 7.30 p.m. Sunday. It is expected that the next course of action in current negotiations will be decided on.

All of the members of the local Negotiating Committee will be heard from. The list of speakers will be headed by President Jack Morton and C. S. Jackson, District President.

They are to be left with City Engineer Chalmers for his study. In his discussions with the Council Mr. Wright has been touching upon the question of parking both on and off street.

SPANISH REQUEST REFUSED

The Kawartha district is famous not only south of the border but also in Europe, apparently. The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from Antonio Fort Nolla of the island of Mallorca, Spain. Mailed March 17, the letter was routed through the port of Barcelona His request was for tourist information and more particularly some of the illustrated booklets of the region issued by the Chamber. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has warned its members not to send material that might prove a danger to this country's national security in case of war, and the local Chamber is following that advice.

Gravy Train Off In Tourism Kiwanians Told

Provinces, cities and resort operators in Canada will have to do more advertising in the United States if they expect the American tourists to keep coming to Canada, Douglas R. Oliver, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus told the Kiwanis Club Thursday. The Club was holding its annual stag party at Forest Hill Lodge on Lovesick Lake.

For the first five months of this year, Mr. Oliver said, the number of American cars entering Canada for 48 hours or more was 12.8 per cent more than in the same period last year. In 1948 the increase for the same period over 1947 was 25.5 per cent. Mr. Oliver said these figures show the momentum, caused by the end of the war, is slowly dying out, "the gravy train is off." He said that everyone has been taking a "nice free ride" in the tourist business. Now they will have to advertise or suffer the consequences.

Ontario Advertised

In 1939 Canada enjoyed its most successful year in the tourist business of all the years before the war, Mr. Oliver continued. Of the American cars entering Canada last year, Ontario had 58 per cent. In 1941, he said, the Ontario Government spent $400,000 in the tourist industry, $375,000 going to the United States for advertising. In 1941 Ontario's share of the American cars entering Canada jumped to 71.4 per cent. Promotion of the industry in the States paid off.

Saying that every tourist bureau is being filled with enquiries, Mr. Oliver warned his audience that they should not think that this means an increase of American tourists. He said that Americans may be shopping around more than ever before. Two years ago, he said, the average American made two or three enquiries. This year, he believed, each American was making a dozen to 15 enquiries.

Mr. Oliver said that Americans have less money to spend because they are spending it on other luxuries such as television sets and jewellery. The class of people who are going to Europe are no longer only the really wealthy American luxurious class but the middle class, he said. This latter class, he added, is the class that comes to Canada as tourists.

Can Prolong Season

The Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus believes that the tourist industry can be made an all-year business if so desired, he said. May and June September and October could be made just as important months in the tourist business as July and August. It has also been suggested, Mr. Oliver said, that Labor Day be on the third Monday in September. A couple of years ago, he added, Ontario lost an estimated $10,000,000 due to Labor Day falling on September 1 rather than September 6 or 7.

Mr. Oliver said that more and better accommdation must be created. He suggested there be more motor courts with showers. In the United States financial figures showed that the "motel" (motor-hotel) business was cutting into the hotel business. Americans liked to have baths and showers in their cabins. He suggested that trailer parks be modernized greatly.

As in some of the United States preservation of historical sites as tourist attraction was urged by Mr. Oliver. In Ontario, he added, there are countless sites to draw American tourists. Fort Henry in Kingston had 80,000 visitors last year The price of admission is 35c for adults and 15c for children. He estimated the revenue from the historical fort's visitors to be $40,000. In his home township, Chatham, he said, is the house belonging to John Brown, the John Brown of the song "John Brown's Body." He believed that only 300 people of the town knew the house was in the city. Mr. Oliver said these old places had to be dramatized to draw tourists

Mr. Oliver sugested that the Kawartha area resort operators get out of the provincial and into the national and international sphere. He also suggested a regional tourist association be set up as in the other resort areas of Ontario.

Mr. Oliver was introduced by James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and was thanked by Jack Coit.

He was organist and choir master of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church for 27 years before retiring in October, 1948. Mr. Chenhall's distinguished musical career began in England and took him to the United States and in 1917 to Canada.

Veteran City Organist Martin B. Chenhall Dies

The man who was a leader in the music world of Peterborough for 27 years as organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Martin Bodinner Chenhall, ARCO died at the age of 75 in Toronto, Friday.

He had a distinguished musical career which began when, at the age of five, he held sheets of music for the leader of a village band in Cramlington, Northumberland, England, as the band serenaded the gentry of the district one New Year's Eve.

Retired In October

Mr. Chenhall retired last October as organist of St. Paul's. After a service one Sunday in January, 1947, Mr. Chenhall suffered a heart attack and was not able to return to his organ more than a few months before he retired. In December, 1946, he celebrated his 25th year as choirmaster and organist.

His career as an organist was inspired by his uncle's example. When Mr. Chenhall was a boy of 12 he began practising on an organ his uncle had persuaded the boy's mother to buy. The boy had been named after his uncle who was organist and choirmaster in Plymouth.

Mr. Chenhall's first big chance came when the village church organist took sick. He was sick quite a long time and all the while the boy continued as organist and became more and more proficient. But his first formal music lessons were on the piano. He later returned to the organ and in 1899 graduated from the Royal College of Organists.

His first engagement was in St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Newcastle. Then he married and came to the United States, to the position of organist and director of the choir of the First Presbyterian Church, St. Joseph, Missouri.

Two years later, Mr. Chenhall was appointed organist of Sage Chapel of Cornell University at Ithaca, N.Y. In connection with his work at the university, Mr. Chenhall played the pianoforte with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

He came to Canada in 1917, to Wesley Church, Cobourg. After a time there and in St. Thomas, he came to St. Paul's Church, Peterborough in 1921.

With choir concerts and organ recitals, Mr. Chenhall promoted and enlarged the musical interests of Peterborough. He won outstanding success with the Male Voice Choir in a series of concerts climaxed by a trip to New York to take part in the Musical Festival competition. The Chenhall men won third place behind Baltimore and Ottawa choirs, and only a few points behind the winners.

Mr. Chenhall was active in many of Peterborough's social activities. For years he was pianist for the Kiwanis Club and organist for several lodges. He directed operettas by the student body of the Collegiate and conducted the production of several light operas sponsored by the Men's Association of St. Paul's. There was by no means the extent of Mr. Chenhall's contribution to Peterborough's cultural growth. He was organist for years of Royal Arthur Lodge AF & AM.

Mr. Chenhall is survived by his wife, the former Matilda Helen Crum; a daughter, Mrs. Adam Sands, Peterborough; three sons, Frederick William, Moncton, N. B., Martin Bodinner, Toronto, and James Henry, Lake Orion, Michigan.

The body is resting in the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Silver Dollars Commemorate Newfoundland

Most of the Peterborough chartered banks are expecting a run today on one of the things closest to a coin-collector's heart — a shiny new silver dollar. The issue was struck in honor of Newfoundland's entry into the Dominion, and in commemoration of Newfoundland Founder's Day.

City bankers in general do not expect a great demand from the public for the pieces, and some of the banks have not yet received the issue. Most of the "houses of money" have had their quotas sent to them, and are ready to give them out today. For one dollar, of course.

It is felt in local circles that the best part of the demand other than collectors, will come from parents buying them for their children. Then, said one banker, if times get tough again, and the kids get old enough to spend the money, the silver pieces float back.

The Bank of Canada reported Thursday that the first issue will run to 300,000 pieces, with the final count being 1,000,000 or more, depending on demand. The coin itself carries on its reverse side John Cabot's three-masted sailing ship, the Matthew, a motto, "Floreat Terra Nova" (May Newfoundland Flourish), and the date 1949.

The obverse side of the coin shows His Majesty King George VI, with the inscription "Georgivs VI Dei Gratia Rex".

NICK NICKELS

EVEN THOUGH it is hotter than Hades these week-ends, a trip poking along your favourite lake or river in a canoe is worth while. And this does not mean it should be powered with a kicker or that anyone in the craft should disturb the quiet by casting. Just keep moving along Indian style, and you will see more interesting things in an hour than you ever dreamed of. My friend Bruce and I went out last Sunday morning and during a two-mile paddle along the islands and marshes on Lake Katchewanooka observed at least a dozen rock bass nests in the rocky shallows with the male fish keeping stubborn guard, even darting at an outthrust paddle. We saw the latest thing in summer fishing wear, too; a couple in a nearby skiff were sweltering in the heat, the lady in large straw hat and slack suit, the man in shorts and a hard black derby hat. Skirting the long marsh on the west shore several small painted tortoises were sunning on drift logs and a huge snapper hunted for shade under clumps of large lily pads.

SPEAKING OF LILLIES, white ones were out in profusion in the mucky reaches where the canoe had to be poled through the floating sections of the marsh. Several hollow pine stumps, submerged two feet under, provided shelters for schools of minnows and one large catfish. We had a try at gathering wild purple iris from the floating muck but the roots were well embedded and would not come out. The conclusion was to bring a sharp spade another time and hack the sections away and separate them. Grey terns were raising Cain around their nesting areas, and dive-bombed the boat every few sections. Their loud tactics revealed their nesting places, although we saw none. In comparison, we spotted a Lesser Bittern, four feet away in the rushes. It was a young one, but it stood motionless as the dried yellow stalks and when we were within two feet it lumbered off and landed a short distance inland. The Swampy Crees of Northern Ontario have aptly called June the Egg-laying Moon, truly a month of beauty and magic to all of us.

K. McKNIGHT of Lindsay, who has travelled the Haliburton Highlands for the past 14 years, reported seeing both black bear and moose crossing the highway at two different points. This brings a touch of Northern Ontario right down to our own door step and we hope, through conservation tactics, that such sights will be more common as time goes along. There is no sight that sells a district to the tourist trade more readily than this animated advertising.

TOURIST FISHERMEN who pull into Timagami and inquire about good fishing spots, are directed to a spot a mile from the village and up the lake, hard by a large yellow sign which warns all people to "be sure your camp fire is out." It is an excellent spot to anchor and try for pickerel, and get limits, too. Ardent anglers, who as a rule stay on the job for many hours at a stretch, have plenty of time to let this message sink in. Very subtle work on the part of the Department and nice co-operation from the fish.

NOT ALL ANGLERS are disgruntled these days even though one has to look far away to read of the occasional bright fishing story. Out at Maligne Lake, Jasper Park, eastern brook trout are biting like mad. Lee C. Bolles of Plattsburg, N.Y., during two days of fishing, took 18 beauties weighing from two and one-half to three pounds during a snow, hail and sleet storm. Mr. Bolles, apparently a world traveller, said that sport in this spot surpassed any he had ever experienced. Nice publicity for the CNR.

ALTHOUGH PICKEREL fishing has been nothing to brag about, at least a bright flash came from Isle O' Mann Lodge, at Burleigh. Guests Mike and George Burtko and Oscar Koch, all of Youngstown, Ohio, took their limits during a short stay. The best specimen went 8½ pounds. Unfortunately, a negative of one fine string sent in by Mrs. Mary Mann, would not print clearly enough for reproduction. We are always glad to have readers send in snapshots, or negatives but they must be very sharp for our business. Please keep sending your best along.

MORE THAN 200 breakers of the Fish and Game laws were convicted by the Department of Lands and Forests overseers during the month of May. They scaled all the way from possessing pickerel out of season, 38 counts, to 30 other infractions. These poor sports didn't miss anything on the books, apparently. There was hunting of deer, ducks and pheasants out of season, illegal possession of furs, venison and moose meat, possession of all types of game fish out of season and the taking of them in all manner of illegal ways.

SPORT FISH PLANTINGS by the Department's various hatcheries are going ahead in great style. Haliburton County got 45,000 lake trout fingerlings from the Wiarton Hatchery on Georgian Bay and 60,000 each of small and large-mouth bass fry went to Victoria County waters from the Mount Pleasant rearing station. Peterborough County holds the lead for musky fingerlings with 3,850 plantings and Northumberland next with 3,200. Victoria, Hastings and Ontario Counties followed with lesser numbers.

PRESIDENT OF the Outdoor Writers Association of America J. Hammond Brown, summarized his observations at the conclusion of their recent convention at North Bay with a hearty pat on the back for the efficiency of the Department's Forestry Patrol services, and rightly so. Said he: "It is the largest and most efficient of its kind anywhere in the world." And that is something that thousands of Ontario citizens might think about.

COTTAGERS AND TOURISTS up Crowe's Landing way, Stony Lake, are glad to see the beginning of the end of that murderous winding hilly piece of road at Carmel Church corner. The new highway which had been driven east from this corner to the Nepheline Mines at Kosh last fall, is now in excellent shape. There will soon be many changes from Gilchrist Bay to the Church corner, straightening out the dog legs, and so forth.

IT IS GRATIFYING to hear from column readers and a recent mail sack, though extremely light, gave some interesting news. The Ven. Archdeacon D. B. Marsh, whom I first met at his Anglican Mission at Eskimo Point, NWT, a few years ago, writes to say he is boarding the new Hudson's Bay Company motor vessel, the Rupertsland, in July. He will go the rounds of missions in Labrador, Ungava, and the circumference of the "Bay," and return home in October. The Rupertsland replaces the old Nascopie that came to a sad end off Baffin Island two seasons ago. John Carrington, Northern Miner staff, regrets that the mining area of Red Lake is turning into a sporting-lodge district, but what possibilities that country has! Secretary of the Manitoba Chamber of Mines, Peter de Wet, said "hello" and made some kind comments. Hank Cummings, in the Lower St. Lawrence country tells of vast modern improvements down that-a-way.

ONE OF THE GREATEST sensations I know of, especially if you are a home owner and amateur gardener, is to stand out in your own yard when one of the infrequent showers come pelting down on your sweating face. You can literally see the pansie and petunia blossoms perking up and the green spears of grass forcing through the baked sod. And that good, clean, wonderful smell! You only hope there are more and heavier showers in the surrounding slate-gray clouds. More rain, that's what we need and pray for. If my Tall Friend's Old-Almanac is not fooling we can expect it, it says, "if ditches and drains smell stronger than usual and also if tobacco smoke seems denser and more powerful."

A DATE that hardly anyone needs to be reminded of, JULY FIRST, opening of bass and lunge fishing.

J. H. Isbister IOOF Deputy

TORONTO, June 24 (Special)—District officers of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows and Rebekah Assembly of Ontario were elected here this week as 1,100 delegates from all sections of the province gathered at the Royal York Hotel for the annual sessions of the Grand Lodge, Rebekah Assembly, Grand Encampment, and Department Council of Patriarchs Militant.

Elected for the Peterborough district as Deputy Grand Master of the I.O.O.F. was Mr. Jacob H. Isbister of South Mountain. He has jurisdiction over lodges at Peterborough, Havelock, Millbrook, Lakefield.

For the Peterborough district, Mrs. Rose Sexsmith of Peterborough was elected District Deputy President of the Rebekah Assembly.

The convention was one of the busiest and largest in Oddfellowship history. Wm. E. Knox, Toronto, presided during the I.O.O.F. sessions and Mrs. Aetna Bumstead, of Meaford, was in charge of Rebekah Assembly meetings.

Aside from general fraternal business which indicated a steady growth of the associated Oddfellow groups, special emphasis was placed at this year's sessions on the public service objective of the I.O.O.F. Two outstanding examples which are benefitting worthy cases throughout the provinces are the cancer, poliomyletis and tuberculosis fund, and the hospital bed program.

A Word to Housewives And Homemakers

You are Canada's biggest spenders. Every week you lay out your housekeeping money on food for your families and clothes for your children.

The Conservative Party has pledged itself to devalue the Canadian dollar if it gets into power on Monday, June 27. That devaluation will help a few Canadian industrialists, but it will not help you.

It will mean that a Canadian dollar will buy only 90 cents worth of goods in the U.S.A., and that all imported goods will therefore go up in price.

All your tropical fruits—oranges, bananas, grapefruit, etc.—and your imported vegetables will go up in price.

Your cotton goods will go up in price.

Your sugar and dozens of other foods that you use every day in your kitchens will go up in price.

Can you afford to lose ten cents on every dollar of your housekeeping money?

If you can't, vote for the Liberal Party, which gave you Family Allowances, and has done its level best to keep living costs down.

WarkworthFriends Honor Newlyweds

WARKWORTH, June 24 — (ENS).—A delegation of friends representing the community met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Sayles on Monday in honor of their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sayles (nee Jean Skinkle). They presented the couple with a studio couch and a purse on behalf of a large circle of friends of the surrounding community.

Gifts from the Charivari party of an electric fan and a china cup and saucer were also presented. This unusual custom was considered best as Mr. Jim Sayles has contracted rheumatic fever and will be confined to bed for a lengthy period. The friends hoped to bring this young couple cheer during this particularly trying time.

The folowing is the address:

"Dear Jim and Jean,—We have met here this evening as a branch or delegation from the neighborhood in honor of your recent marriage and to convey to you both our best wishes for a happy married life.

"We are all very sorry indeed, Jim, to know that you are so indisposed, but sometimes they say a poor beginning makes a good ending, and we certainly hope so in your case, and that you and Jean will soon be able to enjoy a happy life together in your new home with all your nice new things about you; and we welcome Jean to our neighborhood.

"'On behalf of the friends of the entire community we now present this studio couch and purse. The electric fan and china cup and saucer are gifts from the Charivari party. We hope they will be useful and that they may bring you both a bit of good cheer at this particularly trying time for you both."

The letter was signed on behalf of the community by Delbert Mitchell, Stanton Lawrence, John Ferguson, Gordon Pratt and Ernest Drew.

Peterboro Golf Club Wins Graham Trophy Third Time

The City and District women golfers' team competition for the C. G. Graham cup is marked with unique results this year. On playing 18 holes of the Kawartha Club course Thursday, three teams had the same number of points. This is the first time tie scores have occurred in a tournament which started in 1931 and suspended only during the war years.

Peterborough Golf Club was awarded the trophy for the third time when the winner was decided by the low net score, according to St. Andrew's rules. Cobourg and Port Hope teams also had 17 and one-half points on the round. The players enjoyed unusually favorable weather throughout the day. It was 11 years since this meet had been held at Kawartha Club.

Mrs. R. G. Maniece, captain of the Peterborough team, accepted the cup on behalf of her team mates, Mrs. F. L. Roy, Mrs. Wm. Vanstone, Mrs. O. M. Steer, Mrs. A. Rutter Jr., Miss Lahring Parsons, Mrs. F. Hollowell, Mrs. S. J. Williamson. Each player received a silver teaspoon, engraved in the bowl "City and District 1949". Mrs. C. G. Graham made the presentations.

For this annual competition each club selects eight top players. It was notable that a number of the women who tried for the cup when it was first offered 18 years ago are still in the leading bracket and were playing Thursday. Mrs. F. L. Roy of Peterborough Club has been a player in every competition and three times on the winning team. The clubs in the City and District group are: Cobourg, Kawartha, Lindsay, Oshawa, Peterborough and Port Hope.

Mrs. Adam Sands, president of the hostess club, called on Mrs. Graham to present the cup which her husband had donated. She then asked Captain Mrs. Ed. Riley and vice captain Mrs. D. Anderson to award other prizes.

Silver division low gross was won by Mrs. L. Ross, Cobourg, who received a travel alarm clock. Miss I. Pipher, Oshawa, received a fabric handbag for second prize. First low net prize, a beauty kit, went to Miss K. Heenan, Cobourg, and Mrs. J. Watts, Kawartha, received a pair of towels for second prize. Mrs. Ross was also winner of the concealed holes competition.

Bronze division low gross was Mrs. F. Hollowell, Peterborough, who received a clock, and second prize, a sport shirt, went to Mrs. H. Deyman, Cobourg. Low net winner was Miss H. J. O'Neill, Port Hope, a beauty kit, and second prize, a scarf, went to Mrs. Hollowell. Miss O'Neill was also concealed holes winner and received a set of golf club covers.

Miss Pipher made the longest drive, 191 yards. Aggregate winners on three drives were: first, Miss D. Dobbie, Oshawa; second, Mrs. S. J. Williamson, Peterborough; third, Mrs. J. Newton, Port Hope.

Approaching and putting: first, Miss M. Hayden, Cobourg; second, Miss D. Dobbie, Oshawa, by a draw with Mrs. C. Perkins, Lindsay; third, Mrs. E. Gibbs, Oshawa.

Presidents of visiting clubs spoke in appreciation of the hospitality shown by members of the Kawartha Club who provided a sumptuous luncheon, and entertained at afternoon tea before presentation of prizes.

Next year's competition will be held at Cobourg Golf Club.

Ticket Sellers Receive Prizes

A good crowd in the YWCA recreation room Thursday evening saw colored moving pictures of the recent Sea Ballet and Pageant, taken by Mr. G. Downer, who also provided "stills" for an exhibition in the building. Mr. Joe Cooper operated the projector.

Mrs. W. G. Ovens presented season's tickets for ballet lessons next year to girls who had sold the most pageant tickets. Christine Monk was senior winner, Jane Ovens, Junior, and Diane Zakos and Kareen Goddard tied in the babies' class. Consolation awards were given Berta McBride and Marybeth Darling, senior and junior runners-up.

Children presented some of their ballet numbers in costume afterward, Miss C. Littlefield direction, and Mrs. L. Rawson at the piano. Mrs. E. Gardiner was in charge of refreshments served.

Kawartha Ladies Entertain Teams

Canterbury bells made an effective showing on the tea table at Kawartha Golf Club Thursday afternoon when the city and district teams were entertained following competitions. They were arranged in a wide silver bowl and corners of the centrepiece were marked with white tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. Ian McRae and Mrs. H. R. Scott poured the tea. The guests were served by Mrs. C. B. Neal, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. K. McCannen, Mrs. F. Dunfield, Mrs. W. G. Ovens, Mrs. J. Cranfield and Mrs. G. C. Solmes.

Mrs. Gordon Hill, social convener, was responsible for the delightful arrangements.

Harsh Words Separate Intelligence Can Reunite

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man of 32. My wife is 31. We have been married more than ten years and have four beautiful children. After about three years of married life my wife and I began to have spats, then little fights, then big ones. For the last three years we have meant nothing to each other except we both realize that we have a separate and distinct duty to our children. We have our private individual rooms and seldom meet except at supper. If I stay with children she goes out. She never asks me where I go, with whom or what I do. I never ask her. In short, we have nothing to do with each other and both are wasting the best part of our lives. Should we continue to live together "for the sake of the children" and let them see at least one of their parents in a contented frame of mine?

Dorothy Dix

BEWILDERED

ANSWER: Why is it that a man as intelligent as you are has been able to find the root of your trouble? Have you tried looking for that and honestly seeking the reason why you and your wife cannot get along together in peace and harmony?

Apparently neither one of you has committed any crime against the other. Nor are you in love with some other woman or man. It seems to be just a case of incompatibility of temper. Everything you say or do gets on each other's nerves. Every word is a fighting word.

It has always seemed to me that any husband and wife can keep from quarreling if they want to. It is just a matter of self-control and determination. Of biting back a bitter retort. Of giving the soft answer that turns away wrath. Of using a little diplomacy and sidestepping the topics on which they know they disagree. Of paying a few judicious compliments.

I have never known a man or woman who could not be managed if approached in the right way. Especially are women easily controlled by the man who will take the trouble to handle them with gloves. A little flattery, a few attentions, a little jollying a sure recipe for working a wife right with a kiss.

You use finesse in dealing with You can shut any virgo's lips those with whom you come in contact in business. Why not try the same tactics on your wife? You don't tell your boss nor your customers nor your clients just what you think of them. You don't decride their opinions, no matter how silly they are. You don't call them down when they make mistakes nor throw up their previous blunders to them. And you don't make disparaging remarks about their relatives.

Separate if necessary

But if you have tried out all of these things and none of them worked and if you and your wife are so fundamentally antagonistic that you can never agree on anything, I certainly think that at your age you will be wise to part. You have many years of life before you and it is not right that they should be embittered by an enforced companionship that brings out all that is worst in you and that will wrap your very soul.

Of course, you have your duty to your children and when you half-orphan them you do them a wrong that can never be repaired. But you have to choose between two evils and you will do them a worse wrong if you bring them up in an atmosphere of hate that will poison their young lives. It is better for them to have one parent or no parent at all, than two parents who are at enmity with each other and who live in a perpetual state of strife.

So the husbands and wives who hate each other, but who continue to live together for the sake of the children, make their sacrifice in vain. They do their children harm instead of good and unless you have enough strength and self-control to keep the peace and make a home for your children that wil lbe full of kindness and good will instead of hatred, you and your wife had better part.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What place is there in this world for a person of illegitimate birh? I am a little more than 20 years of age and about a year ago I learned that my supposed father and mother were only my adopted parents and that I have a father and mother both living. This knowledge tortures me cruelly and has come very nearly giving me a nervous breakdown. My real mother has been to see me in college and made me some costly gfits and expects me to love her, but I feel very bitter against her and my father. What right had they to bring me into the world with this handicap? Have I any right to marry myself? If I do, should I tell the girl beforehand? My foster-parents have been as good to me as if I were their own child.

E. J.

ANSWER: My dear boy, you are taking a very morbid view of the subject. Try to get a clearer perspective on it and see that while it is most unfortunate for a child to be born out of wedlock, it need not be a blight that will ruin his whole life.

There are thousands upon thousands of illegitimate children who have grown into fine men and women and who occupy the highest positions in the land are loved and respected and admired by all who know them. So put this thought of your origin out of your mind altogether. It is not how you are born, but what you make of yourself that counts.

Forget your own father and mother for whose wrong-doing have to pay such a price and remember that you belong to the good man and woman who adopted you and whose name and status you take in society. And also remember that you have a great debt to pay to these foster parents and that you can best show your appreciation of what they have done for you by making something of yourself.

So quit brooding over something that is past helping. Realize that you are establishing a name and a family of your own, that you want to make your sons and daughters proud to belong to you. Many of the most aristocratic pedigrees in the world have the bar sinister across them. I think that you should tell any girl that you marry of your origin, but if she loves you enough it will not matter to her.

Strawberries Stay Firm In New Canning Method

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 24 — (CP) — Drought may have cast its shadow over the strawberry crop in some parts of the country this year. But the housewife should be able to get a few boxes—even enough for canning—before the season is over.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, have developed a method of canning strawberries so that the berries do not collapse.

The secret is in letting the berries stand in the hot, syrup until they fill out. This also helps to set the colour.

Wash, hull berries. Bring to boil slowly in syrup. Cover, remove from heat and let stand from one to three hours. Pack in sealers, leaving one-half inch head space. Partially seal and process small (pint) sealers, 15 minutes in boiling water or 20 minutes in the oven, at 275 degrees Fahrenheit. Process medium (quart) sealers 15 minutes in boiling water bath, or in the oven at 275 degrees, for 25 minutes.

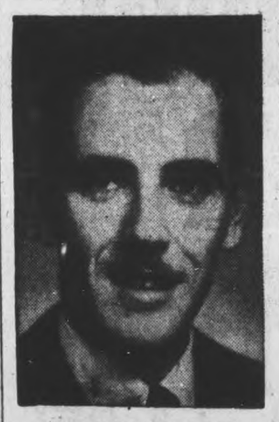
Strawberries ior dessert just naturally mean strawberry shortcake.

Ingredients: 1½ cups flour (sifted) 2½ teaspoon baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt; two tablespoon granulated sugar; one-quart cup shortening; one egg (beaten); five tablespoons milk; three cups sweeetened berries (crushed).

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture is like a coarse meal. Add egg and enough milk to make dough which can be easily handled. Roll one-half inch thick. Cut in required individual sizes and bake on a greased baking-sheet, in a hot oven, for 15 minutes.

Health and welfare department officials warn all "tan-worshippers" to watch that sun! Too much of the sun's rays at one time can end up in a painful and dangerous sunburn. Skin should be exposed only for a short time at first, gradually lengthening the periods as a tan is acquired.

The health experts warn against the two-weather dangers—sun-stroke, which is excessive exposure to the sun's rays; heat exhaustion, which comes from too much activity in an excessively high temperature.



In both cases the treatment is the same—find a cool shady spot as soon as you feel a slight headache or nausea. In the case of sudden collapse the individual should be carried to a shady place and cooled off with sponging or by an electric fan. Cool drinks also should be administered.

NEW 1950
Rinso with Solium
GIVES THE WHITEST WASH

Do You Belong to BIG
Peterborough or LITTLE
Peterborough?

For years this important and growing city and the district around it has been run by about a third of its population—the Tory Third. A lot of that third is made up of old-timers who don't like to see anything change, and who think there is some reason why they should always have their own way. They are Little Peterborough.

What about the other two-thirds? Some have been here for a long while, but they haven't let the moss grow over them. And a great many more have come within the last ten years for the jobs, the trade and the pleasant living conditions that Peterborough and District has to offer. These people have progressive ideas. They are Big Peterborough.

But Little Peterborough always votes, and Big Peterborough doesn't. That is why Little Peterborough rules, and thinks that Big Peterborough doesn't matter.

There are about 32,000 voters in this constituency. Little Peterborough will vote for Mr. Fraser solidly, giving him his usual 10,000-odd. He can't get any more than that, because only Little Peterborough thinks it worth while to keep a man in Opposition, doing nothing for this constituency, for fourteen years.

If Big Peterborough will stir itself, and get out to the polls, it will give Little Peterborough the shock of its life.

I am running for Big Peterborough. Will you give me your vote.

CCF Candidate J. H. Miles One of Original Members

One of the original CCF members and organizers of the district, John Howard Miles is the CCF candidate in Peterborough West in Monday's Dominion election. Mr. Miles, valuator and auctioneer by trade, has a wide knowledge of the problems and circumstances of labor and farmers.

CCF CANDIDATE in Peterborough West in Monday's election is J. Howards Miles an old Peterborough County boy who has spent the greater part of his life in this district.

Mr. Miles was born in Dummer Township Sept. 28, 1889, the son of John R. Miles and Ellen Crowe Miles. His father was post-master at Clarina for many years, operating a general store and a farm. Mr. Miles worked on the farm and in the store. He went to school at S. S. No. 9, Dummer.

He moved to the Regina district in 1910, where he operated a general store. Ten years later Mr. Miles returned to Lakefield, where he purchased a confectionery store and auctioneering business. In 1934 he moved into the city to conduct his business, and has remained here ever since.

Mr. Miles is married, and the father of six daughter. Four daughters are married, three living in Peterborough and district, one in British Columbia, and two daughters are at home.

He joined the CCF at its inception in 1933, and was the first party member in Lakefield. Since that time, he has been an elected delegate from Peterborough West to almost every CCF Provincial convention. He was one of the organizers of the CCF club in Peterborough, and has been on its executive for more than 15 years.

Mr. Miles is a member of No. 122, Claydon Lodge, I.O.O.F. Saskatchewan. While he was in the West, he was the Secretary-Treasurer of the Claydon Grain Growers' Association, Sask.

In his first venture into the active political field, Mr. Miles has aligned himself with the farmer and the laborer. He is concerned with a national health program, taxation, exports and imports. He feels that he has an appreciation of the position labor finds itself in, and the wants of the farmer.

Mr. Miles is a member of George St. United Church, and lives at 556 Homewood Ave.

"VOTER VIC" BALLOONS numbering 1,000 were circulated in the downtown areas of Montreal as the Young Men's Section, Montreal Board of Trade, pushed its "Voter Vic campaign to stimulate the heaviest possible turnout of voters in Monday's election. The balloons, clearly marked with the "Voter Vic" symbol, were handed to passersby on the busiest streets in the city. Photo shows Miss Claire Gougeon, Young Men's Section secretary, outflanked by the balloons in the Board of Trade Building just after they had been inflated.

Will Protect Both Tenants And Landlords

MONTREAL, June 24 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said Thursday night that "in the future as in the past" the Liberal government will see that the rights of both tenants and home owners are protected.

In a 15-minute address carried over a Montreal radio station (CMAD) Mr. Abbott said the housing shortage is a world-wide problem and it will be many years before all the difficulties connected with it are ironed out.

"It would not be appropriate for me to say now what will be done by the new parliament with respect to a further extension of rental control by the Dominion government should the provinces do nothing in the matter."

After the provinces refused jurisdiction over rental controls last year they were extended for another year by the Dominion government, he recalled.

Mr. Abbott attacked Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal as one of a group of "political opportunists who have intervened in this election" and who have been behind the distribution of "a certain amount of irresponsible propaganda" in Mr. Abbott's riding of St Antoine-Westmount and elsewhere

"You all know who these people are," he said, "they are professional organizers of the Union Nationale Party who are employing these tactics to further their own political ends."

Had No Knowledge Of Meeting, Claim

James H. Rooney, Liberal candidate in Toronto-St. Paul's, said in a statement he had no knowledge until Thursday of a meeting in his committee rooms that opposing candidates charged was held to outline election day duties to deputy returning officers.

Mr. Rooney said the meeting was held next door to his main committee room and was called by a Liberal campaign worker "in an honest effort to discuss the Election Act requirements with the DRO's."

In Ottawa, Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said he was advised that persons attending the meeting were "prospective" deputy returning officers but had not been appointed. He quoted Mr. Rooney as saying the meeting took place without his knowledge and that no similar meetings would be held again.

FEAR OR REASON

based on slander — based on fact

A great national movement is being attacked by the most unscrupulous campaign in Canada's history. Every possible lie, distortion and slander is being used by Big Business and its political parties against the thousands of Canadians who form the C.C.F.

The C.C.F. has not the money to buy enough space to answer all the misstatements. Here are the answers to a few of the more glaring falsehoods:

FALSE	TRUE
1 "The C.C.F. will take away the people's savings and life insurance."	1 This is out right falsehood. The C.C.F. says: THE MONEY WHICH THE PEOPLE HAVE EARNED, RIGHTFULLY BELONGS TO THEM whether it is in bonds, insurance or savings accounts. The C.C.F. will guarantee the people's savings with all the resources of the nation.
2 "The C.C.F. will take the farmer's farm away."	2 Deliberate falsehood. The C.C.F. believes in the family farm. THE SASKATCHEWAN C.C.F. HAS PASSED THE ONLY FARM SECURITY ACT IN CANADA, providing against the loss of home and land, and seizure of crop.
3 "The C.C.F. will destroy the small businessman and individual enterprise."	3 Another untruth. THE C.C.F. HAS NO INTENTION OF TAKING OVER SMALL BUSINESS. Today, small business and individual enterprise suffer from three handicaps: (a) unfair competition from big combines; (b) difficulty of getting credit; (c) reduction in business through depressions. The C.C.F. will remove these handicaps — will end monopoly control — provide credit at cost — and through jobs for all, will assure steady purchasing power.
4 "The C.C.F. will mean regimentation and dictatorship."	4 On the contrary, Big Business itself regiments Canadians through unemployment, high prices, low wages and exploitation of the farmer. THE C.C.F. WILL END THIS REGIMENTATION. It will enrich our democracy by adding freedom from want and freedom from fear to the precious right of the ballot box.
5 "The C.C.F. is National Socialist."	5 This is the most shameful lie of all. The term "National Socialist" was invented by Hitler to cash in on the popularity of genuine socialism. Once in power he proceeded to exterminate all democrats and socialists, while Big Business all over the world dealt with him and helped him. THE C.C.F. HAS ALWAYS FOUGHT EVERY FORM OF DICTATORSHIP AT HOME AND ABROAD. It is the most democratic political movement ever known in Canada. and is the nation's best safeguard against the real friends of Fascism.

REASON MUST DECIDE

This campaign of falsehoods is slander against a people's party, whose members in Parliament, under the leadership of M. J. Coldwell, have demonstrated the responsibility and integrity of the entire movement. Today, the nation faces grave problems . . . it is a time for sober judgment . . . a time for vision and honesty of purpose . . . . REASON AND NOT FEAR MUST GOVERN OUR DECISIONS.

Police Trap Catches Swindler

Had Fleeced Many Victims In Past 50 Years

CHICAGO, June 25—(AP)—Sigmund Z. Engel, who for 50 years has wooed gullible widows and fleeced them of their fortunes, was tripped Friday by one of his intended victims.

The dapper, aged Lothario, whose suave talk and glib manner earned him a reputation as an international confidence man, was seized in a police trap in a Michigan Avenue shop.

Mrs. Genevieve Parro, 55-year-old widow, led Engel, 73, into the police net during a shopping expedition to buy luggage for a proposed holiday trip.

Mrs. Parro became suspicious of the smooth talking Romeo — who posed as Paul Marshall, a wealthy Evanston resident—after he started a whilwind courtship with her earlier this week. She notified Policewoman Marian Hagen, her sister-in-law.

Police, who had been searching for Engel for allegedly bilking another Chicago widow of $8,000 earlier this month, urged Mrs. Parro to carry on her romance. She agreed and "consented" to a marriage proposal by Engel.

Engel and Mrs. Parro, with four of her sons and their wives, met at a night club Thursday night for a "pre-marriage" dinner. Engel agreed to meet Mrs. Parro at a luggage shop Friday and buy her some luggage.

Police posed as sales clerks and customers.

Detective Peter Harlib stepped up behind Engel and asked: "Lord Beaverbrook?" (One of the 32 aliases police said he used.)

Engel, nattily attired in a grey flannel suit, white shirt, and polka-dot tie, turned and coolly eyed the detective.

"I'm Sherlock Holmes," said Harlib.

"Sorry," retorted Engel. "Don't believe we've met."

Engel was taken to police station where he met Mrs. Reseda Corrigan, 39-year-old Chicago widow, who claims Engel earlier this month took more than $8,000 from her after posing as a Hollywood movie producer and making lavish plans for their marriage.

A warrant charging Engel with operating a confidence game, signed earlier by Mrs. Corrigan, was served on him. Bail was set at $10,000.

Popular Vote Will Be Higher

OTTAWA, June 25—(CP)—The popular vote in Monday's federal election is expected to hit a new peak and could, given a heavy turnout, roll over the 6,000,000-mark.

Unofficial estimates, based on the percentage of eligible voters using their ballot in the last three general elections, indicate a popuar vote of somewhere between 5,600,000 and 6,000,000. This covers and rangeof approximately 70 to 75 per cent of the nearly 8,000,000 who have a vote.

There is no exact total of the number of registered voters in this election, but official sources place it at "nearly" 8,000,000.

In the 1945 general election, 5,246,130—or 75.45 per cent—of the 6,952,445 voters cast their ballots. This is the record popular vote to date.

In 1940, 4,672,531 (70.90 per cent) of 6,588,888 registered voted and in 1935, 4,452,675 (75.06 per cent) of 5,918,207 registered voted.

Temperance Act Ends Rule On Manitoulin

OTTAWA, June 25 (CP) — Starting today, the Canada Temperance Act will no longer be in effect on Manitoulin Island and liquor may be sold in the Lake Huron district.

Voters last May 16 turned in a 2-1 decision to scrap the old Federal Act, in effect on the world's largest fresh water island since 1914. Under the CTA liquor could be drunk but not sold on the island.

Sue For Million

TORONTO, June 25 (CP) —An out-of-court settlement was reached Friday in a $1,000,000 lawsuit over shares in the Goodrich Refining Company. Terms of the settlement, arrived at after an assize court hearing which lasted all week, were not announced. Jacob H. Davis and Rae Ruth Davis brought the action against Reuben Rosefield and Fay Rosefield. Davis and Rosefield formerly were partners in the company.

Canada Will Go To Polls Monday To Select M.P.'s

By The Canadian Press.

Canada goes to the polls Monday to elect a new Federal Government.

The seven-week campaign, except for a few more hours of speechmaking, is over. The leaders, the candidates, the well-wishers have had their day. Now, the voters have theirs.

The day is Monday, June 27, Election Day.

Then, from the farms and the factories, the forests and the fisheries, Canadians will stream to the polling stations to give the nod to the 262 men and women who will form the new House of Commons in a new 21st Parliament of Canada.

The number of candidates is large—848—covering every political stripe in the Dominion. But the field still is far short of the record 954 who contested the 1945 general election.

The number of voters, too, is big, sure to become a record. Official estimates place it at "nearly" 8,000,000, though not all of them are expected to use their ballot. In 1945, when the previous record popular vote was set, 5,246,130 out of a potential 6,952,445 voters exercised the franchise.

The polls open at 8 a.m. Monday and close at 6 p.m. local standard time. In terms of Eastern daylight time, this means the polls will close as follows in the various time zones across Canada:

Newfoundland 5:30 p.m., Atlantic 6 p.m., Eastern 7 p.m., Central 8 p.m., Mountain 9 p.m., Pacific 10 p.m.

The Liberals held a six-vote majority in the last Commons. The party standing in the 245-seat chamber at dissolution April 30 was:

Liberals 125; Progressive-Conservatives 69; C.C.F. 32; Social Credit, 12; others, six; vacant, one.

There will be 262 seats in the new House. The increase of 17 seats includes seven for the new province of Newfoundland and 10 for new constituencies created since 1945.

The Liberals, in office since 1935, have the largest number of candidates—260—in the field.

Out To Regain Power

The Progressive Conservatives, out to regain the federal power they lost in 1935, are running them a close second, with 249.

Homes, Barns Damaged; Power Fails

Uprooted Trees Fall On Houses Windows Smashed

BANCROFT, June 25 (ENS)—A severe storm of cyclonic proportions swept over this village at 4:30 p.m. Friday, causing considerable property damage.

A rain and electrical storm accompanied a high wind. Larch, maple and pine trees were uprooted and damaged many residences in falling.

Huge limbs adjacent to telephone, telegraph and electric power lines disrupted all three communications.

Power failed in the entire village for more than half an hour. At an early hour this morning telephone communications were still partially disrupted.

The high wind drove the rain with such force that windows and doors would not withhold the onslaught and were broken.

Two Barns Levelled

The storm also did much damage in the nearby countryside, levelling two large barns, tearing the roof off a third and the kitchen of another farm home was torn a foot away from the main house.

Although long distance telephone lines are now operating a number of lines in the village are still down.

French Detain Three Russians

BERLIN, June 25 (Reuters) — Two Russian soldiers and a Russian civilian were taken to headquarters of the French police after a scuffle over custody of a Polish national, a police official said today.

He told reporters that a west-Berlin patrol in the French sector first went to the aid of the Pole after he complained early today that a Russian civilian was trying to kidnap him.

The police took the Pole into protective custody and the Russian civilian drove away. Later the Russian car returned with a Russian major and a Russian soldier who demanded that the Pole be handed over to them.

"There was a scuffle when the police refused to hand the man over," said the police official. French Gendarmes were summoned and they took the two Russian soldiers, the civilian and the Polish national to their headquarters.

20 Firemen Quit

TORONTO, June 25. (CP) — The resignations of 20 members of the volunteer fire brigade of nearby Port Credit were accepted at a Port Credit council meeting Friday night. The firemen quit over disagreements with the council.

Quebec Gets 8 More MP's Than At Any Time In Past

OTTAWA, June 25 — (CP) — For the first time since Confederation, Quebec will elect more than 65 members to the Commons.

The 21st parliament will have 73 members from Quebec—eight more than the number guaranteed the province by the British North America Act.

Quebec's traditional 65 members was used for years as the yardstick to measure the number of members for the other provinces.

The entire system was changed by an amendment to the BNA Act, approved by the British parliament in 1946, and the Canadian Redistribution Act in 1947 which raised Comons membership from 245 to 255.

Entry of Newfoundland gave the Commons seven more seats.

Here is the number of seats for each province, with representation in the last parliament in brackets:

Ontario 83 (82); Quebec 73 (65); Saskatchewan 20 (21); British Columbia 18 (16); Alberta 17 (17); Manitoba 16 (17); Nova Scotia 13 (12); New Brunswick 10 (10); Newfoundland 7 (0); Prince Edward Island 4 (4); Yukon 1 (1).

The representation of Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland and the Yukon Territory is fixed by legislation and was not affected by the redistribution.

Redistribution of the Commons is supposed to take place every 10 years following the decennial census. The last census was in 1941 but redistribution was postponed because of the war. The next census is due in 1951, with redistribution due the year after.

Under the old system, the distribution quotient—the number of inhabiants a province must have to get one Commons seat—was obtained by dividing 65—Quebec representation—into the Quebec population.

Under the new system, the quotient is obtained by dividing 250—the number of seats in all but two (not three provinces and the Yukon Territory where representation is fixed by statute—into the population of the eight (not seven) provinces affected.

Recent Actions Of Nationalists Worry Colony

HONG KONG, June 25 (Reuters) — Bombing of the British freighter Anchises near Shanghai this week and the Chinese Nationalists' declared intention of blockading Red-held ports have set this British Colony wondering what's in store.

The Colony stands to lose heavily from the severance of communications with Shanghai. Reports from Canton indicate the Nationalists have every intention of enforcing their blockade to the utmost, and they seem to have sufficient air and sea power to do it.

The Anchises incident has brought Britain, and particularly Hong Kong, back into the limelight in China.

The bombing has been followed by renewed criticism of British policy from both Nationalists and Communists.

The Communist New China news agency's attack Wednesday night on the Hong Kong government's policy toward Chinese in the colony was regarded here as the strongest yet issued. It complained bitterly of the closing last February of a school in Kowloon, mainland territory leased to Hong Kong, on the ground that it was really a Communist indoctrination centre.

Communist attacks against Hong Kong—and against British interests and policies elsewhere—are interpreted here as not necessarily an intentional singling out of one western power, but rather as an expression of general anti-western feeling.

Friday's complaint by a high Nationalist figure in Canton against the British policy of trading with the Communists can more likely to be traced to feeling against Britain alone, it is said here.

Some sources consider it likely that the Nationalists may attempt to embarrass and injure British interests, and particularly those of Hong Kong, during the last struggles against the Reds.

'I Was Framed' Woman Charges

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP) —A screaming "I have been framed" may end Judith Coplon's role as star witness in her own espionage trial.

Defense counsel Archibald Palmer indicated today that he will not call her back to the witness stand when the trial, which began exactly two months ago, is resumed Monday.

In that event, the former Justice Department political analyst may know her fate by the end of next week. She is charged with stealing government secrets with intent to injure the United States and aid a foreign power (Russia.)

Her version is far different. In seven days on the witness stand, she steadfastly maintained that her purpose for meetings with Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian, in New York was love—not espionage.

A jury of eight men and four women must decide which version to accept.

Asbestos Strikers Refuse To End Long Walkout

ASBESTOS, Que., June 25—(CP)—The return-to-work movement in Quebec' strike-troubled Asbestos industry came to an abrupt halt here Friday night when employees of the Canadian Johns - Manville Company decided against going back to their jobs.

Jean Marchand, secretary of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, said the question of possible reprisal action by the company against strikers and union leaders was the stumbling block in efforts to end the dispute here.

One of the bitterest labor struggles in Quebec's history, the strike originally affected 5,000 employees of five asbestos-producing companies. The men struck Feb. 13 for a 15-cents-an-hour wage boost, which would have raised their basic pay from 85 cents to $1.

The back-to-work movement came suddenly early Friday at nearby Thetford Mines where 2,500 miners voted to go back to the pits Monday without the pay increase.

Mr. Marchand said 1,300 strikers at Friday night's meeting voted to continue the work stoppage because the company does not propose to rehire some 20 strikers, among them several union leaders.

End of the strike at Thetford Mines will re-open mines and plants operated by Johnson Mines Limited, Asbestos Corporation and Flintkote Mines Limited.

The C.C.C.L. secretary said the Canadian Johns-Manville Company wished to reserve the right of priority of employment at its plant for "about 100 scabs." About 700 regular employees returned to work early in the dispute, and the company granted these men a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase.

Mr. Marchand added that unofficial agreement had been reached between the company and the union on several points.

These included the company's willingness to place the dispute before an arbitration tribunal constituted under provincial labor laws, and the acceptance of Judge Thomas Tremblay of Quebec, as chairman of the board.

Labor Minister Barrett, who took part in several strike-settlement talks between management and the unions since the dispute started, said Friday a complete settlement of the strike was due soon.

Marshall Plan Help Must Double–Hoffman

NEW YORK, June 25 (CP)—Paul Hoffman, economic co-operation administrator, told the Senate Appropriations Committee Friday that the United States must double the current volume of its imports from western Europe by 1951 or concede failure of the Marshall Plan, the New York Times says today.

Hoffman placed the minimum increase needed at $1,500,000,000 a year.

He said that unless the United States increases its purchases from Marshall Plan countries, their dollar earnings will be inadequate for self-sustaining economy.

The Times says he also reported that some participating countries will need help after 1951.

Belgians Vote On King's Return

BRUSSELS, June 25—(AP)—Should Belgium's exiled King Leopold III be returned to his throne? This is the main question facing Belgians when they vote in tomorrow's general elections.

The balloting is for representatives to the Chamber of Deputies, Senate and nine provincial councils, but the royal question has dominated all other issues.

Belgium's largest party—the Social Christian—is supporting Leopold's return, but it has promised not to rush the matter. The Social Christians say they will hold a referendum on the Monarch question if they receive an absolute majority in the Senate and Chamber.

The Social Christians, Socialists, Liberals and Communists are the four main parties with candidates in the field. The Socialists, Communists and most Liberals want Leopold to abdicate.

Women will vote tomorrow for the first time in Belgium's history. There are more than 5,600,000 eligible voters and more than half are women.

Voting is compulsory. Belgians who stay away from the polls without a lawful excuse can be fined from 10 to 30 francs (about 23 to 69 cents).

Help Strikers

WINDSOR, June 25—(CP)—A cheque for $550 was being forwarded to the striking Asbestos miners in Quebec by two locals of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), according to George Burt, Canadian Director of the auto union. Local 240, U.A.W.-C.I.O., representing Ford of Canada office workers, gave $50 and Local 458 Brantford, gave $500.

Abbott Claims Tory Policy Sure Way To Increase Cost-of-Living In Canada

Selling Gold On the Black Market Will Hinder Expansion Of Trade Minister of Finance Tells Liberals

Minister of Finance, Douglas C. Abbott, ridiculed George Drew's dabblings in foreign exchange theory as a sure way to increase the cost-of-living in Canada, at a Liberal rally in the Legion Hall Friday night which climaxed the campaign of Dit Clapper, Liberal candidate for Peterborough West.

In spite of George Drew's gloomy prophesies of a drop in Canada's foreign trade, Canada's exports were now at the "highest level in peacetime history," said Mr. Abbott. Drew has been "attacking windmills" because he was unable to find any real issue on which to criticize the government, Mr. Abbott stated.

Exports Increase

In 1948, said Mr. Abbott, Canada's exports were more than 30 per cent higher than in 1946. In the first four months of 1949 "our exports have been $10,000,000 greater than in the same four months of last year."

The Liberal government has always recognized that foreign trade is the basis of Canadian prosperity. For this reason it has had a prominent place in the government's post-war program.

We have always believed said the cabinet minister, that Canada's interests will best be served in a world in which trade between nations is permitted to flourish.

Canada took part in the General Agreement on Traffic and Trade from the very beginning. The result of these agreements has been to reduce tariff barriers against Canadian goods particularly in the United States. Last year, following the treaty, Canada's exports to the United States shot up nearly 50 per cent.

Drew's policy on foreign trade has always been vague and frequently changing, Mr. Abbott charged. However, Drew has stated, if his party got into power it would immediately open negotiations to make the pound and the dollar convertible so that we can reopen markets in the sterling area.

This was tried by Britain with disastrous results in 1947, the minister recalled. Convertibility was one of the conditions of the American loan. In six weeks, as a result, Britain lost a substantial portion of her gold and dollar reserves, precipitating a major crisis in world. Britain was forced to suspend convertibility to which she had agreed.

Why Marshall Plan

The free exchange of pounds and dollars will only be possible, explained Mr. Abbott, when Britain and other European countries have made more progress in rebuilding their productive capacities and have raised their exports to North America to a level high enough to pay for most of their purchases from this contin-

British Conservative Party Proposes Strong Defences

LONDON, June 25—(CP)—The Conservative party Friday night proposed stronger Empire defence and trade ties to keep Britain from declining. "We believe that if the British Empire were to break up, Britain would become a third-class power, unable to feed or defend herself," the party said in its outline of imperial policy.

The statement is the first of several the party will issue before its annual conference in London next October. Then it will prepare for the general elections before next summer.

To unify military defences, the Conservatives propose setting up a commonwealth defence council and a commonwealth combined staff. To foster colonial and commonwealth trade, the party suggests forming a group for empire economic consultations.

The party came out strongly for building up trade among the commonwealth countries, the colonies and the mother country.

"We aim at the development of the greatest possible volume of inter-imperial trade," the party said. "In addition, we wish to provide for empire producers and particularly for the producers of primary commodities, a guaranteed market and a stable price . . .

"The Conservative party has never supported any decision taken at Geneva, Havana or elsewhere inimical to the general system of imperial preference, and we shall take all steps in our power to ensure that in future our liberty in this direction is not impaired."

The policy statement was outlined at a press conference by Lord Tweedsmuir, 38, former Canadian infantry officer who sits in the Conservative front benches in the House of Lords.

The statement said the Conservatives believe more frequent conferences of commonwealth prime ministers are desirable.

It also "reaffirms that self-government within the British Empire and commonwealth is an aim to be achieved as soon as colonial peoples are ready for it."

Continue Search For Killer In B.C. Forest

MISSION, BC, June 25. (CP) —Ivar Johnson, a moody recluse with a 30-30 rifle, was hunted anew today as a posse, armed to the teeth, sought what residents have come to call "The Killer of Silver Hill."

Fear gripped Silver Hill, a sparsely-populated community seven miles west of here, as Johnson, charged with the murder of two of its women, continued to elude a 50-man posse scouring the area with carbines at the ready.

Johnson is 70 years old but is known as an uncanny woodsman and an unerring marksman. He has lived alone 36 years. He is believed to have been crazed when he allegedly shot to death Mrs. Marie Lindberg, 68-year-old farm widow, and Mrs. George Barrett, 66, mother of three children.

Provincial Police Inspector Alex Macdonald, directing the search for the fugitive killer, said Friday night police were "at a blank wall now."

"We could throw 1,000 men into the search and make no impression on that bush. Johnson is in his own country."

Police consider the possibility that Johnson:

1. Has taken his own life.
2. Has to come out somewhere.
3. Has made a getaway and has travelled a long way by now.

The ruthless slayings climaxed a long-standing feud between Johnson and neighbors over a road allowance.

Johnson fired twice at Municipal Police Constable Peter Bergen as the officer attempted on Thursday to reason with the farmer who was blocking a road-clearing crew.

46 Lose Lives In Mexico Flood

LES PACHUCA, Mexico, June 25—(AP)—The Red Cross says at least 46 persons were killed and 200 injured by a flash flood which swept this mining town Friday night. Electric and telephone lines were down.

Les Pachuca is the centre of a rich mining district. It lies about 75 miles northeast of Mexico City, a short distance off the Pan-American highway.

Patricio Escobar Garcia of the Red Cross, said a cloudburst over the mountains, shortly before 5 p.m., sent rainwater roaring through the streets. Rain and hailstones pelted the area for more than two hours.

The torrents brought a wave of mud from the hills, causing vast property damage in the town.

Dutch Giving Back Power To Indonesians

JOGJAKARTA, Java, June 25 (AP)—Netherland troops Friday left Honasari town to Indonesian forces in the first step toward restoring the republic to power here. The transfer there was carried out peacefully, but in Jogjakarta two Indonesians were killed.

Sources in the Netherlands occupation force said one was slain in an encounter between an occupation patrol and an "armed band." The other was a reported victim of a fellow countryman serving in the Netherlands army.

Says Ministers 'Power-Drunk'

TORONTO, June 25 (CP) — George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail and the Toronto Telegram, urged Canadian voters Friday night to support Progressive Conservative candidates in Monday's federal election and "show those power-drunk ministers that we are capable of asserting our right to govern."

Charging that the Liberal party has replaced "parliamentary control with bureaucrat control" and has departed from Liberal principles to a "shocking degree" he said in a broadcast address:

"Support the Progressive Conservative candidate in your riding and give George Drew a working majority so that he can clean up your business."

Mr. McCullagh spoke in a 30-minute address broadcast in transcription form over 83 privately-owned radio stations across Canada.

He expressed criticism of the Toronto Daily Star and the Star Weekly—"the great Liberal and Socialist apologists in this part of the country—and charged that they were being "subsidized with your money to eulogize and propagandize the Liberal and Socialist parties."

UN And Czech Govt. Wrangle Over Clerk

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 25 (CP)—The United Nations Friday gave a detailed account of its controversy with the Czechoslovak government over Adolph Mudroch.

Mudroch is a 50-year-old Czechoslovak clerk in the UN information centre in Prague, who has evaded questioning by security police by remaining in the information centre offices since May 25.

One high UN official, Friday expressed the belief that the issue will be settled in a friendly way within a few days. A statement by the UN disclosed that Secretary-General Trygve Lie has told the Czechoslovak government that the UN would not shield Mudroch any further if assurances were given that the clerk would not be questioned regarding his UN duties.

Mudroch is wanted for questioning in connection "with suspicion of contacts with a group under trial for anti-state activities," the Czechoslovak government charges.

Weather Ship Crew Cast Votes Early

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 25 (CP)—The Canadian weather ship St. Stephen came into harbor here Friday to allow her 130 crew members to cast ballots in the federal election Monday.

The navy men—who spend nearly all their time at the storm swept post of Station Baker between Greenland and Labrador—had an almost 100 per cent turn out at their shipboard poll. They voted for the various candidates for their home ridings, wherever they might be.

The ballots will be airmailed to Halifax for distribution through civilian channels to the various ridings concerned.

Newfoundland's some forty pernel at the joint services headquarters here voted in somewhat the same manner—by means of an advance poll. From Monday until Saturday of this week they were allowed to vote on the same basis as their seafaring brothers-in-arms.

Hecklers Given Bloodied Noses At Drew Meeting

By The Canadian Press.

Prime Minister St. Laurent has put his government's record and program before Canada's newest province.

As the campaign for Monday's Federal election waned, he spoke Friday night in St. John's, capital of Newfoundland, and put the government's aims in these words:

"We are asking for a new mandate to continue to work for peace and security, complete recognition of Canadian nationhood and the development of all aspects of our national life."

Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew, moving back to Ottawa to await Monday's election results, ran into a noisy meeting at Belleville where fist fights developed between members of the audience and three hecklers. The hecklers left the meeting with bloodied noses and bruised faces.

Sees CCF Gains

M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, spoke in Tessier, Sask., in a swing around his home constituency of Rosetown-Biggar and predicted substantial gains for the CCF on Monday.

Mr. Drew at Belleville said the Canadian people will decide on Monday whether they want responsible government, or continuation of a government that denies their representatives the knowledge of affairs that they should have. He wanted to see responsible government restored to Canada.

Mr. Coldwell said that whatever the outcome of the voting, the CCF would continue to fight for immediate implementation of national health insurance and the kind of marketing legislation and trading policies that the far-Bowen, of Highland Grove, to

Mr. Drew criticized the Liberal government's system of financing and said that people could imagine what would happen to a ment which refused to disclose its expenditures. Such a government would be voted out of office, just as the present Liberal government would be on Monday.

Mr. Drew was interrupted by the booing and heckling as soon as he started to speak. After a pause, he said:

"This is not the first time I have listened to paid employees of the Toronto Star. Every time you hear that sound, you know they are getting a couple of cents more from the Star and a couple of cents is more than they all deserve."

He said the Federal Liberal Committee published an advertisement saying that he, as Premier of Ontario, had termed the federal government's family allowance act an "iniquitous" measure.

"That advertisement is a deliberate and unualified lie," he said.

Premier Joey Smallwood said the like of Mr. St. Laurent's welcome was never known before in Newfoundland— barring the visit of the king and queen. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent himself called it an "ostentatious greeting."

In a big park near the Colonial Building Friday night, between 12,000 and 15,000 people —possibly the biggest crowd of his entire campaign—stood in the raw, chill night and heard Mr. St. Laurent champion the Liberal past and policies.

Drove Along Coast

During the day, he and Mr. Smallwood and State Secretary Bradley rode in one of between 150 and 200 cars which drove some 150 miles along the coast of Conception Bay.

At about 15 communities along the route between here and Carbonear they stopped to allow the Prime Minister to speak of Liberal aims to spread the Canadian bounty as widely as possible and of the joy of other Canadians that Newfoundlanders "have decided to throw in their lot with us."

Mr. St. Laurent contended that Canada has made greater advances in social security in the last five years than ever before. He said his government aims at a system of contributory old age pensions and contributory health insurance, decent housing for all Canadians.

Mr. Coldwell said that the men who founded the CCF party were responsible for introduction of old age pensions in Canada.

He said the legislation was passed in 1926 because the followers of J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the CCF, agreed to support Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in his attempt to form a government only if Mr. King would bring in an old age pension bill at that session of parliament.

Divers Near Death

HALIFAX, June 25 (CP) — Two divers suffering from "the bends" were flown to Navy Hospital in Halifax Friday night from a village on Nova Scotia's south shore. They were immediately placed in the navy's decompression chamber. Their condition was critical. The two divers were working on a salvage job off the village of Port Latour when they were seized with the Bends—a condition brought on by nitrogen excess in the blood stream.

COUNCILLOR DAVID J. MORE, formerly of Peterborough, was elected Mayor of Daventry, England, a month ago. His wife, who was Ethel Sheppard of Alfred St., was mentioned in the reports of the election by the members of the council at their meeting in Moot Hall as the first Canadian Mayoress of this old English town which is listed in Domesday Book (1085) as "Daventrie". Mayor More was also the founder president of Daventry Rotary Club, and was a guest of local Rotarians here last summer. He is a veteran of the First World War, enlisting from Peterborough and winning promotion to a Captaincy. He was also awarded the Military Cross. At the left in the picture is the married daughter (Eleanor) of Mr. and Mrs. More, who is coming to New Toronto in July.

Former Peterborough Man Now Daventry (Eng.) Mayor

One of the few Canadians to reverse the rather common occurrence of Old Countrymen attaining public honors in Canada is Mr. David J. More, recently elected Mayor of Daventry, England.

Mr. More and his wife, the former Ethel Sheppard, lived in Peterborough until they left for England, twelve years ago. Their home here was Alfred St.

News of the election of Mr. More will be of special interest to their friends here, and also to the members of Peterborough Rotary Club who will recall his attendance at several of their meetings last summer when he and Mrs. More spent two months' vacation here and in the United States.

The new Mayor of Daventry is a brother of William D. Sheppard who moved to Lakefield a short time ago from the old home of his family at 46 Alfred St.

Keen Organier

Mr. More was largely instrumental in the organizing of the Daventry Rotary Club in 1946, and was its first president. Its charter was received on April 24, 1947, when its membership was twenty-five.

The election of Councillor More as Mayor took place at a meeting of the municipal council at the Moot Hall, Daventry, Saturday May 28. One of the first official duties of the Mayor and Mayoress was to welcome the Duke of Gloucester, brother of His Majesty the King, on a visit to Daventry, accompanied by the Duchess.

A newspaper account of the election reported that the council chamber was filled to overflowing with the members, officials and other citizens, "and, afterwards, in a marquee erected in the street below, the health of the Mayor and the Mayoress was drunk.

First Canadian Mayoress

Councillor R. Falconer paid tribute to the qualities and service of Councillor More. He said that in Mrs. More Daventry probably had its first Canadian Mayoress, who was the founder president of the Inner Wheel of Daventry, the ladies' counterpart of Rotary. Councillor Falconer recalled that Mr. More was a captain in the Canadian Army of the First World War, in which he was awarded the Military Cross.

In expressing his appreciation of the honor of being elected Mayor, Mr. More said that "if anyone had told him twelve years ago when he came to Daventry that one day he would be Mayor of the Borough, he would have thought that person needed medical attention. But, throughout his life he had risen each morning with a feeling of anticipation about what the day would bring. When obstacles arose he found pleasure in overcoming them, in the knowledge that that was what they were for. In all his life he had never had such a cordial reception as from the people of Daventry when he moved into their midst a stranger. There was at first a certain amount of reserve, and for some time hardly anyone knew him except by his wife's recommendation.

"I feel that Mrs. More was largely responsible for my success. I have found out from various sources that she was looked upon as a widow, and many people did not know she had a husband. But she took that in her stride, saying 'I very seldom see him myself'. . .As Coun. Falconer had said, Daventry was entering into a period of development, and he looked forward expectantly to being able to play some active part. He would like to assure his colleagues of the council that they would find him a ready listener to any suggestion for promoting an increase in the size of the borough and the benefits which it would offer.

Daughter to Canada

Mayor More concluded: "It is a red letter day in my life because it also happens to be my daughter's twenty-fifth birthday'. On July 14, his daughter, her husband, and his grandson would be sailing for Canada, and he and Mrs. More were happy to know they were going to the place where his daughter went to school, living in her childhood home."

Mayor More's daughter and husband and their son, are coming to New Toronto next month.

After his election, Mayor More appointed Councillor Franklin deputy-mayor and welcomed three new members of the council. Canon J. H. N. Hill was re-appointed mayor's chaplain. During the ceremony of the council the bells of the parish church were rung.

David More was born in England, came to Peterborough as a young man, and soon after enlisted with the 21st Battalion, C. E. F. He was in business in Toronto after the first war.

Abbott Claims

loan to Britain was the best indication of this policy. Convertibility must be restored as soon as possible, Mr. Abbott said, but Canada can do nothing to make the pound and the dollar convertible so long as the present lack of balance in British trade with North America continues to exist.

Up Cost Of Living

A short time ago, the finance minister commented, Conservative leaders talked of decreasing the value of the Canadian dollar so that it would be worth, for instance, 90 cents in American money. When Liberal leaders pointed out to them, this would have the effect of raising the price of all American goods brought into the country and thus increasing the Canadian cost of living, Drew and his men backed up considerably. But they have since renewed this talk.

As Minister of Finance, Mr. Abbott said he has had to consider the question of depreciation or devaluing the Canadian dollar from all angles. One aspect of depreciation would be to make the Canadian dollar less in respect to the British pound. As a result British goods brought into this country would cost Canadians even more than they do now. Canadian imports of British goods would drop, just when there was a drive on to try to boost them.

This aspect of depreciation illustrates the foolhardiness of the Tory proposal just as much as its effect on the gold mining industry, Mr. Abbott charged.

Increase Value Or Gold Output

It is certainly true the cabinet minister explained that if we devalue the dollar by 10 per cent, it would increase the yield of the gold mines by this amount. He said the reason was that the United States was the ultimate buyer and if it bought the gold at a 10 per cent cut in price, for the same amount of money it could buy 10 per cent more gold.

The Liberal government has recognized the gold mines' difficulties and has put into effect an assistance program, giving the gold mines approximately the same amount they would obtain if the dollar were devalued 10 per cent.

The Conservatives also believe they could help the gold mines by allowing them to sell their product in the so-called free market, Mr. Abbott reported. The man touted as their mining expert, Rodney Adamson, has gone so far ent. This was the very reason the United States launched the Marshall Plan, Mr. Abbott said.

The Liberal government's policy has been to aid the British in every possible way. Canada's as to say they would take Canada out of the International Monetary Fund, if necessary, to buy and sell on the free market.

The Monetary Fund has opposed the sale of gold on the so-called free market for very good reasons, Mr. Abbott explained. The free market, or to give it a better name, the black market, hinders countries from again setting up orderly exchange rates which contribute immeasurably to the smooth operation of international trade. This black market also causes a dangerous drain on the dollar reserves of many countries, such as Britain, Belgium, France and the Netherlands, because these buyers and hoarders of gold can get the gold only by giving up U.S. dollars for them. These U.S. dollars could be more profitably spent on machinery and food and seed grain.

Even if there were no official ban on the sale of gold, the price would be tied to the amount the dominant buyer, the U.S., wanted to pay. Thus Canada, or any country, could not sell the gold much above the U.S. price to make a profit.

Mr. Abbott said he thought the Conservative statements were not the result of their deliberately trying to mislead the people, but simply that the Conservatives didn't know what they were talking about.

Applause greeted Mr. Abbott when he said, "But whatever their reasons for pushing these silly statements forward as their platform for office, I suggest to you that they are not the type of people for you to entrust with the important affairs of state."

Candidate Speaks

Peterborouh West's Liberal candidate, Dit Clapper, said the record of the Liberal government spoke for itself. Through the Family Allowance Act, Peterborough West has received in baby bonus cheques $2,763,000 which promised better and healthier citizens for tomorrow.

The much-feared depression which was predicted for after the war had failed to materialize, largely because of the Liberal government's far-sighted planning.

He said there was a rumor going around town that he had been offered $10,000 by Liberals in town to let his name stand for office. He said he would be very pleased to accept that much money and would gladly report it to Finance Minister Abbott and take his share.

Mrs. C. M. Scott, president of the Peterborough Women's Liberal Association, urged the women of the riding to get out and vote on Monday. Women were interested primarily in social security and the Liberal government had an impressive record in that field from giving baby bonuses to reducing taxes, she said.

Mr. Abbott was introduced by T. J. Carley, K. C., Chairman of the meeting was Arthur Lewis, president of the Peterborough Liberal Association. Walter Dawson rendered a delightful solo and the Searles String Trio played as the audience gathered.

Use War Powers In Coal Strike

SYDNEY, Australia, June 25 — (CP)—New South Wales yesterday proclaimed wartime emergency powers in the face of a country-wide coal strike set for Monday. Both union and management say the walkout is virtually impossible to avoid.

Drastic measures to save electricity and gas in New South Wales has cripled industry. The coal-saving measures have put 285,000 out of work with prospects of thousands more unemployed when the mines shut down. More than 50,000 already have registered for unemployment relief. A single man receives 25s (about $4) weekly, a married man 45s, with 5c for each child.

G. H. Arnott, head of a biscuit firm, was appointed emergency food controller for New South Wales. He will have power to seize and distribute food if necessary.

Reg. Windsor, emergency controller of transport and assistant commissioner of state railways called a meeting of the wartime railroad transport pool. They discussed means of keeping essential supplies moving if railways are forced to close through lack of coal.

Queen Elizabeth School Holds Picnic

Making the best of favorable weather, 100 pupils from Queen Elizabeth Public School, together with another 50 adults, turned out for the annual school picnic at Nicholls Oval on Friday afternoon.

A full schedule of field sports, games, and other events was run off under the supervision of both teachers and members of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Club who sponsored the outing.

Highlight of the day was the presentation of a leather travel alarm clock to Principal Ezra Ball, who is leaving the school at the end of this term. The presentation was made by Jane Jarvis, one of the pupils.

Drought Menaces UK Industries

LONDON, June 25 (Reuters)— Some industries in drought-stricken Northeast London were warned yesterday that failing three days and three nights of heavy rain next week they will have to cut their output.

Workers in the vital iron and steel industry, centred in Northeast England, probably will be able to work only one shift in three.

The drought area covers most of Southern Britain and a meteorological expert said there appears to be no prospect of the fine weather breaking. London is not yet officially regarded as a drought area as it has had only 10 days without rain.

Warm, summer-like weather contrasts sharply with Eastern Germany's cold, wet days and freezing nights.

Alexander's Car Gets Top Spot In War Museum

BI HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 25 (CP)—Viscount Alexander's most prized automotive possession, a three-ton sandy-colored command car that carried him safely throgh four years of bitter campaigning, has come into its stately own.

It has been given a prominent berth in the Canadian War Museum, just a mile from Government House where its wartime driver, Quartermaster-Sergeant J. A. (Joe) Wells of Sheffield, Eng., still does the driving for the Field Marshal.

Joe at 48 is still ruddy from the African sun. He has driven more than 1,000,000 miles over England's weaving roads in other vehicles but, like the Governor-General, has a warm and loving regard for the desert buggy.

And no wonder. It swept over the sands of Africa from Cairo to Tunis with never a break-down, a bullet hole or a crash.

Especially Built

Joe took charge of the balloon-tire car, with its canvas roof and tommy gun and rifle mountings, in 1943. It was built especially for Viscount Alexander in a Cairo army workshop in 1941, when he had returned from Burma to take command of the 8th Army.

In its time, it's had four engines and countless overhaulings, but like a true charger it has never halted under orders to advance, even when driven 400 miles a day under a boiling African sun.

"Fond of it, his Excellency is," says Joe and his blue eyes sparkle. "You know that car has had all kinds of people in it. His Majesty was in it one time. So was General Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery. And a lot of Polish generals and Americans and Canadians."

On Tour

With the end of the war in 1945, it was decided to take the car back to England. Joe drove it from southern Italy over continental Europe to Paris and Dieppe and then to London.

From there it went on a triumphant tour of United States and Canada and once became a spectacle of the curious hundreds that flocked to the Canadian National Exibition at Toronto.

Then it was given a scrubbing and a polishing at a motor company plant at Windsor before it was taken to the museum.

Three Youths Released After Week In Jail

LINDSAY, June 25 — (CP) — Three Peterborough and two Oshawa youths were released yesterday after serving a week in jail here on vagrancy charges after agreeing to break up their "zoot-suit gang" and attempt to get employment.

The five, Ronald Gilmour, 19, Bill Burns, 18, Norman Howard, 17, of Peterborough, and Gordon Walsh, 17, and William Kerr, 18, of Oshawa, were alleged to have stoned a local company caretaker who held them off by faking a gun in his hand. Arrested by police they pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy.

Joan Leslie Has First Big Role In Three Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 25 (AP)—Joan Leslie, a girl who knew what she wanted, had it this week.

She began work in R.K.O.'s "Beds of Roses," her first major studio job in three years. Thus ended a flight for freedom which took her almost to the United States Supreme Court.

This story begins about 10 years ago. Born Joan Brodell in Detroit, the little girl showed acting ability at an early age. She looked mature beyond her years and at 15 she was starring with Gary Cooper in "Sgt. York," at 16 with Jimmy Cagney in "Yankee Doodle Dandy." The roles won Academy Awards for both actors.

Utility Gal

Joan became the utility gal at Warners. She worked hard and often. But as she approached 21, she became dissatisfied. She felt she was being typed as a scatter-brained bobbysoxer She claimed the studio reduced her from star to featured billing in "Two Guys from Milwaukee."

When she came of age, Joan issued a declaration of independence she claimed as an adult she could end any contract made for her as a minor.

She won her case in two lower courts, but was reversed in the State Supreme Court. She took it to the United States Supreme Court, which decided not to review the case. Finally, Warners decided to release her.

"I learned a lot in those three years," she says, "about patience, understanding—and law.

"It hasn't been easy. Warners sent letters to all studios saying they could not hire me, and those letters still have an effect, although the case is over."

Joan is happy about her current job, which is a meaty acting chore, "A Far Cry From Janie." She has plans for her own independent production and may sign with other major studios—but never again with an exclusive contract.

Raise $80 For Boy With Broken Shoulder

APSLEY, June 25 (ENS)—The people of School Section No. 2 Chandos sponsored a benefit ball on Wednesday for Raymond Wilson a pupil of the school who broke his shoulder at the School Area Field Day in Apsley Exhibition Grounds June 3.

There was a large crowd who enjoyed dancing to the music of Sid McCauley and his Orchestra.

A wool blanket raffled by Apsley L.O.B.A. in aid of the lad raised $40.

Mrs. Jas. Downing held the lucky ticket.

Proceeds of the dance also amounted to approximately $40

Lunch was served by the ladies.

Lose Twin Sons

LONDON, Ont., June 25 (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Kelleher of Tilsonburg lost their only children, three-months-old twin sons, within 24 hours. Gary died Thursday at his home, while John Wayne died in War Memorial Children's Hospital here early Friday after being brought to hospital by ambulance and undergoing an abdominal operation. The exact nature of their illness was not disclosed.

High Proportion Of Old People 'Unprecedented'

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 25 — (CP) — The high proportion of old persons and "aged sick" among Britain's 1949 population is "unprecedented," says two writers in the Lancet, Dr. A. N. Exton-Smith and G. S. Crockett.

"There is no doubt," they add, "that throughout the country patients of this type have been inadequately cared for in the past."

In a report setting out their observations at the hospital for the chronic sick here, they said research in diseases of old people is huge and the field largely unexplored.

"Yet it is only recently. . .that the magnitude of the problem has forced itself upon the attention of the medical profession.

"During the war, the lack of attention to this field was perhaps understandable. It is apparent, however, how much can be done for the rehabilitation of the previously-styled "bedridden" case, and how much more successfully the problem of the aged sick could be tackled by their earlier treatment."

Some patients at the hospital—mostly between 65 and 85—could suitably be treated at home, although the attitude of relatives was largely discouraging. I might be summed up by the disgruntled remark of one of them: "If he gets up, he'll want to come home."

As a result, "many patients seem to be stranded in hospital because their homes were broken up by the war and contact with their relatives lost.

"Where new patients are admitted it is our policy to interview the relatives and unobtrusively indicate the stay in hospital is not likely to be permanent. This prevents the disintegration of the family circle."

CHESTERTON

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 1949

The Last Word

This is the last time that we shall have a chance to urge our readers to use their votes on Monday. There are more than 31,000 names on the voters' list of Peterborough West, and it would be a fine thing indeed if 30,000 voters went to the polls. In the 1945 election there were 26,000 voters and 21,500 used their votes. Surely we can improve that record on Monday?

• • •

It is odd that the secret ballot should have reduced the number of voters, but it is true. A century or more ago, when the names of voters were kept in a large register, and when a man declared his choice audibly to the electoral officer in charge of the book, more people voted than do so today. An employer, or a landlord not only could tell his dependents how to vote, but he could check the book to see that they had done so. Intimidation was easy. Even the presence of a gang of toughs outside the poll was enough to influence a vote; a man who voted against the candidate who paid the toughs could be overheard and molested as he left the poll. Anyone who wants to find out what an election was like 125 years ago will find it all described in the chapters of The Pickwick Papers which tell of the great election at Eatanswill, when Fizkin and Slumkey contended for the honour of representing that borough at Westminster.

• • •

There is no intimidation at the polls now, and the ballot is secret. Result: voting has fallen to an unprecedentedly low level. And yet, if a totalitarian conqueror were to take the vote from the people of Canada what a hullabaloo there would be! What tears would be shed for opportunities missed! Yet there is no better way of keeping totalitarians in their place than by voting, while we can do so without fear.

• • •

Even if it does cause you a little inconvenience, will you vote on Monday?

Ontario Heat

The intensity of summer heat is upon us, an extremity which came even before the summer solstice, and which by the winter solstice may be a warmly-regarded memory. Canada is not fortunate in its climate, if one considers only comfort. Our weather is the sort of thing to be angry with or to shout about, not the thing for cozy mellow poetry. The people who live with our climate blow hot and cold as it blows where it listeth. But any generalization about Canadian weather is monstrous because Canada is a monster, in size anyway. When Victorian golfers are on the greens in December, Peterborough folk are putting up their storm windows and Eskimos are reading the latest comics by tallow-light at noon-tide. So there is no such thing as Canadian heat, or even Ontario heat. The heat we feel here is southeastern Ontario heat.

Our heat is on. Some flee to Haliburton resorts or to the Kawartha Lakes, either to enjoy it or to pretend that they are escaping it. But like the Ontario conscience, the heat goes with them, even though cool breezes may fan the glades.

What cannot be avoided should be made a friend. Since we have developed a quite pally attitude to snow and winter wind, has not the Canadian character sufficient resources to smother the heat with kindness? We can compare it favourably with Italian summers, with Riviera June, with California's May, and Algerian December. We can search out English verse in praise of heat—though that takes a bit of finding, for the English poets are tight-lipped about heat. There is Keats, who wrote of the clammy brim of summer and his desire for a beaker full of the warm (Italian) south. William Morris writes of June and breezes "sweet with the scent of beanfields", but English June's heat is kinder than what we have lately had here. The "grimy heat" of Wilfrid Wilson Gibson's "intolerable street", in which perched on his office stool he watched with envy an ice-cart, is more the sort of heat we know in southern Ontario.

Canadian summers, let alone Canadian heat have inspired few of our poets. Perhaps the best, and most evocative Canadian poem about hot summer days in Archibald Lampman's, which he bluntly calls Heat.

From plains that reel to southward, dim,
The road runs by me white and bare;
Up the steep hill it seems to swim
Beyond, and melt into the glare.
Upward half-way, or it may be Nearer the summit, slowly steals
A hay-cart, moving dustily
With idly clacking wheels.

What Lapman has sensitively appreciated should not be too far beyond our later ken. In other verses he writes of the cart "half-hidden in the windless blur", of "elm-tree shadows" which flood "dark patches in the burning grass", of a leisurely thrush. There is more in Ontario's summer heat than meets the eye or perspires from the brow, and Lampman says what it is:

And yet to me not this or that
Is always sharp or always sweet;
In the sloped shadow of my hat
I lean at rest, and drain the heat;
Nay more, I think some blessed power
Hath brought me wandering idly here:
In the full furnace of this hour
My thoughts grow keen and clear.

Murder Every Forty-Five Minutes

Some interesting remarks were made about murder last week by Dr. Fredric Wertham of New York. What Dr. Wertham says deserves attention because he is an eminent psychiatrist, and he has been unusually successful in discovering the causes of murder in a number of different cases. It is his belief that reports of such investigations should be widely published, as they would give the general public some idea of how a murderer thinks, and in this way provide a measure of prevention and protection. Anyone who has read Dr. Wertham's remarkable case history called Dark Legend in which he tells of the psychiatric examination of a boy who murdered his mother, apparently without reason, will agree.

Dr. Wertham does not believe that a murder is ever done without an excellent reason. But the reason which is given by the murderer and the real reason may be utterly different. A combination of psychological and social factors lie at the root of each murder. It seems unlikely that murder could ever be eliminated, but it might be greatly decreased.

At present, says Dr. Wertham, there is more murder than we realise. In the U.S.A., he says, there is a murder every 45 minutes, and there are times and places where murder outranks tuberculosis as a cause of death. What is more, he says that 60 per cent. of murderers get away with it; every two hours a murderer commits a "perfect" crime. We confess that we do not know how this is to be proven or disproven, for if the crime is "perfect' who knows about it?

Perhaps his most interesting remark is this one: "actually in our society respect for human life is only a professed theoretical ideal". Society, in Dr. Wertham's opinion, does not concern itself enough with cases of murder. Mankind, he asserts, is normally pacific and men like to be what he calls "non-violent". Why, then, do not more people concern themselves with the cases of people who have shown the utmost contempt for the sacredness of human life?

There can be no doubt about it, society as a whole is dully indifferent to crime; we only respond strongly to it when it touches us nearly. If we took the same attitude toward disease, what misery would we not bring on ourselves? And have we not enough reason to believe that crime of all kinds, and murder especially, is a disease which afflicts society?

Martin B. Chenhall

Makers of music are among the blessed, and Peterborough has cause to bless the quiet, friendly and accomplished organist and choirmaster Martin Chenhall who died yesterday ripe in years, in musicianship and the respectful affection of a Peterborough generation. Mr. Chenhall had been organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church since 1921 until the fatigues of age compelled his retirement last year. During his twenty-eight years in the city he gave it generous and sensitive musical leadership and his influence was felt in many phases of Peterborough's society and far beyond the precincts of his own church and city. A fine musician, a good citizen and a provider of balm to heart and ear has been lost to us.

How times change! The "little red schoolhouse" of today means a place for indoctrinating Communist workers.

The Birth Of A City

By S. GORDON COLLER

TODAY, just over fifty years since the ideal of a city planned, built and controlled for the health and happiness of its inhabitants was first formulated by Sir Ebenezer Howard, there has come from Britain's Ministry of Town and Country Planning a document which will inspire the imagination of every industrial country in the world. This document is a collection of progress reports on five new towns which are to be built in the country beyond London in order to halt the unregulated growth of the metropolis. The report covers the first year of work and the reader is taken into offices with architects and other experts to begin the immense adventure of planning a city from the drawing board upwards.

◇ ◇ ◇

SIR Ebenezer Howard, father of British town planning, formulated his ideal in 1898 of "a town designed for healthy living and industry; of a size that makes possible a full measure of social life but no larger; surrounded by a rural belt". Before he died thirty years later two cities had been born to this pattern — Letchworth Garden City founded in 1904 and Welwyn Garden City begun in 1919. It was a short step from this conception to the Greater London Plan in which Professor Abercrombie sought to establish a green belt of open country round London and to protect it against a sprawling population by creating "new towns" beyond. There followed the New Towns Act of 1946, and by June 1948 ten new towns—six of them within a sixty-mile radius of London—had been designated for development under this Act, their ultimate size being limited in advance as Howard's had been. It is to five of these —Aycliffe, Crawley, Harlow, Hemel Hempstead and Stevenage—that the newly published report is devoted.

◇ ◇ ◇

TYPICAL of the way in which the five Corporations responsible for these towns have gone about their task is the report of the Aycliffe Development Corporation of which Lord Beveridge (of Beveridge Plan fame) is the Chairman. The intention to establish a new town at Aycliffe was first announced by the Minister of Town and Country Planning in Februrary 1947, object being to provide accommodation for some of the workers at the Trading Estate which is being developed on the site of a wartime Royal Ordinance Factory. The size of the town was limited to 10,000 but the planners are playing safe on this point where expensive capital installations are concerned. "Although the intended population is 10,000" they write "the consulting engineers have been instructed to base their proposals for main sewerage facilities on the assumption that they will ultimately have to cater for a population of 20,000. In the provision of such an essential and costly service as sewerage, we think that it is only prudent on our part to make provision for a possible increase in poulation within the next 20 years. The additional cost of constructing a larger sewer now in order to meet such eventualities would be much smaller than the cost of laying a duplicate sewer at some future date."

◇ ◇ ◇

THE site selected for the town of Aycliffe (in North East England) comprises approximately 880 acres of undulating agricultural land, containing at the present only a few scattered farmhouses and cottages with a total population of sixty. It differs from most of the other new town sites in that some fifty industrial firms employing about 3,000 workers (and with a potential 6,000 workers) are already established nearby, and the plan for the town need not therefore provide for additional industries other than a town laundry, a bakehouse, motor repair workshops etc., "our objective is therefore confined to providing homes and amenities for the workers at these factories" the report states. The Corporation has been auhorised by the Government to buy all land on the site and has already acquired 296 acres. "In acquiring land it will be our aim to cause the minimum disturbance to the farmer, to ensure that no land is left derelict, and to endeavour to arrange for the continued cultivation of those parts of acquired holdings which are not required for immediate development".

◇ ◇ ◇

OWING to the shortage of houses several of the firms in the area have had difficulty in obtaining and retaining labour, and the Corporation therefore decided to set up immediately a temporary settlement of 346 houses, so designed that it will form part of the master plan, but using two types of prefabricated house, some permanent aluminum bungalows and several types of brick house for different income-groups. This experimental area will be used as "a seed-bed from which to select the proved most popular designs and ideas for use throughout the New Town".

◇ ◇ ◇

AS FOR the eventual layout of the town, the Corporation has completed its Outline Plan and a scale model has been built for public exhibition. This plan is to be reconsidered "in the light of observations and criticism received from interested local authorities and members of the general public" and will then go forward to the detail drawing stage. It shows a town planned in village greens with schools, hospitals, community centre, shopping centres etc., all laid out on a broad scale of which both its creators and inhabitants may well be proud. The same can be said of other new towns sketched in this report—Crawley, population 50,000, Harlow 60,000, Hemel Hempstead 60,000, and Stevenage 60,000. They represent nucleus of a new Britain in which the welfare of the family and the community are lastingly reconciled.

"DRESS REHEARSAL"

The Press And The Election

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

THE experience of the press of the United States in the presidential elections last November is still well remembered, especially in newspaper circles. The U.S. press was overwhelmingly opposed to President Truman and the Democratic party, and almost as overwhelmingly, it supported the Republican nominee, Mr. Dewey. The press and the public opinion polls were wrong. Mr. Truman was re-elected and the Democrats won majorities in Congress. That is undoubtedly one reason why the press of Canada has been cautious, almost excessively so, in discussing the prospects of the general election that culminate in the voting next Monday.

The Evening Citizen has completed its own survey of the editorial pages of the English-language press of Canada, with the aim of discovering whether editorial confidence had suffered a decline and, in general, discovering how election issues were being treated.

One result has been the discovery that, while a number of smaller dailies tend to ignore political issues, there is still a great deal of hard work applied to discussing election claims and issues, and in presenting information to readers. This is the true function of an editorial page, and the press of Canada is performing it conscientiously. A special area of political conflict exists in Toronto, but it does not affect daily newspapers elsewhere. For the most part, there is a degree of tolerance towards political issues on modern editorial pages that perhaps was lacking in the old days.

Few newspapers list themselves with a party label in an authoritative publicaion such as the Canadian Almanac, from which the Citizen drew the circulation figures and political identifications used in the report. In most cases the label is "Independent," but editorial pages show a wide variety of meaning in that word.

It should be added that this survey of editorial pages does not touch upon the news coverage of election issues, and it is in the news columns that all parties receive the chief measure of the publicity by which they reach the general public. Though no daily newspaper in Canada supports the CCF or the Social Credit parties, for instance, the spokesmen of these parties receive much publicity through space given to reporting their speeches and activities.

Another conclusion to be drawn from such a survey as the Citizen presents today is that the area of political controversy among newspapers is now the larger cities with two or more newspapers. The smaller daily newspapers, serving a city single-handed, tend to avoid politics. That is one of the serious features of the newspaper situation in Canada, where the discussion of public affairs must continue as a basic element in democracy.

Letter To The Editor

A CLEAR STATEMENT

Sir: I enjoyed the Examiner's moderate and carefully-documented reasoning the other day in the editorial on "Rigorous Free Enterprise", I note, for example this sentiment "The C.C.F. do not believe in free enterprise, because free enterprise is capitalism, and the C.C.F are socialists".

That seems to this reader to be fair enough; but, if you can do so, I would highly appreciate a word from you concerning the reported $2,000 upping of the income of those same C.C.F.ers on Parliament Hill some months back, with the alleged meticulously 'capitalist' caveat that said increase be, also, tax-free? I am not much concerned with the attitude toward this very human move, on the part of the dreadful 'Tories' and the liberal 'Liberals'; but, for the so-called 'Socialists', well, really, this is beyond my simple understanding?

Be that as it may, there was one reference in the above editorial which does you great credit, and which will be widely noted on the Canadian prairies: ". . .the Conservatives have been steadfast in their devotion to the dogmas of capitalism. For instance, they would like to revive the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and curtail the Canadian Wheat Board. The Board now markets all western farmers' wheat, and shortly will also market coarse grains. It does so without a middleman's profit, there being no middlemen as in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange operation. The Board is a non-profit Government agency. The western farmers seem to prefer it to the private enterprise of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange merchants, for they and the three provincial prairie governments asked the Board to undertake the marketing of coarse grains as well as of wheat." (Editorial, June 8).

To me, a former westerner, that is an admirably clear statement on a problem which most of your contemporaries, apparently, find too hot to handle.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them. (Luke 4: 40.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other. (Luke 6: 6-10.)

Don't Exaggerate Gloom

As the Royal Commission on Transportation moves across Canada holding hearings in different cities, the scope and complexity of Canada's transport problems becomes more and more baffling to the observer.

Regional pressures and sectional pressures, labour claims and business complaints all pile in. The Royal Commission will perform a truly valuable service if it can only untangle the facts from the propaganda. What we need is a clear picture of the situation, as free as it can possibly be from prejudice or special pleading. Until such a picture is available it is salutary to remember that the railway problem is not peculiar to Canada, and that we may not be as badly off as we sometimes think we are P. C. Armstrong, economist of the CPR, did well to remind us of some comparisons the other day.

"Wheat moves, he said, from Central Saskatchewan to Fort William at less than half the rate per 100 pounds charged from Montana to Duluth. Potatoes move from New Brunswick to Toronto at little more than half the rate on movement over the shorter distance from Maine to Philadelphia. Lumber from the State of Washington pays a higher rate to its markets in the industrial East than lumber from British Columbia does to the markets of central Canada. Motor cars are transported more cheaply from Windsor to the Prairie provinces than they are from Detroit to corrseponding district in the United States."

The freight rate structure and much else in the Canadian transportation picture may require revision. But let's not pretend it's worse than it is.—Financial Post.

JEWELL-BREASTED DOVE was the imaginative name given this species by John James Audubon, American naturalist and fond painter of birds in the first half of the nineteenth century. More scientific ornithologists call it the Passenger Pigeon. Audubon warned that unless conservation measures were taken many species of birds would become extinct. The last Passenger Pigeon died at a great age in the New York zoo in the first decade of this century. Audubon bird prints, such as the one reproduced here, are famous the world over. (Photo from National Audubon Society.)

J. J. Audubon, Friend, Painter of Birds His Work Goes On; Screen Tour For City

The early years of the nineteenth century welcomed thousands of European immigrants to the shores of America, for tales of the riches to be found and made in the New World were flooding both Britain and France. Among these came one John James Audubon, carefree eighteen year old son of a wealthy French merchant and his Creole mistress, who, having proven a failure in his studies in the finest French academies, had been shipped out to try his hand at managing his father's business enterprises in this America.

His complete failure in these ventures ,and the resultant withdrawal of all parental support, would almost certainly have condemned the ordinary man to obscurity in the rugged pioneer days of the early 1800s.

The name Audubon is familiar to the present generation therefore not for any outstanding record of prowess in business—for Audubon was far too preoccupied with his passion for Nature to be the successful businessman his father had hoped. His artistic talent, and his intense love for the abundant wild life of his era combined to establish John James Audubon as one of America's first and greatest naturalists.

As an artist, he was interested chiefly in a scientifically accurate portrayal of the birds and animals of the New World in their natural surrounding; at times, indeed, this driving urge for accuracy resulted in an art form more documentary than pictorial but his volume of bird portrait, "Birds of America" was and is an outstanding achievement, both scientifically and artistically.

Today, however, Audubon's name is spoken by thousands who are not aware that he ever held a brush; for probably his greatest and most lasting claim to

Some mindfulness
A man should surely keep, of any thing
That pleased him once.
Sophocles (496-406 B.C.)

immortality lay in his ardent attempts to warn the people of the New World that they were destroying a natural heritage that could never be replaced.

He looked with horror at the wanton slaying of the bison, the passenger pigeon, the egret, the eider duck, and his was the first voice raised to prophesy the annihilation of these species with the resultant far-reaching disturbances in the balance of nature. His warnings went unheeded—at least, in time to prevent the disappearance of several of these species of bird and animal life, and it was only by the growth of this spirit to conservation that other species were saved from extinction.

By far the most active of the many groups formed to combat this capricious destruction of wild life was organized by a pupil of John James Audubon, G. B. Grinnell, who, in 1886, formed the "Audubon Society"—the members of which were required merely to sign a pledge to "—refrain from killing, wounding, or capturing any wild bird not used for food", and "—not to rob, molest, destroy, or injure the nest or eggs of any wild bird". This movement grew slowly until today the National Audubon Society has a local branch in almost every community in North America.

When the physician told Pausanias, "Sir, you are an old man", Pausanias responded, "That happens because you never were my doctor".
Plutarch (A.D. 46-120)

In Peterborough, a junior branch has recently been organized in the public schools. This year the Society will spend almost $100,000. in establishing and supervising sanctuaries, educating children of school age, and promoting a more general understanding of the wisdom of planned program of conservation.

Perhaps the most effective methods of instilling the love of nature in the hearts of young and old is an undertaking known as the "Audubon Screen Tours". Under this plan, Peterborough will be visited during the coming fall and winter by some of the most well-known naturalists of the North America, bringing with them motion pictures of rare interest to both outdoor and armchair naturalists. Among these scientists will be Dr. O. S. Pettingill, of Carleton College Minnesota, with an illustrated lecture on "Wilderness Mischief"; William Ferguson, author of the syndicated newspaper feature on natural lore "This Curious World"; Bert Harwell, a permanent staff member of the Audubon Society, and former Park Naturalist at Yosemite, with a movie travelogue on the natural history of "Canada West"; in all, five "Screen Tours" throughout the season should make Peterburians delightfully conscious of the power behind the name of John James Audubon.

Gist of Idea Becomes Core of Reality; Sadlier of Summer Theatre Interviewed

By A. J. THOMAS

Such a goings-on there was the other day when I ventured into Queen Mary School's auditorium! School, did I say? Not at all! No school, certainly none in Peterborough had ever before seemed less like a school.

Hammers were banging, scene painters were sloshing brushes, a formidable Indian was teetering on a ladder high in the flies (flies are the things which circumscribe, make earthy and scenic, the ceiling of a stage), electrical gadgets and spotlights were spattering the place, and a dozen young men nad women with zealot's intensity of eye, individualist's vagaries of costume and the purposeful energy of people who know what they are doing, why they are doing, it, and who want to do it, were bounding around like zanies in orderly confusion.

The reason I was there was to seek out Mr. Michael Sadlier, the Primum Mobile (as medieval philosphers call it, the First Mover) in Peterborough's Summer Theatre. And the reason for all the activity was that a good school stage in a new and excellent school auditorium was being transformed into a professional, theatrical stage, and the stage was being made ready for the first performance of the first play of the season. Already the backdrop was a recognizable and interest-piquing Kingston.

This University city is the setting of Fortune My Foe, Robertson's Davies' first full-length play whose Peterborough premier is Saturday evening, the opening of the eleven-week season of Peterborough's Summer Theatre. It is a large occasion for Peterborough, for the Summer Theatre, for Mr. Davies the playwright who is also directing his own play, and for Michael Sadlier, the managing-director of the Peterborough Summer Theatre, who is keenly watching the audience-response to this Peterborough venture. And venture it is, as Mr. Sadlier explained when I found him among the hammerings, the scene-makers and the box-office phone-ringing.

He was, not unexpectedly, with Graham Ferguson, business manager and artistic correlator of the professional theatrical venture into Peterborough. I shall say nothing about Mr. Ferguson at this time, except that he exuded confidence and calm, looked like an enthusiast and also a man who knew his business, and is a Canadian to the core. He is a Montrealer, and has studied aesthetics and drama in the U. S. He has come to Peterborough from New York.

Michael Sadlier is a Canadian citizen, but Irish by birth, which may be considered a vital statistic in his favour. He was born in the village of Navan, County Meath, very near Dublin, he told me when we reached the confidential calm of two seats in the empty auditorium, in front of which Kingston yawned. (There seemed to be no other place in the building for an interview which would afford sufficient, and cool quiet. Cool, because the auditorium, thanks to the foresight of the Board of Education, is air-conditioned.)

How did an Irishman from near Dublin happen to be a Canadian, and now in Peterborough, Ontario? It was a long story, but Mr. Sadlier shortened it modestly. His modesty is one of his attributes. When war broke out, he was too young to join one of the services. He did join up, in 1943, and then it was the R.C.A.F. By that time he had had an unusually important theatrical career, but when he joined the R.C.A.F. it was as an ordinary A/C 2, and not as a professional entertainer for troops.

He became devoted to the theatre when he was at school in England, where so many Irish gentlemen send their sons. It was not school theatricals, but the London stage which took his heart.

On leaving school he played juvenile stage roles in London, and later took movie parts—for instance, in Adventures of Tartar, in which Robert Donat took the lead, and Yellow Canary, which starred Anna Neagle and Robert Greene. Sadlier considers movies a "pleasant way of making a living" and comments that no great artistic concentration is required. He believes that films could be strong mediums of expression and entertainment, but his heart is with the stage.

He went to the States in 1942 and shortly afterwards joined the R.C.A.F.

After the war he wrote freelance in Montreal, directed a play for McGill University, and then went to New York. He did Summer Theatre work in Ithaca, the seat of Cornell University, and the next winter played in New York in Wilde's Lady Windermere's Fan, in which Cornelia Otis Skinner took the title role, and Bramwell Fletcher was cast as Lord Darlington. He acted for two seasons in this play. I saw this production in New York and remember well his playing in it, but little thought to be meeting him off and on stage in Peterborough.

If I seem to be wandering away from Michael Sadlier the person, it is because I do not consider it worth while to say what he looks like and how he thinks. The reason is this: Everybody can go to the plays for a very modest sum and see him there. Secondly, no person has ever come into Peterborough and made himself so widely and favourably known in so short a time as Mr. Sadlier. He has met hundreds of people, spoken to three score meetings and clubs, and better familiarized himself with the temperament and folk of Peterborough since April than most comers have ever done. Perhaps it is a good job of public relations, but basically, I feel, it is because Mr. Sadlier is a charming person and devoted to good theatre in Canada and Peterborough.

Why did he come to Peterborough? Here is the answer which Sadlier gave to that question. After a brief visit to the American West Coast (which in actor terminology means Hollywood), and after his becoming a Canadian, he felt that Canada was the place to live and was ripe for real theatre. So he started looking about him in Canada, particularly in the east.

He visited dozens of cities, including Peterborough. Here he found a rapidly growing interest in theatre due to the work of the Peterborough Little Theatre. He also found in the Queen Mary Auditorium an ideal intimate auditorium. This was the genesis of the Peterborough Summer Theatre.

Late last Spring Mr. Sadlier received a tempting offer from London (England) to play the juvenile lead in "Harvey," with Sid Fields. Harvey has been one of the biggest London hits in years, but because he believed in the value of theatre in Canada, and the possibilities of the Peterborough Summer Theatre, already planned, Mr. Sadlier turned down the offer.

The company he has formed here is out of the best Canadian talent he has encountered, augmented by American and English actors.

Mr. Sadlier conceives this summer venture to be but a beginning. He hopes to continue it next summer, and to make the Summer Theatre here a nucleus for legitimate, all-season live theatre in Canada.

The purpose this summer is to prove to Peterborough and its tourists that the theatre is not only worthwhile but exceedingly lively entertainment. The plays chosen for the season are latest Broadway and London hits, even though old farces may be cheaper to produce because of cheaper royalties. It is fitting that the first play should be Canadian, on a Canadian theme, and by Peterborough's own playwright.

Although the Company is cutting corners wherever possible, (since the proceeds are to go to our two hospitals), they are not stinting on the production. The staging of Fortune, My Foe, the first play, may cost as much as $500.

Mr. Sadlier remarked with a smile about the offer he had received to play the juvenile lead in Harvey: "I trust that the Peterborough Summer Theatre will be, in its own way, equally successful." We hope so. It should be; it deserves to be.

MICHAEL SADLIER, actor-manager, who is associated with Graham Ferguson and Canadian, British and American actors in the Peterborough Summer Theatre's presentation of eleven weeks of stage plays in the Queen Mary auditorium.

Little Lake; A Quiet Page Of Peterborough's History

By C. H. IRESON

Of the quotations of epitaphs there is no end, and their name is legion. In these modern days they have almost fallen into disuse, but if one walks through the churchyards and cemeteries in the Old Country one can generally see an epitaph which is worth noting.

They are of every type — some amusing, if one may use the term in such a connection—many pathetic, and some unduly sycophantic.

But, turning from the general to the particular and from far-off fields to our own cemetery, a tour through our own beautiful "God's Acre"—Little Lake Cemetery (now nearly 100 years old)—discloses some interesting epitaphs and memorials.

Perhaps the best known to the general public is that over the grave of the strong man, Daniel MacDonald, which tells its own story:

"In memory of Daniel MacDonald, died October 27, 1871, aged 33 years.
"'Ye weak, beware! Here lies the strong,
The victim of his strength;
He lifted sixteen hundred pounds,
Now here he lies at length."

There seems to be some doubt as to the locale and exact knowledge of this fatal display of strength, but there is no doubt that MacDonald, by means of some harness on his body, lifted clear of the ground an object weighing 1,600 pounds, and in so doing burst a blood vessel and died.

If it is true that the evil that men do lives after them, and that the good is oft interred with their bones, it is only fair that the merits of the departed should be written in stone to form an enduring monument of their virtues and the services rendered by them to the community.

Here in Little Lake Cemetery we find many testimonials to the public services rendered by various citizens of the past. These form an epitome of and commentary on the civic life of the community in days gone by.

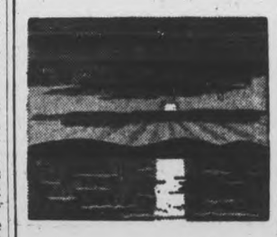
Let us consider some of these. Starting at the southern end, we come to one erected in memory of James Robert Stratton, 1859-1916, and inscribed thereon this record: "For 22 years he represented West Peterborough in Ontario and Dominion Parliaments."

Not very far away there is a monument "'In memory of William G. Conger, MPP for the county of Peterborough, who during his lifetime filled the office of sheriff of the county, warden of the County Council and mayor of the town of Peterborough. This monument is erected by public subscriptions in memory of his continued and disinterested efforts to advance the interests of the town of Peterborough."

Passing on we come to James Hall, who filled many public offices. He was MP for the combined counties of Peterborough and Victoria, 1849-1851; sheriff of the same counties, 1856-1863; sheriff of the county of Peterborough, 1863-1872; MP for the east riding, 1872-1878; mayor of Peterborough, 1852-1855, and first president of the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

We find a monument to another prominent citizen in James Stephenson, 1829-1910: "For ten terms mayor of Peterborough; for nine years member of Parliament."

In another sphere of action was Capt. Donald Andrew Frazer, "who served his country with distinction as an officer of the 42nd Regiment in many of the actions of the Peninsular War and at Waterloo, and also acted for many years as police magistrate for the county of Peterborough, beloved and respected by all who knew him."



There is a striking tribute to work well done on a monument: "Erected as a tribute of respect in the memory of John McNabb, surgeon, 1871. He was constant and unremitting in all acts of benevolence and charity, at all times ready, and by his skill in his profession he rendered to the poor and needy his gratuitous services."

There are some of the memorials to men prominent in local civic life, but there are others of wider interest.

Probably unique is a memorial to John A. Sherlock, whose cenotaph lies near the banks of the Otonabee River: "In memory of John A. Sherlock, Canadian voyageur, one of those who volunteered for prolonged service under Lord Wolseley. He died at Karber on the Nile in the Soudan, March 26, 1885, aged 26 years and four months. There is not a name, there is not a stone, and only the wind from the desert makes moan, but he'll never be forgotten, no never."

THE OLD GUIDE AND TRAPPER IS COMING TO TOWN!

Elmer Putt is not his real name. But sure as guns, he lives and breathes. He's a lot of characters ladled from a melting pot of warm, friendly rural folk and moulded as one. And he belongs to Peterborough district.

Chas. (Chic.) Sales, Mark Twain, Will Rogers, James Whitcomb Riley and hundreds of other chaps have drawn their characters from the rural sections of America. The quiet humour that seems to come clear from the grass roots has for years amused millions.

We know and enjoy the humour of a lot of these 'Elmer's' and the Old Guide and Trapper is just as human as we can make him.

Petes Beat Hamilton, 25-12 In Rugged Lacrosse Game

The last-place Petes swept to a convincing 25-12 OLA senior "A" victory over the second-place Hamilton Tigers here last night before 2,000 fans in Miller Bowl. The homesters were full value for their win over the 1948 Dominion champions, playing to a 3-3 tie in the first quarter, leading 6-4 at the half, finishing the third 15-8 ahead and outscoring the Tigers 10-4 in the fourth. It was a fine, fast fray, rugged all the way and marked by four fist fights. Lou Vitarelli and Elmer Lee drew match penalties for fighting in the first quarter. Three fights broke out in the fourth, with Horton and Teather first drawing majors, then Howse and Jamieson, and finally McNulty and Welch. Of the 21 penalties handed out, the Petes were guilty 12 times. The game didn't start till 20 minutes past nine and the Tigers will be fined $25.00.

Led The Way

Dootch Vitarelli led the scoring for the Petes with four goals and three assists. Right on his heels were Leo Teatero with five and one, and Bob Thorpe with four and two. Jack Foote and Jim McNulty were each in on five goals, Em Creigton in on four, Arn Dugan and Les Digby three each, and Rowan Chute and Jack Howse two apiece. Magee aided on a pair. Masters led the Tigers with five goals and one assist, as Dorney had three and one, McDonald three goals, Edmonds one and Jamieson an assist.

The Petes, bolstered by Thorpe and Chute, and with Whitey Frick again outstanding in the net, hustled all the way. They made the Mann Cup holders look quite ordinary as they went on the attack early and kept up the pressure, finishing stronger than their husky opponents. The whole team clicked well and gave the fans a real game. The Tigers were aggressive at times but found the Creighton crew plenty rough checking and fighting from start to finish.

The teams:

Hamilton: Goal, Gair; defence, Lee and Masters; centre, Edmonds; wings, Dorney and Groom; rover, McDonald; alternates, Doyle, Davidson, Granger, Thomas, Welch, Teather and Jamieson.

Hits 7th Homer To Help Bisons Down Bears 8-2

By The Associated Press.

George Byam, one of the vital cogs of Buffalo's surprising International League Bisons, gets plenty of mileage from his base hits.

The 28-year-old first baseman banging away at a .307 gait, belted a grand-slam homer Friday night to help the league-leading Bisons down Newark Bears 8-2.

It was Byam's seventh homer of the season.

Rochester's Red Wings knocked Jersey City Giants into a virtual third-place with Toronto Maple Leafs, beating the Giants 6-2. The Leafs divided a doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs, winning the opener 6-2, and dropping the nightcap 6-3.

Erv Dusak, converted infielder-outfielder, held the Giants to four hits to post his fourth triumph.

The big blow for Rochester was Don Richmond's three-run homer off Red Hardy.

Nick Strincevich and Jocko Thompson stopped the Chiefs on nine hits in the opener at Toronto while the Leafs collected 11 off Ken Burkhart and Mike Schultz.

Hank Perkowski, towering Syracuse lefthander, halted the Leafs on seven hits in the nightcap. Al Rubeling salted it away for Perkowski with a three-run, seventh-inning home run. Ed Sanicki of Toronto slammed his 19th homer of the season in the bottom of the seventh with bases empty.

The scheduled game between Baltimore Orioles and Montreal Royals was postponed because of rain.

Hughes Take Win

J. K. Hughes beat Firemen 14-2 last night in a Civic Softball League encounter. They scored a run each in the first and third, two in the second, three in the fourth and seven in a wild and woolly sixth stanza. The losers tallied one each in the first and fourth. Teams:

Firemen: Close, Wagar, Allen, Pruner, Shine, Bartley, McColl, Cain, Collins, Gimblett, Vinette.

Hughes: Dyer, Earle, Anderson, Dummitt, Stanley, Minors, Bannon, Panter, Reid.

With the passing of Martin Chenhall in Toronto on Friday, the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club and the Curling Club lost an honored and highly respected member.

Although the late Mr. Chenhall was not actively engaged in these two sports for the last couple of years, owing to ill health, he nevertheless kept up his interest.

In lawn bowling, he was a member down on the old greens at Brock St. and was considered one of the old guard. Often he would spend hours on the green, just as a hobby, helping to keep them in condition.

In curling circles he was well known all over the province, having many times represented our club on District and Tankon rinks. Just two years ago the Curling Club honored him with a life membership. He used to drop in and chat with the boys on No. 8. He will be greatly missed.

We join with the members of these two clubs in extending sympathy to the immediate members of his family.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Gertrude (Gorgeous Gussie) Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., the darling of the Wimbledon tennis championships, bowed out of the women's singles event Friday in the first week's greatest upset.

Her red-ribboned pigtails bobbing, the fourth-seeded Miss Moran went down to Gem Hoahing, a tiny Chinese ballet dancer from Hong Kong, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3, in the third round.

Gussie's elimination left some sad faces among the reporters and fans who have found her the greatest tennis personality since Suzanne Lenglen of France 25 years ago. With her beauty and the lace-trimmed panties under her brief tennis skirt she brought a spice to Wimbledon that had been lacking in the post-war years of dominance by other American women, who just came and conquered with routine perfection.

Mickey Owen, former Brooklyn Dodger whose five-year suspension was lifted by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler a short time ago, rejoined the club tonight at Pittsburgh. Owen, who admitted he is 33 years old—not the 32 carried in the official record books—said he is "ready to play."

There was no indication how soon Owen might get into the lineup. The Dodgers are well fortified in the catching department with Roy Campanella and Bruce Edwards.

At St. Louis, pitcher Fred Martin Friday became the second league-jumper to rejoin St. Louis Cardinals. Owner Fred Saigh signed Martin for a reported $7,500, which is what he was making when he skipped to the Mexican League in 1946.

The first jumper to rejoin his mates here was Lou Klein, a utility infielder who already has played in several games.

At Ottawa, Wilf Tremblay, speedy Ottawa Rough Riders halfback, Friday was named first winner of the Gil O. Julien Memorial Trophy, to be awarded annually to the outstanding French-Canadian athlete in Ontario and Western Quebec.

The trophy is awarded by Le Droit, Ottawa's French language newspaper, to perpetuate the memory of the late Professor Gilbert-Ovilla Julien, sports editor of Le Droit for 24 years.

Deadline for entries in the intermediate group of the Ontario Rugby Football Union is July 15, William A. Fry, group secretary-treasurer, announced last night at Toronto. New affiliations will not be accepted after that date.

Veteran Luke Appling will play daytime baseball only for the American League's Chicago White Sox, manager Jack Onslow Friday disclosed the plan at Philadelphia to newspaper men travelling with the Chicago club. Appling, Onslow said, will play no more night baseball.

The 40-year-old shortstop, in 20 years as a White Sox infielder, has appeared in 2,289 games.

Dutch Harbor Friday night scored a neck victory in the North Dakota one-mile trot, feature of the Grand Circuit program at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, NY. Driven hard by Veteran Henry Thomas, Dutch Harbor gave up an early lead but came on again to defeat Scrantonian. Dutch Harbor was heavily backed, paying $3.90, $3.30 and $3.10. The time was 2.06.

Batting—Ted Williams, Red Sox, slammed out two homers, a single scored four runs and batted in seven to lead the Red Sox to a 21-2 slaughter of St. Louis Browns.

Pitching — Randy Gumpert, White Sox, won a hurling duel from Carl Scheib, pitching an eight-hitter as the White Sox shaded the Athletics 2-1.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Next week sees the windup of the school year and lo, a great throng will be loosed upon a helpless public! Ah, well, it's great stuff for the young gaffers, facing a vacation of two months. Have fun, girls and boys, it won't be long till you're laboring for a living and settling for two weeks off in 52. Many youngsters will be able to devote more time to sports in the city and district, and where's the harm in that? Many do during the school term but their attention necessarily is divided. After all, one must do a spot of studying now and then. But teachers and pupils alike can relax shortly now until autumn.

Fine Lesson For Kids

This past season saw the rural and urban schools of the county stage an interesting softball tourney for the first time, sponsored by the County Teachers Institute. Rural schools in each township played off and the winners had sudden-death games. Cold Springs won this section. The urban schools of Havelock, Norwood and Lakefield tangled and Lakefield was the winner. The finals saw Lakefield defeat Cold Springs 9-8. Township winners previously were Cold Springs, Westwood, Cordova Mines, Warsaw, Queen Elizabeth, Apsley, Young's Point and the Doure victor. K. O. Birkin, inspector of public schools of Peterborough East, and L. L. McColl, chairman of the committee, helped considerably.

* * * * * *

It is hoped that this sort of competition is continued each year. School too often becomes a daily grind with little fun, even though it is very necessary. Team play also teaches girls and boys to work together as a group, recognizing achievements and weaknesses of the individual, as players strive to aid each other in a common cause. Good sportsmanship is promoted as one learns how to win and lose gracefully. It leaves a lasting impression on youngsters, and in later life this experience should make for greater interest in school and community life. Besides all that, sports mean fun, and fun is good for everyone.

Lasses ran off a twin bill at the Bowl d'Ashburnham last warm e'en, with Lindsay taking Woollens (tch, tch, in this weather!) by an 11-4 count, and Marines winning 11-2 'gainst Lock Co. colleens. Both losing squads will come along gradually but it takes time, and vacations cut in on lineups along about this time. Marines are starting to roll lately. The standing is in tonight, as compiled by Prexy Bill Bennett, showing Westclox atop the heap with Ashby's close behind and then Lindsay and the Marines. C.G.E. are in the hunt yet, too. Another pair of games at the Bowl on Monday night.

A Dandy One To Take

Well, sir—and you, madam, too—that was a mighty nice senior "A" lacrosse game to win. The Petes don't pick their spots, they'd just as soon beat the Mann Cup champs 25-12, as the lowly St. Kitts or Weston teams. They did it in most convincing manner before a full house at Miller Bowl last p.m. No nonsense at all—they started hustling from the start and the mighty Tigers were back on their heels trying to catch up the rest of the route. Rough? Sure it was. Four fights, plenty of slashing and roughing, two match penalties, and a total of 23 penalties handed out during the duel. Crowd loved it. The Petes are getting used to this "A" calibre of play now, and they'll be tough onions for the best of 'em from here on in.

* * * * * *

Bob Thorpe already is a big help, being in on six goals last eve. as was Leo Teatero. Dootch Vitarelli led with four tallies and three aids. Jim McNulty and Jack Foote also were potent on the attack, and the whole team played swell as Whitey Frick again shone in front of his twine tepee. We saw Scotty Black and his party from Cobourg there, as well as a bunch from Campbellford. No doubt, Lindsay, Norwood, Lakefield and other spots were represented, and they tell us that USA tourists are regular customers now. No wonder, as the Petes are turning in scrappy games here against strong opposition, and they're starting to win their share. Good stuff.

Lindsay earned their win over Woollens, playing hurry-up ball, while the young Woollens didn't hustle too much, though holidays had cut in on their lineup some. F. Reynolds went the route for Lindsay in fair style and had good backing. M. Chase, P. Graham, S. Harris and C. Ferguson all went good in the field. None of the winners got more than two hits, but M. Owens hit a triple and single. J. Walling and S. Harries each had two for the losers in a fair fray before a medium crowd. Teams:

Halifax To See Many Yachts Vie For Honors

HALIFAX, June 25 — (CP) — Halifax, city of ships will be the yachting capital of the North Atlantic this summer.

Eight yacht races are headlining the aquatic end of the port's opera - to - circuses bicentenary party and they have attracted entries from many Canadian and United States squadrons.

From 35 to 40 sleek yawls and snipes swing bowsprits into the North Atlantic July 23 for the annual marblehead, mass. Halifax racing classic, first of the season. The 366-mile race is jointly sponsored by Boston Yacht Club and Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron.

The Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron's regatta from July 27-30 is expected to attract ships from Canadian point as far west as Victoria. During this period. The International Bluenose class races also will be run, featured by an all-women's competition.

The rugged coast of seafaring Nova Scotia and the waters of this city's bordering North West Arm will provide a setting for international races late in July.

At stake will be the Coronation, Prince of Wales, Wenonah and Marquis of Lorne-H. R. Silver Cups, to be fought for in the outer reaches of Halifax harbor. In the Arm, snipe races are scheduled.

Finish line of the Marblehead-Halifax classic alternates between the two point. This year, it will be the breakwater of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron near the southern tip of the city's Point Pleasant Park.

It's five o'clock, Tuesday, December 30, 1947.
The people of Canon City, Colorado, are preparing for another quiet winter evening. Snow is just beginning to fall. Dusk almost hides the grim silhouette of the State Penitentiary on the edge of town.
Suddenly it happens!
A siren screams—then another—and another—shattering the air itself with their terrifying wail!
Twelve desperate convicts—murderers, kidnappers—armed with crude shotguns, clubs and knives have battered their blood-red way to freedom in the most spectacular jailbreak of our time!
Dragging as hostages four brutally beaten guards, they force their frenzied way into homes at gun point.
Thus began in Canon City a three day reign of terror that startled the nation with screaming headlines from coast-to-coast . . . a reign of terror broken only when the town fought back!

Cardinals Defeat Braves 8-4 Assume League Leadership

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The St. Louis Cardinals, by the grace of baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, today occupy first place in the National League.

The high-flying Redbirds, sparked by the addition of recently reinstated Lou Klein, defeated the Boston Braves 8-4, Friday night to wrest first place from Brooklyn Dodgers.

The victory, coupled with Pittsburgh's 4-2 triumph over Brooklyn, enabled the Cardinals to take a half game lead over the Dodgers. The Brooks had held the lead for 18 days.

Two home runs by Klein, who along with other Mexican League jumpers, had his suspension lifted by Chandler early this month, played a prominent role in the Cardinal victory.

Lou smashed his first in the second inning to put his team ahead 3-1. After Boston had taken a 4-3 advantage, Klein came through with his second round-tripper to tie the score 4-4, and pave the way for the defeat of Braves' rookie Johnny Antonelli.

Since Klein has taken over for the ailing Marty Marion at shortstop, the Cards have won seven and lost two.

Enough For Victory

Ralph Kiner's first-inning home run with two mates aboard —his 16th of the season—was enough to give the Pirates their victory over Brooklyn. Kiner's out of sight blow and his eighth inning single were the only hits made by Pittsburgh.

Rex Barney, who failed to survive the first inning, gave up two walks before serving the "gopher" pitch to Kiner. Barney walked the next two men and uncorked a wild pitch before he was replaced by Jack Banta. Another wild pitch gave Pittsburgh its fourth run.

The powerful Boston Red Sox slugged St. Louis hurlers Joe Ostrowski, Al Papai and Ray Shore for 25 hits to bury the Browns under a 21-2 score. Ted Williams led the merciless attack with his 18th and 19th homers, scored four runs and drove in seven to boost his 62-game total to 77.

Billy Goodman collected five hits and Dom DiMaggio four. Everybody in the line-up hit safely, and everyone with the exception of catcher Birdie Tebbetts scored at least once. Ellis Kinder had no trouble at all registering his seventh victory with a five-hitter.

New York Yankees increased their American League lead over the runner-up Philadelphia Athletics to 5½ games, defeating Detroit Tigers, 5-4, while the A's bowed to Chicago White Sox 2-2.

Clutch hitting by Yogi Berra and Tommy Henrich and fine relief pitching by southpaw Joe Page won for the Yankees. Berra drove in his team's first four runs with a double and home run. Henrich's seventh-inning single drove in Charley Keller from second with the tie-breaking run.

Held Scoreless

Page relieved Allie Reynolds in the seventh after Vic Wertz' two-run single tied the score at 4-4, and held the Tigers scoreless the rest of the way. Stubby Overmire, third of four Detroit pitchers, was the loser.

Randy Gumpert bested Carl Scheib in a hurling duel to gain his second victory over the A's. Chicago's two tallies were made in the seventh on a double by Charley Kress, a single by Cass Michaels, a walk, error and infield out. It was Gumpert's sixth win and Scheib's sixth loss.

Bob Feller won his third straight and his fourth of the season pitching Cleveland Indians to an 8-2 victory over Washington Senators. He has lost six.

Hank Sauer's eighth four bagger—his fourth since he joined Chicago—helped the Cubs defeat New York Giants 6-2.

The scheduled night game between Philadelphia Phils and the Reds in Cincinnati was postponed by rain.

Rochon To Meet Jack Spencer In Final Round

TORONTO, June 25 (CP) — Henri Rochon today tangles with fellow-Montrealer, Jack Spencer, for the Senior Men's Singles title of the Ontario Tennis Championships.

Rochon Friday defeated fifth-seeded Jim Duff, also of Montreal 6-0, 6-1, 6-3, to gain his playoff spot.

Spencer was not seeded in this tournament and has tallied a couple of impressive upsets on his way to the finals. He downed third-seeded Dave Dyment of Toronto Thursday and Friday he moved into the finals with a 6-3, 6-2, 6-3 win over second-seeded J. J. Desjardins of Montreal.

All senior finals are scheduled to be decided today and it is a question whether Pat Macken of Montreal will be up to her usual game. She is favored in women's singles and doubles play, but collapsed from the heat and exhaustion Friday night.

However, she is considered a sure starter. She was also favored in the mixed doubles Friday with J. J. Desjardins, but they lost a semi-final match by default when Miss Macken collapsed.

She is scheduled to meet Elaine Fildes of Montreal in the singles event today. The two combine later in the doubles to meet the Toronto pair of Mrs. Louise Brown and Dorothy Hurst.

Miss Fildes will be the busiest player on the courts as she is still eligible in the mixed doubles, partnered by Jim Duff, as well as the two women's events.

After his singles match, Rochon will combine with George Robinson of Montreal in the men's doubles as top-seeded pair. Friday they downed Jack Hopkins and Bruce Logie of Toronto, seeded fourth 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. Today they meet Torontonians Beau Summers and Mel Jones, seeded second.

Winners of junior events Friday:

Junior Men's Singles—Don Fontaina, Toronto.

Junior Women's Singles—Barbara Stephenson, Toronto.

Junior Men's Singles—Jim Bentley, and Pete Stewart, Toronto.

Junior Women's Doubles—Barbara Stephenson and Joan Dench, Toronto.

(Dutch) Harrison took time out for a refreshing gulp of ice water after firing his second straight sub-par round to take a four-stroke lead at the half-way mark in the Canadian Open at the Toronto St. George Golf Club. The Little Rock, Ark., professional shot a 66-67—133 for the first 36 holes.

Harrison Has Title In Grasp

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ST. GEORGE'S GOLF CLUB, Toronto, June 25 (CP) —This could be the day that the Canadian Open Golf Chemionship goes to Little Rock, Ark.

Big Dutch Harrison, who towers six feet four inches and has become "the Arkansas Hill Billy" to the Canadian galleries, felt sure he could nurse his three-stroke lead into his first Canadian title. This is Dutch's fifth try. Harrison had a 54-hole score of 204, made up of three par-breaking rounds.

Behind him, with 207 and another three sub-par rounds, came Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va. Metz' third successive 69 Friday opened up the possibility that he would finish as runner-up for the second time in three years.

Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield hung grimly on to the low-Canadian spot. His one under par 71 Friday left him with 210 for 54 holes, three strokes better than Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro. Gray shot a 69, his best round.

Low amateur was Nick Weslock of Detroit and formerly of Toronto. Weslock's rounds of 76-71-72 gave him a total of 219, three strokes ahead of Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, former Canadian junior champion.

John M. Finlay Dies In Brandon

Funeral rites for John McLennan Finlay, 75, were held May 28 at Tilston, Alberta. Mr. Finlay died in Brandon General Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Finlay was well-known in this district, having been born at Centreton. He went to the West in 1906 with his family, to farm at Waskada, Alta. In 1913 he moved to a farm south of Tilston and stayed there until he retired in 1942. At that time he moved into the town.

Mr. Finlay was prominent in Tilston circles, serving as a trustee of the Consolidated School district of Tilston, and was for some years choir leader and member of the official board of the United Church.

He is survived by his widow, one son, three daughters, one brother, all in the West, and one sister, Mrs. Fred Clarke, RR 5, Peterborough.

Mr. Finlay made regular trips to this district every two years prior to his death, to visit friends.

Little Lake,

But the unique feature is that there is embedded in the monument a small piece of fossilized wood taken from the vicinity of the place of his death and sent to his relatives here, who had it fixed in the monument or cenotaph. This strange relic from the tropical Soudan has weathered without damage the rigors of many Canadian winters.

Not far away we find a monument of more than local interest. A granite cross marks the last resting place of Isabella Vallancy Crawford. This gifted young woman, in her lifetime comparatively unknown and now almost forgotten, possessed, according to great literary critics, the true genius of poetry. The monument was erected by friends and admirers and has an inscription of simplicity and strength, "Poet by the Gift of God." Could a multitude of words say more?

At the end of our journey, and not far away, rises that landmark so well-known to all visitors to the cemetery, the bronze angel standing with outstretched wings facing the rising Son, erected "In loving memory of John MacDonald, eldest son of the late Lieut.-Col. John MacDonald, died March 27, 1892, aged 45 years."

FORWARD Together...

..to a brighter future for all Canadians!

ONLY BY PULLING TOGETHER can the people of Canada achieve the full, rich rewards that Providence meant to be ours when she gave us this vast, bountiful land.

Only by electing a Government representative of all provinces . . . and of all classes . . . can Canadians hope for peace, progress and security.

The Liberal party is the only one that can give Canada the powerful strength of unity. It led Canada to world-honoured achievements in wartime . . . through unity. It has led Canada through four years of postwar prosperity . . . through unity.

The C.C.F. calls itself a "Canadian" party, yet in the last election it failed to elect a single member from Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island or Alberta. Even its own leaders admit that the C.C.F. cannot hope to win this election.

Mr. Drew, in his desperate lust for personal power, has betrayed loyal Conservative supporters in Ontario and other provinces by accepting the support of extreme Quebec sectionalists. His so-called "P-C" candidates in Quebec include men who fly a flag that bears no Union Jack . . . men who tried to keep Canada from Britain's side during the war . . . men who have sworn to withdraw Canada from the Atlantic Security Pact . . . end even from the British Commonwealth of Nations!

A Drew government tied to such fanatic sectionalism would rip Canada asunder over foreign policy, national defence, inter-provincial relations and other vital issues.

Today, Canada stands at the gateway to a shining future. United and strong, Canadians can go forward to a higher standard of living than ever before. Torn by civil disunity, we could miss our own golden opportunity and literally "starve in the midst of plenty".

Vote LIBERAL to keep Canada united and strong. Vote LIBERAL to be sure of continued peace, progress and prosperity.

Evil That Jesus Fought Still Abroad In World

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

If one thinks of the earthly life of Jesus as lived in its Palestinian homeland, the Resurrection was its triumphant climax. It was not only the victory over death, but also the victory over the enemies who had sought to destroy Him. It was the triumph of love and goodness over hate and evil. It was the vindication of all that the Master had said, and of all that He had claimed to be. In that sense it was a glorious triumph and climax.

But for the world at large into which Jesus had come—"For this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world" (John 18: 37)—it was not a climax, but a beginning.

It was now that He told His disciples to go forth into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. In obedience to that great commission, 20 centuries have seen the growth of Christianity. But even greater than the outward power of churches and organizations is the mystic fellowship of all believers, who have taken to themselves the Christian name, and who have sought to live according to the teachings and example of the Master.

The evil that Jesus fought, and that crucified Him, is still abroad in the world, seeking to destroy His teaching, setting up other standards, of selfishness, and worldly power, and violence, caring nothing for justice, and mercy, and right. So great is this evil, so apparently overwhelming and successful, as in the violence of war, that it is easy foolishly to underestimate the power of good, the forces of righteousness, and the strength of Christian progress toward what may still be a far-off goal.

But the power and impulse of Christianity are not in the past. Jesus lives, and is still leading on. He lives and leads in every devout soul whose daily life, no matter how lowly or great its place and environment, is attuned to love. He lives and leads in every service for one's fellowmen, many of them no longer bearing the Christian name, but known only where the power and influence of Christianity have penetrated. He lives and leads in the schools and colleges, many of them the direct product of Christian impulse and organization. He lives and leads in the missionaries, many of them in the world's dark places, literally fulfilling His command; but He lives and leads in those whose duty is in narrow places, performing, it may be, tasks of drudgery, or the commonplace business of life, not as men-pleasers, but as unto God.

We sing in our prayer, "Jesus Still Leads On" and that prayer has its answer before it is spoken, for the surest, truest, most hopeful thing in all the world is that Jesus is still leading on. And in a world where there is so much of evil, it is good to know that so many are sincerely and devoutly following in His footsteps.

A Much Remembered Event

After eight days again His disciples were within, and Thomas with them. Then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst and said: Peace be unto you.—St. John 20, 26. . . . . .

A very old man is dictating this Gospel to a younger. He cannot omit this experience, so much depends upon it. The date is unforgettable. "After eight days." It is the first Snuday after the resurrection of the Lord Jesus from the dead! the first Sunday after Easter. During those eight days they have had time to think. In these rushing days do you take time to think? The outstanding thought in the minds of the Apostles is: "The Lord is risen indeed." They meet again on the eighth day, hoping that He may appear again.

THOMAS WITH THEM. They are truly a brotherhood. They cannot leave him out of the fellowship. Thomas represents the man who will not allow his heart-emotions to take the place of his mind. He represents multitudes of men and women who have had difficulties about the resurrection and must be convinced as to its truth. They desire to be honest in their thinking. They need our sympathy and prayers.

AFTER EIGHT DAYS. It is the weekly remembrance of the Lord's resurrection. Why do you keep Sunday? The Apostles met together every first day of the week to keep in remembrance the Lord's rising from the dead. They had no command. But they felt that they were following the mind and will of the risen Lord.

JESUS STOOD IN THE MIDST. "The doors being shut" did not hinder His entrance. He is now in the spirit world. What a profound truth for Christians when they meet together for Divine worship. Is it your first thought to pay your respects to Him when wou enter His House? Do you prepare your heart to worship Him and not "the preacher"? What do you do to deepen the spiritual atmosphere of your Church so that a stranger dropping in will notice the atmosphere and give thanks to God; that God is truly in this place where two or three are gathered together in His Name.

JESUS SAID UNTO THEM: PEACE BE UNTO YOU. What a thrilling thought for these anxious days. "My peace give I unto you, saith the Lord." Multitudes have realized the peace of God which passeth all understanding, and it is your privilege to make the same discovery.

When your minister stands to deliver his message through his human personality your mind will be filled with charity for his shortcomings. The Divine message is given to you through earthen vessels. The preacher is praying: "Lord, I am not worthy." Is it your prayer that the Lord's Word does not return unto Him void? You will attend Divine worship regularly because you have a tryst with God. You will understand something of the aspiration of the psalmist: "My soul is athirst for God. When shall I come to appear in the Presence of God."

THOMAS WITH THEM. Like the Apostles you will strive to bring your friend or neighbor with you that he also may discover His Presence

THE LORD SAITH: MY PRESENCE SHALL GO WITH THEE AND I WILL GIVE THEE REST.

THY FACE, LORD, WILL I SEEK.

Friges Play Up In Hot Spell; Repair Men Busy

Humans and animals aren't alone in their suffering as a result of the heat. Refrigerators are taking a beating, too. During the past two weeks Peterborough service men have been swamped with calls from impatient householders and frustrated commercial users.

One local outfit has four men on service all the time, and they can't keep up with the demand. The manager of this establishment says that the number of calls coming in is "really awful. We're swamped with calls". Peak day during the recent burst of heat saw more than 50 calls come in during business hours. The average is from 20 to 30 calls per day.

Many householders, when they find they cannot get immediate service from any one firm, 'phone them all and leave their name. Thus there are a few cancellations. Impatient women who seem to think that theirs is the only machine that needs attention are the curse of the trade.

Supply of new machines is still very slim, but a slight ray of hope for those who are fortunate enough to own a machine, regardless of type or description, lies in the information that parts are becoming much more plentiful. Two years ago there were no machines and no parts to speak of, but local firms feel now that they can service practically any make of machine.

YW Glee Club Makes Debut

The Y.W.C.A. Mixed Glee Club made its debut Friday evening and was acclaimed by an audience of 60. This first concert was something of a venture for the newly formed group which, after presenting such excellent musical entertainment Friday, will no doubt be welcomed in the fall when more concerts and operettas are to be presented.

As a note on the back of the program stated, the Glee Club was started largely by the persistent work of Bob King, who, with a small group of friends, felt that Peterborough was sadly in need of a secular choir.

"Affiliating ourselves to the Y.W.C.A., we have gathered together a small number of singers who enjoy singing just for the sheer pleasure of raising their voices in song," the program note states.

Director of the singers is Don Landry, who has sung at many concerts and music festivals in the city and surrounding area.

The Friday night program included popular semi-classics and traditional songs, mostly unaccompanied. Dave Graham played Schumann's Traumerei, Fats Waller's contrasting composition Keepin' Out of Mischief Now and Cole Porter's Smoke Gets in Your Eyes.

Soprano soloist was Nicolette Humphrey, who sang Romance by Romberg, Reichardt's When the Roses Bloom and Gershwin's Summertime.

Piano accompanist was Mrs. Hilda Booth.

Examiner Plans To Give Complete Election Returns

Complete election returns coverage for Peterborough West and the dominion will be given to the district by The Exam- and the Dominion will be given to the district by The Exam- the three candidates will be presented over CHEX at 8.35.

Five telephone lines will be operating through the Examiner's number 4641 to keep Peterborough's citizens informed of the latest returns. This service will not be available until 7.45 p.m. because it will not be possible to tabulate enough returns before then to give any significant results. The polls close at 7 p.m.

As results come into The Examiner news room, they will be compiled and posted on bulletin boards in the business office windows.

To give a dominion-wide up-to-the-minute coverage, CHEX will join the Dominion network at 7 p.m. Pete McGillen, former news editor of The Examiner who has handled previous election night broadcasts, will give out bulletins through the evening.

At 10 p.m. there will be the regular news broadcast and news commentary. Another regular newscast will be transmitted at 11 p.m.

The time of Mr. McGillen's bulletins are: 7:45, 8:45, 9:15, 9:30 and a summary of Peterborough West and other ridings at 10:15.

Dew-worms Sell At New High

Dew-worm prices have skyrocketed during the past 10 days along with the mercury, the warm weather driving the worms further down into the damper ground. Pickers for the local retailers of live bait have had difficulty in their picking and have raised their price up to 75 cents a hundred. Therefore the bait sellers have had to raise their prices from $1.00 to $1.25 per hundred. In some cases retailers are asking $1.50. Around the lakes, where the worms are hard to get even under the best of conditions, the dry conditions have caused the price to jump to $2 per hundred.

Frogs, which have been 60 cents a dozen for the past few years, are expected to be increased in price. The local damp places, where pickers have been getting their bait, are dried up. One retailer of bait said that even under wet conditions frogs are becoming harder to find in the Peterborough area.

Minnows, reported the best seller so far this year, vary from 25 cents a dozen to 75 cents a dozen depending upon the size of the minnows. Streams are reported to be in better condition in the last few days making better catches of minnows.

Helgramites, known as the best bass bait, will be in good supply for the opening of the season, selling at 60 cents. Crabs, semi-soft, the soft shelled crabs being hard to get, will be on sale at 40 cents a dozen at most live bait retailers.

One baitman told the Examiner that he is hoping for a long steady rain to draw the worms to the surface. He explained that, although a thunderstorm would be better than no rain, the worms do not come up as well after a thunderstorm.

FLOWER MARKET

Flowers for decoration day dominated the market this morning. Sweet William was assembled in basket and tub quantities a great show of color. Many other varieties of flowers were selling early to serve as remembrance tokens Sunday.

Only Two Cows Show TB Sign

Retesting of the cattle in Peterborough county for signs of TB is making good progress, and with satisfactory results, is the modest progress report by Dr. G. R. Penhall of the health of animals division, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

"Approximately 2,500 cattle have so far been tested, and only two reactors uncovered," That is the nub of the statement.

Recently Dr. H. K. Mitchell of Chatsworth, Ont., accepted a position with the health of animals division with headuarters at Peterborough, and has begun the retest of cattle in Douro and Smith.

"Dr. Mitchell is a graduate of both the OAC and the Ontario Veterinary College. Until recently he was in charge of the Quinte Cattle Breeding Association unit at Belleville. It is expected that additional staff will be available in the immediate future, and it will then be possible to test from 4,000 to 5,000 cattle monthly. These cattle will be qualified for export to the United States for a period of one year. From the time of the test 90 days must first elapse before the cattle may be exported, and individual animals exported must pass a thirty day retest period prior to shipment.

If the percentage of reactors falls below one-half of one per cent in the county, the herd tests will be valid for export for a period of three years without further tests; and the county will then be classified as a modified Accredited area.

Progress to a large extent is co-operation of stock owners, and dependent on the assistance and so far the Veterinarians have reported the response in this connection most gratifying."

ELECTS PRESIDENT

The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, Trinity United Church, was elected president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association Friday afternoon. He succeeds the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church.

Titles Awarded Girl Swimmers

Marilyn McInroy retained her title as the senior girl city swimming champion when she won the cup again at the YWCA Friday. The only person to contest the title-was Betty Merritt.

Star of the inter-public school competition was Carol Ferguson of King George School, who not only won the racing and diving cup for her school, but also won the cup for the highest individual performance of diving. Runners up were Beverly Rawley, second and Doreen Hutchinson, third.

King George School became the 1949 champion with 54 points, Central School was second with 34 and King Edward, third with 23.

Inter school competitions were in breast stroke, back crawl, front crawl, relay and points were also awarded for attendance.

Individual winners from each school were: Central 1 Beverly Rawley, 2 Marlene Parnell, 3 Grace Sargeson.

King Edward—1 Carol Ferguson, 2 Diane Pearce, 3 Marilyn Vint.

King Edward——Doreen Hutchinson.

Winners in the diving competition were: 1 Carol Ferguson King George; 2 Beverley Rawley, Central; 3 Marlene Parnell, Central.

In the City Championship intermediate competition winner was Nancy McNabb and Eleanora Standish was second. Junior winner was Eleanora Standish and Nancy McNabb was second.

Winners of the baby competition for youngsters aged nine and under were Doreen Churchill, first and Carol Howe, second.

At the inter school meet cups were presented by Miss L. Brownscombe, general secretary of the YWCA, Mrs. B. C. Metcalf presented the City cups.

Both events were organized by Mrs. Jessie Powell, swimming instructress at the YWCA, who was assisted by Gord Minty, Miss Littlefield, Mrs. Forbes, Betty Jaquith and Doris Fenner.

SOAKING COUNTS

A good lawn watering once a week does more god than frequent light sprinkling.

Hot Dry Season Limits Flowers

Sunday is Decoration Day, when hundreds of Peterborough families will remember relatives, close friends and those they held in esteem. In addition to the family groups decorating graves in every cemetery in Peterborough, the day will be marked by a parade through the city with a wreath-laying ceremony at the cenotaph and a service at Little Lake cemetery.

Peterborough, Otonabee and Rebekah Lodges will march from Oddfellows Hall, George St. headed by the Salvation Army band, to the war memorial, where a wreath will be placed at 3 p.m. From there the parade will proceed through the city to Little Lake cemetery for a remembrance service there.

Gratton Harris will be chairman and the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, rector of All Saints Anglican Church, will give an address.

Flower Supply Not Large

Preparations for assembling attractive bouquets have already started but this year people are finding it no simple task to find enough flowers for abundant decorations. The recent hot, dry spell has resulted in an acute shortage and already, number of horticulturists have had to refuse people they usually supply every year.

Carnations and roses grown indoors and mostly imported to the city, are about the only flowers which can be bought plentifully.

George W. Downer, 125 Morrow St., who in the past, has sold as many as 200 bouquets in the market square for Decoration Day, but was unable this morning to supply more than 25 or 30 people for Sunday.

Canterbury Bells and Sweet Williams are all he has for Sunday and his story is typical of many other gardeners. Peonies grew too quickly during th hot weather, and are over now. As soon as the delphiniums began to bloom they withered, but there are still some which are not yet ready.

Mrs. Gavin Shearer of Indian River, another gardener who markets large quantities of flowers is Peterborough, tells the same tale. Her Delphiniums are not out and the Peonies are over too soon, with the result that she is left only with Canterbury Bell and Sweet Williams.

Anticipating the difficulty in obtaining flowers, a number of people placed their orders early this week. Two or three days ago some gardeners were refusing to take any more orders. There was a heavy early demand for them on the market this morning.

In recent years there has been a gradual decrease in the number of flowers blooming in time for Decoration Day. Last year Mr. Downer supplied only 60 people compared with between one and two hundreds longer ago

No 'Yes Man' Fraser Tells Tory Rally Held In Lakefield Town Hall

LAKEFIELD, June 25 (ENS)—"Livestock production is the cornerstone of sound agriculture industry", said Peter D. McArthur, Friday. "Some of the finest Agriculture experts are members of the Conservative party who will do all in their power to see that this branch of farming is given every support."

Mr. McArthur, outstanding Agriculture expert, who is Past President of the Dairy Farmers Association of Canada, Past President of the Dominion Progressive Conservative Party, Director of the Ayrshire Breeders Association and Director of Livestock Breeders' Association of Canada, spoke at a Progressive-Conservative meeting held in the Memorial Hall on Friday evening.

"The farmers must expand production beyond home consumption to assist in reducing debts," he said.

"Livestock men are builders. Long term contracts abroad will insure a steady and profitable market for years to come. Keeping the industry on a sound basis.

Gordon K. Fraser outlined the platform of the Conservative party in detail.

The candidate advocated processing of Canadian pulp at home, to reap the fullest profits from the vast timber resources.

Answers Critics

Mr. Fraser said he had been criticized for not getting a public building for Peterborough, and asked why didn't Mr. Duffus get it between 1935-40?"

The Liberal member did manage to get a site. Mr. Fraser stated he had secured $100,000 towards plans and specifications.

"The public building is going to be built as soon as possible," he declared. "There has been a period following the war when it was not deemed advisable to build such a building, because materials and man power were more urgently required in the building of veterans' homes."

In answer to the Liberals' accusation that he asked too many questions in the house, Mr. Fraser said he was not a yes man and did not believe the riding wished him to be one.

Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, outlined the Conservative policy for old age pensions.

Initiative Discouraged

Under the present set-up a single man can only have an income of $50 a month including his old age pension. If he earns more than $20 a month he has to pay it back. It discouraged the initiative of the individual.

The proposal of the Conservative party will lower the age to 65 and does not prohibit a man from earning as much as he is able, if he has the "intestinal fortitude" to earn it.

When George Drew came into power he found most of the produce from Canada's 400,000 square miles of timber was being exported.

Drew cancelled the agreements, mills were built and the wood now goes out as pulpwood which helps out the overall picture.

"This is the first time", said Mr. Scott, "that we have had an opportunity to have as prime minister one who so thoroughly understands the country's needs."

Mr. Leonard Ireland, a veteran spoke briefly, stating the future belongs to the youth of today.

James Juby, president of Peterborough Conservative Association said three things were vital to win an election—a policy, a candidate and a leader. "The Conservative party offers all three, of which we can be proud," said Mr. Juby.

Frank Erskine was chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bradshaw presented an excellent entertainment of magical feats.

Goes After Ball Child Rescued

Frightened when a rubber, air-filled ball had slipped from her grasp in deep water, Beverley Weatherstone required assistance to shore from Lifeguard Gerry Armstrong at Inverlea Beach Friday. The little girl had been playing with the ball inside the blocked area for non-swimmers. The ball shot from her hands to beyond the ropes. She walked out and got the ball. Starting to come in floating and kicking on the ball she again lost it. Calls for help were heard by Lifeguard Armstrong who quickly brought the girl to shore.

Numerous children complained about the strict rulings of the lifeguard before this incident. Recently the boundaries for the swimmers were announced. Diving off the bridge caused Armstrong some concern as younger children are tempted to do the same as their older brothers. The bridge is out-of-bounds for all swimmers, both for diving and swimming to the piers. Non-swimmers are not allowed beyond the blocked area.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Choosing Interior Colors Depends on Use of Room

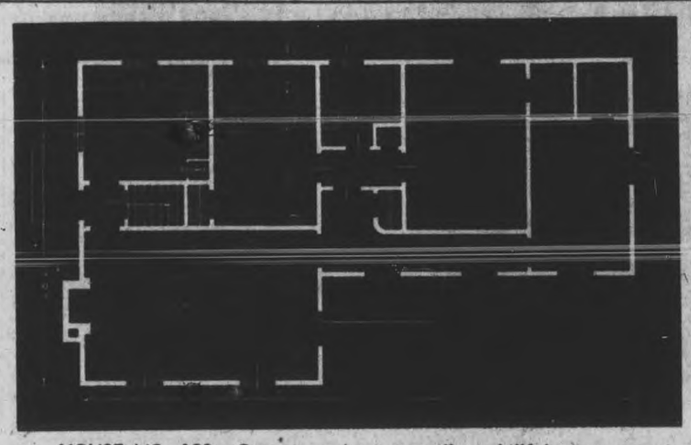
Paint colors and wallpaper patterns should be chosen to express the purpose for which a room is to be used. For example, it is logical that rooms that will be lived in for long hours at a time need to appear quiet and restful, while rooms that are merely passed through or lived in for only short periods can be in bright colors and gay patterns.

First let's look at the HALL. Usually passed through quickly, most halls are too small for furnishings. Gay colors and lively patterns, or soft colors and formal patterns set the mood each family wishes to express when welcoming guests.

The LIVING ROOM. Usually shared by the whole family to relax and listen to the radio, read, converse and entertain friends, the colors and patterns should be restful but cheerful. Many small objects in the room usually create enough pattern. Such items as books, lamps, pictures, etc., need a quiet colored background to make a room restful. If on the other hand, your family is given to noisy games, singing and dancing, you will probably enjoy gayer colors.

The DINING ROOM. The dining room is generally used only for short periods. Furniture is often formal and many pieces are similar or alike. Usually there are few places in the room to relieve the large, flat, wooden surfaces. Lively patterns and gay colors on walls, floor and chair seats help to relieve the monotonous appearance and add interest. Also, gaiety in color inspires sociability. When the furniture-wood is light-colored, a colorful background is best.

The KITCHEN. You won't sit down for long in the average kitchen! It's up to prepare a meal, cooking, washing or scrubbing. Clear colors are often used because they look clean and go well with white and cream colored equipment and appliances. Gay colors in formal designs harmonize well with the whiteness and straight lines of range, refrigerator and cupboards.



The woodwork, including cupboards, will look well when painted the same color as walls or a little lighter. Light tones of green or peach go well with cherry woodwork; yellows, tans and greens with oak and pine.

The whole kitchen may be papered if wall spaces are large, but when wall spaces are small it's to prevent spotty appearance, a good idea to keep them plain Sometimes in a large kitchen, the wall on the dining end is papered and the rest of the kitchen and woodwork is painted in a color matching that of the wallpaper background, or in a light value of tone of the main color of the pattern.

The BEDROOMS. Here you rest and sleep. Soft colors and quiet patterns help to prepare you for both. It is well to avoid lively, gay patterns because they are exciting. One person may like pale colors and no patterns, another may prefer soft dark colors and some pattern . . . why not let each person choose the colors he likes for his own room.

The BATHROOM. A bathroom finished in white may appear cold but will look warmer and more interesting if given colorful accessories. However, it is best not to use too many colors in a room the size of most bathrooms. One color repeated is less confusing than several colors or a great deal of pattern. You might choose your color from window curtains with a pattern or white background, repeating this color on a plain shower curtain, the laundry basket and in stripes on bath towels, wash cloths and bathmat. For a more colorful effect, try towels and bathmat in a solid color.

When bathroom walls or fixtures are colored you might use a two-color scheme, such as green walls and yellow shower curtain, bathmat and towels, with curtains in yellow and green pattern. The two-color scheme may sometimes appear in the shower curtain or bathmat and towels.

HOUSE NO. 193—Cottage enthusiasts will rub their eyes when they see this little beauty erected recently in Cooksville, Ontario. Its simple, eye-catching character is the result of skillful room arrangement by W. G. Armstrong, Architect. There are five rooms altogether, three of them bedrooms. While there is no dining room, ample space for eating is provided in the kitchen, which is a bright room with two ex- ures. Here is an economy house with breathing space, and plenty of windows and storage space. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

To Take Strike Vote

DETROIT, June 25.—(AP). — Ford production workers, who returned to their jobs less than a month ago following a 24-day "speed-up" strike, soon will participate in a new strike vote. Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) Friday instructed 49 Ford locals to poll their membership for approval of a walkout to enforce current contract demands, should such action be necessary.

Rover Moot Notes

District Rover Leader Peter Dominik accompanied by Skipper G. attended the Rover Round Table held in the Goodyear Memorial Camp four miles north of Orangeville. Full plans for the coming moot during the Labour Day weekend were discussed. It is expected that Crews from all over Canada will be in attendance along with visitors from the United States.

The camp site covers 85 acres of rolling ground with well wooded sections and a swimming hole formed by damming up the river that passes through the property.

Rover Meeting

The All Saints Rover crew held their last meeting in the home of Peter Dominik and met some of the former members of St. John's Crew to discuss the problem of forming further crews in the city. A special committee was named to look into this matter and to act with the District Rover Leader. The Rover moot at Orangeville was discussed and every effort will be made to have a good representation at this gathering.

Peterborough District Flag

A local firm has kindly consented to donate the first Peterborough District Scout Flag to be used by the contingent attending the Canadian Jamboree at Ottawa during the last week in July. The flag consists of two sections, the section to the mast being green with the Scout Crest in gold at the top of the field, the fly section gold with a green crest depicting the lift lock in the lower section of the field.

Gone Home

It is with regret we report the passing of Mr. W. C. English, the past president of the local Association. Scouters Dominik, Ford and your scribe attended the last rites in full uniform, representing all scout personnel in Peterborough.

St. Luke's At Camp

Thirty-two cubs met at St. Luke's Sunday school last weekend complete with equipment and were soon on their way to the Scout grounds at Nassua with some five leaders. At the grounds Akela prepared the first meal whilst Baloo and Akela Ingham set table. The first item for the boys was a swim in the river. Following dinner the various sixes were assigned to gathering wood for the fire, filling the ticks with straw, and other small chores. A red flower program was held prior to retiring for the night at which cub songs and stunts completed a fine program. Mr. and Mrs. Tunnicliffe were present for the evening. Early rising on Sunday morning started a full day of swimming, nature hikes, follow the trail and ball games. Every boy was busy after supper packing his gear ready for the transportation which had them safely home by 7:30 p.m. We would like to say thank you to Mr. A. Ingham and the two Scouters from the Knights of Columbus for their assistance over the weekend.

I NEED YOUR VOTE

Don't expect me to tell you who will be elected M.P. for Peterborough West on Monday, because I don't know. I think I have a pretty good chance, but the game is never won until the final whistle blows. During the last three weeks thousands of you have been so kind as to offer me your support.

Thank you. Your friendliness gives me great encouragement and hope. But let us face facts:

- There are about 12,000 certain Tory votes in Peterborough West. You can bet that all but a few hundred will go to the polls.
- That means that there are 20,000 other votes, of which perhaps 2,500 will go to the C.C.F.
- Do you think that leaves 17,500 votes? If you do, you are wrong, for many are indifferent and won't vote.
- That is why I need the vote of every man and woman in this constituency who is not a convinced Tory or a convinced socialist, and who cares about the future of Peterborough West.

You know why I am a candidate. I want to get Peterborough out from behind the political 8-ball and do my best to get it some of the favours that the Government has for thriving industrial cities. I want to do all I can for the youth program of the Liberal Government. I want to support the policies which have given the farmers a square deal. And I want to show the Tory party that it can't always depend on Little Tory Peterborough to hand them this seat on a platter—for nothing

That's why I need your vote and every possible vote. Don't let anything keep you from the polls on Monday!

Redmond-McIntyre Union In Trinity Church Setting

High standards of blue delphinium, and campanula with pink and white snapdragon amid candlelight formed a beautiful setting in Trinity United Church Friday afternoon for the marriage of Mildred Walker McIntyre to Mr. Hugh Carleton Redmond. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Charles McIntyre of Peterborough, and the groom is the youngest son of Mrs. William C. Redmond and the late Dr. William C. Redmond, Edmonto, Alberta.

The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. D. B. Gordon. After the bride reached the altar the "Lord's Prayer" was sung by Mrs. Garnet L. Baker of Parry Sound, aunt of the bride. Wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was very charming in a traditional wedding gown of satin in angel mist shade, fashioned with tightly fitted bodice, closed at the back with tiny self-covered buttons and the very full skirt sweeping into a long graceful train. A tiny collar finishing the high neckline and the insert panel from neck to hem were beautifully trimmed with scroll embroidery and tiny seed pearls. The same embroidery and pearl trim outlined the points on the long fitted sleeves. A satin halo held her long flowing veil of French tulle illusion and she carried a cascade of pale pink butterfly roses and gypsophilia.

Maid of honor Miss Maralin Munro was frocked in corsage pink faille and bridesmaids Miss Jean Hamley and Miss Ruth Robinson of Toronto were in similar frocks of lilac and pistachio green faille. The gowns were styled with fitted bodices and quaint bertha collars softly draped in front, the full skirts banded with bias folds of self material, each fold ending in a soft bow at the side front. Each attendant wore long fingerless mittens of matching material and their heads were adorned with half-hats of the same material with bows at the side. They carried, cascades of campanula, snapdragon and delphiniums.

Mr. William L. Redmond of Kirkland Lake, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Ushers were William Messervey, Jack Burtch, Gordon Vallery and Kenneth Kidd.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Baker sang "Beloved It is Morn."

A reception followed at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club where the bride's mother received in a delphinium blue gown of crepe and lace with matching accessories and wearing a corsage of shattered pale pink carnations. The groom's mother who also received wore a cameo pink crepe gown with matching accessories and corsage of corn flower and pink campanula.

For travelling the bride chose a rose beige gabardine suit with matching hat and cocoa brown bag and shoes. The bride and groom left on a motor trip to the Laurentians and on return will reside at 505 Dickson St.

Parents' 25th Anniversary June Craft's Wedding Day

The marriage of Murilla June Craft to Harold Sidney Belfry was solemnized in the Mark St. United Church at 1.30 o'clock today, June 25. This date also marks the silver wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Craft of 7 Maria St. whose marriage took place in the Mark St. United Church parsonage 25 years ago. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Belfry of Otonabee.

Peonies, summer flowers and fern were the background setting for the ceremony performed by the Rev. E. W. Rowland. Mrs. Cecil Searles played the wedding march and accompanied the soloist Mrs. Max Pomeroy. Before the bride entered she sang "Tell Me Why" and at the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The bride chose a lovely gown of velverine embroidered marquisette which was styled with a becoming fluted neckline, long sleeves in lily points over hands, the bodice fitted tightly and fastened at back with covered buttons, finished with a bow, and the full skirt extending in a slight train. Orange blossoms and seed pearls held her veil of embroidered silk net which fell to fingertip length and she carried a bouquet of red roses and bouvardia.

Mr. Craft gave his daughter in marriage.

She was attended by her only sister Mrs. Robert Russell, matronto of honor, and her cousin Miss Ruth Harrison, bridesmaid. They were in pretty frocks of mauve and yellow taffeta made with bertha collars finishing the open eckline and full skirts with bustle effect. Each wore mittens of the material of her dress and a matching flower bandeau. Their bouquets were of yellow roses and mixed sweet peas.

The groom was attended by his brother Jack Belfry and ushers were Lloyd Craft and Keith Belfry, brothers of the bride and groom.

A reception was held after the wedding in the Empress Hotel. The bride's mother was wearing a mauve dress of brocaded lace, white accessories and a corsage of white roses and mauve sweet peas. She received with the wedding party as did the groom's mother who chose a dress of salmon pink crepe, white accessories and corsage of contrasting roses and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Belfry will spend their honeymoon travelling in Northern Ontario. Going-away the bride wore a pale yellow silk jersey dress, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

They will live in Otonabee.

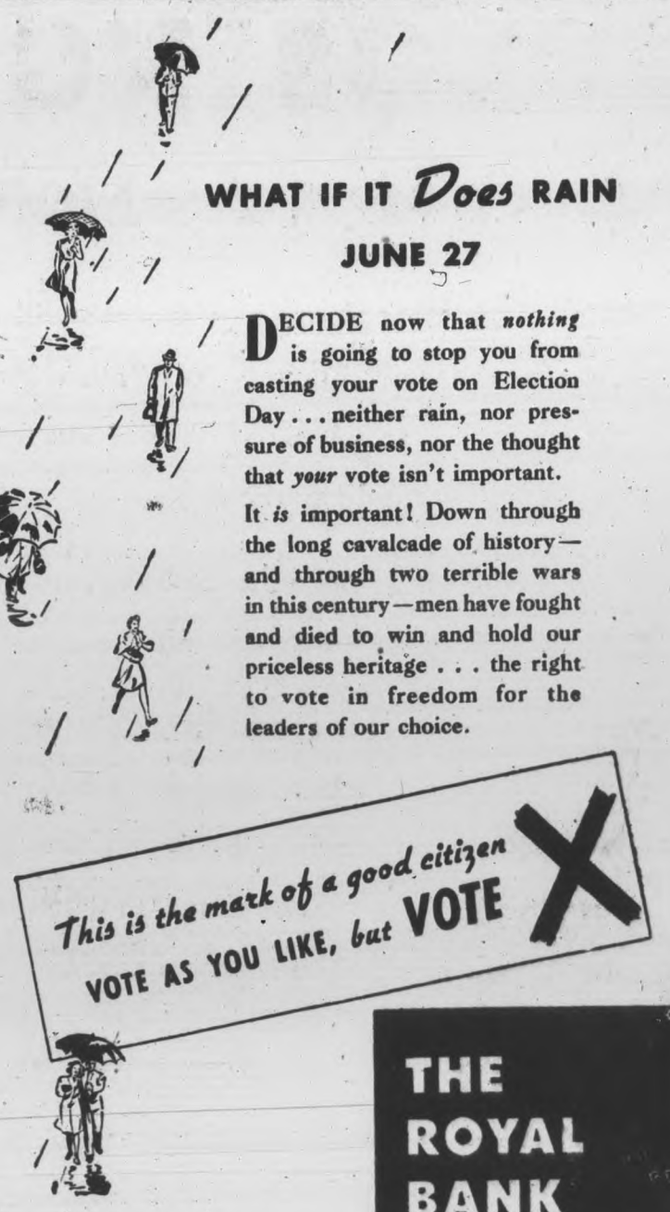
"Satina makes starched clothes 3 times easier to iron!"

writes Mrs. Fred Gates, of Hamilton, Ont.

"When ironing, I prefer Satina," writes Mrs. Gates, "because when you press and fold clothes they seem just like new. Clothes don't crush like they do when starch alone is used. I also like the perfume Satina leaves on clothes. Satina certainly makes starched clothes 3 times as easy to do."



Satina in Starch Speeds Your Iron

Satina added to your regular starch creates a glossy, satin-smooth surface that prevents your iron from pulling or sticking — gives starched clothes the look you love to wear. Full instructions on package. At your grocer's. Get Satina today.

Mother Must Have Vacation Nervous Strain Too Great

It is one of the little ironies of life that the one individual who most needs a vacation seldom gets it. That's mother. All the remainder of the family get tired and need a change and rest and diversion, but mother is supposed to get all the recreation she requires in slaving for the remainder of the family and seeing that they have a good time. Yet Mother's work is the hardest, the most monotonous, the most never-ending in the world, There is no union card and six-hour day for her. She doesn't even get laid off on a strike.

Dorothy Dix

Of course, in well-to-do families mother gets an alleged vacation when she takes the children and goes off to spend a month or so in the country, where she has to work ten times as hard as she did at home because there are no city conveniences and no market handy right around the corner. Mother always returns from these holidays looking as if she had been dragged through a keyhole, yet she hasn't had a thing to do but to keep a lot of bored children amused and nurse them through spells of ivy poisoning and cuts and bruises and too much green fruit, and run a free roadhouse for her friends and their friends who just happened to be motoring by and knew she would be so glad to cook them an extra meal.

Furthermore, it is popularly believed that a mother can never get enough of her children's society, and that to separate her from them for even an instant would cause her unendurable anguish.

Never was there a greater mistake in the world. No matter how much a mother loves her children, no matter how willingly she sacrifices her self for them, in time she gets fed up on them. They get on her nerves until she feels as if she would scream if she had to answer another question, and that she would lie down and die if she had to get up and hunt for another cap or baseball or hair ribbon, and that she could choke the next little voice that cried M-o-t-h-e-r. It is then, when mothers begin to pick on their children and say "don't" to everything they do, that they need a vacation.

And they need this vacation away from their children, not with them. They need to go off by themselves, where they can be themselves instead of just the children's mother; where they can put on a pretty dress without thinking how the baby will muss it; where they can get a good night's sleep without keeping an ear open for a call for a drink and one eye open to see if little Sally has kicked the cover off; where they can order a meal without first considering if it has enough spinach and carrots in it to furnish vitamins for the children, where they can take a walk without having to hold the baby's hand and having Junior pulling on their skirts.

For Mother's Sake

Two weeks or even one week, of a vacation like this would straighten out the kinks in mother's nerves and give her a new perspective on her job and make her see that bringing up a family is the most glorious and worthwhile career a woman can follow, instead of the greatest drudgery. It would give her fresh patience and more wisdom in dealing with her children and change her from a nagging tyrant into a pal.

Of course, every regular mother wants to be with her children most of the time, just as a man wants to be at his business most of the time, but she needs a break from the regular grind even as a man does, and a vacation from her children would increase her efficiency, just as much as it increase a man's efficiency in his business.

Most mothers would say that this idea of mothers taking a vacation is a fine theory, but that it is something that can't be done. That no one could take their places. That they have on one to leave the children with.

But that is all nonsense. None of us are absolutely necessary in the scheme of things, and when mother works and frets herself to death, some relative or some middle-aged woman whose own children have flown the home nest or a trained child specialist is found as a substitute. So why not get Aunt Sally or Cousin Sue or Mrs. Brown or a capable nurse from the baby hospital to take mother's place for a few days and keep mother from a nervous breakdown or out of the cemetery?

I commend this subject of giving mothers vacations from their children to husbands and to Junior Leaguers. To husbands who have failed to perceive the importance of giving their wives a holiday, because while they knew that taking care of the baby for even a Sunday afternoon wore them out to a frazzle, they have thought it mere play for a mother to do it all day and every day for 365 consecutive days.

And to Junior Leaguers I say that they could perform no more beautiful or worth-while work than organizing a band of trained substitute mothers who could go into the homes of poor, tired, overworked women and take care of their houses and children for them while they went off on a vacation that would send them back rested, refreshed and able to carry on with their great work.

Free-Lance Writers Can Sell Canada But Pay Is Low

VANCOUVER, June 25 —(CP)—Canadian free-lance writers have never had such opportunity before as they have today, Byrne Hope Saunders, Editor of Chatelaine Magazine, said Thursday.

She told the Canadian Women's Press Club convention there is opportunity for the Canadian writer "both at home and abroad."

"Canada is a power among the nations of the world and the average person is really not aware of the prestige accorded Canada in other lands," she added.

"The great thing right now is to sell Canada to the world by writing about Canadians."

A Vancouver free-lance writer Hugh Weatherly spoke for the writers and scorned the low rates paid Canadian writers as "the bane of the free-lance's existence."

Motorists Asked To Take Care By Police Chief

Now that the holiday season for the city's many school children is almost here Chief of Police John Thompson has issued a request for motorists to be even more cautious in their driving.

With the vastly increased number of children on city streets during the day the Chief fears there may be an increase in injuries and even loss of life. Alert motorists with their vehicles in perfect mechanical order can avoid many of these, he feels.

He said he realized that many mishaps were unavoidable from the point of view of the car driver. Young children have a habit of running between parked cars onto roads, but he counselled caution just the same.

Timely Advice

Deputy-Chief John Naples gave this piece of advice: keep a careful watch on both sides of the street and drive at a slow speed —well below the legal limit if there is a probability of meeting children.

Faulty brakes, bad steering and other mechanical defects are contrary to the law, and if an accident occurs the onus in most cases will rest on the driver.

Chief Thompson said that in the Peterborough district the matter of children swimming in safety was even more serious than possible traffic accidents.

"Parents should not let their children go swimming in unsupervised swimming areas," he said. "Even in supervised ones accidents sometimes happen; but there is far less chance of a fatality."

15 Children Injured

So far this year 15 children have been injured by motor vehicles, and one was hurt when knocked down by a bicycle, according to police records. One child was killed when he was run over by a road grader.

Believing in an ounce of prevention, the Department of Education has issued leaflets to all Ontario school children urging them to observe all safety precautions during the summer months. These leaflets have already been circulated among boys and girls in Peterborough schools as well as the other adjacent municipalities.

The car, which was driven by Richard Pridham of Toronto, had a bent bumper and grill as a result of the impact.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

LIKE A LITTLE BROADWAY

An unusually large crowd thronged the downtown streets of Peterborough Friday night and well into the small hours of the morning. Restaurants and other eating places were packed as people from the Benny Goodman show and others from the lacrosse game tried to get a bite to eat and talk over the evening's entertainment. Due to the late arrival of some of the Hamilton Tiger lacrosse team's equipment, as well as some of the players, the game on the Miller Bowl did not get underway until after considerable delay. And spectators did not get back to the downtown region after the game until shortly before midnight. A large number of cars and pedestrians were still on the city streets later than 2 a.m.

FINAL ELECTION NOTE

Arthur McClellan, returning officer for Monday's election, offered a final reminder to the public today: the hours for voting are from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m., DST. Further, the time for the advance poll today is from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. in the electoral office, post office building, 403 Water St.

RAIN FOR PICNIC

Alparks had ordered fair weather for the CGE picnic at Nicholls Oval today. Committees had spent a lot of time on planning a big program especially for the children of the employees. But, there was no visible sign of the sunrise this morning. It was overclouded and the probabilities pointed to a wet afternoon. That was a 10 a.m. reading of the auguries.

GROWTH QUICKENS

"Growth has been wonderful this week," Herb Doig said on the market this morning. Apparently there was some considerable recovery in the strawberry patches of the district. There was quite a supply of the berry, and some of them looked just about at quality par.

FUNERAL MONDAY

LOOK FOR STOLEN CAR

City police are still searching for the 1937 Pontiac coach owned by Wilfred Langan, 550 Aylmer St., which was stolen from in front of his home early Monday morning. According to Detective Sergeant John Stevenson there is a strong probability it has been abandoned in a swamp or sideroad in the rural district of Peterborough County. The car is blue and bears licence plates 94Z86. Anybody seeing a car answering to this description should communicate with city police.

IT'S AWAY OVER THEIR HEADS—Sisters Maureen, LEFT, and Sandra McWilliam, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. McWilliam, 100 Dublin St., are shown in a plot of Wong winter barley on the farm of Clayton Sanderson, Chemong Road. Planted as an experiment, this winter grain will produce about 40 bushels to the acre. Normal spring barley plantings due to drought conditions, may produce only 15, experts feel. Compared to spring oats, FOREGROUND, which is already heading out at eight inches, the new-type barley may be an innovation for district farmers. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

COUNTY FARM NOTES

By HARRY THEOBALD

Only Two T.B. Reactors in 2,500 Peterborough Cattle As Test Progresses; Hon. T. L. Kennedy To Open Grassland Day Wednesday, June 29 Ernie McWilliams Recommends Wong Winter Barley

Grassland Day next Wednesday, June 29 is now in the hands of the weather. Committees have completed their planning for this event on the farm of F. W. Rowland, four miles north and west of the city on the Peterborough-Lindsay Highway. The location is easily identified by the adjoining Central Smith Creamery.

The program begins at 10.30 a.m. with the judging of hay entries for which the top prize is $100 for the best bale exhibited by an Ontario farmer. This prize is contributed by Canada Packers. Second prize is one ton of fertilizer donated by Peterborough District Co-Operative Services. There are also five cash prizes. Third money is $25, and the others $10 each.

A demonstration of weed spraying equipment is included in the morning program.

The Ontario Minister of Agriculture, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, will open the affairs of the afternoon at 1 o'clock. Prof. R. G. Knox of the OAC will speak on "Improved Pastures" and J. D. Lanthier of Leitchcroft Farms, Gormley, will discuss the importance of hay and grass on Ontario farms.

The program continues with a parade of machinery of grassland farming. Sections of the field in crop have been laid out for a demonstration of the equipment showing the uses and usefulness of hay-making machines. They will include mowers, side delivery rakes, hay balers, hay loaders, forage crop harvesters, hay drying equipment, and the mechanical methods of tripod hay making.

Ontario Agricultural College is sending exhibits for this event. It is one of the three Grassland Days sanctioned for the province this season. The Peterborough area comprises the group of counties lying between the eastern and western sections to which similar Grassland Days have been allotted. This is the first Grassland demonstration in the central zone.

Some of the members of the staff of OAC with representatives of the Crops, Weeds and Seeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture will be on the grounds to discuss grassland farming with interested spectators.

Lunch will be provided by several groups of rural women, and Signs will be placed directing parking arrangements have been assigned to the Junior Farmers. traffic.

Entries of baled hay of the 1949 crop will be received by Frank C. Paterson up to 10.30 a.m. Wednesday at the hay show tent. Farmers may bring their exhibits in their car on the morning of this event, but earlier entries will be gratefully received by Mr. Paterson a few days prior to the show.

The program has been broadly balanced to discuss programs and practice of grasslanding with emphasis on soils, pasture mixtures, fertility, harvesting and curing of forage, and other details including the element of economy of grasses and legumes extended into meat and milk, wool and other animal products.

That presentation will be linked with the demonstration of the mechanics of grassland farming. The program has been drawn up to show in a practical manner the present day methods of forage cropping. The general committee of which G. A. Gillespie is chairman has directed its preparations for the benefit of the average farmer, who knows that this season has been abnormally adverse with almost a month of drought in many sections of the central area. But, there is likely to be special interest, arising out of this difficulty, in the quality of the bales of hay entered in the competition for prizes.

JUNIOR FARMER'S JOURNEY

Peterborough's group of Junior Farmers, 19 girls and 27 boys, observed on their trip to Cornell University that New York State is not a paradise. They saw good land and poor that reminded them of corresponding diversity in their own townships; variety of livestock, crops and buildings that looked as familiar as their own Peterborough. That was a general impression, similarity of fields and labor and problems. The Juniors travelled with understanding as they journeyed along.

Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative, said he was impressed with evidence that the average farmer upstate appeared to be more responsive to advanced ideas and methods than were most folks at home.

"We visited the farm of Harold Soper who took up vegetable farming ten years ago," Mr. Bell said. "I concluded from his story that the New Yorker is definitely concerned about his markets, that he is looking for assurance of sales of the products he plans to turn out. He appears to be just as acutely interested in income and net returns as he is in production. I think that must also have been noticed by most of our group.

Mr. Soper told us he realized that he had to adopt the most efficient methods of farming, planting row crops across the slopes, putting in drainage where needed, ample use of commercial fertilizers and incorporation of green manure as part of his program of maintaining fertility of his soil and its content of organic matter."

Mr. Bell said the Juniors were most hospitably received everywhere they went. Mr. Lacey Woodward, director of extension for New York State, took them under his wing. They were shown something of the marvels of the new cyclotron laboratory at Cornell. A discussion with a small group of New York juniors was included in the program. While the girls looked into the home economics department, the boys went through the agricultural buildings, incidentally seeing nearly 100 bulls of the Cornell artificial insemination branch, its laboratory and the general establishment now used by a host of farmers in their artificial breeding.

"We saw the work that is being carried on in their swine breeding program. Our group was interested in the fact that Cornell has imported some of our Yorkshires, and that there is more of a trend toward our bacon type of hogs" Mr. Bell said. "We also learned that they have not adopted the rail-grade method, but are still selling hogs by live weight.

The main breed of dairy cattle at the University is Holsteins, and also 20 head of Brown Swiss. Feeding tests are carried on extensively, as was expected, with all classes of livestock to determine the best feeds for particular animals at varying stages of growth and maturity."

The visitor called at the big farm of Marshall Brothers featuring Holsteins cattle for the fluid milk trade; a chick hatchery and its extensive sales methods; and modern farming with various machines, improved pastures and so on. Another educational chapter of the trip was at the Hawley Farms, operated by a father and his two sons, both Cornell graduates. They have a big farm and hatchery, and employ eight men.

"Mr. Hawley is president of the N. Y. Farm Bureau Federation which operates on much the same basis as our own," Mr. Bell said. The State has a broader extension service than we have. Some counties have four extension men. Usually one of them specializes only in club work.

The trip was replete with interest, and I am sure our group of Juniors learned a lot about what their neighbours are doing across the line, and gained a variety of ideas that will help them at home."

RECOMMENDS WONG BARLEY

A contrast in barley on the farm of Clayton Sanderson on the Chemong Road is recommended by Ernie McWilliam to farmers who are interested in improving their feed grain supply.

The seeding affords an easy opportunity of comparing the Wong variety of winter barley with the spring variety sown in the same field on the Sanderson farm.

The Wong barley was introduced from the United States by the Ontario Agricultural College, Mr. McWilliam told the Examiner. It has been grown for several years on the College farm with excellent results, and is largely replacing the older type of Tennessee winter barley.

"Wong winter barley is very hardy in nature, and has never been completely winter killed since its introduction to Guelph. In this characteristic it is far superior to the Tennessee variety. In its habits of growth it has a medium tall stiff straw, and stands up well, making it desirable from a combine viewpoint.

"Wong heads are somewhat shorter than ordinary, but are very compact. Long rough awns have been eliminated by selective breeding, making the handling of this crop more agreeable. The grain is of excellent feeding value but not suitable for malting purposes.

"Four bushels of this seed were obtained from Dr. G. P. McRostie of OAC by Dewart Milling Co. and sown on the farm of Clayton Sanderson. It survived the winter and the severe spring frosts with little apparent injury and appears immune to severe drought experienced this season.

From all indications this variety of winter barley appears to hold great promise for the farmers of Peterborough County. Growers interested in this new crop are advised to direct inquiries to Mr. Sanderson."

Mr. McWilliam believes that more attention should be given to the growing of barley in the Wong variety hereabouts. In the favoring conditions a year ago, spring barley averaged 20 bushels. Mr. McWilliam expects 40 bushels to the acre from the Wong grain in the adverse season through which this variety has come to a flourishing stand.

"In fact it might outyield the spring barley by three to one," Mr. McWilliam said.

THE GIFFORD ACHIEVEMENT

In the annals of Peterborough county this week will be remembered for the date of June 22 when Reeve James Gifford "lowered the boom" on Chemong Lake with the completion of the traffic causeway between the Smith and Ennismore shores.

For Ennismore this should be a boon boom realizing in the long fill of blasted rock the township's dream facility of generation, the discarding and ultimate dismantling of the old floating bridge, a combination of the picturesque and peril when the lake was rolling high.

Although it had the essential sponsorship of the county council and the invaluable support of the provincial and federal governments, plus assisting financial aid from the township of Ennismore and the city of Peterborough, the causeway is regarded chiefly as the achievement of the faith and perseverance of Reeve James Gifford.

In its immediately local effect, the new crossing is of special advantage to the farmers of Ennismore, but it is also an important and secure link in highway communication through the northwestern section of the country. From all its apearance of rugged structure it should afford long and safe travel for the posterity of Ennismore and residents to the north of that township.

Reeve Gifford is the dean of the county council, and has long been a leader in agricultural organizations of Peterborough county. He deserves to be mentioned as one of the young farmers who equipped himself by education and remained at home, as the saying goes, to exercise his abilities for the benefit of his neighbors, his community and the welfare of his county. It is to be hoped that he does not now decide to coast along on this largement of his reputation which will alway associate his name with the Chemong Lake causeway which most of his friends and acquaintances had listed as a sheer impossibility.

Coal Strike Begins In Australia

Stocks Expected To Last 8 Days Only In Sydney

SYDNEY, Australia, June 27 (CP)—Australia's 24,000 coal miners today began a country-wide strike as Sydney experienced its coldest day in 11 years with a low temperature of 39.1 degrees.

Heating was banned in houses and offices as a coal conservation measure. Approximately another 500,000 workers were idle because of drastic fuel rationing imposed to eke out coal supplies.

Coal stocks in industrial Sydney, a city of 1,500,070 population, are expected to last only eight days at the present rate of consumption.

Negotiations between the Coal Tribunal and the Miners' Federation broke down Sunday. The miners demand a weekly wage increase of 30 shillings (about $4.85) a reduction in their work week from 40 to 35 hours and nationalization of the industry.

Prime Minister Chifley conferred in Canberra with Cabinet Ministers on emergency regulations to deal with the stoppage, which he said last week would cause economic chaos.

Miners' representatives at the same time conferred in Sydney with representatives of 14 key unions and sought their support for the strikers', Idris Williams, President of the Miners' Federation said the Commonwealth Government could end the strike in five minutes.

Williams said the strike will last until the government agrees to an "amicable settlement that will bring industrial stability to the coal-mining country and contribute to the ending of these constant crises."

The impact of the strike was most severe in New South Wales. But employment officials said the effect on jobs will begin to be felt in other states if the strike lasts more than a week.

Power Expansion To Be Studied

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 27 (CP)—American and Canadian officials will meet here today to study possible expansion of the power-generating facilities of the Niagara Falls.

Representatives of the United States Federal Power Commission, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, the New York Power authority and the Niagara Falls Power Company will attend the conference.

Under consideration will be proposals for new Hydro plants on each side of the Niagara river below the falls. Such plants would take advantage of the full drop, or head, of about 310 feet. The present facilities nearer the Falls use heads of water varying between 135 and 215 feet.

The Ontario Commission is prepared to spend $70,000,000 to $80,000,000 for such new generating facilities. The Niagara Falls Power Company is ready to spend $60,000,000 for a similar project on the American side of the river near Lewiston, NY.

The projects depend upon a new international treaty which would make permanent the present temporary emergency diversion of water for power purposes.

UE Agreement Not Expiring Thursday Next

Denying the union claim as reported in the Examiner that the present contract between the union and the company expires Thursday was made today by Ian McRae, works manager of the CGE.

To the contrary he said the contract does not expire until June 30, 1950. Neither side has complied with the necessary written notice of termination within a period of 80-70 days before the anniversary date, and therefore the contract remains in effect, he states.

Mr. McRae went on to point out that present negotiations are being carried out under Article 25 of the Agreement, dealing with modification not termination.

"This article makes provision for any necessary changes to be properly negotiated and it is in line with this Article that negotiations are presently under way between the two parties," states the Works Manager.

"Since neither the UE-CIO nor the Canadian General Electric Co. exercised its rights of termination or cancellation under the Article it is obvious that it was not the desire of either party to consider such cancellation. It is, therefore, a matter of record that both parties wished to extend the Agreement for another year, or until June 30, 1950."

Mr. McRae quoted Article 25 of the Agreement under the heading Modification: "Either party to this agreement, may during a period of 70 to 60 days prior to the termination or anniversary date of this agreement, give to the other in writing proposed modifications or revisions of any of the provisions hereof. The parties will meet for the purpose of negotiating such modifications or revisions within 15 days after such notice is given. Such negotiations will not continue beyond the expiration or anniversary date of the agreement, unless the parties mutually agree to extend the period of negotiations."

Sign Trade Pact In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES, June 27 — (Reuters). — The Anglo-Argentine trade agreement, which has drawn protests from the United States, was signed here to-day.

The object of outspoken misgivings in the United States, the pact is expected to result in trade between the two dollar-starved countries wirth at least £1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) during the next five years.

Under the terms of the pact, the Argentine will deliver to Britain in the first year "not less than" 300,000 tons of wheat.

In addition, Argentina will "use her best endeavors" to raise this figure to 400,000 tons annually.

Says Enraged Killer Has Three Others On List

MISSION, B.C., June 27—(CP)—The hunt for Ivar Johnson, who shot and killed two women in cold blood, was pressed with added intensity today. The 70-year-old recluse has been sought since Thursday when he shot the two elderly women after taking objection to the construction of a road on his property. An armed posse hoped to capture the bachelor-farmer before he is able to add to the number of his victims on his "death list."

Phil Catherwood, Superintendent of roads for Mission municipality, said he believes Johnson has three other people, including himself on the "death list."

Police said Johnson went berserk following a prolonged argument concerning construction of a new road which he contended infringed on his property.

The two women who fell victim to blasts alleged to have been fired by Johnson were Mrs. Marie Lindberg, 68-year-old widow, and Mrs. George Barrette, 66, mother of three children. A double funeral is planned for them Tuesday.

Catherwood said that, in addition to himself, he believes Johnson will attempt to take the lives of Police Chief Peter Bergen of Mission and neighbor Ivar Ericson.

"He hates all three of us and thinks we tried to rob him of part of his land in putting in his new road. I hink he will attempt to avenge his hatreds."

Johnson has spent 36 years as a farmer in the hilly and almost impenetrable Silver Hill area, but Catherwood does not believe that the hunted man has escaped the district. He described the elderly farmer as an uncanny woodsman who knew every foot of the rugged terrain in the Silver Hill area.

He said his guess was that Johnson would come out of hiding "just before dawn so that he can see where he's shooting."

New Official To Aid Disabled Veterans

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—Lt.-Col. Reginald W. Abraham of Kingston, veteran of two world wars, has been appointed casualty rehabilitation director in the Veteran Affairs Department, it was announced today.

His job will be to study and decide what government schemes will be undertaken for the training and placement of disabled veterans. He also will maintain liaison with non-government agencies having similar objectives.

Col. Abraham has been with the Department for the last four years and for some time was the department's district administrator in Kingston.

Poll Officials Report Active Session

Indications of a heavy vote in Peterborough today were seen in the reports up to 1 p.m. from various polls scattered around the city.

The range was from 39 to 77 reflecting the response of the citizens through the morning and noon hour.

The significance of the ballot issue is obtained by comparison with the poll figures with the average number of qualified voters throughout the city polling places. Most of them were around 300, that is the number of persons entitled to vote. A few were down to 260 and there were also some with 400 on the list.

The information as to the number of ballots issued up to 1 p.m. was:

Poll 43—Gladstone Ave. — 71 ballots marked.

Poll 19—Simcoe St.—77 balots.

Poll 26—Bethune St.—74 ballots

73 ballots.

Say Mock Air Raid Was "Too Realistic"

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—The first phase of air exercises to test the defences of industrial Britain against an atom bomb blitz ended today with one major complaint. London residents said they were "too realistic."

Referees and high air officials of three countries were cagey about preliminary results of "operation foil" in which British bombers and fighters, United States Superforts and jet fighters and Netherlands jet fighters participated.

There were indications from other observers and from the sound of heavy bomber formations over the metropolitan area that the capital had been "heavily pounded" in two night attacks.

BULLETIN

Peter Errett, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Errett of Lakefield was drowned in the Otonabee River at Wenonah tourist camp on Highway 28, north of the city at 2:10 this afternoon. A call was put in to the Provincial Police and fire department. The boy was first noticed by Don Drumm, 9, of Akron, Ohio, when he had slipped off an inner tube. He was recovered in a few moments but at 2:45 Dr. H. G. Carleton pronounced him dead.

Stevedores Walk Out In London

Support C.S.U. Who Accuse Owners Of "Double-Cross"

LONDON, June 27 (Reuters)—Stevedores and dockers of the Royal group of London docks decided today at a mass meeting to stop work in support of crews of two Canadian ships. The Canadian crew members walked out again during the week-end after accusing the ship owners of "double-crossing" them.

It was expected that all 7,000 men in the Royal group of docks, largest in the port of London, will have stopped work by tomorrow. Earlier today some 1,000 stevedores quit work at one of the other docks where the Canadian ship Aromont is lying. That halted handling of seven other ships berthed in the dock.

The other Canadian ship affected, the Beaverbrae, is one of the Royal group of docks. Stevedores at work on her before the meeting had said they would not support the strike because some 15 of the original crew of 79 had remained aboard. The Beaverbrae has thousands of tons of grain and flour in her hold.

The Stevedores' strike followed allegations by the Canadian seamen that the agreement reached last Friday with Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, owners of the Beaverbrae, was not being kept.

After a week of refusing to unload the Beaverbrae and the Argomont, London stevedores and dockers resumed work Friday when the Canadian Seamen's Union reported it had reached settlement.

The Canadian strikers said the settlement provided there should be no victimization, all charges would be dropped, pre-contract pay and conditions be in effect, and no members be asked to join the rival Seafarers' International Union (AFL.)

Houde Organizer Dies

MONTREAL, June 27 (CP) — Marcel Verville, city councillor and chief organizer for Mayor Camillien Houde, Independent candidate in Montreal Papineau in today's Federal election, died suddenly at his home late Sunday night. Mr. Verville had just returned from Mayor Houde's closing campaign meeting where he acted as master of ceremonies.

Six Escape Death

OSHAWA, June 27—(CP) —An Ottawa-bound passen ger train smashed into a stalled automobile Sunday, seconds after the car's six occupants jumped clear. John Hymson of Scarboro Junction, 27-year-old driver, stopped the car at a level crossing, two miles from here, to await the passage of two Ottawa-bound sections of the Canadian National Railways train. The auto was hit by the third section when it stalled as Hymson tried to start it up again. Hymson, his wife and two young daughters and two aunts escaped injury.

Belgian Voting Setback For Exiled King

BRUSSELS, June 27 — (AP) — Tabulation of about 70 per cent of 5,000,000 votes cast in Belgium's parliamentary elections made it clear today there would be no referendum on the possible return of exiled King Leopold.

The Social Christian Party, only pro-Leopold group, led in the tabulation with 1,523,321 votes, or 44.4 per cent of the 3,431,630 ballots counted—but was far short of the absolute majority it had campaigned for.

They had pledged a referendum if they received an absolute majority in the voting Sunday.

The election returns also indicated a smashing defeat for the Communists, who lost at least one-fourth of their 1946 supporters.

The Liberal party, which campaigned principally on a plank urging a 25-yer-cent tax cut, was registering gains everywhere.

Socialist Premier Paul-Henri Spaak admitted the returns constituted "a small defeat for my government (a coalition of Socialists and Social Christians.)"

The cabinet resigned today after a short post-election meeting. This is in accordance with custom, which calls for such an action following an election no matter what the result

A referendum on the return of the king was opposed by the Socialists and Liberals. The royal question dates back to 1940, when the king surrendered his army to the Germans and remained in occupied country against the advice of his ministers, who fled to England and formed a government in exile.

His opponents claimed the king showed no sympathy for the underground forces resisting the Germans.

Pastoral Letter Indicates Prelate Expecting Arrest

PRAGUE, June 27—(AP)—The Roman Catholic church Sunday accused the Communist government of Czechoslovakia of deceit, fraud, kidnapping, and robbery in what it called the fight for "extermination of the church of Christ." It told its communicants their "hour of trial" may be at hand.

A pastoral letter, signed by Archbishop Beran of Prague, Archbishop Joseph Matocha of Olomouc, and the country's bishops, declared that, under such circumstances, no church-state agreement was possible.

"We desire an agreement, not a dictate," said the 4,000-word letter read by priests in churches throughout the country to congregations of Czechoslovakia's 9,000,000 Catholics.

Archbishop Beran did not leave his police-guarded palace to read the letter in person at St. Vitus' cathedral. He left the pulpit there last week after Communist hecklers broke up his sermon.

A priest who read the letter at St. Vitus' was heard by parishioners to warn "if necessary, you must be prepared to follow the hard path of the Christian martyrs."

The letter itself prayed for divine mercy "under false and unjust sentences," which was taken as an indication that Archbishop Beran and his bishops expect to be jailed.

It bore a postscript urging priests not to let threats keep them from reading it. At the same time it warned them of church punishment if they did not.

Through the last week government officials have accused the church of anti-state agitation and threatened legal action.

The ministry of justice accused the archbishop of "spreading lying reports about the government and trying to turn citizens against the regime.

The Communist press, meanwhile, claimed big new gains for the government-sponsored Catholic Action group. It said more than 1,700 "patriotic priests" had pledged their support and there were hints the government might by-pass the established church hierarchy and make a religious agreement with this group.

The pastoral letter commanded communicants to boycott the "Catholic Action" movement.

Roman Catholic sources charged to-day Communists have seized virtually all church administrative offices in Czechoslovakia and arrested priests who resisted.

The informants said reports from various parts of the country showed repressive measures against the church are increasing. Some priests reported police charged them with "inciting unrest" after they had read the pastoral letter from the pulpit.

Churchmen said the government also took over nearly all administrative offices in the archdiocese and the dioceses of the country and installed, instead officials of the Communist-sponsored Catholic Action. The informants said some priests who objected to giving up the offices were arrested.

Polling Places Report Big Line-ups

Weather Ideal In Most Parts Of The Dominion

TORONTO, June 27 (CP) — Canada appears headed for a record vote today with returning officers in several ridings reporting line-ups before polls opened in the Dominion's 21st general election.

Sparkling sunshine in most sections of the thickly-populated provinces of Ontario and Quebec, bolstered the general belief that voting would be heavy.

Although voting was orderly in most polling stations, a few irregularities were reported.

At Hamilton, Ont., six deputy returning officers and 14 poll clerks had to be appointed after the polls opened because of defaulting on the part of those appointed earlier.

In the same constituency—Hamilton West—one man reported for work in an intoxicated condition; another was discharged because of alleged incapability to perform his duty.

In several Toronto ridings poll clerks were late reporting.

Complaints from voters in Toronto's York East constituency over signs urging election of different parties which were posted in the polling stations, brought electoral employees to tear them down.

While voting in some city ridings was light, returning officers felt a rush of residents would appear from noon hour on to make their choice. They said they expected the women's vote would begin to show heavily after the lunch hour. One officer pointed out that this was "washing day and the women will flock to the polls this afternoon," he predicted."

In most city ridings, the aged, the tired and the lazy were assured an opportunity to cast their ballots with plenty of automobiles available at candidates' campaign headquarters.

But at Owen Sound, Ont., Mrs. Emily Allen, who will be 90 in a few weeks, disdained the use of a car as she walked the two

Plan To Drop Ballot Boxes

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—Ice has prevented delivery of ballot boxes to Southeastern Labrador communities and the RCAF is trying to parachute boxes and voting equipment to a dozen isolated outposts.

Ranger Jarvis of Battle Harbor reported to the chief electoral officer today that heavy ice along the Labrador coast had prevented him from taking the boxes to 12 settlements.

Weather permitting, duplicate sets of voting equipment will be flown to the area from the RCAF base at Goose Bay, Labrador. Last week, the RCAF dropped voting supplies to 12 Northern Labrador settlements after the government ice-breaker Saurel was stuck in the ice near the icebound islands, some 200 miles north of Goose Bay along the Labrador coast.

If the air force can't deliver the boxes and ballots on time, the inhabitants of the area will be unable to vote. The chief electoral officer's office here said there is no provision in election regulations that permits extension of polling time for such cases.

Man Dies Of Burns Following Flash Fire

BRANTFORD, June 27 (CP)—Bernard Anderson, 26, of Brantford, died early today, 50 hours after he was injured in a flash fire in a mixing room at the Canadian Durex Abrasives Ltd. plant here early Saturday morning.

Doctors made a vain attempt to save the Canadian army veteran's life. Many of his friends volunteered as blood donors to help in reducing severe shock as the result of the burns which covered 85 per cent of his body.

Mr. Anderson was formerly a coal miner at Sydney Mines, NS, and came to the Durex plant two years ago.

Party Leaders Heard In Last Appeals

By The Canadian Press

Canada's political party leaders came to the end of the long campaign road during the week-end.

On the eve of today's federal election, they delivered their final speeches, ending a campaign which began seven weeks ago, and moved to their homes to await the election results.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent toured the Quebec City district Sunday and then returned to the city. Progressive-Conservative Leader George Drew wound up his campaign with a rally in Ottawa Saturday night. He will receive the results in the capital.

Both M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, finished their tours in the West, Mr. Coldwell in his home riding of Rosetown-Biggar and Mr. Low in Alberta.

Mr. St. Laurent told a rally at Malanchie, Que., that his Liberal Government "in all probability" will win today's election. The only aim of him and his cabinet, he said, is to find the "best way of serving the Canadian public."

Mr. Drew reiterated at Ottawa that the voting will decide whether Canada is to return to the type of responsible government advocated by his party. He called for personal support in the Ottawa district constituency of Carleton, where he was elected in a by-election last December.

Mr. Coldwell told a rally at Biggar, Sask., that Canada needs a democratic people's party in office which will run a middle course between dictatorship and Communism.

Prime Minister St. Laurent Sunday night concluded his election campaign with a 40-minute address to Quebec East constituents.

The Prime Minister told his audience they should vote against the Liberal party if they felt that 14 years in office had left it weary and with a decrepit membership.

As Long As Able

He said he planned to remain in the office of prime minister as long as providence was willing and as long as he was able.

Sunday, he travelled from Quebec City up the Beauce Valley to St. Georges, off to St. Malachie in Dorchester County and back home through the valley. The Prime Minister spoke to audiences at Beauceville, St. Georges, St. Joseph, Valley Junction and St. Marie De Beauce as well as St. Malachie.

He urged voters to support official Liberal candidates rather than independents who count for little in government."

Mr. Drew completed his campaign Saturday at a rally in the Ottawa Auditorium. He criticized the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion which predicted a Liberal victory in the election.

He said Canada still is a democracy and elections are decided at the polls and not by an organization that makes election predictions. He recalled how public opinion polls had forecast victory for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey over President Truman in the last United States election.

He criticized the Toronto Daily Star and described it as a disgrace to the newspaper profession. The Star's Saturday headline was "Keep Canada British — destroy Drew's Houde — God Save the King."

Mr. Drew said the Star had stated that the way to keep Canada British was to vote against him. The newspaper had done more to undermine confidence in Canada's system of government than any other publication in the country.

Asks Leadership

Mr. Coldwell wound up his election campaign Saturday night with two addresses in his own constituency of Rosetown-Biggar in which he appealed to organized farmers and workers to give Canada leadership.

"A Canadian form of Fascism, threatened by political leaders who serve the vested interests, will breed frustration among the masses, causing chaos and civil strife," he said. "To avoid both the threat of monopoly distatorship and totalitarian Communism a Democratic people's party is essential.

"That party is the CCF—organized by farmers, industrial workers and men and women of goodwill to build a freer Canada."

W. A. Fraser, Trenton, Goes To Senate With 4 Others

MONTREAL, June 27—(CP)—J. Adelard Godbout, Premier of Quebec from 1939 and 1944 and five other Liberal legislators were elevated to the Senate Saturday. Prime Minister St. Laurent, returning from Newfoundland to spend the last days of the federal election campaign in his own province, announced the appointments.

Those appointed to the Upper House besides Mr. Godbout are Dr. Thomas Vincent Grant of Montague, P.E.I., member of the last parliament for King's; Henry Rear Emmerson of Dorchester, N.B., former member of parliament for Westmoreland; Hon. J. J. Mr. Golding, mayor of Seaforth from 1921 to 1929, was elected to the Commons at a by-election in 1932 and held a seat until parliament was dissolved last April 30. Thinks 5 Fires Incendiary

KEOLWNA, B.C., June 27 (CP)—A new Roman Catholic Church was burned to the ground in a series of five fires near here yesterday and Fire Marshal Fred Gore blamed arsonists.

The fires demolished the church at Ruthland, the Glenmore irrigation district office, a hay barn and 10,000 apple boxes. Damage was unofficially estimated at $50,000.

The fifth fire damaged a CNR high bridge between Kelowna and Glenmore. Beer bottles, filled with gasoline and fuses, were found near the bridge, which was saved by the Kelowna fire brigade en route to the Glenmore blazes.

Fire Marshal Gore said he believed more than one firebug is responsible. All five fires flared within 35 minutes. Fires at the railway bridge and the apple box pile, two miles apart, occurred within 15 minutes of each other.

Egg Production Declines; U.K. Gets Less

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP) — There's a shortage of help in the hen house. With fewer hens to do the job, Canada is finding herself in the midst of a declining egg production that's holding up egg shipments to the United Kingdom.

Egg production in May amounted to 39,944,000 dozen, a decline from the 41,047,000 dozen laid in the same month last year. There was a decline of 9.5 per cent in the total production for the first five months of the year compared with a year ago.

An Agricultural Department spokesman said the reason for the 1947 when poultry producers decline goes back to the end of found egg prices were fluctuating downward and bought fewer chicks.

"Production probably will go up in the latter months of the year" he said. "We were afraid right at the beginning of 1949 that we wouldn't be able to fill the United Kingdom egg contract."

This contract calls for the shipment of 19,500,000 dozen storage eggs, 3,000 tons of dried egg and 4000 tons of frozen egg. Prices being paid are slightly below those of 1948.

Egg production began easing up early in the year and during the first five months 175,419,000 dozen were produced, compared with 193,761,000 dozen for the first five months of 1948.

Declines in production were recorded in seven provinces. Only Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia showed slight production increases. Biggest slide was registered in Ontario, where for the first five months of 1948 production was 79,284,000 dozen; in the same period of 1949 it declined to 59,495,000.

Railway Strike In Berlin Comes To End

BERLIN, June 27—(AP)—The five-week railway strike which has blockaded Berlin almost as effectively as did the Russians is scheduled to end Tuesday morning.

The executive board of the anti-Communist railway union (U.G.O.) bowed to the orders of the western allies Sunday and ordered members back to work on the Soviet-controlled railways at that time.

The British, American and French commanders in Berlin had warned that if the strike were not called off by Tuesday, the west Berlin city government would quit relief payments to the strikers.

They said the strike could no longer be justified because it was seriously damaging Berlin economically, was blocking the Paris four-power agreements to revive east-west trade, and was laying a big burden on the western powers in maintaining the airlift.

Strikers won two of their three major demands.

All salaries will be paid in west marks. Since this currency has a purchasing power four to six times as great as the Soviet-sponsored east mark, railway strikers have won one of the greatest wage boosts in industrial history.

The railway management will convert 60 per cent of each employee's east mark salary into west marks; the west Berlin city government will exchange the other 40 per cent.

The Russian-controlled railway management has given assurances there will be no retaliation against strikers.

The workers' third demand—recognition of the U.G.O. as official bargaining agent — was denied.

Nevertheless success of the strike has been such that the U.G.O., which began it with 3,000 members, now has 14,000.

The end of the strike clears the way for initiation of four-power consultations by Deputy Military governors this week on encouraging a return of east-west trade. This conference was agreed on by the foreign ministers at Paris.

Eight Million Eligible To Vote In Election; 848 Candidates Nominated

Will Elect 262 Members, 17 More Than 1945; Total Vote May Reach Record Total of 6,000,000, Belief

By The Canadian Press

This is election day.

In Canada's 21st Federal vote since Confederation, Canadian voters go to the polls in their millions to elect 262 new members of parliament and, by their ballots, determine the political stripe of the new Federal government. The polls opened at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m., local standard time. The number of registered voters is early 8,000,000 and the actual turnout may reach a record total of 6,000,000. In the 1945 general election, 5,246,130 of the 6,952,445 eligible voters used their franchise. That was a record figure.

Today's voters will make their selection of new Commons members from among 848 candidates, including 260 Liberals, 249 Progressive Conservatives, 180 CCF, 55 Union of Electors, 27 Social Credit, 19 Communist Labor-Progressives and 58 representing miscellaneous political groupings.

The Liberals have been in office since 1935, when they ousted a Conservative government headed by the late Viscount Bennett.

To obtain a clear working majority, the winning party must capture 132 or more—just over one-half—of the 262 seats in the new House of Commons.

There were 245 seats in the last House. For this election, the total has been raised by 17 by the addition of seven for the new province of Newfoundland and 10 for new constituencies created since the 1945 election.

At dissolution April 30 this year this was the standing:

Liberals 125; Progressive Conservatives, 69; CCF, 32; Social Credit, 12, Independent, three; Bloc Populaire, two; Union of Electors, one; vacant, one.

The long campaign leading up to today's voting produced no over-all issue.

While the Liberals campaigned largely on the government's legislative and administrative record, the Progressive - Conservatives hammered at trade, housing, taxation and agriculture and criticized the sale of the $22,000,000 Canadair Aircraft Plant at Montreal to a United States firm, the Electric Boat Company of Hartford, Conn.

CCF speakers brought both of the older parties under fire and promised, if elected, to bring national industries, including the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, under public ownership.

The Social Credit group urged the adoption of Social Credit monetary theories as a means of bolstering export trade and producing increased purchasing power on the home market.

The two constituencies in which the Liberals are not running candidates for this election as both in British Columbia.

The Progressive Conservatives did not nominate candidates in 13 ridings—five in Quebec, three each in British Columbia and Alberta and one in Manitoba. The 13th seat is far-northern Yukon-Mackenzie.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP
is a lot of little things

TRIBUTE TO A GOOD NEIGHBOR

Good neighbors mean as much to nations as to individuals. There's mighty little bickering over the longest border line in the world. And, as Canadians, we can be proud of our part in this happy relationship. Therefore, on the occasion of Independence Day, the Fourth of July, we salute the people next door—the people of the United States. Let us welcome those who spend the holiday in the Land of the Maple Leaf. Let us make their visit a pleasant one. That's "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

The U.S. Spy Trials And Next Year's Elections

It is reasonably safe to predict that when the so-called "off-year" elections are held in the United States next year, one of the major political issues will be provided by the espionage and Communist trials now being held in that country. Regardless of the outcome of these trials, Republican strategists will seek to turn them against the Democratic Administration. The circumstances on which the issue will be based may be easily grasped and politically sound.

• • •

The first is the fact that the Democrats have had control of the legislative and executive branches of the United States Government for the past sixteen years, with the exception of the 1947-1949 period in which the Republicans had a Congressional majority. Democrats hold most of the Federal judicial seats.

• • •

The second is the fact that during most of this long stretch in office the Democrats have been supported by all branches of the left, including Communists. Communists withdrew their support during the Hitler-Stalin alliance, but returned when that short-lived affair was terminated. Fellow-travellers, left-wing labour leaders and other radicals have attached themselves to the Democratic Party.

• • •

While the late President Roosevelt, President Truman, and other Democratic leaders steadily and insistently rejected Communist support, the fact remains that during their terms in office Communists managed to get into executive posts in Government service. Demands from Congress for examinations into the manner in which such posts became available to Communists were long resisted by the Administration.

• • •

There is the further fact that a considerable section of the general public in the United States has enlarged its detestation of Communists to include virtually all advanced liberals. There are still a number of the latter in the Administration, although President Truman has been replacing them recently.

• • •

The issue may prove an effective one for the Republicans. On the other hand, public sentiment by next year may be soothed by developments between now and then. There is the further possibility that any Republican gain through this issue might be offset by a genuine reaction of disgust with the witch-hunting tactics employed in many instances in the furious disloyalty searches now being conducted.

Would Lashing Improve Our Judges?

Speaking to the Canadian Penal Congress at Kingston on Wednesday last, a lawyer named Arthur Maloney made some rather remarkable statements about the judiciary. Some Ontario magistrates, he said, were "high and mighty" and might be improved "if they were given a taste of the lash". He is quoted also as saying that many judges preside with "imperviousness" and pass sentence with "a sanctimonious air". He said he was "disturbed about the mentality of these judges who are not upset when handing out such punishment . . If they were given a taste of the lash themselves they would be less inclined to hand it out".

We cannot make any sense out of Mr. Maloney's reported remarks. Surely he, as a lawyer, understands that judges and magistrates, when on the bench, do not hand out punishments capriciously, nor do they regard such sentences as evidences of their own power or instruments of their own vengeance? A judge is a high-priest of the law; he does not make it, he interprets it. He is appointed because he is thought to have good judgement in disputed points of law. A judge's responsibility for the punishments he decrees is strictly limited. Does Mr. Maloney really think that judges are free to do as they please?

What good would it do a judge to feel the lash? If he has brains enough to be a judge he is doubtless capable of estimating the effect of lashing upon others. No Judge would care to be lashed or to serve a term in prison, nor is there any reason why he should do so. If Mr. Maloney thinks that some of our judges are cruel and irresponsible, he is free to say so, though it would cost him dear in his profession. But to attack the whole judiciary is a poor way of reforming it.

Some degree of personal feeling is bound to enter into a court judgement. We think, however, that it is less than sentimentalists like Mr. Maloney imagine. And the place to meet the problem of cruel laws and savage punishments is in Parliament. The judges do not make the laws, nor can they alter them. To suggest that the judge should suffer with the criminal is as silly as to suggest that the physician should suffer with his patient.

Strawberries Stay Firm

"Strawberries Stay Firm". That was what we were reading on another page of this paper a few days ago. The article had nothing to do with the kind of firmness the stockmarket is sometimes said to exhibit, or even with fresh strawberries heaped on a plate, ready for devouring. It was about preserving strawberries.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, have developed a method of canning strawberries so that the berries do not collapse.

That is it; Uncollapsible berries, sturdy in the jar as in the mouth. First, of course, one must have berries which, au naturel, are plump, round and fruity.

The secret is in letting the berries stand in the hot syrup until they fill out. This also helps to set the colour.

What? Are our strawberries to be hydrated, filled out with cosmetic sugar and water? Diluted strawberries, puffed up merely with steam? A borrowed juice? Perish the plumped berry into collapsed jam, if that is so!

Wash, hull, berries.

And do not munch too many in the process. Remember these are for the winter palate, not for the seasonable summer appetite.

Bring to boil slowly in syrup. Cover, remove from heat and let stand from one to three hours.

The reason for covering them is, of course, that light-fingered household helpers will not filch what have been so hardly hulled and sauced. During the three-hour wait, go hull some more and gobble at will. This releases the tension of self-denial during No. 1 Hulling Period.

Pack in sealers, leaving one-half inch head space.

That space is for the swelling, the berries that are sucking up syrup into fatness.

Partially seal and process small (pint) sealers, 15 minutes in boiling water, or 20 minutes in the oven, at 275 degrees Fahrenheit.

We have no comment on that clause, for we cannot understand it. Were our berries not already in sealers with a half-inch of breathing space at the top? Oh, we are forgetting; the berries have to be cooked; the hot syrup was only a bit of gilding.

It sounds very pleasant, and should we have the fortitude to try to preserve strawberries, we are sure the bottled specimens would look very pretty. But we are savage enough to be unable to break ourself of the habit of preserving delectable foods in the natural way—in the stomach. Anyway, the recipe for canning does not tell us how to get the berries. That is a first requisite.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Quebec cigarette smuggler was found transporting his goods in a coffin. The last place, he thought, where anyone would look for a coffin-nail.

Whenever we pass an open manhole it bears a sign "Men At Work". This is reassuring, for this is just the time of year for loafing in a nice, cool sewer.

Since the beginning of the year, the Windsor Star reports, there have been 15 safecracking jobs in Windsor. Perhaps it is time they called safes something else in Windsor.

After a few minutes' deliberation a Western jury found a woman guilty of shooting a man. She was described as "53 and plain". Most men feel that they deserve a beautiful murderess, just as they would prefer to be run over by a Rolls-Royce.

Of Cabbages And Kings

By PETER ELIOT

THE drought in Southern Ontario recalls two stories about the custom of praying for rain during severe drought. It was at such a time that Dr. Ezra Ripley (the poet Emerson's step-grandfather) said to a young clergyman with professional dignity:

"This is no time for you young men; the affair, sir, is getting serious, I will pray myself."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Duke of Cambridge had a most unfortunate habit of thinking aloud during services in church when he was stationed at Halifax.

"Let us pray," said the clergyman.

"By all means," said the duke.

The clergyman began the prayer for rain. And the duke exclaimed, so that everyone heard:

"No good as long as the wind is in the east."

✧ ✧ ✧

A WOULD-BE authoress, a certain Miss Brooke, asked Dr. Johnson to read a play she had just written, called The Siege of Sinope. In an off hand manner she informed the Doctor that she wanted his criticism because she had too many irons in the fire to give her play the correction that she felt it might need. Without expressing any interet in the work, the Doctor replied:

"In that case, Madam, I would say: Put your tragedy where your irons are."

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE day Johnson received a message from Oliver Goldsmith saying that his landlady had summoned the law to arrest him for non-payment of his rent. Johnson immediately sent a guinea and followed in person as soon as possible. A little late, however, because he arrived in time to see Goldsmith, drunk on Madeira procured with the guinea, scolding his landlady.

The old Doctor asked Goldsmith if he had any means of raising money, and Goldsmith returned with the manuscript of a novel. Johnson hurried to Newberry, the bookseller, with the manuscript and returned with £60. This was the Vicar Of Wakefield.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the old horse days great care was taken over the recruitment of coachmen, recalls Sir Aylmer Firebrace in a delightful volume called Fire Service Memoirs. "The chief officer always saw applicants personally," he writes. "One of these was ushered into his study and asked if he knew anything about horses. 'Not 'arf, Guv'nor. Two winners and a second yesterday.'"

✧ ✧ ✧

A 1946 recruit was a merchant seaman who had been torpedoed three times and spent several days on a raft in the Atlantic. One night "the bells went down for a turn-out drill. The officer stood waiting in the appliance room, when, to his utter astonishment, he saw 'X' coming down the sliding pole with a bundle of clothes under one arm and wearing the station cat round his neck.

'What on earth....!' spluttered the almost speechless officer.

'X' wiped his brow. 'Sorry, sir,' he said, 'I thought I was abandoning ship.'"

✧ ✧ ✧

A WORRIED fellow once called at a fire station to ask if the brigade would help him to get into his flat, as he'd locked himself out. An escape was turned out and he was "helped" in through the open window. The stranger was profuse in his thanks, and the firemen, feeling that they could untie the Boy Scout knot in their ties for the day's good deed, returned to their station. The following day they were all interrogated by the police. They had "obliged" a burglar!

✧ ✧ ✧

NOT all the blitz jobs were grim. A fire officer asked a woman who was surveying her burnt-out home one morning:

"Where's your husband?"

"In Libya, the coward," she replied.

During a heavy raid two youngsters who left their shelter to "see the fun" were told sharply by a fire officer to get back. One, from a safe distance, shouted indignantly: "T'aint your —'s war, mister!"

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS recalls the story of another fire department. A committee in Springfield who were seeking to build a volunteer fire department needed money. They approached Lincoln for a subscription. He was sympathetic but said:

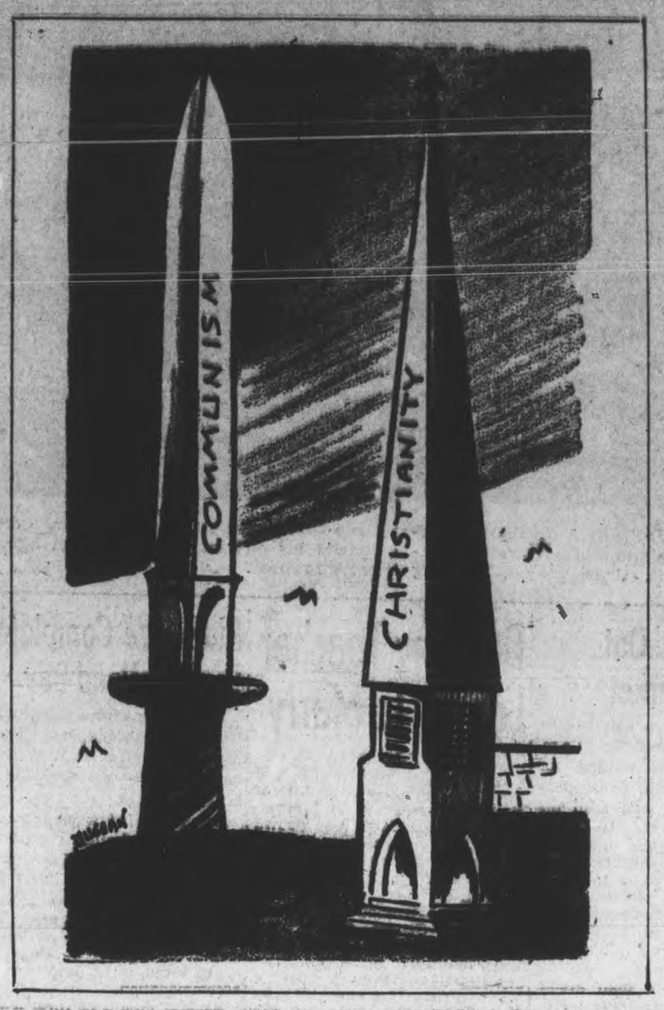
"Tell you what, boys. I'll talk it over with Mrs. Lincoln tonight. Here's what I'll say:

"'My dear, there's a subscription paper being handed around to raise money for a new hose cart for the fire department. The committee called on me today and I told them I'd talk it over with you. Don't you think we had better subscribe $50.00?' Then she will look up quickly and say,

"'Oh, Abraham, Abraham! Will you never learn? You can't afford it. Twenty-five dollars is quite enough.' Mr. Lincoln chuckled as he added,

"Bless her dear soul, she'll never find out how I got the better of her. Come around tomorrow, boys, and get your $25."

Forward Step



Admittance of a Negro woman, Ada Siquel Fisher, to the University of Oklahoma law school, is another victory in the long-bitterly-contested battle against racial segregation in the United States. Her struggle was a hard one, lasting three years, and involving an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Nor is the element of segregation completely eliminated, even in Oklahoma. But it is another step forward.

One of the greatest advantages American Communists have is the existence of laws which discriminate against citizens on the grounds of race or colour.

American Negroes have demonstrated their ability in many fields. They feel that it is particularly unjust to deny them facilities for education and advancement, and at the same time plead that their backwardness is an argument against providing education.

Weaving A Map

(BBC TALKS)

TAPESTRY making is an art as old as ancient Egypt, but there are no records of it in Britain until the reign of Edward the Third, although it must have been in use before then. But in the fourteenth century these lovely hangings became popular and were found all over the land in every room of the great houses, bringing a civilising colourful touch to bare, grim walls.

Very many different subjects, depicted in endless detail, were woven into tapestry. This makes it additionally fascinating to the student of history for here, in the pictures of everyday life, in the hunting and battle scenes, is a faithful record of past days. Tapestry also showed Biblical scenes and stories from the classics. When castles gave place to houses at the end of the Middle Ages, it was used even more widely; every house of good size was full of it.

By the middle of the sixteenth century tapestry was being made in England, by a Warwickshire gentleman, William Sheldon of Beoley, near Birmingham, and it was this man and his work that was the subject of a recent BBC talk given by E. R. C. Brinkworth, who is a lecturer for the Extra Mural department of Birmingham University and an authority on local history. The Sheldons were a wealthy family and the Sheldon chapel at Beoley is today full of their magnificent monuments.

Sheldon sent his son Ralph on an instructive tour of the Continent, this being considered a good and educative process for young men just down from Oxford. Ralph took with him his good friend Richard Hicks and in Flanders the two of them became so interested in the art of weaving tapestry that they learnt all they could about it. Their interest infected William Sheldon who, as a far-sighted Elizabethan business man, set Hicks up as master of a small factory at Barcheston, a quiet corner of Warwickshire, where the local men took quickly to the work and were helped in it by refugee Flemings. Their main output, so Brinkworth revealed, was cushion covers but from the first Sheldon and Hicks made a speciality of maps of the English counties, woven in bright and varied colours. These maps, really original and very beautiful, are today extremely valuable. They are highly regarded for many reasons, firstly for their intrinsic beauty and fine workmanship but perhaps even more for their historical value. The Churches, bridges and roads are shown by means of symbols, rather as they are in ordnance maps of today. All sorts of landmarks that have now disappeared are found on them, providing an accurate picture of the country of the period.

Two of the best known Sheldon maps are in the Bodleian Library at Oxford. One shows the counties of Warwick, Gloucester and Hereford. The other, unhappily much mutilated shows the Thames valley, and in the border a medallion framing a tiny map of Africa—"rather a curiosity," said Mr. Brinkworth, "and an interesting sidelight on the widespread interest of the time in geographical discovery."

Three more Barcheston map tapestries, all of Midland counties, are in the York Museum. One of the finest, now in two parts, shows Gloucestershire and parts of Somerset, Wiltshire and Monmouthshire. It was woven in 1588 to commemorate Ralph Sheldon's marriage to Anne Throckmorton and the border bears the Sheldon and Throckmorton arms. It was sold at Christie's in 1936 for £1,008, yet less than a hundred years before one piece had fetched £15 and the other only £5.

Other Sheldon tapestries are in private hands but the finest relic of all, made in 1595, is the panel in the Birmingham City Museum and Art Gallery, which shows Judah giving his staff and bracelets to Tamar.

Should Be Locked Up

There will be no sympathy wasted on the young man who was sentenced by a Fort William magistrate the other day to serve three years in Stony Mountain penitentiary. His crime was that of deliberately starting fires in the forest near Armstrong, Ont., in order to get a job to help to put them out.

According to the evidence, one of the fires he started was within two miles of Armstrong. This endangered the lives of 500 persons. It took two crews two days to put out the blaze. The accused also admitted persuading two Indian boys to start a second fire. The boys were given six months on probation.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past. (Eccl. 3: 14, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thus saith the Lord, The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where is the house that ye build unto me? and where is the place of my rest? For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things have been, saith the Lord. (Isa. 66: 1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. (Ps. 19: 1, 2.)

Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens: let thy glory be above all the earth. (Ps. 57: 11.)

She Got Her Light

A lady of our acquaintance recently conducted a one-woman campaign to have a traffic light installed at a busy intersection near her home. She telephoned the city commissioners and then went down and and braved the municipal lions in their dens. But no dice! All she could get from the town fathers was: "Be careful when you're crossing the street, and you won't need a traffic light."

Then the lady sat down and wrote them a series of letters, each of which ended with this plaintive phrase: "How can I possibly cross the street when thecarsandtrucks keepcomingthisway!"

She got her traffic light.

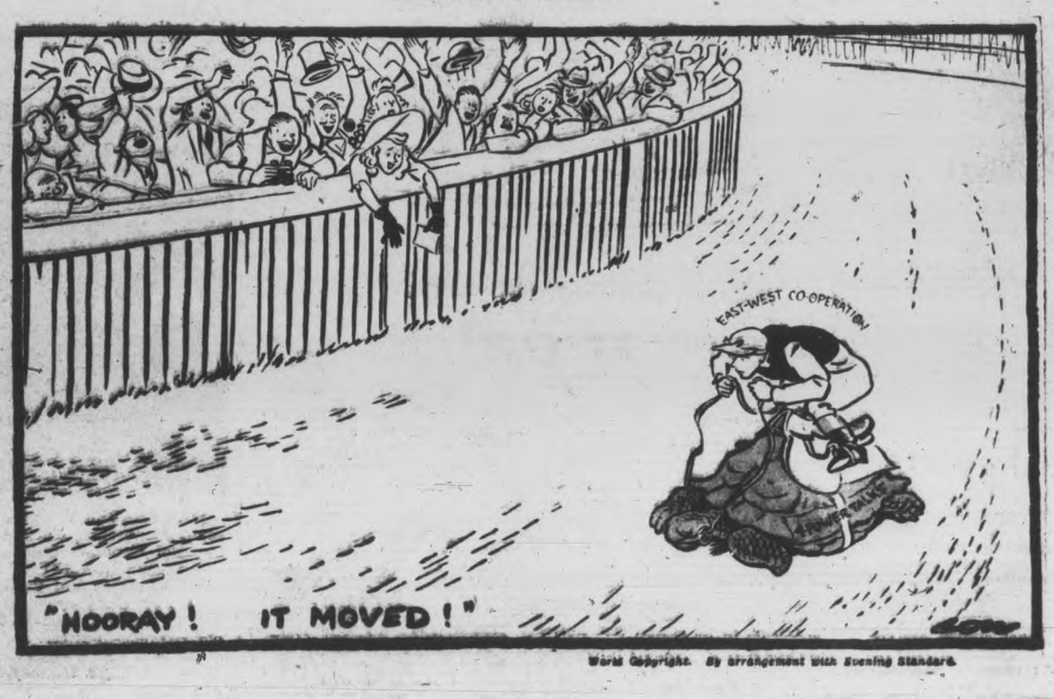
'Spot I Like Best'

Many visitors during recent years have expressed different opinions of Victoria and Vancouver Island. The majority have been captivated by the natural beauties of the region, some by the charm of the people, others by the attraction of the gardens. Some, on the other hand, have contrasted the city and environs as they are today with those of earlier years, and have found the contrast unfavorable.



It is pleasant, therefore, to have another new opinion from Sir Donald Mackenzie-Kennedy, KCMG, former Governor of Mauritius, who explains quite simply: "I have seen a good deal of the world and this is the spot I like best". What better advertisement could be asked?—Victoria Times.

Widespread Drought

New York, New Jersey and much of the eastern seaboard is suffering from a prolonged drought. Locally there has been no measurable rainfall since May 27. In consequence, home gardeners, commercial vegetable growers and farmers are sorely troubled. If relief does not come soon there will be disaster to many leafy crops, serious damage to hay and corn, and checks all along the food production line which even good rains, too long postponed, cannot repair.

Canadian Author Lays Wreath On Grave Of Valancy Crawford

Joy Tranter, a leading Canadian author of today, paid tribute Sunday morning to one of Canada's outstanding poets of the late 1800's. On the grave of Isabella Valancy Crawford in Little Lake Cemetery she laid a basket and a bouquet of flowers.

Isabella Valancy Crawford was born in Dublin, Ireland in 1850, and came here as a child. She died at the age of 37, and is buried in the northeast corner of the cemetery. Her grave is marked by a great, grey Irish cross. She was one of the great women poets of Canada, and pioneered in the field of distinctive Canadian verse.

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Probably not too many folks will bother reading this column on account of this is Dominion election night, so we might work in a few fillers which have been padding our files. Some praise agent has been pestering us for some odd reason to give a plug to the Tam O'Shanter Golf Club open tourney in Chicago (no less) running a week or so, starting Aug. 5. A record purse of $66,200 up and more than 400 pro and amateur entries expected. They call it the all-American, and world championship pro, amateur and women's competition, and this "pot o' gold" annual event is quite a thing, one imagines. In case you care.

A CP item says that it is reported that Connie Mack has quit using the score-card for signalling since his pitchers are too poor to make it practical. Connie claims that to place fielders properly and signal them, you must know exactly what the pitcher is going to pitch, what and where. High, low, inside, outside, curve, fast or changeover. As his pitchers themselves don't know where the ball is going, this crosses Connie up as well as the A's players, so the famous score-card wigwag signal Connie used so many years from the bench isn't in evidence now. The oldtime pilot is disgusted.

Hokum To You, Sir!

Nels Whitmore, St. Thomas scribe, commenting on this says: "Catchers do not signal for high, low, inside, outside and all that nonsense. They have three signals, fast ball, curve and pitchout. There is more hokum to baseball than there is to politics." That's strong talk, podner, and we imagine the good ballsters will be more perturbed at it than the politicians. Certainly, catchers signal for where they want a ball—any intelligeent catcher, at least. They also signal for the change of pace throw. A major league receiver will have six or eight signals, besides shifting his glove for the proper target. And he is also supposed to know every opponent's weakness. So there, Nels!

Prexy Pat Calladine and his City Softball League executive sat down the other night to discuss the recent fight at the Bowl. Being in lenient mood, they decided to suspend Bud Harrison of the Uniteds and Don Griffin of Knights one game each, and they set the next game these teams play each other as the one. Thereby letting the guys have more time to cool off in case they thought of resuming the feud. Executive also tacked a one-game suspension on Spin Spencer for using abusive language in an argument with Umpire Wimp Borland. Men's games tomorrow: Knights vs. Cosmos, and Outlaws vs. Uniteds.

Giants Playing Petes

Don't forget the big exhibition senior baseball game at 6 30 tonight in Riverside Park. The Zulu Jungle Giants are playing the Petes, and we're told these touring colored players perform in native attire. What that is, don't ask. In any case, it ought to be a right interesting ball game beween two good teams, and a fine spot to while away an hour and a half while waiting for some of the early election results to be compiled. The Petes are sitting pretty now atop the COBL heap after taking a double-header 8-6 and 4-3 in Brockville on Saturday. Oshawa edged Batawa 4-3 to stay in second spot. The Petes go to Belleville this week-end.

* * * * * *

It was tit-for-tat by local twiriers Saturday in Brockville. Gunner Whitehill hit a wild streak in the first game after going along nicely for quite a space. Lefty Dadson came to the rescue. In the other joust, Dadson got into a bit of trouble and Whitehill saved the day, though Lefty got credit for both victories. That doesn't bother the Gunner any as last year's top COBL pitcher is a great team player. Pat Wilson swung a mighty mace for the men o' Murphy in this twin bill, having three for four one game and two in four the next, including some hefty extra-base blows. Yes, the local seniors are going along okay so far this semester.

Royals Defeat Orioles Twice

By The Associated Press.

The pitching of Clyde King, cunning righthander of Montreal Royals, is one of the surprises of the International League pennant race.

The lanky King turned in his ninth victory as against only one loss Sunday as he twirled the Royals to a 6-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles in the second game of a twin bill. The Royals also won the opener 4-1.

King limited the Orioles to four hits but two of them were homers by Ken Wood and Bingo Binks.

Clarence Podbielan, with help in the ninth from Turk Lown, stopped the Orioles on seven hits in the first game. John Mikan restricted the Royals to five hits but the five walks he issued cost him the game.

The victory enabled the Royals to move to within 2½ games of the leading Buffalo Bisons who divided a bargain bill with Toronto Maple Leafs, winning the nightcap 4-0 after dropping the opener 8-3.

Snowed Under

Toronto snowed the Bisons under with six home runs in the first game. Alex Garbowski, Hal Wagner, Bill Glynn, Johnny Welaj, Ed Sanicki and Johnny Blatnik walloped the round trips. Sanicki's belt was his 20th of the season.

Clem Hausmann shut the Leafs out on four hits in the finale. The Bisons scored all of their runs in the fifth with George Byam and Billy De Mars accounting for three of the markers with home runs.

Rochester Red Wings shelled Jersey City Giants 14-3 in a single game. The Wings piled up an 11-0 lead in three innings to enable Cloyd Boyer to coast to his seventh victory. Ed Bierkowicz hit his eighth homer of the season for Rochester with two on in the second.

Syracuse's Chiefs turned back the last place Newark Bears twice 5-4 and 5-1. Johnny Hetki was pounded for 14 hits in the opener and finally gave way to Ken Burkhart in the ninth who stopped the Bears to protect Hetki's eighth victory.

Bud Byerly, former St. Louis Cardinal righthander, checked the Bears on six safeties in the nightcap.

Brampton In Lead

Toronto Team Gets Win Over Electrics

A smart soccer aggregation, Sangamor from Toronto, took a 3-2 decision over the CGE eleven Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval, before a large crowd of spectators. The visitors indulged in close-passing combination to advantage with seven Canadians, four Scots and one Englishman comprising the team. Best for locals were Cotton, Strong and Craig.

Sangamor settled down to an early attack, taking the Petes by surprise in a few minutes when left-winger Madill centred across to Scott Perry to head the ball in below the cross-bar. They went right back again to register the second counter from a Macfarlane cross that Perry converted inside the upright. Toronto introduced the close-passing style to perfection to bring out the first-class half-back play of C. Murduff, Cotton and Steel. Eventually Finlay side-stepped the defense to leave his pivot man in possession. He registered his third counter for the afternoon.

On resuming, CGE re-arranged their attack to advantage with Stan McCann and E. Cotton up on the attack to harass the visitors. Again Toronto revived with a long swinging style to baffle the local full backs but Chamberlain was solid in goal. Repeated attacks by Strong and Goodhew eventually brought success as the latter slipped the ball back to Dunn who let it pass over to Cotton who made no mistake. He was rewarded a little later with a beautiful goal on a Strong-Cotton combination to make it 3-2.

Goal Scorers

Sangamor—Scott Perry 3, CGE Cooton 2.

Sangamor—J. Hargreaves; goal; R. Howard and B. Bird, full backs; J. Crawford and J. Robertson, half backs; W. MacFarlane, R. Coling, Scott Perry, G. Finlay and J. Madill, forwards; sub., D. Sheppard.

It was a good tournament, and once again Ken Sloane, manager of Tip Top Tailors local store, was thanked for the generosity of his firm. These Tip Top tournaments are gaining in popularity each year.

Red Sox In Third Place After Beating Browns 5-3

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Boston Red Sox are devouring everything in sight these days, largely because little Johnny Pesky once again is "setting the table" for sluggers Ted Williams and Vern Stephens.

Pesky is the lad whose name you never see among the home-run and runs batted in leaders, but year in and year out, he's around the top in hits, runs scored and batting percentage.

Johnny has hit safely in Boston's last 12 games, scoring in all but two. The Red Sox have won 10 of them. Their 5-3 triumph over St. Louis Browns Sunday was their fifth in a row and moved them into third place by two percentage points over Detroit.

In Boston's four-game sweep over the Browns, Johnny collected 12 hits and scored nine times. Co-incidentally, Williams batted in 11 runs and Stephens seven.

Five Games Behind

Boston now is only five games behind the league-leading New York Yankees. The Yankees were held to a split in their doubleheader with the Tigers. Ed Lopat ended a four-game losing streak pitching the Yankees to a 6-2 triumph in the opener, but the Tigers came back to pound Vic Raschi and Frank Shea for a 12-4 second game win.

Pat Mullin replaced the slumping Johnny Groth for Detroit, and slammed out three home runs in the nightcap. He hadn't connected for any before Sunday. The loss was the second for the 11-game winning Raschi.

Runner-up Philadelphia also divided a twin bill. The A's beat Chicago White Sox 4-2 on pinch hitter Wally Moses' three-run double in the eighth, but the Sox came back to win the second 3-0. Bob Kuzava and Marino Pieretti combined to spin the shutout. Pieretti replaced Kuzava with two on and none out in the eighth and halted the Mackmen.

A pair of walks, a single by Ken Keltner and a double by Bob Kennedy gave Cleveland two runs in the 10th inning and a 3-1 verdict over the Senators in Washington. Steve Gromek, who pitched one-hit ball over the last five innings, edged out Sid Hudson in the hurling duel.

Brooklyn protected its one-half game edge over St. Louis in the National League, running roughshod over Pittsburgh 15-3. A ten-run seventh inning broke up any semblance of a ball game. The second game of the double-header was called at the end of three innings because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew. The Dodgers were ahead 5-4 but all records are wiped off. In the opening game, Don Newcombe breezed through to his fifth victory. He has lost one.

Keep Pace

The Cards kept pace with the Dodgers as Red Munger shut out Boston Braves 2-0 with a four-hitter. He also slammed his first major league homer. It came off Glen Elliott the loser.

Cincinnati Reds slowed up the onrushing Philadelphia Phils, knocking them off in both ends of a doubleheader, 4-3 and 5-2. The Reds won the opener in the 10th when pinch-hitter Homer Howell doubled Lloyd Merriman in from second. Herm Wehmeier gained his second victory in the nightcap.

Playing without Leo Durocher, their fiery manager, New York Giants salvaged the finale of a three-game series from Chicago Cubs 6-2. Durocher was penalized five days and fined $150 by the league president Ford Frick for an altercation with an umpire Saturday.

Dave Koslo held the Cubs to seven hits for his third victory.

Dutch Harrison Wins Pro Title

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, June 27 (CP) — Wise-cracking Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ask., the affable golfman with the sharp answers at the right moment, today was off for more glory on the American tournament circuit with the Canadian open crown the latest proof of just how good he can be.

Dutch matched wise-cracks for strokes in his 17 under par total of 271 to take the title first prize money of $2,000 cash and the Seagram Gold Cup as the 40th classic ended Saturday.

Bashful Bill Kerr of Montreal led the Canadian contingent, just two strokes behind Jim Ferrier of Chicago who took second-place $1,400 with a 275 score.

Jim Turnesa, the Elmsford, N. Y., pro, and Fred Hawkins of Antioch, Ill. shared third place with Kerr. The Montrealer, a big favorite with the gallery, received $816 for his third-spot effort and another $250 as leading Canadian pro.

Low amateurs honors were taken by Nick Weslock of Detroit, with 287. Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener was second among the simon-pures with 294.

Oshawa Beats Batawa 4-3 In Close Battle

OSHAWA, June 27 — (CP).— Oshawa Merchants, although spotting Batawa Shoemen three runs in the first inning of their Central Ontario Baseball League game on Saturday, were extended to the limit to nose out a 4-3 decision and keep within a half-game of the pace-setting Peterborough Marines.

Ross Knights got off on the wrong foot when the first batter, Cec Solmes, dropped an unattended pop near the box and the next, Ken Peacock, bunted safely. A bad error throw to first by Knights, a fumbled ball on a tag out, a timely single by Mac Watson gave Batawa 3 runs on as many hits and the two errors. After that Knights settled down and scattered only four hits over the distance.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Carry Out Test In Rain-Making

TORONTO, June 27—(CP)—A rainmaking experiment which started last Monday in moisture-sky areas of Southern Ontario ended on Friday night. Some rain fell during the week, but there was no deluge which could be attributed directly to the test.

It involved dropping dry ice on clouds over Niagara Falls, Arthur, Orangeville, Bradford, Newmarket, Stratford, Elmira, Fergus, Kitchener, Guelph and Georgetown. The project was a joint effort of the National Research Council, the Meteorological Service, and the RCAF.

Said Donald Fraser of the National Research Council, one of the men assigned to the project: "Our conclusions were the same as they have always been. If we have the right conditions, we can make rain—if he have not, we we cannot."

CONFEDERATION DOLLAR—This shiny silver dollar commemorates Newfoundland's entry into confederation. The Royal Canadian Mint struck 300,000 of the coins, which were speedily snapped up by collectors the day before Founder's Day, which recalls discovery of the island by John Cabot, in 1497. Cabot's ship, the Mathew, is reproduced on the back of the coin, together with the island's Latin motto, which means: "May Newfoundland flourish."

England Gets Heat

LONDON, June 27—(Reuters) Sunday was the hottest day of the year in most parts of Britain. Although local thunderstorms had been forecast, hardly any rain came to break the drought which is causing serious trouble to farmers. The temperature was 83 in London.

Joan Fontaine Will Get Broadway Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 27 (AP)—Joan Fontaine's name will brighten a Broadway marquee next fall.

The actress announced she will appear for the Theatre Guild in "Hilda Crain," a new play by Samson Raphaelson. It will be her first stage engagement since 1941, when she played with an all-star cast in Noel Coward's short plays for British charity. The troupe appeared in Hollywood and San Francisco.

If the new play is a success, Joan may stay with it as long as two years, with summer vacations for picture making.

"A male star —like Henry Fonda can stay away from films for a long time and come back safely," she told me. "But it is more dangerous for a woman to be off the screen for long."

The actress has a full schedule before starting the play. She has to finish "Bed of Roses," then goes to Italy for three weeks of locations on "September," returning here to complete the film.

Notes and Stuff

Paul Douglas goes to Berlin for "Quartered City" after he finishes "Turned Up Toes." He says it will be like going home—"I was there dozens of times before the war." The guy is refreshingly modest—says his greatest performance to date is when he accepts his movie salary with a straight face.

Dennis Morgan is playing another straight acting role in "Perfect Strangers" with Ginger Rogers. He was signed for the movies as a singer, but has done only 10 musicals in his 36 films.

PAID FOR APPLAUSE

The Emperor Nero had 5,000 paid applauders who attended his plays to insure their success.

Dies After Swim

CEDAR SPRINGS, Ont., June 27 (CP)—A birthday party on the beach near here Saturday night turned to tragedy when a 19-year-old youth was stricken shortly after a swim and died suddenly. The body of Sherman Cleveland, 19, of Cedar Springs, was found on the beach less than five minutes after he had talked with companions and had mentioned that he felt cold. It is believed the youth suffered a heart attack.

24 Hurt In Crash

Quebec Has Flood

CHICOUTIMI, Que., June 27 —(CP)—Waters of the Riviere Aux Rats, swollen by week-long rains, have overflowed their banks in this northeastern Quebec centre causing damage unofficially estimated at $300,000. Numerous cellars in homes and business establishments were flooded while the main street, Racine, was under water for a time.

Warkworth News

Mrs. Robert Walker and guest, Mrs. Chislett, left for Rochester (N.Y.) last week where Mrs. Walker will remain for a visit with her relatives and friends.

Miss Joy Anderson has been successful in obtaining her second promotion in the Bell Telephone Company, Toronto. She now holds the position of senior clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Thompson and Miss Alma Cole attended the funeral in Toronto of the late Mrs. Bruce Thompson on Wednesday.

Mrs. Cecil McMann spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Betts and Mrs. Woodard and June in Rochester, N.Y.

Messrs. Blair, Edward, Fred and William Huycke, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Turner of Campbellford, motored to Picton to attend the funeral of their nephew, Sherman Scott, who was killed in a plane crash at Nakina.

The Warkworth-Hastings road is in the best condition it has ever been, as it has recently been treated with a fresh coating of oil from Warkworth to the farm of Sloan Ewing and from there to the village of Hastings it has received a good coating of calcium.

Mrs. Raymond Chrysler has returned home from Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Elgin Edgar has recently installed a new brake-banding machine in his garage for repair work. He says this machine bakes the lining to the brake shoe and gives 50 per cent. more wear to the lining. Mr. Edgar also claims there is only one other machine of this type in this section of the county.

The Warkworth Locker Service is now open and ready for use. A film was shown in the Masonic Hall Friday outlining the care and preparation of foods for locker and home freezer. A question period was held where patrons were given an opportunity to bring their problems for discussion. Refreshments were served at the close.

Thousands Pay Memory Tribute Decoration Day

Under a beaming sun, with a soft breeze blowing from the lake, Peterborough and district Oddfellows paid tribute Sunday to their fallen brothers from outside lodges. They marched first from the Oddfellows' Hall on George St. to the War Memorial in Confederation Park, and then down George St. again to Little Lake cemetery. They were headed by the Salvation Army band.

At the War Memorial, a wreath was placed by Stanley Gillespie, Picton Lodge 143, and Richard P. Wellman, Madoc Lodge 179.

On arrival at the cemetery, the band moved up on the hill, and the Oddfellows gathered round an erected platform. Chairman of the Decoration Day committee, E. Gratton Harris, was on the platform with Carl Milheron, Noble Grand, Otonabee Lodge No. 13, Robert Pulford, Acting Noble Grand, Peterborough Lodge, and Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, All Saints' church.

While the band played "Nearer My God to Thee," Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Wellman took a wreath up the hill to the Oddfellows' plot, where it was placed in honor of the dead.

Address of Remembrance

Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite addressed the large group of Oddfellows and spectators and spoke of the debt we of this generation owe to the hardy pioneers who settled in this district more than 100 years ago. He urged that we, living in a modern age, should not forget what has been handed down by us by our forbears.

Mr. Kibblewhite told of the courage of those pioneers, and asked that we have the same courage to face present problems. He scorned the fatalistic attitudes of some people today, with their eternal question of "what's the use?"

The fatalist, Mr. Kibblewhite said, is typified by the person who believes that war is inevitable. But, he added, these things are only inevitable if we are not ready for them. "If we do not resist and oppose these inevitable things, then they come to pass."

The speaker said that the Christian argument against fatalism is that "the destiny of the world is in the hands of a living, loving, righteous God," and in a final word, he urged the crowd to "look unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our fate."

The occasion is annually taken by thousands of citizens to place flowers on beloved one's graves. Despite the flower shortage, by evening the cemetery was a mass of bloom and color, making Little Lake cemetery's usual beauty even more beautiful. Until dark the cemetery was thronged with flower-bearers and others who came to pay their tribute of recollection.

Brilliant Theatre Opening As Fortune My Foe Staged

By T. J. ALLEN

An objective assessment of the play Fortune, My Foe and its presentation Saturday evening is impossible to this reviewer, for the signal importance of the event overwhelms the critical faculties. It was an important and exciting evening because of the audience, because of the play's theme and authorship, because of the company producing it. The audience which filled every seat in the Queen Mary auditorium was representative and discerning.

The spontaneous appreciative response of the audience throughout the play, the curtain-calls at the end, and the cries of "Author, Author", proved that whatever their several motives in being First Nighters, the audience was happy with what it was given. Even the dramatic critic of a Toronto paper, a man whose trousers must be calloused from innumerable first nights was seen to be grinning and chuckling.

In French people who attend performances are said to "assister". Saturday night's audience assisted splendidy.

Fortune, My Foe was written within a stone's throw of the stage on which it was acted, by Robertson Davies of Peterborough. This essayist, actor and playwright (incidentally, he himself is directing the play) has in the last two years won great repute for his work in the Canadian theatre. It was the first time that his home town could see his full-length play, a play which Mr. Robert Christie, who took the lead, said at the curtain-call was the only significant full play yet written by a Canadian.

Another reason for the evening's importance was that it was the opening night of an eleven-week summer season for the newly - formed Peterborough Summer Theatre, under the aegis of Michael Sadler and Graham Ferguson. It is the first time that Peterborough and its district have had resident a professional company of actors and a season of plays. This company may well be the beginning of a new, enlarged era for theatre in Canada.

Canadian Theme

"The play's the thing". And so it was Saturday evening and so it will be all this week as Fortune, My Foe continues on its nine-performance run. The theme is on the familiar "Must Canadians go to the States?", which in Mr. Davies' re-telling gains freshness and vigour. It is the first time the problem has been treated dramatically. There is a secondary romantic love theme closely integrated with the tenor of the play.

The nub of the witty argument is that the junior university tutor Nicholas Hayward (played by Michael Lynd) decides that his duty and destiny must be fulfilled in Canada, despite the enchantments of Vanessa Medway (played by Anna Cameron) who, being wooed by Hayward, would woo him from genuine scholarship and his native land to bigger greenback fields across the border.

Michael Lynd gave a vivid performance, but at times was so impetuously intense that his stage personality seemed at odds with the tone of the actors. Anna Cameron's role was difficult to sustain because she cannot be too charming to the audience nor play the centre of the stage, nor yet be an outright hussy. Her transition from selfish, cattishness in Act 1 to a desirable young lady of some sympathy and understanding in Act 3 was rather abrupt.

Robert Christie made his part, that of Professor Rowlands, the major role in the play. He played with great insight and charm and force. His witty lines were finely timed, and in him Professor Rowlands became a person whose life and attitude were of important and affectionate concern to the audience. One of the strongest moments of the play came at the end of Nicholas Hayward's denunciation of Rowlands. The interplay of Robert Christie and Michael Lynd gave this moment full dramatic realization.

The introduction of puppets and a puppet-show was most interesting, but imposes considerable difficulties in the staging and acting. The difficulty from the point of view of the audience is that the puppet show has a very small stage and that wizardry and artistry of it (which was emphasized in the lines given various actors) must inevitably be translated by actors whose competence in pulling the strings of the puppets is limited by a week's practice. The play's lines prepare the audience for a make-shift

Pecks Of Fun Before Rain For 5,000 At CGE Picnic

Despite a downpour of rain which washed out all the events late in the afternoon a crowd of about 5,000 enjoyed themselves Saturday at the annual CGE picnic. The outing under the joint auspices of CGE Social and Athletic Club and the Canteen Fund was held at Nicholl's Aval.

All the children 's sports were run off before the rain which had been threatening all afternoon descended to end activities for the day. The picnic will be resumed tonight at 6 p.m.

Included on tonight's program will be adult sports, draws for numerous prizes, and special events. Among the adult sports will be horseshoes, sack races, obstacle races, mixed wheel barrow race, quarter century race, mixed balloon race, and egg and spoon race.

Stage Entertainment

One of the biggest attractions will be the stage entertainment on the civic bandstand. Eight or nine different acts—all of them crowd-pleasing—are promised.

Officials in charge were naturally hoping the rain would keep off for the afternoon, but failing that they wanted all the children's events to be completed so none of the youngsters would be disappointed. The last race—for five-year-old boys was run off before the downpour started.

Besides these events the children had slides, teeter-totters and swings with which to entertain themselves. Five refreshment booths catered to their wants.

One of the most popular features of the picnic with the very young was the pony rides. A long queue of eager youngsters waiting their turn to mount the nine busy ponies continued throughout the afternoon.

Toronto Wins Soccer

The opening event which drew a large crowd was the soccer game between the CGE team and Sangamo Electric of Toronto. The visitors edged out the locals by a 3-2 score. Perry Scott, centre forward for the Sangamos was the star of the game, netting all three of his team's goals. Eric Cotton, CGE inside right, rapped in two goals for the Peterburians.

W. C. Bennett, was the chairman of the program committee. Other committee chairmen were: Les Calladine, general chairman; E. G. Myles, property; P. Calladine, sports; D. K. Clarke, general secretary; T. McCabe, transportation; L. Anderson, draws; J. A. Wilson, parking.

Following is a list of the first, second and third prizewinners in the children's events:

MAIN ST. TOPICS

WERE EARLY VOTERS

Two of the older citizens who availed themselves early of their franchise were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sandiford, each 84, 610 Romaine St., who voted this morning at Poll 31, 109 Monaghan Road.

HAVE EASY WEEK-END

Firemen were luckier than usual this week-end. Only one run was made and that was to investigate the report of a fire on Charlotte St. W. They found a heap of burning rubbish on the property of Daniel Rostocky. A woman had previously phoned claiming a barn was on fire.

BEGIN STORE RENOVATIONS

Renovations have begun on the Campbell and Best Hardware Store, Hunter St. W. A new cornice board is being put across the top of the store. Present plans call for a coat of blue paint to make the exterior more attractive and a new cement step is also contemplated.

ON RELIGIOUS RETREAT

The members of the clergy of Catholic diocese of Peterborough left on Sunday afternoon for their annual religious retreat at St. Augustine's Seminary, which continues until Thursday. Rev. Father Perdue is remaining at St. Peter's Cathedral for response to necessary calls. Bishop Berry is taking part in the retreat.

CAT TIES UP TRAFFIC

A tired cat early today held up traffic at George and Simcoe Sts. for several minutes. While walking across George St. it decided that the middle of the road would be an ideal place for a nap. So it promptly curled up oblivious of honking horns from impatient motorists. The impasse continued for several minutes until Alex Elliott, KC, walked across from his law office and removed the indolent pussy.

ADVANCE POLL VOTE

Twenty-five votes were cast at the advanced poll Saturday. The main categories of citizens for whom it was provided were commercial travellers and railway men. Some business men who were going to be away today on buying trips or some other affairs applied for premission to vote. They had to be informed that no concession was granted for them. If they wished to vote they had to go to the polls today for which they were listed.

SCRUTINEER'S CHOICE

An unusual incident in poll appointments for today's federal elections was reported from Poll 44, Brioux Ave. By some odd circumstance, Mrs. C. H. Crouter, 399 Edison Ave., the next street south of Brioux, was designated as scrutineer by both Liberals and Conservatives. As the poll opened, it was necessary that a definite selection of engagement be made by Mrs. Crouter, according to information from that poll, and she cast her lot with the Progressive Conservative candidate, Mr. G. K. Fraser.

Woman's Death Brings Fine $50 To Driver

Found guilty on a charge of careless driving which resulted in the death of Mrs. Alice Waldron, last January, Murray Hill, 21, was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate W R Philp in police court Monday morning. Hill was found not guilty on a charge of reckless driving before Judge S. L. Smoke, June 17.

Hill was found guilty on the point of not keeping proper lookout. On the morning of Jan. 19, Mrs. Waldron, a 58-year-old widow was hit by a car while she was crossing Lock St. at the Braidwood St. intersection. She died later in hospital.

Only witness to the accident was Mrs. Kathleen Gilbert, River Rd., who said Mrs. Waldron was hit just after she had turned to say hello to her.

Hill testified when he first saw Mrs. Waldron, he did not realize it was a person. He saw only a dark stationary object. He took his foot off the accelerator but didn't put his brakes on until the moment he struck the woman with his left front fender.

Defence Counsel T. J. Carley, K.C., said there was no direct evidence that Hill was driving at an excessive speed. He said driving with lights on low beam was not careless driving.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said when the accused saw the object in the roadway, he didn't swerve or didn't apply his brakes, which in his opinion was negligence. Mr. Carley held there was not time to apply brakes.

Special Election Returns Service Tonight

The services of The Examiner and radio station CHEX will be used to bring to people of the district election results of Peterborough West and the dominion. It is hoped that the three local candidates will take part in a broadcast at 8.35 p.m.

As results come in from polling stations all over the riding, they will be posted on bulletin boards in the window of the Examiner's downtown office. Special up-to-the minute large poster cartoons will point the election tallies.

There will be five phone lines operating from number 4641 to keep city voters posted on the latest results. This service will not be available until after 7:45 p.m.

Station CHEX will join the dominion network of CBS at 7 p.m. to bring country-wide results as they are counted and released.

Pete McGillen, former city editor of The Examiner, will broadcast bulletins over CHEX beginning at 7.45, and again at 8:45, 9:15, 9:30 with a summary at 10:15 of Peterborough West and other ridings.

There will be the regular 10 and 11 p.m. news bulletins.

Peterboro' Normal School Results of Final Exams

The Minister of Education announces the examination results of the teacher training courses given at the Normal School at Peterborough.

Candidates who failed or who have been granted Second Class certificates will receive statements giving their marks and the conditions under which they may complete their standing. Extra-mural candidates will be informed by letter of the results.

Owing to the shortage of teachers, a student who failed on the Normal School examinations and is required to return to Normal School from January to June in order to qualify for a teacher's certificate may, on the recommendation of the local Inspector concerned, be engaged on a letter of standing by a School Board, which, after due advertisement has been unable to obtain the services of a fully qualified teacher.

SONOMA, Calif., June 27 (AP)—The sister of movie star Linda Darnell was burned, cut, knocked unconscious and dragged 200 feet by her stunt horses at a rodeo Sunday. Monte Maloya Darnell, 20, was trying her flaming-hoop act. This is a ride with one foot on each of two horses through a giant hoop of fire. The horses shied and ran outside the hoop, spread-eagling the girl.

London Sees Reopening Of Famous Theatre

By ALVIN STEINKOPF.

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—London's famed Gaiety Theatre, closed since 1939, may reopen soon. For 19 years it has been a ghost standing in Aldwych.

It was known as the original home of the glamor girl. Old timers of the Edwardian era get misty-eyed when they think about it. They say it had the "most famous stage door in the world."

The Gaiety was used badly by changing times and the war. Nazi bombs tore holes in the roof.

But even now memories of its glories are vivid that the London County Council which owns the ground under it couldn't tear down the old building. It was permitted to stand idle on the city's highest priced real estate, a sort of shabby monument to the brightest age of the London theatre.

Now the ministry of public works, which controls concrete, paint, lumber and other materials, has agreed to permit a modest amount of repair and actor Lupino Lane, turned business man, has undertaken to bring back the Gaiety.

Colorful History

We hope to be going by Christmas" Lane says.

Perhaps few theatres on earth are as rich in legend or have a history as colorful.

Gaiety girls made good, a half dozen of them marrying into the nobility and many becoming wealthy. Glamorous Daisy Roche became Lady Greer. Gertie Millar became the Countess Dudley. Rose Boote became Lady Headfort.

Others crashed into the millionaire class, and they did it 30 shillings ($6) a week. For whatever creditable might be said of the old Gaiety it was not lavish in payroll department. Thirty shillings in the chorus with stars getting up to 10 pounds ($40) a week.

Yet it was necessary, soon after the turn of the century, for the Gaiety to post a notice backstage.

"Will ladies earning less than three pounds weekly kindly refrain from drawing up to the stage in their own carriage-and-pair?"

Lady Who Pouted

Among the Gaiety's historical notes is the record of the chorus lady who pouted because the mean old management wouldn't let her roll up in her carriage. Never mind, said an admirer, "the notice didn't mention automobiles." So he gave her an automobile at a time when few peers of the realm owned one.

The foreign office was involved in another Gaiety incident, the old timers recall. Britain was setting up the empire and it appeared to be good policy to entertain an African chieftain. At the Gaiety he took a fancy to Madge Saunders and insisted on buying her. It was difficult to persuade him it wasn't done that way in England. Miss Saunders, Mrs. John Henson, still chuckles over the incident.

The Gaiety had one door which only the Royal Family used, and the records indicate that King Edward VII passed through it often.

At the Gaiety, aging men insist in London today, the quaint Edwardian fancy of drinking champagne out of a lady's slipper got a foothold. It is recorded that from the second act onward the more popular girls all had set feet because of the backstage champagne interludes.

Six Arrested In Police Raids

MONTERAL, June 27 (CP) — Provincial Police said Sunday night that six men were arrested in two separate raids during the week-end and will face charges of perpetrating and distributing a defamatory libel against Roland Lamarre, Progressive Conservative candidate in today's general election for Montreal's St. Mary riding.

The arrests were made Saturday night when four men were taken into police custody and Sunday. Police however, did not immediately release the names of those arrested.

The other two men were apprehended Sunday when police raided the main committee rooms of Gaspard Fauteux, speaker of the last house, who is seeking re-election as Liberal candidate in the Montreal riding.

Police said that more than 500 of the allegedly libellous circulars were seized in Mr. Fauteux's central headquarters.

Korean Assassinated

SEOUL, June 27—(AP)—Kim Koo, one of the most prominent politicians in Korea, was assassinated at his home Sunday. The 67-year-old Kim was known as a Rightist politician, but the split with President Syngman Rhee in January, 1948. Kim then opposed the election which set up a republic in South Korea.

Seek Boy In Swamp

GRAND RAPIDS, Mic., June 27—(AP)—A thousand volunteers searched a densely wooded swamp Sunday night for a two-year-old boy. Naked and shoeless, Nichole Edward Nowack toddled away from the front yard of his home here at noon Sunday. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nowack, reported he wriggled loose from a play-suit harness.

Guild Holds Bazaar Followed By Euchre

APSLEY, June 27 (ENS) —The Guild of St. George the Martyr Anglican church held a bazaar and card party last week.

The goods were displayed on nicely decorated tables. Tickets were sold on a pair of silver salt and pepper shakers, the winner being Mrs. Mae Hastings.

Six tables of progressive euchre were played. Men's first was won by Herb. Lane; Ladies' first, Mrs. Ada Hales. Consolation prizes went to Hubert James and Mrs. C. Alphey.

Three Die Violently

HAWK POINT, Mo., June 27—A love affair, described as "one-sided," ended Sunday with one woman and a man shot to death and another man dead from poison. Sheriff Porter Crouse said George Hammonds, about 50, shot to death Mrs. Florence Zumwalt, 32, and Henry Fritz Grober, 21. William Mordt, 25, was badly hurt in the shooting. Crouse said Hammonds then killed himself by taking "an unknown poison."

Initialled Landmark

HALIFAX—(CP) — An old sandstone post, marking the entrance to one of the city's oldest estates, today bears scars of the age old custom of initial cutting. The old pillar, still a city landmark, has one initial dated May 10, 1906.

Skull Of Jesuit Back In First Burial Place

MIDLAND, June 27 (CP) — The skull of Saint Jean de Brebeuf, martyred Jesuit priest, was brought back to its original burial place here Saturday, for the first time in 300 years.

In a drizzling rain, hundreds of spectators watched as four men carried the skull in a silver reliquary and placed it overlooking the site of Fort Ste. Marie, where the Jesuit missionary was massacred in 1649 by the Iroquois Indians.

Following religious ceremonies the skull was taken back to Quebec, where parts of the skeleton are kept at the Jesuit College and the Hotel Dieu Convent.

Brebeuf was hacked and burned to death at the nearby Huron village of Ignace. His body was interred shortly afterwards beside the Fort.

Three months later, the Jesuits were forced to burn Fort Ste. Marie because of Indian uprisings and they took Brebeuf's crudely preserved body to nearby Christian island. It was later buried in Quebec.

Clergy accompanying the pilgrimage included Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec, Bishop Chamemaut, Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal and several Jesuit priests.

Permit Grocers To Open On Sunday In Resort Areas

TORONTO, June 27 (CP) — Attorney-General Porter has issued a directive to crown attorneys, municipal councils and provincial police emphasizing the enforcement of the Lord's Day Act, particularly in summer resort areas.

As a matter of general policy, consent to prosecute, given by the attorney-general, will not be given where grocery stores and butcher shops stay open at summer resorts because lack of refrigeration makes it necessary for local cottagers to purchase perishable goods on Sundays.

The same applies to souvenir stands, ice cream booths, hot dog and refreshment stands, sale of cigarets, cigars and tobacco, rental of boats, canoes, horses, bicycles rides in airplanes and Sunday excursions.

But consent to prosecute will be given in the case of wayside markets operating on Sundays except for wayside stands operated by a farmer, members of his family or his regular farm help for sale of produce grown on his own farm.

All commercial concessions and amusements with the exceptions mentioned must be closed on Sundays. Any violation of the act in this respect will be followed by prosecution, the directive says.

Shooting galleries and merry-go-rounds may not operate on Sundays.

Firemen Come To Agreement About Statue

HONEOYE FALLS, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—The Honeoye Falls Fire Department can't give back the "iron fireman" that once belonged to St. Catharines, but it certainly will give the Canadian city a framed portrait of the statue.

David Maloney, editor of the Honeoye Falls Times, a weekly newspaper, said Sunday that "furthermore, we're going to send the entire company and a band up there for the dedication of their new fire station."

The iron fireman originally was fashioned by a St. Catharines blacksmith for the St. Catharines Volunteer Brigade to mount on their hook and ladder company hall.

One day long ago a fire company from Lockport, N. Y., was in St. Catharines for a convention and walked off with the statue. That was the start of a series of thefts by various fire companies who wanted the iron fireman for their own fire halls.

On Oct. 28, 1891, the Honeoye Falls brigade succeeded in swiping the statue from atop the fire hall in Avon, N. Y. A local blacksmith rebuilt it in Swedish steel and for 58 years the figure has rested on the steeple of the Honeoye Falls village hall.

St. Catharines wanted it back to place on their new fire station, but agreed to settle for a framed picture since the figure now is so fragile it couldn't stand the trip.

Maloney, who handled the local fire department's dealings with St. Catharines, said he wouldn't like to see a return of the old statue-stealing days.

"It would be absolutely dangerous for anyone to try to get it," he declared. "The figure has a steel core now, and a steel bar running down through the middle and into the steeple."

The figure is five feet high. It has blue trousers with gold stripes, a red shirt, a white belt and a black hat, and holds an old-fashioned fireman's horn.

Horde Of Flies Flown To Canada

BELLEVILLE, June 27 — A new host of immigrants is entering Canada in the steerage of the Trans-Canada airliners. And every single one of them is a parasite.

If that isn't bad enough, each one of these mooching immigrants is perfectly capable of flying the ocean himself. For they are all flies — German, Belgian, Swiss and French flies invited here by the Commonwealth Bureau of Biologic Control.

The idea is that while these flies are parasites they prey on even worse pests. There is nothing, for example, that a Swiss fly likes better for dinner than the spruce budworm. And a corn borer is a dainty hors d'oeuvre for the German fly.

In addition, these flies are expected to eat heartily of the cabbage maggot and the carrot rust fly.

The Dominion Parasite Laboratory under direction of Dr. Alfred Wilkes, expects these immigrants to more than 2pay their freight in ridding the country of forest, orchard and garden pests. Shipments of the flies have been coming in here, 10,000 at a time, since the middle of May. A total of 100,000 is expected.

The laboratory will breed study and release the insects. Some have been freed already to prey upon pests in the areas of New Brunswick and the south shore of the St. Lawrence River in Quebec.

Euchre was played during the early part of the evening, and dancing followed.

Lunch was served by the ladies.

Denton, MD.

Ann Young, Stafford Collie Wed in St. John's Church

St. John's Anglican Church was the setting for a largely attended ceremony performed by Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson at three o'clock Saturday afternoon in which the marriage of Kathleen Ann Young and Mr. Stafford Denzil Collie was solemnized. The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert MacDougall Young, 305 Stewart St., Peterborough. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Collie of Caracas, Venezuela.

Effective arrangement of daisies, cornflowers, white peonies and delphinium decorated the church. Mr. Fred Mann at the organ played the wedding march and accompanied the boys' choir when they sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Dr. Young gave his daughter in marriage. Her original gown of white dotted Swiss organdy over taffeta was fashioned with a fitted basque and wide-open portrait neckline offset by a double flange collar of plain organdy. The long tight sleeves of dotted Swiss were edged with two narrow bands of the plain organdy. Bias folds of the same material formed deep points front and back on the full circular skirt which was worn over a hoop. Her short veil was caught to her head with daisies and bouvardia and she carried a bouquet of the same flowers.

Miss Sheila Young was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Ackerman, Mrs. Macdonald Irwin of Toronto and Miss Landon MacKenzie of London, Ontario. Identical frocks of cornflower blue organdy over taffeta, styled on the same lines as the bride's dress with short sleeves featuring a double wing cuff, were chosen by the attendants. The pointed waistlines were self-piped and the graceful skirts were full and circular. They wore flower hats of daisies and cornflowers and carried bouquets of the same.

The groomsman was Mr. Macdonald Irwin, and ushers were Messrs. Gordon Diplock, Jay Hepburn, Jack Daly and Dr. Charles Aude.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Young received her guests in a gown of Victorian lilac lace styled with draped bodice, long sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her straw picture hat was a tone deeper than her dress and was trimmed with mauve and purple lilacs encircling the crown. She carried a corsage of purple sweetpeas and pansies on her handbag. The groom's aunt, Mrs. Donald Lyon, also received, wearing a gown of hand-painted flowered white organdy with a large white organdy hat, and she had a corsage of mixed sweetpeas.

Going away later the bride wore a yellow gabardine suit, natural straw hat trimmed with green ribbons and straw shoes and bag. Mr. and Mrs. Collie are spending their honeymoon in the Kawarthat Lake district and then will live in Peterborough until September 1, following which they will reside in Brooklyn, New York.

Drunken Proposal Worthless Advises Find Another Man

DEAR MISS DIX: Any worthwhile man has ambitions toward which he is constantly working. As success and advancement come his wife must keep step with his progress unless she is a handicap to him. A wife who simply remains a housekeeper with her mind entirely filled with family and household matters cannot have any share in her husband's mental life if he has gone on broadening his interests and improving himself. She is more or less in the position of a servant, through her inability to no longer be a companion to her husband. This is at the bottom of much of the domestic unhappiness we see about us and explains, if it does not justify, much of the philandering of husbands who seek abroad from other women the understanding their wives cannot give them. I wish you would impress on girls the necessity of trying to keep up with their husbands intellectually.

A MAN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is food for thought for all young wives in this man's letter, for it is only too true that the reason that many wives lose their husbands is because they did not keep up with the procession and the men marched on and left them behind.

A great many women feel that marriage gives them the privilege of slumping intellectually as well as physically, and especially that they have a right to do so after the children come. Before marriage they read the new books and the papers and magazines and kept up with what the world was doing and were interesting companions. After Junior is born they never read anything but the baby book and their conversation from them on the baliance of their lives is confined to feeding formulas and the cute thing Janey said and what Mary and Sally and Tom and Bob are doing.

Many women also regard marriage as a reason for burying their talents in a napkin. They may have a pretty gift for music or art and have spent years of time and thousands of dollars developing it, but as soon as they get married they put away their easels and clamp he lid down on their pianos and tell you with an air of self-righteousness that they never paint or practice now.

Housekeeping Not Enough. . . . .

Many other women think that their whole duty as wives consists in being model housewives and feeding their husbands. There is never a speck of dust on their floors. Their dinners are cooked to perfection. Their husbands' socks always darned and their buttons on, and they feel that having made a man comfortable he has no right to expect anything else of them.

Still other women think that because their husbands found them pretty and attractive and companionable at 20 they will still find them that way at 40, even if they have not added another idea to their repertoire in all that time

All of which is a grievous mistake. Perhaps in the old days when women had few opportunities of education and were kept more or less in the background, anyhow, men did not expect much of their wives except to be good cooks and rearers of children. Perhaps then it didn't matter so much whether a man's wife was dull or brilliant, provincial or up to the minute, whether she was diplomatic or brusque.

But it does now. A man's wife is an active factor in his success or failure. Many a clever woman who knows how to make friends for her husband and who is popular herself is his biggest asset. Any many a man of talent and ability never gets anywhere because he is pulled down by a boresome frumpy wife who is tedious and tiresome to talk to an whom other women will not have at any price.

There are no sadder tragedies than those in which the husband outgrows his wife and foolish is the woman who lets this happen. Every wife who is married to an intelligent, ambitious man should realize that this danger threatens her and she should bend every energy and effort to warding it off by taking time to read and study even if she has to put less hand work on the baby's clothes and cut out a little bridge.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 18 very much in love with a boy. We go on parties and every time he gets drunk he asks me to marry him, but when he is sober he doesn't mention it. What would you advise me to do about it?

KINDA PUZZLED.

ANSWER: There is nothing to be "kinda puzzled" about this boy's intentions. He has none, matrimonially speaking. Never take a man seriously until he proposes to you when he is cold sober and asks you to marry him at 11 o'clock in the morning instead of 3 in the night in the light of the moon.

The man who is in love with you only when he is drunk doesn't love you at all. He is merely on a sentimental jag. He's in a frame of mind when he wants to kiss his grandmother, and when he gets over it and comes to his senses he expects the girl to whom he has sworn undying devotion to forget it as he does.

But why do you bother your head about a boy who only makes maudlin love to you when he is soused? Fate could wish no worse curse on you than the kind of husband such a man makes. Don't even be "kinda puzzled" about him. Turn your thoughts toward some lad who is better husband material.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in love with a boy that I don't really know. Fell in love with him at first sight six years ago and my blood pressure still rises when I see him. I only know him well enough to say "hello." How can I get to know him? Perhaps I wouldn't care for him if I did meet him. What is the surest cure?

DEARIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you know him well enough to say "hello" to him you surely know him well enough to invite him to a little party at your house. Acquaintances are made much more casually these days than they used to be, so it will be perfectly proper for you to include him among your guests at an informal little affair.

Perhaps he is the real one. Perhaps you would be disillusioned if you met him. But, anyway, the surest way to find out is by getting acquainted with him.

Nut Cakes Delicious Things But Not Economy Dish

By MARY MOORE

One of the pleasantest houses we ever lived in was on the edge of a small village and we had an acre of land, much of which was lawn. The rest was a strawberry and asparagus and black raspberry patch, and six 14-tree rows of walnuts, delicious apples, sweet cherries, Bartlett pears and Marigold peaches.

Sounds like heaven doesn't it? —and—the services of the gardener next door.

It was in those halcyon days that I learned to cook, and look after two infants and appreciate the bounty of one's own crops. I had trouble utilizing those walnuts though, but did find a good hickory nut cake recipe which I adjusted to take care of those rich walnuts. As I think back on it now it was one of my most outstanding recipes.

A nut cake is a delicious thing, and because I tend to work from an economy angle I do not give you enough recipes for them. Today I have

President"s White Nut Cake

Using almonds. It definitely is a cake to make when you are entertaining.

Sift together 3 cups flour, 3 teaspons baking powder, and ½ teaspoon salt. Beat until creamy 1 cup butter (or best quality margarine), then gradually add, while beating, 2 cups white sugar until both are light coloured and airy. Sift the flour mixture into them, alternately with 1 cup whole milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract. Chop 1 cup blanched almonds rather finely, and beat them into the batter very well. Finally fold in 6 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased and paper-lined tins and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour.

Boiled Frosting

(With Fruits or Nuts)

In top of double boiler put 1½ cups white sugar, 2 egg whites, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 4 tablespoons boiling water and 2 tablespons corn syrup. Place over boiling water and turn heat low. Stir until sugar is dissolved, then wipe down the sides with clean damp cloth to remove sugar crystals. Now beat with rotary beater until frosting is stiff enough to hold its shape. Remove from heat and let stand at room temperature for 15 minutes, then add, if desired, ½ cup chopped candied fruit such as pineapple or cherries or citron peel, or shredded brazil nuts. Spread on cooled cake before frosting is cool.

C. T. S. Devil's Food

(This is one of my favorite cakes; if you like your chocolate cake dark and rich use 3 squares unsweetened chocolate.)

Cream 2-3 cup butter or margarine until airy, then cream in gradually 1½ cups white sugar. Add 3 well beaten eggs, beat them in, then add 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate melted. Beat until sugar is dissolved by the hot chocolate. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add alternately 1 cup milk and sifted dry ingredients; 2 cups cake flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3½ teaspoons baking powder. Pour into grease pan 8" x 8" x 2" and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes.

Frost with

Butterscotch Frosting

(These amounts are generous, but not too much when both of your children eat cake for the icing.)

Two cups brown sugar, ½ cup rich milk or cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix brown sugar, cream and butter in saucepan. Place over heat and stir until sugar dissolves; boil without stirring for 3 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. When almost cold beat until it begins to thicken, then add vanilla and enough icing sugar to make it thick enough to spread—about ½ to 2-3 cup. This cake is "super" is sprinkled with chopped walnuts when frosted.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

Quesion: I think you should print some recipes for using up sour milk,—for even in the electric refrigerator I sometimes have cream and milk go sour if I leave it too long. I saw a picture in one of the magazines for blueberry muffins. Couldn't these be made with sour milk—and use raisins instead of blueberries—because I cannot afford the frozen berries and blueberries aren't on the market yet. Sal.

Answer: I am glad you mentioned sour milk and cream recipes.

Sour Milk Muffins

One and one-half cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs—yolks and whites beaten separately, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon melted shortening or salad oil, ½ teaspoon soda dissolved in 1 teaspoon lukewarm water and mixed with 1 cup thick sour milk. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Add yolks beaten with sugar and shortening. Add soda dissolved and sour milk. Mix well and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. If fruit such as chopped dates, prunes, raisins, currants, peel, cocoanut or blueberries or chopped raw apples are added they are folded in when the egg whites are. If desired, ½ cup of the flour may be replaced with ¾ cup all-bran Half fill greased muffin tins and bake 20 minutes at about 450 deg. Fahr.

Sour Milk Waffles

One and one-quarter cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup sour milk, ¼ cup melted butter or margarine or cooking oil, 3 eggs whites, 3 egg yolks. Sift togeter the flour, salt, baking powder, sugar and soda. Add sour milk, shortening and beaten yolks; mix well and fold in beaten whites. When waffle iron registers "bake" pour batter on until surface is about 2/3 covered and bake. Serve very hot.

Farm Workers Staying In West

Some 30 to 35 applicatians for Western farm help have been filled by local farmers with W. H. L. Mellis of the Government Employment Service.

"I am afraid we are not going to get any Westerners," Mr. Mellis said to-day. "That is what it is beginning to look like, according to the intimations I have been getting. It appears the farm workers are going to stay in the West. When we were getting them, they were usually here in time for haying."

Average wage here is $75.00 a month and board. "We have placed a few helpers from around our own district, but that is about all there are in sight."

Report Is Made To UE Members

A resolution "to take whatever action is deemed necessary by the committee to conclude a fair settlement," was the chief result of Sunday night's UE-CIO membership meeting held at Brock Street Summer Gardens.

About 1,000 members of Local 524 turned out to hear the report of their UE-GE Joint Negotiating Committee on the state of present talks wih the company at Queen's Park.

The resolution read: "Members of Local 524 re-affirm their support of the Negotiating Committee in the demands put forward on behalf of the CG workers. This meeting serves notice to the company that unless it shows some willingness to negotiate to the satisfaction of the union on matters of the 40-hour week with increased take-home pay, union security, seniority protection, improved grievance procedure, and a health and welfare plan, the membership stand ready to attend a full membership meeting and take whatever action is deemed necessary by the committee to conclude a fair settlement."

C. S. Jackson, district president, and Jack Morton, president of Local 524 were the chief speakers.

Present contract negotiations affect about 5,500 union members in CGE plants in Peterborough, Cobourg and Toronto.

Claims Strike Will Continue

HAMILTON, June 27 — (CP)— Alan Wright, international representative of the United Steel Workers (CIO), said today that the striking employees of the National Steel Car Corporation voted unanimously at a meeting Saturday to continue the strike.

The company, in an advertisement on Friday claimed that more than two-third of the employees had indicated to it by cards sent in that they wished to accept the company's offer of increased wages and return to work.

Mr. Wright said that the union members further instructed the negotiating committee to contact the Provincial Department of Labor to find out whether or not the department had committed itself to the National Steel Car Corporation with regard to a government supervised strike vote, which the company has challenged the union to take.

London Bobbie Gets Five Years For Arson

LONDON, June 27 — (AP). — A 23-year-old London policeman who admitted setting fires in London's East-End because he hated Jews, to-day was sentenced to five years in prison.

The young bobby, Clifford Alexander Weallans, testified he set the fires because he served in British forces in Palestine during the days of Jewish "terrorism" and "I hated the Jews."

All the places set afire were owned by Jews.

BITTER SWEET

Kenneth Dunn of Toronto, an ardent cribbage player, on Saturday night had the thrill of holding a perfect 29-point hand. While playing against Pat McGrath of Jackson's Park Lane he held the Jack of diamonds, five of clubs, five of spades and five of hearts. And he turned up the five of diamonds. It was the first time in his more than 20 years of playing that he held a perfect hand. It is estimated that chances are about a million to one against this happening. But here's the payoff: after achieving this amazing stroke of luck he lost the game to Mr. McGrath.—DW.

HUNDREDS USE CAUSEWAY

Three and four abreast seemed to be the order of the day last night on the Chemong causeway, as hundreds of cars streamed across the new strip. All was confusion as motorists parked on both sides of the road, apparently just to sit and watch the boats flit around the lake. Things really became congested when one driver decided that he didn't wish to go all the way across. He turned around and the rest of the cars were piled up in front of and behind him.—J. B.

puppet performance, but they also lead it to exect a high emotional illusion. The symbolism (Don Quixote tilting at windmills) falls pat with the main theme of the play.

The part of the D.P. Austrian puppet-master was played with warm sincerity by Bill Needles and owing to his excellent interpretation and skill the puppet show successfully brought the play to its climax.

This play within the play, and the entire action take place in a "blind pig" on the outskirts of Kingston which is operated by Chilly Jim, an earthy, likeable and remarkable fellow who lives outside the conventions but has an erudite vocabulary and an imagination. Jerry Sarraccinni played Chilly Jim so excellently that as one left the auditorium at the end of the play, one hoped to find not only his establishment but Chilly himself around the next corner.

Frank Perry was the newspaperman and editorial writer Edward Weir. It was pleasant to hear him justifying and explaining Canadian newspapers and problems John Primm was realistic Buckety Murphy, the bum, the erstwhile photogenic Hercules of the Toilette. He and Chilly Jim gave the audience some of its more hearty laughs.

Brenda Davies took the part of Ursula Simmonds, a woman who has the querrulous aridity and frustrations of a zealot. Mrs. Davies' interpretation of the part was so convincing that one felt that one knew an Ursula Simmonds in every Canadian town. Another difficult part designed not to stir the sympathy of the audience was that of Mrs. E. C. Phillpott, the social service worker. This was taken by Jean Cruchet whose pleasing voice and features one could not even guess from the authentic way she made herself into a veritable Mrs. Phillpott. With her, as the other half of the do-good couple, was Mr. Tapscott, played with such seeming naturalness by John Jeffrey that one could have thought that the part had been type-cast.

The sets were designed by Martha Jamieson. The colors and arrangement were ingeniously suitable and most effective. For a few minutes after the curtain was first raised this reviewer was conscious of his line of vision being cut horizontally by the roof of Chilly Jim's establishment, and wished that it had not obtruded so far forward and so lowly on a stage peopled by six-foot actors. The Kingston back-drop was very intriguing.

Play, company, sets and direction combined to make the evening top entertainment as well as provocative to thought and discussion. Any person interested in the theatre, in Canadian problems and in having a good evening's enjoyment should not miss seeing this play if he is within flying distance of the Queen Mary auditorium. It is being presented every night this week.

42 Plane Occupants Miss Death In Crash

HARMON FIELD, Nfld., June 27 (CP)—A United States military Skymaster plane crashed at this Newfoundland base last night but all 33 passengers and nine crew members escaped without serious injury.

The Skymaster had arrived from Westover Field, Mass., at 10:30 p.m. EDT and went out of control on landing. Occupants escaped before it burst into flames and was destroyed on the runway. Three of the passengers suffered minor injuries but none required hospital treatment. The aircraft's home base was Pantuxent River, Md.

Cause of the accident was unknown but will be investigated by an official board of inquiry.

Election Day Trading Slow On Exchange

TORONTO, June 27 (CP) — Prices moved narrowly as traders spent more time discussing today's dominion elections than in buying and selling of stocks. A few industrials slipped slightly from early firmness and junior gold producers tended lower. Base metals were about balanced.

Opening industrial prices were the best as some key stocks climbed fractions. Prices began to weaken in mid-session and fractional declines appeared in papers and a few utilities.

Junior gold producers opened on a softer trend as some profit-taking cut into recent gains. Lake Shore eased ¼ at 13¾ in seniors while Teck-Hughes was ahead five cents.

Consolidated Smelters and Noranda added ½ in a balanced base metals list while Quemont and International Nickel lost ⅛. A few issues churned slightly for penny changes.

Drowns Near Falls

IROQUOIS FALLS, June 27.—(CP).—Orville Harrington, 16, of Killaloe, was drowned in the muddy swollen waters of Meadow Creek about a mile from Iroquois Falls Sunday afternoon. His body was recovered early today. Orville, youngest of a family of 14, arrived here Friday night to visit his brother Earl, an employee of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company. Following a few hours' fishing he decided to have a swim.

PLANS COMEBACK—Twenty-year-old Billy Roy, who spent most of the last year licking poliomyelitis, will be ready to lick par again next season. Twice Manitoba junior champion, the Pine Falls, Man., youngster was practising iron shots before he ended his eight-month stay in hospital. Doctors credited the building of his muscle structure by golf as the main factor in Billy's winning battle against polio.

Salvation Army Honors Leaders

Major and Mrs. Charles Watt, who have led Peterborough Salvation Army corps for the past two-and-a-half years, will be leaving the city on Thursday for Toronto, where Major Watt is to take over charge of the Toronto corps.

The day they go to Toronto, their successors, Major and Mrs. Cyril Everitt will come to Peterborough from Earlscourt corps, Toronto, and will be welcomed as the new leaders at the Salvation Army Temple on Sunday.

Major Watt gave a farewell address to the corps on Sunday, when the Temple was filled to capacity with corps members, a delegation of 50 friends from Frankford and a number of leading Peterborough citizens.

Peterborough corps has a close association with the Frankford corps, which visits this city every year. Peterborough corps goes to Frankford every year to observe Memorial Day.

Both Major and Mrs. Watt spoke of the happy time they had spent in Peterborough, and the text of the Major's address was "Strength in things that remain."

Corps Sergeant Art Wells spoke about Major and Mrs. Watt's work in Peterborough and treasurer Stan Richardson referred to their work in the business management of the corps.

At the request of the Major the songsters sang the Hallelujah Chorus.

Publisher Proves He Meant What He Said

OAKVILLE, June 27 (CP)—S Caset Wood Jr., publisher of the Oakville Trafalgar Journal, has spent the last few weeks telling his readers to be sure to vote in today's Federal election. Today he really showed them he meant what he said.

As soon as the polls opened in this Toronto suburb he was on hand to cast his ballot. He rolled up to the poll in the funeral parlour ambulance, disregarding his doctor's advice that he should stay in bed for another week. He has been bedridden for the past 10 days.

Pearson Disqualified From Casting Vote

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., June 27 (CP)External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, Liberal candidate in Algoma East, was unable to vote in his constituency, a Liberal party source said. Although Mr. Pearson represented Algoma East in the last House and is standing for re-election, he is barred from voting in Algoma East by the residence regulation.

Under the Dominion election Act a person may not vote in a constituency in which he was not resident at the time of the issuance of the election writ. Since Mr. Pearson was not so resident on April 3 he is disqualified from voting here.

LOCATED PURSE

Mrs. John Cranley, 542 Rogers St., telephoned the Examiner Saturday to say that it was she who found the purse that Miss Denise Doubt of Lakefield lost in George St. store on Thursday. Mrs. Cranley said she found it lying on a counter and made an effort to locate the owner by inquiring around the store. She took it home with her and immediately got in touch with the owner whose name she found inside the purse. Miss Doubt received the purse back from Mrs. Cranley the same evening.

Cow Found Dead In Otonabee River

What is the thing you would least expect to find in a river? It was a great shock for a boy walking along the banks of the Otonabee River between the city and Lakefield Sunday when he found a cow in the water. The cow was dead and when Provincial Police were called to the scene, Nick Peconi, Peterborough trucker, was called to remove the animal.

Nearby farmers were questioned, but no one claimed the animal which the trucker estimated had been dead three or four months.

Vote Officials Fail To Appear

HAMILTON, June 27 — (CP) —In Hamilton West, six deputy returning officers and 14 poll clerks had to be appointed after polls opened at 9 o'clock today when appointees defaulted or were incapable of duty. In Hamilton East, three or four poll clerks did not appear at their respective polling sub-divisions. Returning officers in both ridings were able to fill vacancies. Voting was reported as "very light."

In Hamilton West, one deputy returning officer was said to have reported for duty in an intoxicated condition. A second man was discharged because of alleged incapability to perform his duty.

Four deputy returning officers and 14 poll clerks made no appearance at all at polling subdivisions where they had been appointed to act.

It was believed that payment of scrutineers, which is higher than that for poll clerk, might have caused some poll clerks to default.

Scrutineers are paid $10, and poll clerks, $6. Deputy returning officers receive $9 for their day's work. Persons who rent their living rooms for polling sub-divisions receive a $10 rental.

Owen Sound Man Sets Good Example

OWEN SOUND, June 27 (CP)—Hundreds of young voters will have to hide their heads in shame around here. Mrs. Emily Allen, who will be 90 years old in two weeks, early today walked two blocks from her home to cast her ballot. She considers it her duty to vote.

She is looking forward to a birthday picnic in Harrison Park here with her 86 grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Canadian Films Get International Awards

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP). — Two National Film Board releases have been awarded a medal in an international competition for sports films held recently in Italy, it was announced by the Italian Embassy to-day.

The films were "Ski Skill," an instructional picture of skiing in Canada, and "Hot Ice," a hockey film including some action shots of a National Hockey League game between Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers.

Peterborough's waterworks is only one of many municipal utilities setting pumpage records. Two of the latest reported at new peaks are Brantford and St. Thomas.

2 Escape Death As Car Wrecked

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fitzgerald, RR 9, Peterborough, were fortunate to be alive when they were pulled out of their overturned car on Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. David Humber, 862 Water Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Humber saw the car lying on its side in a three-foot ditch on side of the Lakefield Highway two miles north of the village, as they were driving back to the city from their summer cottage.

The car was wrecked and Mrs. Fitzgerald was taken from it unconscious. Mr. Fitzgerald was cut, but did not lose consciousness.

After helping the couple out of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter called Lakefield doctor and Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald were taken to Civic Hospital by ambulance. They rested there Saturday night and went home on Sunday.

Shortly after this accident occurred, there was a collision on the Buckhorn Road two miles south of the village, between a half-ton pick-up truck and a car. As Miss F. O. Knotty, Buckhorn, pulled out to overtake the truck at an intersection, the vehicles collided. Damage to the truck was estimated at $100 and the car was thought to be damaged to the extent of $50.

Constables Emmett Crough and Ray Pope investigated both accidents.

Mother, Child Killed By Train

HAMILTON, June 27—(CP)—A Sunday evening drive down a twisting mountain road ended in tragedy when Mrs. Marcel Germain, 29, and her year-old daughter, Adelina, were killed, and her husband and another child were injured.

Their car stalled at the Ottawa Street - South Lawrence Road level crossing in the path of the Buffalo - Hamilton - Toronto express train as it thundered into Hamilton at 60 miles an hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Germain opened the front doors and turned to take the children from the back seat. The woman and her young baby were trapped in the rear of the car and instantly killed. Her 28-year-old husband and four-year-old daughter, Sandra, were thrown clear but both suffered fractured legs and shock. The car was dragged 800 feet along the tracks.

Germain said later that he saw the wig-wag signal and heard the warning bell, but was unable to stop the car.

Save Pair Marooned 24 Hours On Lake

BEAVERTON, Ont., June 27.—(CP). — Mr. and Mrs. John N. Lancaster of Toronto are being towed into harbor here today after spending nearly 24 hours adrift in a crippled motor boat on Lake Simcoe. Their boat was sighted by a Provincial Police chartered plane early today.

Police said the couple left their cottage at nearby Orillia Park Sunday on a fishing trip. When they failed to return, neighbors notified police and an intensive search of the surrounding waters was begun. All available boats joined the search and beach fires were lit to guide them back to shore, but no trace of the missing launch could be found.

Early today Provincial Police chartered a light seaplane and sighted the boat about five miles west of here. The Lancasters indicated that their engine was dead, but the plane was unable to land on the choppy lake.

Returning to shore, the police located a launch capable of withstanding the high waves and started towing the couple back to shore.

FLORAL NOTE

Peterborough Lock Company hasn't an inch of front lawn. In fact they have no land for flowers. And they are on Simcoe St. right in the heart of the city. Still, it is obvious that management of Peterborough Lock would like to be in the same boat of beauty with so many of other industries of Peterborough. On the west side of the long entrance for truck traffic, the company has set up a row of flower boxes which assume a special air of attraction from their bare surroundings of industry.

Rochon, who never lost a set during the week-long tournament, defeated Jack Spencer of Montreal 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 to win the singl title. He teamed with George Robinson, also of Montreal, to score a 6-4, 7-5, 6-3 win over Toronto's Beau Summers and Mel Jones and take the doubles crown.

Pat Macken, sister of Montreal's Jim and Brendan, is tops in the women's department. She took the singles title with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-4 bout over club-mate Elaine Fildes, and combined with Miss Fildes to take the doubles event, defeating Mrs. Louise Brown and Dorothy Hurst of Toronto, 6-4, 4-6, 10-8, after the Toronto duo had missed a match-point.

Elaine Fildes and Jim Duff of Montreal took the mixed doubles title Saturday with an extra-set win over Mrs. Louise Brown and Don Platt of Toronto.

Tells Women Get Variety In Diet

OMEMEE, June 27 — (ENS) — Mrs. Lereine Ballantyne of Toronto was guest speaker at an open meeting of Trinity United Church Woman's Association Thursday.

The speaker cited some of her experiences in different parts of Canada, describing Canadian life under six geographical divisions: the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies, British Columbia and Peace River District.

Throughout the address emphasis was placed on learning to make use of foodstuffs which are available in this specific district and at the same time having families enjoy variety through different methods of preparation and ways of serving. She also described the processing of wheat to make flour, the grades of flour and the uses to which each is best adapted.

Other items on the program were a vocal duet by Mrs. T. J. Pogue and Mrs. W. D. Weir, an instrumental by Miss Joan Whitmore and a talk by Mrs. S. Moyer on the work of the Rev. Peter Kelly, an Indian missionary on Queen Charlotte Island.

Mr. Kelly, she said, is Captain of the Thomas Crosby, one of a group of boats supplied by the United Church of Canada for missionary activities on the B. C. coast, and is best known as Captain Peter Kelly. She told many interesting things which showed the extent of his services to his people on Queen Charlotte and other west coast islands.

Requisite Appendage

TIVERTON, Devonshire, England — (CP). — F. C. Smale, 80, Secretary of the Devonshire Ringers, broke his pipe at the annual meeting. He said he could not continue without one. So a shopkeeper was roused for a new pipe—and the meeting continued with Smale puffing contentedly.

Pakistan Wants Canadian Goods

LONDON, June 27 — (CP) — Teacher-students exchange and a flow of technicians to Canada to learn the "modern way of doing it," were foreseen today by Mohammed Ali, Pakistan's newly-appointed High Commissioner to Canada.

Ali, who at 39 is one of Pakistan's youngest diplomats, was Pakistan's Ambassador to Burma until a month ago. He personally chose Ottawa as his next post—his first trip to North America—because of what he had heard of the Canadian cultural atmosphere, its French influences and it's "up-to-dateness."

Pakistan's plans call for large supplies of industrial and agricultural equipment. They are especially keen to acquire Canadian machinery for its farm program which is to be government supervised and subsidized where equipment purchases are concerned.

One of Ali's other trade concerns is to arrange for import of more Canadian newsprint and stationery supplies while Pakistan would like Canada to take more cotton, jute, tea, leather and other raw materials.

"We are an ancient land but a new country and while to you it may seem strange, we are nonetheless wealthy in natural resources which must be developed. Here, too, we must profit by your knowledge.

"We must arrange for our students and technicians—if your government is willing to allow it—to come to Canada and bring themselves up to date. So far our boys have been going almost exclusively to the United States but we must learn from you, too." Hamde, eight. Theac—fri Cana

Ali sails for Canada abroad the Queen Mary June 30 with his wife and their two sons, Hommad, 10, and Hamde, eight. The boys will attend school in Canada "to obtain the benefit of modern Canadian educational methods" and will learn to speak French.

"NERVES" She Called It

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves", she thought—but it was her kidneys—the filters of her blood—that needed attention. She used Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, backache, headache, lack of energy disappeared. Dodd's Kidney Pills contain essential oils and medicinal ingredients that act directly upon the kidneys—and help restore their normal action. 144
